THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to the Daily Press.)

Yesterday afternoon the Central Railroad Company private car "Atlas" stopped at Dunellen and several officers of the road made a tour of inspection about the railroad property. In the party were Superintendent G. H. Frecht, Mr. Warren, assistant to President Maxwell; Mr. Thompson, superintendent of motive power and his assistant. The above men are at present making a tour of inspection along the railroad for the purpose of seeing whether any improvements are needed. They remained in the borough sometime and closely looked after all the company's property.

Mrs. Calvin H. Rugg, of Plainfield, spent yesterday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer, of Church street.

Augustus Runyon, of Plainfield, spent yesterday with his father, John Runyon, of Washington avenue.

Among the Plainfielders in town yesterday were Miss Louise Holmes and Miss Marguerite Vermeule.

J. E. Henry, of Front street, is able to be out again after being confined to the house with a serious illness.

Miss Emmons and Miss Schutt, of North Plainfield, were guests in town yesterday.

Mrs. Bowyer, of Church street, entertained company from out of town yesterday.

Mrs. J. F. Garretson, of Plainfield, called on friends in the borough yesterday.

Mrs. Hoffman, of North avenue, is very much improved from a severe illness.

Mrs. DeWitt C. Smith, of Somerville, has been visiting borough relatives.

Miss Myra Runyon, of Plainfield, has been visiting friends in the borough.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

New Market, June 24—The address at the Fourth of July celebration this year will be made by Rev. E. S. Jamison, of Dunellen, and Rev. Frank Fletcher, pastor of the Baptist church. The members of Friendship Council hope to distance their fellow-members at Dunellen, who will celebrate at the same time.

A very enjoyable and profitable meeting of the Dunellen and New Market Ministers' Association was held a few days ago when a popular subject was discussed.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 24—The Township Committee meets this evening.

The C. E. Juniors of the Baptist church will give a sociable in the parlors of the church this evening. This will be the last meeting of the Juniors until September. Friends of the Juniors are invited to attend.

A covering of gravel is being put on the borough end of Park avenue. This will help pack the crushed stone, and it will only be a short time when Park avenue will again be in condition for wheeling.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Nicholl and family attended the funeral Tuesday of John Townsend, of Philadelphia. Mr. Townsend was Mrs. Nicholl's uncle.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodbrough have taken a cottage at Newport during July and August.

mathematics which was $15 in gold offered by Councilman John Valiant. Miss Elizabeth E. Hoagland received second prize, offered by Mr. Valiant, consisting of $10 in gold. Honorable mention was made of Miss Florence S. Smalley, Miss Laura M. Coddington and Miss Elsie Brokaw. In the contest in English composition, Miss VanFleet won first prize, $10 in gold, offered by Henry McGee, of the Board of Education, and honorable mention was made of Miss Bertha Stevens, Miss Elizabeth Hoagland and Miss Florence Smalley.

In presenting these prizes Mr. McCutchen made a few congratulatory remarks. He complimented the graduates on their achievements and wished them success and happiness in the future. Mr. McCutchen then presented the graduates with their diplomas, at which time each one received beautiful bouquets of flowers and baskets of fruit.

The concluding numbers on the programme consisted of two vocal selections by the High School pupils, and a vocal solo by Charles L. Lewis, teacher of music in the borough school. Following this a reception was held in the hall when the graduates received the congratulations of their friends present.

Following is the list of the graduates: The Misses Elsie Brokaw, Alice L. Barker, Laura M. Coddington, Ella Coddington, L. May Conroy, Rachel G. Emmons, Elizabeth E. Hoagland, Susie Milne, Minnie B. Marsh, Bertha M. Stevens, Florence S. Smalley, Alice Thompson, Clara T. VanFleet, and Frederick Williams. Miss Thompson was unavoidably detained and could not be present to graduate.

Charming Inland Water Trip.

The most charming inland water trip in America is that afforded by the magnificient boats of the Hudson River Day Line, plying between New York and Albany. The line is equipped with the iron steamers "New York" and "Albany," which are crafts upon which fortunes have been spent to make them magnificient in appointment and furnishings. The passengers are accorded splendid treatment by the courteous staff of officers on each boat, and every means taken to make the trip either up or down America's noble stream one long to be remembered. A dinner is served on board, the menu being made up of the finest delicacies that the market affords. The boats stop at West Point, Newburg and Poughkeepsie. Concerts are given both morning and afternoon on the boats. F. B. Hibbard is the General Passenger Agent, and his office is on the pier foot of Desbrosses street, New York.

Scientific Death for a Dog.

The residents in the vicinity of East Front street and Watchung avenue were much frightened yesterday by the appearance of a strange shepherd dog that gave evidence of being mad. Henry Frisbie was notified and chased the dog into Tier's Lake House where he was caught crouching behind a counter. Frisbie took him away and put the dog to death in his usual scientific way. The animal's eyes were red and he gave other signs of not being well.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Lesson For the Week Beginning June 26. Comment by Rev. W. J. Yates, A. M. Topic, Vacation Temptations.

SCRIPTURE READING.—Ruth i; ii; Acts xxviii, 3.

The book of Ruth is an exquisitely beautiful picture of oriental life in ancient times. It is more than this—it is the picture of love and purity, of fidelity and obedience, which shows the true heart of woman in all times and places. The strong traits of the character of Ruth will repay study. Her conduct may well serve as an example for young people in these times.

This lesson is made the occasion to call to mind the approach of the vacation season and the temptations which will be met with during absence from home.

Some natures find the restraints of home and the daily routine of duty very influential in maintaining regular habits of devotion and shunning allurements to evil. To such persons the peculiar freedom of a vacation may be trying in the extreme and even hazardous to spiritual welfare. Invitations will be received to places and recreations which would not be for a moment considered at home, but which a sense of politeness makes one hesitate to decline when among comparative strangers. A sensitive and shrinking nature is peculiarly open to temptation of this kind.

It is wisest before leaving home to settle on some general rules of conduct and then refer all doubtful questions to be decided by these general principles without deviation. Then when the trial comes there will be no need to settle the course of action as a whole, but only to decide the nature of the case in hand. This will save many perplexities and prevent many useless regrets.

If one will always stop and ask, "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?" there will be little or no difficulty. Pleasures will be sweeter and peace more continuous. There is no time when one's character shows more transparently than when away from the accustomed restraints. Often traits come to the surface scarcely suspected by the person himself and never before clearly seen by others. Never does one need more to watch and pray than at such times. Great consequences may depend on seemingly insignificant actions. Joyous trustfulness in Christ and warm hearted alertness for His guidance will do much to keep from all harm.

The Bishop of Africa.

After an extended tour of his field Bishop Hartzell and his wife in the spring returned to the United States. He has visited and become thoroughly acquainted with the work in Liberia, on the Kongo, in Angola and then has taken the journey to the far eastern coast in the region of the Zambezi. Here we have in Inhambani a promising field which has for some years been under the charge of Dr. E. H. Richards, our devoted missionary. Personal observation has put the bishop in possession of the facts regarding our fields in the dark continent which the home church so much desires and needs to know.

BISHOP J. C. HARTZELL.

The previous work of Bishop Hartzell is well known to the church and many of the League. His African work will hold their attention and enlist their prayers and offerings.

It would be a profitable thing to spend an evening in the League on "Our Missions In Africa."

League Matters In Bermuda.

Bermuda Methodism is Wesleyan in type. The islands are under the rule of Great Britain. The Wesleyan Methodist ministers are members of the Nova Scotia conference of the Canadian Methodist church. There are nine churches in the islands, which form one district under a chairman. Chapters of the Epworth League have been formed in all the churches.

During the months of February and March General Secretary Rev. A. C. Crews of Toronto made a trip to the islands and gave an impetus to all the societies. He was abundant in labors. He preached, gave addresses and lectures and consulted with pastors, cabinets and private members. His strong, manly presence and earnest, soulful piety made a deep impression on the large company of American visitors as well as upon the people of the islands.

In the early part of March Rev. Walter J. Yates, the third vice president of the New England district League, made a short visit to the Bermudas and was most cordially welcomed. His lecture on the "Wonderlands of America," illustrated by one of the most powerful stereopticons, was spoken of in the local press as the finest of the kind ever given there. The excellent collection of negatives which he secured while there will be used for the benefit of the home Leagues in giving them "An Evening's Trip to Bermuda the Beautiful."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning July 24. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—How to have a happy home.—Job xxix, 1-20; Deut. vi, 6-9.

Many blessings of life are not appreciated until they are lost. Then we realize how much they meant to us. This seems to be particularly true of a happy home. The prodigal son did not realize the joys and comforts of his father's house of peace and plenty until in a strange land he was compelled to do undesirable work for a strange man. From this seventy-ninth chapter of Job we learn that the patriarch Job did not fully realize the blessings of home until they were lost. Then, in the midst of his afflictions and adversities, he bemoaned his lost estate.

"Oh," he says, "that I were as in the months of old,
As in the days when God watched over me,
When His lamp shined upon my head,
And by His light I walked through darkness;
As I was in the ripeness of my days,
When the secret of God was upon my tent,
When the Almighty was yet with me,
And my children were about me;
When my steps were washed with butter,
And the rock poured me out rivers of oil!"

What a keen sense of the appreciation of blessings lost is expressed in these words! Nothing is more desirable in this world than a happy home. Let there be pleasantness, peace, harmony and happiness in the home and the heaviest outside burdens may be borne and trials endured, but all manner of worldly and business prosperity will not compensate for a disagreeable, unpleasant home when strife and contention form the principal part of the daily bill of fare.

The reference in Deuteronomy emphasizes the importance of the word of God in the home and suggests some necessary characteristics of a happy home.

1. A happy home must have God in it. Moses commands that the words of the law must be kept in the hearts of the people. It was God's word, and if we have God's word in our hearts we will have God in our homes. Nothing is sadder in this life than a godless home—a home in which God is not loved, honored and obeyed.

2. In a happy home God's word must be taught to the children. "And thou shalt teach them diligently to thy children." "Thou shalt sharpen them unto thy children" is nearer the exact meaning of the Hebrew; "thou shalt sharpen them"—teach them so they will stick in them. God's word is to be taught in such a way that it shall not be forgotten. And how do this better than by committing it to memory? It is a deplorable fact that children do not commit the word as they used to or should do. Let it be drilled into the childish mind and it is never forgotten, and such a child should do its part to make the home happy, and God's word learned in childhood often keeps children from doing that which will make a home sad.

3. In a happy home God's word should be talked about. "Thou shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thy house." Oh, if there was only more conversation in our homes about God and God's word! It would make many a desert home to blossom as the rose. We should not only talk more of God, but more to God in them. All our homes would be happier if in them we talked more of God and more to God.

4. In a happy home God's word should be obeyed. It should be bound upon our hands to direct them and between our eyes to direct our minds or wills. God's word should thus direct our thoughts, words and actions, and if it does our homes must be happy.

Bible Readings.—Gen. vii, 1; Ex. xx, 17; Ruth i, 16-22; Prov. vi, 20, 21; xv, 1-5; xxix, 17; Luke x, 38-42; xxiv, 28-32; Eph. vi, 1-9; Phil. ii, 5; Col. iii, 16-25; I Tim. v, 4; II Tim. i, 3-5; iii, 14-17; Jas. i, 22.

The Lord's Covenant.

The Lord's covenant, however, has an element in it that lifts it above the plane of a mere human bargain. Though it also involves two parties and contains conditions pledging benefits, yet what is divinely contributed is the only consideration of value here, and what is received is all in favor of man, who has nothing to offer as an equivalent return or pay for the good it brings.—Reformed Church Messenger.

The Dead Line.

In the ministry there is a great deal of talk of men reaching the "dead line." No man ever came to that point unless he chose to come to it. A "dead line" is not necessary in the ministry any more than in any other profession and will never be approached if the minister devotes himself as thoroughly to his work as the lawyer, the physician and the merchant do to theirs.—Presbyterian Banner.

The Soul of Religion.

Reverence is the soul of religion. When that is gone, there is little left with which God can be pleased. Where nothing is sacred everything becomes common, even God himself.—Lutheran.

Religious Items.

Bishop Bompas of the Episcopal church has appointed a young clergyman to undertake mission work in the Klondike and has instructed him to endeavor to build a church and schools there.

A Mormon mission composed of 20 members is reported to exist under the shadow of Harvard at Cambridge, Mass.

There are 99 Methodist Episcopal churches within the limits of Chicago.

There are 25 women on the board of directors of the London Missionary society.

During the past year 187,715 Bibles and Testaments and 192,444 prayer books have been circulated by the Society For the Promotion of Christian Knowledge of the Episcopal church of England.

The Methodist Episcopal missionary societies will not employ new Bible women in north China who will not unbind their feet

Graudenz. Die Strafkammer verurtheilte den bisherigen Redakteur des Graudenzer Polenblattes „Gazeta Grudziadzka," Leo Zielinski, wegen groben Unfugs zu 150 Mark Geldstrafe. In dem Blatte war unter Anderem ausgeführt, daß die Polen alles Preußische wie eine Seuche oder Pestluft meiden sollten. Bei einem Zusammengehen mit den Preußen führen die Polen immer schlecht, daher Haß gegen alles, was preußisch sei.

Thorn. Der Ulan Feherabend von der 2. Eskadron des Ulanen-Regiments v. Schmidt, welcher sich Mitte März mit einem Karabiner einen Finger der linken Hand abschoß, ist vom Kriegsgericht wegen Selbstverstümmelung und Diebstahls der Patrone zu drei Jahren und zehn Tagen Gefängniß sowie zur Versetzung in die zweite Klasse des Soldatenstandes verurtheilt worden.

SALUTATORY.

Delivered at Plainfield High School Commencement.

The text of Miss Ellen L Osgood's essay "The Influence of Home Life," and the salutatory, delivered at the Commencement exercises of the Plainfield High School last evening, was as follows:

Gentlemen of the Board of Education:

In the name of the Class of 1898, I give you greeting. To your efforts we owe, in great part, the advantages we have enjoyed; and in welcoming you here tonight, we would thank you most heartily for your constant labor for the good of the Plainfield Public Schools.

It is with great pleasure that, on behalf of my classmates, I extend to you, citizens of Plainfield, a cordial welcome to this 28th Commencement of the High School. As we stand here tonight about to end our connection as students, and to enter into the looser relation of Alumni of the School, as we look back over the four years we have spent together, we clearly see how wise has been the management of those years for us, and we take this opportunity of expressing to you our appreciation of the educational advantages which you have offered us, and of thanking you most sincerely for your interest in the schools which has made their excellence possible. Again in the name of the Class of '98, I bid you welcome.

In all civilized countries, the home is the centre and heart of the people's life. In the home are their great interests; as a rule, a larger share of their time is spent here than anywhere else; and here their first duty lies. Their relation to the outside world is far looser, and its demands upon them less imperative; for in the world one person counts for very little, but in the household one is an important factor, and has great influence in determining the happiness or misery of all.

Every business or pleasure of life is the outgrowth of some want or desire inspired by the home. From this source springs patriotism; men fight for their country because, in preserving their native land, they preserve also their own hearths. When the Romans lost their love for their homes the patriotic fervor which made Rome the mistress of the world, died, and the empire sank in ruin. How often the thought of home has impelled soldiers to noble deeds, we can never know, but how great is its power, all national war songs testify. Once the soldier, tenting on the old camp ground, sings

"Give us a song to cheer our weary hearts.
A song of home and friends we love so dear."

or again,

"Strike for home, for life, for glory.
Freedom, God and Right."

When a spirit of justice, love, and virtue holds sway in a household, its influence for good on the world of the present and of the future is incalculable. All of the present generation who come within the magic circle of its radiance are strengthened and fortified in their better purposes, and take something of it into their whole lives.

On the future generation, its effect is infinitively greater; for to a child his home is the whole universe, and its walls enclose all the forces which form and mould his character. At a time when he is in a plastic condition, and every impression leaves a mark which he must carry forever, the spirit of the household is the only influence bearing upon him. What it makes of him, he will make of his future life. If he becomes honorable, kind and just, his life will be a course of rectitude; but if he develops mean, selfish traits, he will make his life self-centered and narrow.

Few forces, in this world, affect our moral natures to any extent. Education may expand and train the mind, social intercourse and travel may polish the manners, and veneer over many defects of temper and understanding, but a lack of moral qualities, nothing can remedy. This moral nature, so far removed from the world to make or mar, is formed beyond any radical change when a child is completely enveloped in the thought and principles of his home. Continually we are forced to notice how difficult it is to break up habits of speech and manner formed in childhood, no matter how constant the struggle against them.

A child who hears bad grammar a home, may strive to speak correctly, and may learn to write exquisite English, but yet never entirely overcome the habit formed in youth. I this is true in a case where change seems comparatively easy, how much more fixed and lasting are the habits of moral action and thought whose springs have become shut off from any outside force.

By this provision of nature, to the home is entrusted, almost entirely, the moulding of the character and moral perceptions of the children reared there. What that home is, leaves its impress upon them for all their lives. Not they alone, but every one who comes in contact with them must feel the effect of the home life in the midst of which they were brought up. It endows them with firm moral convictions, and a clear perception of right and wrong, temptation can seldom lead them far from the right path, and they are sure to help some others struggling along with less light. On the other hand, if their moral vision is clouded, and good and evil appear much alike, they become the prey of every temptation, and they must in falling, drag down with them to misery, if not to wrong, all who are nearest and dearest.

Each home must be the means of giving its children whatever morals they are to have, and it can in no way throw its responsibility upon church or state or society. The sage of long ago spoke with wisdom for all ages when he said "Home makes the man"

"Each man's chimney is his Golden milestone;
Is the central point from which he measures every distance
Through the gateways of the world around him."

VALEDICTORY.

Delivered at the Plainfield High School Commencement.

The oration "What is Worth While" and the valedictory, delivered by Henry A. Pearce at the Commencement exercises of the Plainfield High School last evening, was as follows:

In these times of bustle and constant activity in every department of human interest, we are forced to neglect something. He is the happy man who has carefully considered and found what shall be undertaken, what shall be left unattempted; what shall be done, what shall be left undone; in short, what is worth while. Let us see what things we can leave behind with benefit to ourselves, let us see what things to grasp with all our energies.

Pretense, hiding the real facts, is not worth while. Truth, knowing things as they are, carries along with itself a sense of sincerity and of reality, a contempt for shame and trickery, of the greatest worth in the formation of character A defaulter is not happy. He may go to the other side of the world and settle down there as the most respectable of men. But his cares prey upon his mind and drive him to confession, or he overdoes his part and is detected. It does not pay to sacrifice things of real worth for show. If we haven't money to pay a coachman, walking is good. Better walk than cheat the grocer or the butcher. In brief, pretence brings worry and crowds out happiness. And happiness is worth too much to be sacrificed.

Simplicity in thought and action is worth striving for. Simplicity implies a clear idea of truth The person who has the clearest ideas of the elements of a problem will solve it in the quickest, simplest way. Simplicity means true economy, not niggardliness. Economy does without luxuries to gain something better. Niggardliness does without necessaries for the sake of hoarding the money. "The life is more than meat, and the body than raiment." Mr. Gladstone's life was a model of simple living. Yet the verdict of the whole world is that his life was worth while.

Wealth as a sole aim in life does not pay. It narrows the sympathies; its end is selfishness. Barney Barnato, the "Diamond King," could count all his friends on his fingers, because he valued every one only in dollars and cents. His many callers came only on business. He had no real friends. On the other hand, Gladstone, disdaining empty wealth, could number among his friends the people of the whole civilized world. Whether uniting Italy, freeing Bulgaria, or making his last eloquent appeal for the sufferers in Armenia, he was always doing something for others. Therefore wealth as an only object in life is not worth while

We believe in the gospel of work. Work is worth while Without it we cannot be happy. "By the sweat of thy brow shalt thou eat thy bread." Retiring from business or from any form of customary activity to idleness means getting ready to die. Statistics prove this Work is one of God's most blessed gifts to man. Work prepares for other duties Our school training is but a preparation for the real work of life. It does not tend to special individual ends It is broader. But general preparation tells We are thrilled as we read of the recent victory of our ships at Manila, but we forget that that battle was really won thirty or forty years ago when the boys who are now Admiral Dewey's gunners were getting their ideas of arithmetic and geometry. The work then may have been dull enough but we are catching a glimpse of the possibilities that have flowed from those faithful lessons

What we need are broad ideas of right ambitions Men who have made their mark in the world have been guided by high ideals. Bismarck's ideal was German Unity Gladstone urged Home Rule for Ireland. Lincoln determined to free the slaves. Jesus Christ came to save the world. The end that we attain may not be so great as these, but the higher we aim, the greater things we shall accomplish. It is certain we shall never reach the summit if we always linger in the valley. Being alert will assist materially toward reaching the top. Every day expressions illustrate this. "The early bird catches the worm." "Time and tide wait for no man." If we then seize our opportunities, we shall not complain of the hardness of fate.

Honesty pays in dollars and cents. For this, if for no other reason, it is worth while. Contentment pays in health. Doctors say a contented mind is half the battle with sickness. Contentment is active. Contentment is gained by relieving suffering. Indifference refuses to know that there is such a thing as want. Contentment rejoices in duties well done. Laziness has not the backbone to tackle them. Certainly contentment is worth striving after; it is worth while.

We need to be independent. "Be sure you are right and then go ahead," is a good motto for action. Mr. Gladstone often stood almost alone. But he was sure he was right, and having faith in that right, he pursued it to its logical outcome. Aggressive independence is the thing that counts. At the same time aggressive dependence must be cultivated, for all cannot be leaders. A man on a desert island is independent. How can he help being so? He doesn't stand for anything. A man who can stick to the right, even when surrounded by evil associations, is worth something. He displays his individuality. It is a good thing to have ideas, a better thing to stick to them. If they are wrong, there are plenty of people to tell us. The man back of the idea is the moving force. In every field more is being made of the individual, the man himself. At school we are allowed to choose our course. Because my bent is not along a certain line of study is no longer sufficient reason for overwhelming me with every study in that department. Good mechanics are not so often spoiled to make poor ministers. A man's individuality, however, ought not to be like the thorns on a blackberry bush, always annoying his neighbor.

Conservatism is another good thing, so long as it does not interfere with true progress. A man who has settled prejudices against making money rapidly is not likely to be taken in by green-goods men. We can't afford to be like a weather-vane. But on the contray, the farmer who sticks to a flail in preference to a modern threshing machine is sure to be behind in these days.

"A shining back and an empty stomach," or living beyond one's income is, then, not worth while. Simplicity is the essence of true happiness and economy. Money for money's sake is narrowing, confining. Broad sympathies make many true friends. Work is a blessing. A lofty ambition inspires and urges on. Only those things which are lasting are worth while. Independence, stick-to-it-iveness, alertness—these are some of the things that are worth while.

We, the Class of '98, cannot but be grateful to you, citizens of Plainfield, for the opportunities and means put at our disposal for learning what is worth while, and for the development of ourselves, our individualities. And to you, gentlemen of the Board of Education, we extend our thanks for your care in guarding our interests, and for keeping before us high ideals of manhood and womanhood, and for the advantages for work and preparation, which we believe will tell in the duties and responsibilites upon which we are about to enter. Classmates: Let us not look regretfully upon the pleasant scenes that are behind us. "Look aloft" is the cry that saves the sailor from falling. Our only regret should be for neglected opportunities. Everything is before us to inspire us to higher and nobler achievements. Our country is now entering upon the most glorious epoch of her history. We may have a share in her glory; we may help her make her history, if we but will. Let us, then, following the example of William Ewart Gladstone, forsake petty worries and all that retards, fix our eyes on a high and noble purpose and pursue it with all the energy, consistency and individuality that we can command. And even if we do not succeed to the full, our efforts will not have been in vain. Let us take for our inspiration the words of Longfellow:

"In the world's broad field of battle,
In the bivouac of life,
Be not like the dumb, driven cattle,
Be a hero in the strife."

Maxwell Honeyman, of Grove street, is home from Lafayette College for the summer vacation.

Walter, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Walker, of Jackson avenue is recovering from a severe attack of diphtheretic croup. Dr. J H. Carman is the attending physician.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Apothecary Bicycle Club, of New York, rode to this city yesterday on their wheels and took dinner at the City Hotel. There were about forty in the party, and this was one of their annual runs.

Next Thursday the Y. M. C. A. wheelmen will be entertained in this city. Elaborate preparations have been made for them, and all are expected to have a good time. Mrs. J. W. Gavett will have charge of the refreshments.

ROD AND GUN.

Fred. Sandford, of the borough, has returned from a hunting trip in Morris county.

Attorney Isaac P. Runyon and brother, of North avenue, are spending a few days fishing at Barnegat. They have promised all their friends plenty of fish when they come home, and will send them by express.

To Macadamize Woodland Avenue.

Woodland avenue, from LaGrande to South avenue, Netherwood, is about to be macadamized. The contract has been awarded to I. and N. Smalley, who will begin work at once.

Tried a New York Regiment.

Herman Myers, of Watchung avenue, left Tuesday to enlist in the 69th New York Volunteers. He has not been heard from since, and it is supposed that he went through.

Edward Richards, clerk at Frank Rowley's drug store, has secured a very fine position as manager for a drug store at South Orange. He will assume his duties next Monday.

JOTTINGS OF THE DAY.

ENTERPRISINGLY GATHERED AND CONCISELY TOLD BY REPORTERS.

Newsy Notes of More or Less Importance Bunched Together for the Ready Reference of Press Readers

—Special purchase of black and white figured lawns at VanEmburgh's.

—The mail route of Letter-carrier Daniel Shea is now being looked after by Substitute-carrier Phillip Giese. The former has enlisted in the regular army.

—The regular monthly missionary meeting at Warren chapel will be held this evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. G. W. Gardner, of Grace M. E. church, will speak. All are welcome.

—Fred Prentiss, of the borough, went to New York today to enlist in the regular army. Charles Messerschmith, of Washington street, is also thinking of going to the front.

—Manager Maze Edwards, of Music Hall, was highly complimented last evening on the appearance of the house, which was very clean. The way the hall was ventilated was also favorably commented upon by the large and critical audience that was present.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Dr. and Mrs. M. E. Dwight, of Plainfield are registered at The Riggs for a Washington, D. C., visit of a few days.

Miss Edna Gerow, of East Orange, who has been the guest of Miss Alice Barker, of Grove street, returned home this morning.

Herbert Rogers, son of Councilman George T. Rogers, of Washington Park, is now summering at Chatham, Mass., where he is thoroughly enjoying himself.

Past Commander M. C. Dobbins, of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., went to Long Branch this morning to attend the annual encampment of the G. A. R., of New Jersey, and to cast his vote for W. C. Smith for Department Commander.

—William Kilfoil, of Princeton, has purchased the meat business of J. M. Smalley, of Somerset street, and will take possession July 1st. Mr. Smalley will remain with Mr. Kilfoil for a time, and will then withdraw from the business. Mr. Kilfoil comes to Plainfield well recommended as a first-class butcher.

CHARGED WITH NAUGHTY TALK.

Twelve Men Hear Testimony in the Case at Council Chambers.

Twelve men were occupied this morning in the Council Chamber with a petty case of alleged disorderly conduct. Mrs. Bridget McDonough, of Richmond street, was charged by Officers Flynn and Higgins with swearing and using profane language on the evening of May 28th, and as the defendant called for a jury, her demand was complied with with.

The case was one of no particular interest except to the few neighbors who live near her. On the night of May 28th, Higgins says Mrs. McDonough stood on her piazza calling her colored neighbors names, and threatening to do them bodily harm.

Higgins remonstrated with her, he says, and tried to persuade her to go inside the house and keep quiet. This had no effect, so later, upon the order of Roundsman Flynn, he placed Mrs. McDonough under arrest and marched her off to the jail.

The defendant was represented by Counsellor W. S. Angleman, and Counsellor Craig A. Marsh looked after the interests of the city.

Mr. Angleman denied the accusation, and in his remarks to the court claimed that the disorder originated on the opposite side of the street, and that Mrs. McDonough was not alone the guilty one.

THE "SAGE OF UNLAW."

COL. WILSON CONSIDERED GOOD GUBERNATORIAL TIMBER.

A Somerset Democrat Tells Why He Thinks the Borough Mayor Would Make a Strong Candidate if Nominated.

The announcement in the columns of The Press Wednesday evening of the fact that the friends of Mayor Wilson were determined to bring his name to the front as a candidate for Governor was favorably commented upon by both Republicans and Democrats.

In conversation with a Press reporter a prominent local Democrat said: "Looking over the field of possible candidates, and taking into consideration the requirements of a candidate, one is unusually impressed by the peculiar fitness of the Mayor. He has every qualification for the office.

"A successful business man, yet free from the restraints of business because of his retirement from active pursuits, with a wide experience in large enterprises and ripe judgments on all subjects pertinent to the office.

"As Mayor of the borough he has made an excellent executive, and none of his friends have been disappointed in him, in fact, an examination of his record will show that he has surpassed any expectation. He has straightened out many perplexing problems, and has given such attention to details as to arouse the admiration of those politically opposed to him.

"Col. Wilson is a man of unusual business ability, and is a person of calm, far-seeing wisdom with recognized sagacity and prudence, and a practical philosopher. He is a sage in the truest sense of the word, and the Democratic party is fortunate to have a man so universally acknowledged to be such."

Not the Driver.

It was not A. L. Kaerth who was driving the team of the Plainfield Bottling Works, which ran away last Tuesday.

—Charles Gould is no longer in the employ of L. A. Hummer, and Mr. Hummer wishes The Press to state that he has no authority to represent him in any capacity.

SOME HINTS FOR SMOKERS.

The First and Foremost Rule is Never to Smoke Before Breakfast.

Generalarzt Dr. Scholer publishes a collection of "Hints for Smokers," which are founded, as the Doctor states, upon his professional observations for many years of the mouth, teeth, stomach, lungs, heart and skin of the devotees of tobacco. The first and foremost rule is never to smoke before breakfast, nor, as a rule, when the stomach is empty; this custom is the worst possible foe of digestion. Never smoke during any exertion of great physical energy, as dancing, running, cycling, mountain-climbing, or rowing, and especially if in a contest. Never follow "the bad custom of the French and Russians" by allowing the smoke to pass through the nose; never inhale it through the nose.

Keep the smoke as far as possible from the eyes and nose; the longer the pipe the better; the use of a short pipe during work is to be avoided. A pipe is the most wholesome form of smoking, a cigar the next, a cigarette the worst. Always throw away your cigar as soon as you have smoked four-fifths of it; the last end of it is the most hurtful, in cauda venenum, the poison lurks in the tail. All cigarettes are bad, but Eastern cigarettes the worst, for they are almost always compounded with some degree of opium. The smoker ought to rinse out his mouth, not only before every meal and before going to bed at night, but several times during the day. The best rinse for the smoker is a glass of water in which a teaspoonful of table salt has been dissolved. It should be used as a gargle at night, and care should be taken that every cavity in the teeth is well washed with it. The pipe's proper place is in the hand, and only occasionally in the lips or teeth.

CROSSING SWORDS IN THE HOUSE.

Congressmen Butler and Randall Have a Tilt Over a Sunday Session.

Away back in the 70s, during the famous deadlock fight on the Civil Rights bill, the question of the adjournment of Congress was under discussion one Saturday afternoon. Ben Butler, that born wit, had stepped over to Sam Randall's desk for a private consultation. Butler favored a Sunday session, while Randall opposed it vigorously.

"Bad as I am, I have some respect for God's day," said the famous high tariff champion, "and I don't think it right to hold a session on the Sabbath."

"Oh, pshaw!" responded Butler, "doesn't the Bible say that it is lawful to pull your ox or ass out of the pit on the Sabbath day? You have seventy-three asses on your side of this House that I want to get out of this ditch to-morrow, and I think I am engaged in a holy work."

"Don't do it, Butler," pleaded Randall. "I have some respect for you that I don't want to lose. I expect some day to meet you in a better world."

"But you'll be there, as you are here," retorted the sly Benjamin, quick as a flash, "a member of the lower house."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

FUNERAL FLOWER TRADE.

How It Is Drummed Up by an Enterprising Pennsylvanian.

Traveling men who pass through east Pennsylvania cities when looking over the local newspapers are frequently surprised at the quantity of flowers which are mentioned in the published accounts of funerals of people not in public life. In many of the cities the business of drumming up the funeral flower trade is quite scientifically done. A funeral flower trade drummer told the other day of his mode of operations.

"To get early information of deaths I stand in with the obituary reporters of the daily papers. They cover all the undertakers in the town. I get all the deaths up to 2 P. M., and then get out to business. Of course, in these busy days, most people haven't time to go to greenhouses for flowers. Hundreds of people are willing to send some dead friend a nice token of remembrance, but many don't think of it, and the others haven't the time. Now, I make it a business to do all that for them. When I hear of a man dying I get the names of his near relatives, lodge associates, business connections, if any, &c. I have sample books of bouquets, crosses, crescents, anchors, stars, sickles, harps, lyres, hearts, gates ajar, doves, sheaves of wheat, clusters of lilies, wheels with broken spokes, pillows, pedestals, and many other set pieces. I have price lists of these and of cut flowers, roses at so much per dozen—in fact, anything people are likely to want. I call on the friends of the dead person, ask if they wish to order anything, and promise to deliver the goods on the morning of the day of the funeral, fresh and handsome, with their cards attached, all in proper and satisfactory shape.

"I make out a complete list of the offerings, with full description of flowers, with names of flowers correctly spelled, all type-written, and give it to the reporters. Then my customers see their names in the papers as having kindly sent in a beautiful floral donation, so when I call next day to collect my bill they cheerfully pay. I never lose anything."—New York Sun.

Two Audacious Collegians.

William Wetmore Story was fond of telling the following tale of James Russell Lowell and himself:

"James Lowell and I were very angry with Webster for staying in old Tyler's Cabinet, and as he was to speak in Faneuil hall on the evening of the 30th of September, 1842, we determined to go in (from the Harvard law school) and hoot at him, and to show him that he had incurred our displeasure. There were 3,000 people there, and we felt sure that they would hoot with us, young as we were. But we reckoned without our host.

"Mr. Webster, beautifully dressed, stepped forward. His great eyes looked, as I shall always think, straight at me. I pulled off my hat; James pulled off his. We both became as cold as ice and as respectful as Indian coolies. I saw James turn pale; he said I was livid. And when that great creature began that most beautiful exordium, our scorn turned to deepest admiration, from abject contempt to belief and approbation."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Women and Banks.

"If it were not for the women who have bank accounts," said a paying teller last week, "the routine of banking business would be deadly dull. Wherever clerks from different banks come together, one unfailing source of amusement is the recital of what women have been doing in the banking business. For instance, a woman recently went into the office of the Hamilton Trust Company, in Brooklyn, and asked:

"'Is Mr. Hamilton here?'

"'No, madam,' said the clerk, who remembered her as a woman who had started an account the week previous.

"'Where is he?' asked the woman.

"'I don't know, madam. Mr. Alexander Hamilton is dead, you know.'

"'I didn't know it,' said the woman. 'Oh, dear, I'm so sorry! Now, how on earth am I to get my money?'

"And before the clerk could explain, she rushed out."—New York Sun.

Perfect Understanding.

"Do you want my daughter for her money or for herself?" demanded the old gentleman.

"It's this way," stammered the young man, as he tripped backwards over the edge of the rug. "I want her for myself and I want her money for herself, and I want both of them for ourselves, and you certainly must understand."

His Claim to Distinction.

"There goes the most remarkable man in this town." "What's remarkable about him?" "He's the only successful merchant we have who doesn't claim to be a self-made man. He says he got rich through the faithfulness of the men that work for him."—Chicago Tribune.

Preference.

Nell—I thought she was going to marry Tom?

Belle—No; Jack.

"Why, she told me Tom was willing to die for her."

"Yes, but Jack offered to make a good living for her."—Philadelphia Record.

Knew His Business.

"You think you understand the advertising business, do you?"

"Understand it! Why, I could keep any man's name before the public—even if he were the Vice-President of the United States."—Baltimore Life.

Closing Exercises of the Juniors

The closing exercises of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Trinity Reformed church were held yesterday afternoon. A pleasant time was enjoyed, and the little ones had refreshments before they went away. Miss Elsie Tier, on behalf of the society, presented Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, the president of the society with a handsome jardinier containing a maiden hair fern, which was very much appreciated by the recipient. Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D. was present, and gave the little ones a talk. The society will resume its meetings after September 1st.

GREAT HONOR FOR A PLAINFIELD VETERAN.

W. C. Smith Chosen Department Commander of G. A. R.

STRIFE FOR THE PLACE

OTHER CANDIDATES WITHDREW AFTER A FEW BALLOTS.

Encampment Held at Long Branch—Winfield Scott Post Comrades Led the Fight—Commander Smith Overwhelmed With Congratulations—Other Officers Chosen—Condition of G. A. R.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Long Branch, June 25—Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of Plainfield, was accorded a distinguished honor at the annual State Encampment held here yesterday when Comrade William C. Smith was chosen Department Commander to succeed Samuel G. Hayter. There was a great strife for the position, the other aspirants, besides Mr. Smith, being Charles B. Parsons, of Red Bank; John G. Fisher, of Jersey City, and C. F. Hann, of Atlantic City.

The convention was held in Ocean Theatre, in which great interest centered all day yesterday on account of the election being held there. Commander Smith and his comrades in Winfield Scott Post had been conducting an active and aggressive campaign for his election for several months past, the Plainfield post taking up the matter in an earnest manner and lending all their influence to the success of Mr. Smith's candidacy. It was generally conceded several days ago that Mr. Smith had the best chance of being chosen, but it took several ballots yesterday for various delegates to cast their quota of complimentary votes for local candidates.

This result was greeted with enthusiastic cheers, the Plainfield veterans leading in the demonstration. Immediately after the election Commander Smith was overwhelmed with comrades anxious to congratulate him on the distinguished honor accorded.

The full list of officers elected was as follows: Commander, Wm. C. Smith, Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, of Plainfield; senior vice-commander, James Camp, Lincoln Post, No. 11, of Newark; junior vice-commander, James Campbell, Morris Post, No. 46, of Long Branch; medical director, John H. Younglove, Ulric Dahlgren Post, No. 25, of Elizabeth; chaplain, Rev. Chas. E. Hill, Arrowsmith Post, No. 61, of Red Bank; council of administration, A. T. Connett, Post 48; Geo. B. Stinson, Post 28; W. W. Morris, Post 4; Charles Wales, Post 38, and C. S. McGrath, Post 23.

Trenton was selected as the permament place of holding the State encampment, and after much discussion it was voted to dispense with all parades in future. This course was decided upon because many of the veterans are unable to stand long marches owing to their advanced age and physical disabilities.

There are 111 posts in the State, with a total membership of 6,381, a decrease of 348 since last year. There has been a total gain through muster, transfer and reinstatement of 500 members. During the year there were lost by death 205 members and 113 by discharge, disbandment and transfer, making a net loss of 318. The number suspended is 465, and 169 have been dropped. The amount of money expended for relief during the year is $9,018.40.

The Woman's Relief Corps concluded its session at 6 p. m. These officers were elected: President, Mrs. Sarah McCaull, Paterson; senior vice-president, Mrs. Rose C. Case, Flemington; junior vice-president, Mrs. Spitil, Paterson; treasurer, Mrs. Mamie Stanafield, Haledon; chaplain, Mrs. Maggie Fitzpatrick, Trenton.

Early Closing of All Stores.

The early closing of stores, which has been advocated by the Board of Trade, is now an assured thing. Commencing Tuesday, July 5th, all stores, with the exception of confectionery and drug stores, will close at 7 o'clock, Saturdays excepted, until September 1st.

Graduates Pictures Taken.

The graduates of the North Plainfield school had their photographs taken yesterday afternoon by G. W. Montfort, the photographer. The graduates were taken singly and in a group. Principal Whiteman was with them.

AN EXCITING RUNAWAY.

ONE FRIGHTENED STEED STIRRED UP TWO OTHERS.

Robert Pierce in the Midst of the Fractious Horses—His Clothes Torn, But No Serious Injuries Received.

An exciting runaway that promised no little danger to the horsemen, wheelmen and pedestrians on North avenue, occurred about 8:30 o'clock this morning. Robt. Pierce, of New Market, who is employed in A. D. Thompson's New York office, was sitting in front of Mr. Thompson's office on North avenue in a phæton, to which was hitched a spirited horse.

In throwing his head around the horse caught one of the martingale rings on the end of the right shaft and began to turn around. Mr. Pierce, who was in imminent danger of being upset, jumped out of the phæton and seizing the horse by the head unfastened the martingale ring, and was about to take his seat again in the phæton when the animal gave a sudden plunge and started off down North avenue. Fortunately Mr. Pierce had a good grip on the horse's head and hung on gallantly.

In front of A. E. Hoagland's express office, two of Hoagland's wagons stood. The runaway horse darted in between these two wagons, ran until he couldn't get any further, then stopped. By this time people were running towards the man and horse from all directions. Some had presence of mind to seize Hoagland's horses, but then they too began to plunge, and it looked for a moment as if three rigs would be run away with. One of the truck horses rose in the air and threw himself, but in a minute or two the animals were quieted.

Pierce, who had hung bravely to Mr. Thompson's horse's head all the time, extricated himself, and found no bones broken, but a big bruise on his leg and a badly torn pair of trousers. Mr. Thompson's horse was cut a little on the shoulder and the blood flowed freely. The phaeton was not damaged.

FIRST FIRECRACKER ACCIDENT.

Young Son of Councilman Burtis Had His Eye Burned.

The young son of Councilman Murray Burtis, of Fairview avenue, narrowly escaped losing the sight of an eye this morning. He was playing with firecrackers in the yard, and while lighting one it went off in his hand. The cracker struck his eye and burned it severely. As quickly as possible the young man was taken to Dr. Probasco's office and the eye was properly treated. The doctor washed the eye and removed the particles of powder which had been left there. A lotion was applied. The sight was saved, but it was a very close call.

Bicycle and Horse Mixedup.

A little excitement was occasioned on Park avenue, near Second street, this morning by a wheelman and a horse. The horse was attached to a carriage and a woman was driving. They were going one direction and W. H. Carter, a young colored man in the employ of Dr. Ard, was going the other. The horse jumped one side and then the other. At last he jumped directly at Carter, who rolled off his wheel while the horse fell over it. The wheel was slightly damaged but the horse escaped any injury. Carter sprained his arm in the fall.

Somerset Council Elect.

Last evening at the meetiug of Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: Councilor, W. R. Conover; vice-councilor, James A. Harned; assistant recording secretary, Matthew Dallas; recording secretary, Walter Walker; financial secretary, G. B. Allen; treasurer, Jesse Scull; conductor, Joseph Schwalback; warden, Wm. GaNun; inside sentinel, Mr. Crevelin; outside sentinel, Mr. Welsh; trustee, three years, W. R Conover.

In City Court.

The jail held but one solitary prisoner this morning, Jacob Warner, a "hobo". He claimed to hail from Allentown, Pa., and gave such a straight account of himself that the City Judge suspended sentence. Willie Britton who was arraigned before the City Judge last Saturday for throwing stones at Landlord J. E. Beerbower's windows, and breaking them, appeared in court this morning. After warning the lad not to throw any more stones, sentence was suspended on him.

Changes His Position.

John Vroom, who for the past six years has been a faithful employe of The Daily Press office, has resigned his position to accept another with the Paul T. Norton Company, of East Front street, dealers in flour, feed, etc. Mr. Vroom has the best wishes of all for success in his new place. He will enter upon his new duties next Monday.

LITTLE FOLKS WERE THE ENTERTAINERS.

Closing Exercises in St. Mary's School Last Night.

CUTE SKETCH WAS GIVEN.

THE YOUNG ACTORS PORTRAYED THEIR PARTS CLEVERLY.

Eleven Tots Told What They Aspire to be When They are Grown Up—St. Mary's Cadets Rendered a Pretty Little Operetta in Good Style—National Color Dance was of Pretty Effect.

The closing exercises of St. Mary's School were concluded last night with a programme entirely different, with a few exceptions, from the one produced Thursday night. The attendance was fully as large and the entertainment was enjoyed by all who were there.

The little folks seemed to be in prominence last night, as they took the principal parts in the entertainment. After an overture, "National Airs," by Miss A. Quinn and Miss M. Smith, on the piano, and a chorus by the school children, who appeared on the stage all dressed in white, a cute little sketch was produced entitled "The Troubles of the Little Folks." Eleven children appeared on the stage, and told what they intended to do when they grew up. Margaret Lutz, who was "Hilda, the Mischievous Girl," made fun for all. The little ones who took part were Marguirite Lutz, Anna Casey, Mary Fitzgerald, Loretto Fairfax, Mary Buckley, Ellen Cotter, Elizabeth Beabout, Catherine Kelley, Beatrice Young, Elizabeth Young and Helen Lynch

This was followed by a chorus, "The Merry Milkmaids," by the Grammar girls. The Senior girls gave in song, Longfellow's "The Wreck of the Hesperus." The St. Mary's Cadets, an organization of which the parents and friends of the school are proud, had a share in the next number on the programme, an operetta, called "The Merry Company." Those whose whose took part in this were Miss S. Barrell, Miss E. Hanrahn, Miss M. Bray, Master J. Kyle, J. Traynor, M. Kiely, J. Conway and J. Kelly, besides the company of cadets and a number the girls. The party represented a number of young children out for a frolic, and was replete with songs by the different ones named.

J. Traynor was captain of the company, and made an admirable one. Master J. Kyle appeared dressed up as a peddler, with Miss S. Barrell, who was an old woman with a basket on her arm.

M. Kiely, J. Conway and J. Kelly were policemen, and looked as though they could guard the whole city with no trouble at all. Thomas Mack sang a solo.

One of the prettiest things seen was the National Color Dance. This was given by a company of young girls dressed in white, who twined long streamers of red, white and blue bunting around a pole, after first going through a merry dance. The figures were very pretty, and called forth the applause of the audience. At the close of the dance the dancers moved in an intricate manner around, and the result was a pole twined with the National colors in regular order. Just before the curtain fell the National hymn was sung.

After a vocal solo by Miss Anna Daley, entitled "Whom Should I Meet," a pretty scene was produced called "The Revel of the Naids." In it fourteen young ladies went through a number of graceful motions, and dressed in white and wearing golden crowns on their heads, made a pleasant sight.

The pantomime, "Jesus, Savior of My Soul," which was so thoroughly enjoyed Thursday night, was repeated. A "Triumphale March" ended the programme.

To Buy a Flag.

A movement, deserving of support by the good people of Plainfield, is now in progress to purchase a flag to wave over the Plainfield Public Library. A fund sufficiently large enough to buy one is being raised and subscriptions for the same can be left at the Library or at The Press office. It is to be hoped that the necessary sum can be raised without trouble, so that the Stars and Stripes can wave over the city's building as soon as possible.

The War Revenue

The City National Bank has sent out a circular to all its customers citing the provisions of the War Revenue Law as they effect checks, drafts and notes.

Regent Bromfield, of Plainfield Council, Royal Arcanum, has returned from Asbury Park, where he has been stopping for his health.

GASHED BY HAY FORKS.

GEORGE FEIRING HAD A NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

Stood Under a Pair of Hay Forks That Were Descending Rapidly—Used His Arm to Prevent being Struck on Head

Driver George Feiring, of the fire department, who is now having his ten days' vacation, had a narrow escape yesterday afternoon from being instantly killed.

Early in the afternoon he accompanied a friend to Bernard Myers' Riverside Stock Farm at Finderne, and while there became interested in a patent hay-raiser which was being used to unload hay from a wagon and place it in the barn. Mr. Feiring was standing on the wagon, when he heard a loud noise above his head. He quickly looked up just in time to see the large forks descending. He instantly put his left arm up to ward off the blow of the forks, and the sharp points penetrated his clothing and cut so deep into the arm as to sever the muscles.

The suffering was intense and the loss of blood great. Workmen about the place soon learned what had happened and hastened to assist Feiring. Temporary treatment was secured, and when he reached Plainfield Feiring called on his physician and had the wound properly attended to.

A young lad employed by Mr. Myers was responsible for the accident. Without thinking he pulled the rope that lowered the forks and did not realize what he had done until after the accident occurred. It will be some time before Feiring will be able to use his arm again. If he had failed to put up his arm he would probably have been killed, for the forks would have struck him in the head.

INCONSISTENT CHURCHMEN.

Spencer Conway Criticises the Action of His Colored Brethren.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Whilst entertainments were being carried on in the different colored churches for the purpose of raising funds for the carrying on of the work of the Lord Jesus Christ, and whilst in one of the churches, the Mount Olive Baptist church, a solemn installation service was being held, at which distinguished ministers from out of town were present, together with our own beloved Dr. Yerkes and Mr. Richardson, it seems a pity that at the same time a number of the leading men in some of our colored churches, who had rented Washington Hall for the purpose of holding an entertainment for the Odd Fellows, should countenance dancing, which is directly against the principles of the Baptist and other denominations. This seems especially lamentable when it occurred at such a time as Thursday evening, in direct contrast to the efforts of the churches, who were all striving to uplift humanity, and in particular, the one where one of the most solemn services known to the church was being held.

Very respectfully,
Spencer Conway.

MR. LA MONTE DECLINES.

He Cannot be the Prohibition Candidate for Governor.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, June 25.—George LaMonte, of this place, who was nominated for Governor of New Jersey at the State Prohibition convention in Camden, last week, has notified the committee that he cannot accept the nomination. Prior to the convention he was requested to allow the use of his name in that connection but positively refused.

A Trio of Volunteers.

Theodore Smith, of East Second street, received a postal card this morning from Frank Vosselier, who went to New York to enlist in the regular army. He states that Frank Hale, James Lane and himself were delayed in New York until today. This afternoon at 5:30 they will leave over the Pennsylvania Railroad for Chickamauga. They report themselves well and in the best of spirits.

Lost a Top of a Finger.

Frank Soar, of East Front street, a pressman by trade and an employe of the Climax Bottle Stopper Works, had the tip of a finger cut off yesterday afternoon while working at the above place. The finger was caught in a piece of machinery, severing the tip from the main part of the finger. Soar went to the hospital and had the injured member dressed and was able to return to work this morning.

Red Men Elect.

The semi-annual election of Miantonomoh Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., was held last night. Justice William Newcorn and J. T. Green were nominated for the office of sachem, and Green was elected. George Houseman was chosen for senior sagamore and Frank Soden for junior sagamore.

DEDICATION OF THE NEW MASONIC HOME.

Ten Thousand Members of Order at Ceremonies.

BUILDING HAS 25 ROOMS.

COMFORT TO MEN OF FRATERNITY ADVANCED IN YEARS.

The Dedicatory Exercises Were Held at Noon When Grand Master Ewan Made the Address of Welcome—Home Cost $125,000 Originally, But the Masons Got It For About $25,000.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Burlington, June 25.—The new Masonic Home, recently purchased for the Masons of this State, was formally dedicated yesterday by Grand Master Josiah W. Ewan, of the State Grand Lodge.

Every lodge and chapter in the State were represented, and delegations were also present from Pennsylvania and New York. The home is surrounded by twenty-five acres of land, and tents and resting places had been provided for the visitors.

The first ceremony of the day at the home was the presentation of a big flag by Teutonia Lodge, of Jersey City. Dr. Senlon, of Jersey City, made the presentation speech and Grand Master Ewan accepted it on behalf of the home. The flag was immediately raised on the building's staff. The Sixth Regiment Band, which was stationed on the lawn, played the "Star Spangled Banner" as the flag was raised. At noon the dedicatory exercises began. An immense platform had been erected and on this the members of the Grand Lodge and invited guests took their station. The proceedings were opened by prayer by the grand chaplain, and Grand Master Ewan made the address of welcome. Grand Secretary Rutan read letters of regret at their inability to attend from President McKinley and Vice-President Hobart, both of whom said their duties forbade their leaving Washington at present, even for a brief time.

P. G. M. Hamilton Wallis, of East Orange, then formally transferred the buildings and grounds into the care of the Grand Lodge. Grand Master Ewan accepted the trust on behalf of the Grand Lodge. The formal request to dedicate the home was made to the Grand Lodge by Deputy Grand Master Joseph E. Moore. The Grand Master then proceeded with the Masonic dedication. The oration was by P. W. Emile A. Meury, of Jersey City. R. W. Henry Haines, of Burlington delivered the historical address. Following the ceremonies there was a banquet given by the Grand Lodge for its guests. This was served in a big tent on the grounds.

The new home formerly was the residence of Abraham Taylor and cost $125,000. The Grand Lodge purchased the property for $25,000. There are twenty-five rooms in the building, all so large that if needed they could be divided into two and in some instances three and four rooms.

The building is of stone and fitted with gas and water. It is on a hill overlooking the Delaware river. To purchase the home each Mason in the State contributed $2, and when the purchase was made there was left a large sum for the support of the home.

Moved the Fathouse to Samptown.

Theodore Glaser, who was arrested this week on a charge of keeping an offensive place back of French's mill on East Front street, has moved his fat house to Samptown, the lease with P. M. French having expired. The date for the trial of Glaser is set down for July 8th.

To Join the Third Regiment.

Edward Prentiss, an employe of the Paul T. Norton Co., dealers in flour, feed, etc., went to Elizabeth yesterday and was examined to join the regular army. He passed and will leave Plainfield next Monday to join the Third Regiment.

Non-Sectarian Home.

The Jennie Clarkson Home for Children, endowed by the late William R. Clarkson, of this city, which has just been opened in New York, is non-sectarian instead of Baptist as first reported.

Early Garden Vegetables.

Walter Scott and family of East Front street, had their first dinner of new potatoes, green peas and spinish grown in their garden on June 4th, and have used them daily since the 14th inst.

Rev. John Allen, pastor of the New York Avenue Reformed church, of Newark, an able divine, will exchange pulpits with Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor of Trinity Reformed church, tomorrow.

A BIG BUSINESS DEAL.

NEW STOCKHOLDERS IN POND MACHINE TOOL COMPANY.

No Change Will be Made in Operation of the Shops, but it is Planned to Run With Less Hard Competition.

A recent issue of the American Machinist says:

"The interest of the late Eugene Maxwell and that of his brother (who is president of the Central R. R. of N. J.) in the Pond Machine Tool Works, of Plainfield, N. J., together with some other stock, perhaps, have been purchased by men interested in the Niles Tool Works Company, of Hamilton, Ohio.

"It is not the intention to consolidate the two companies—in fact, it is the intention to preserve the entity of both of them, but sufficient of the stock of both companies is now held by the same men to enable some of the more objectionable features of the heavy machine tool business which have prevailed in the past to be eliminated. Mr. T. T. Gaff, who is a relative of the Mr. Gaff who was at one time associated with Alex. Gordon, at Hamilton, is now president of the Pond Company, and C. A. Moore and Henry S. Manning, of Manning, Maxwell & Moore, are vice-president and treasurer respectively.

"Although at this writing much remains unsettled, it is expected that both works will run along about as they have been doing, but that there will be some co operation and some arrangement by which shipping and other expenses will be reduced. Mr. Stebbins is expected to continue as superintendent of the Pond shops.

"Heavy tool builders have had a hard struggle for the past few years, some of them having paid no dividends for several years past, and in fact actually falling behind somewhat. This change will of course by no means monopolize heavy tool building, because if for no other reason there are still large interests outside of the newly-affiliated companies. It is expected, however, that this move will lead to some much needed improvement in the tone of the market."

JUNIORS' CLOSING EXERCISES

Interesting Programme Rendered by the Epworth League.

The Junior Epworth League of Grace M. E church held its closing exercises for the season in the church yesterday afternoon, at which time the following programme was presented: Piano solo, Eva Doeringer; flower voices, by Bessie Pope, Carrie VanArsdale, Leah Wightman, Viola Higgins, Ida Belle Conover; recitation, "The Village Express," Ira Pangborn; song, "Happy Little Sunbeams," twelve little girls; recitation, "What Would You Do?" Lavinia Hand, Grace Woolston, Viola Higgins, Willie Morton, Norman Ammerman; recitation, "Better Than Nothing," Mabel Farley; piano solo, May Fairchild; reading, "Earth's House cleaning," Carrie Pangborn; recitation, "How Do They Grow," Bessie Farley and Marion Major. The exercises closed with singing by the members of the League and an address by the pastor, Rev. G. W. Gardner.

The entertainment was arranged by Mrs. A. A. Taft, assisted by Miss Mary Steiner. The Juniors will reopen in September with a basket picnic to some point of interest nearby. The past year has been very encouraging in this department of Grace church work, and the attendance has kept up well throughout. A number of the Juniors have united with the church and give promise of becoming efficient helpers.

Bicycle Run Tomorrow.

Newark, No. 2, of the Associated Mecca Wheelmen, of New York, will pass through this city on a tour tomorrow should the weather prove satisfactory. For the information of the N. M. S. located in and about Plainfield we would state that the Mecca Wheelmen, of New York, having a membership covering a vast section of the country it was deemed advisable to form branches at various points. Hearty support is being tendered No. 2, of Newark, and a little while hence will find it a factor of no mean importance. Any M. S. N. is eligible. Uniform desired, but not imperative. Any further information will be gladly furnished by the acting secretary-treasurer, J. L. Osler, 6 Miller street, N. J., or Noble S. M. Davis, of 429 Kensington avenue, this city, second lieutenant.

THE ARMY AND NAVY BEGIN JOINT ATTACK.

Santiago's Defences Will be Bombarded Today.

FLEET TO FORCE ENTRANCE.

WAR DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS SAY A DECISIVE CONFLICT IS IN PROGRESS.

Trouble in Spain—Cadiz Fleet Surely Moves Eastward—Hawaii Anxious to be Annexed—Preparing to Fight for United States Anyway—Spanish Troops in Santiago Disheartened—Other News.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Port Antonio, Jamaica, June 25, 12:58 p. m.—The latest despatches from our army in Cuba say that the troops will storm the outside intrenchments of Santiago today and will be at the gates of the city Sunday. The Cubans will be given the place of honor if they are capable of holding it. A junction has been formed between Generals Garcia and Castillo, of the insurgents. A need of horses is reported.

Washington, June 25, 1:12 p. m—Gen. Miles believes that the final assault on Santiago was begun this morning and will continue until the surrender of the city. Secretary Long has received a cable from Sampson announcing that the proposed bombardment would begin at daybreak this morning and would continue until the harbor batteries were silenced, when the fleet would force an entrance to the harbor. Both expect quick and decisive work.

London, June 25, 12:33 p m.—All despatches from Madrid reflect the great anxiety caused by Cervera's despatch and the alarming political situation. Troubles are not anticipated among the populace as the patriotic feelings predominate though strong toward peace negotiations.

A despatch from Algiers confirms the reports that the Cadiz fleet has passed the island of Pantelaria in the Mediterranean Sea, going east.

San Francisco, June 25, 1:24 p. m—Advices received today from Honolulu say that orders have been issued for the members of the Hawaiian National Guard to report immediately to the commanding officers equipped for duty. It is the intention of the Ministry to be in readiness to aid the United States whether annexed or not. The peple are hopeful of early annexation.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 25, 1:17 p. m—In correspondence received from Fernandina, Miller, second in Spanish command at Santiago, says that they found powder and ammunition scarce. The insurgents had cut off every source of supply. The troops are disheartened and are openly clamoring for surrender expressing the opinion that the present war is murder.

Washington, June 25, 11 a. m.—Advices received from Camp McCalla state that in captured ammunition used by the Spaniards there was found a large quantity of pure brass cartridges, which are forbidden in civilized warfare. This would explain the horrible mutilation of the bodies of the dead.

A Malicious Act.

Clarence Brokaw, of West Front street, left his wheel standing in front of a Front street store yesterday morning. When he returned he found that some miscreant had filled his rear tire with pin holes, the tires therefore being ruined.

The new clubhouse of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will not be formally opened July 4th, as the club had hoped to do. The matches and the reception that day will be held at the present clubhouse on Plainfield avenue. Miss Edith H. Smalley has been elected an associate member of the club.

Another run will be taken by the Y. M. C. A. wheelmen July 4th. The run will be from Brooklyn over the Merrick road to Sea Cliff.

—Press want ads pay—try one.

—Rev. George Bowers, of Warrenville, will lead the meeting at Faith chapel, East Third street, tomorrow evening.

SPAIN IS IN DESPAIR

Discouraging News From Santiago and Manila.

DISASTER SEEMS CERTAIN

The Latest News from Cuba and the Philippines Very Discouraging—A Lingering Hope That Cervera May Escape—The Madrid Press Still Talks of "No Surrender"—Sagasta Will Soon Close the Sitting of the Cortes.

Madrid, June 25.—There is consternation in official circles owing to the latest news from Manila and Santiago. Premier Sagasta knows positively that General Augusti is only holding out in Manila to satisfy military honor and until Dewey receives reinforcements, which are expected to furnish an honorable pretext for surrender. The Americans are avoiding a final victory with the aid of the natives, which might lead to complications with Germany and other powers, who are reluctant to allow Spanish rule in the Philippines to suffer. This in consequence is likely to make a restoration thereof almost impossible at the close of the struggle.

Santiago now preoccupies the government even more than the Philippines. The naval authorities still have a lingering hope that Admiral Cervera may attempt to dash out at night with his cruisers and destroyers, sacrificing some vessels in order to save the rest of the fleet from inevitable disaster.

Linares Has Little Hope.

In a telegram General Linares very frankly told the minister of war he would do his best, but lacked flour, meat and wine, though there is enough of other provisions to hold out many weeks, but had only 8,000 regular soldiers and a few thousand volunteers to man the fortifications of the bay of Santiago and to oppose the landing of the Americans. He adds that he must call the attention of the government to the fact that he could not expect reinforcements, as the Spanish forces had their hands quite full in the rest of the island.

Now fever and the other diseases prevalent every rainy season are raging in Santiago and Guantanamo, but on the whole the health of the Spanish troops is better this year than the two last years. The question of sending provisions and war stores to both islands preoccupies the home authorities, although it is officially stated that many mail steamers and sailing vessels are constantly running the blockade, and the majority of the people of Spain apprehend the early arrival of unfamilla.

Disaster is Looked for.

"No surrender," however, is still the tone of the press of Madrid, which says we will go on, even if we lose all our fleets and colonies, to see if then Europe will still persist in its indifference.

Sagasta is fast hurrying to a close the sittings of the Cortes, so as to be master of the situation. With the help of the army, the state of siege will be supplemented by a royal decree suspending the constitutional guarantees next Sunday.

Senor Castelar, in his summer retreat near Alicante, says that the chapter of surprises for Spain will close with the fall of Manila and Santiago.

HAWAIIAN VOTE WEDNESDAY.

Hoped in Senate to Secure This—Morgan to Bring Up Nicaragua Canal Bill.

Washington, June 25.—Even the opponents of the resolutions to annex Hawaii are beginning to confess that annexation will take place before adjournment of Congress. Senator Mallory of Florida, and Senator Mitchell of Wisconsin, both strongly opposed to annexation, are quoted as saying that a vote cannot be prevented.

A number of senators have speeches prepared which they want to get in the Record and as long as the speeches are not made for filibustering purposes the desires of the senators will be gratified, unless the weather gets too hot, in which case leave to print will be granted.

It is said that an attempt will be made to reach a vote on Wednesday next, and that the adjournment of Congress may be reached before July first.

Senator Morgan of Alabama expressed the opinion yesterday morning that the Hawaiian resolutions would be passed early next week, and he signified his intention to immediately thereafter endeavor to secure consideration for the Nicaragua canal bill, which he thought might be got through the senate before adjournment.

Buffington's New Invention.

Dover, N. J., June 25.—Colonel A. R. Buffington, inventor of the disappearing gun now used by the government, is working day and night at the United States reservation in Dover, N. J., on a new invention which, it is thought, will be even more important than the one which has made him famous. Just what the invention is Colonel Buffington will not say. In fact he did not wish it to become public that he was engaged on such important work. It is quite certain, though, that the invention will be in general use before the present war is over.

It is the development of an idea that came to Colonel Buffington in 1873, at about the time that he advised the use of a disappearing gun. There was every prospect of war with Spain when he advocated the use of the gun carriage, which has proven of inestimable value.

Only a Half Hour Apart.

Washington, D. C., June 25.—Admiral Sampson is now in constant and practically immediate cable communication with the navy department. Six dispatches were received in rapid succession through the early hours of yesterday morning, the last one bringing the situation up to twelve o'clock on Thursday night.

They showed that only a half hour elapsed between the filing of the message by the admiral and the receipt of it in Washington, so that the authorities here are now assured of being only half an hour behind the actual developments at the scene of action.

FIERCE FIGHT AT JURAGUA

Twelve Americans Killed, Fifty Wounded--Roosevelt.s Rough Riders Ambushed--List of Those Who Fell.

Playa, Del Este, Cuba, June 25.—There was a serious engagement this morning near Juraga, five miles from Santiago, which was occupied by General Lawton's brigade.

Less than 1,000 American cavalrymen and Rough Riders fought 2,000 Spaniards in the thickets, driving them back into the city.

The American loss is twelve or thirteen dead and at least fifty wounded, including six officers.

Several of the wounded will die.

The Spaniards had every advantage in numbers and position.

Among the dead are Captain A. K. Capron, Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York, Privates Tillman, Dawson, Dougherty, W. T. Erwin of the Rough Riders, and Privates Dix, York, Bejork, E. Kolbe, Berlin and Lemmock and Corporal White, of the First and Tenth cavalry.

A Tribute to Lieut. Blue.

Washington, June 25.—Secretary Long has addressed the following letter to Lieutenant Blue for the service rendered in ascertaining the presence of Cervera's fleet in Santiago harbor.

After repeating the cable dispatch from Admiral Sampson, in which he informs the secretary that Lieutenant Blue made a detour of seventy miles at great risk to secure the information, the letter says:

"The department realizes that this cablegram is evidence that your efforts in making this detour into the heart of the enemy's country by which you ascertained information very much desired, must have been attended with great risk to your personal safety, and that you possessed the coolness and bravery to perform such duty under such trying circumstances.

"Undoubtedly it must have been gratifying to the commander-in-chief to know that the confidence he reposed in you to perform this duty was not misplaced, and the department takes pleasure in highly commending you for this service, and feels sure that your action will prove to be an example for your brother officers to emulate and as most favorable augury for your future career in a service already distinguished by the personal heroism of its members.

"Very respectfully
(Signed) "JOHN D. LONG."

Addressed to Lieutenant (Albert) Victor Blue, U. S. S. Suwanee, North Atlantic Squadron.

Our Dead Buried at Sea.

Playa del Este, Cuba, June 25.—The remains of F. C. Blakeley, the apprentice of the battleship Texas, who was struck and killed by a 6-inch shell while the Texas was shelling the batteries of Cabanas on Wednesday last, have been buried at sea off Santiago de Cuba.

Four of the eight others who were wounded at the same time Blakeley was killed have been brought here and placed on the hospital ship Solace. The other wounded men will remain on the Texas. The battleship was not seriously damaged by the shell.

The Texas fought the battle alone and after its conclusion the officers and men of the battleship were complimented by Admiral Sampson for the excellent work they had performed.

HOW CHINESE CAPTURE TURTLES.

A Unique Method and Worthy the Ingenuity of the Celestial.

Of all the fashions of securing this much-hunted creature, the turtle, that followed by the ingenious fisher folk of the Chinese littoral bears away the palm. Most voyagers in tropical seas are acquainted with a peculiar fish, E. remora, known generally by the trivial name of the "sucker." The distinguishing characteristic of this fish is laziness. Unwilling to exert itself overmuch in the pursuit of food, it has developed an arrangement on the back of its head exactly like the corrugated sole of a tennis shoe, and as artificial in appearance as if made and fitted by the hand of man. When the sucker finds itself in the vicinity of any large floating body, such as a ship, a shark, or a piece of flotsam, whose neighborhood seems to promise an abundance of food, it attaches itself firmly thereto by means of this curious contrivance, which permits it to eat, breathe and perform all necessary functions while being carried about without any exertion on its part. It can attach and detach itself instantaneously, and holds so firmly that a direct backward pull cannot dislodge it without injury to the fish. The Chinese, who have successfully trained the cormorant and the otter to fish for them, have taken the remora in hand with the happiest results. Several good-sized specimens having been caught, small iron rings are fitted to their tails, to which are attached long, slender, but very strong, lines. Thus equipped the fishermen set out, and when a basking turtle is seen, two or three of the suckers are slipped overboard. Should they turn and stick to the bottom of the sampan, they are carefully detached by being pushed forward with the inevitable bamboo, and started on the search again. At last they attach themselves to the supine turtle. Then the fishermen haul in the lines, against which gentle suasion the hapless Chelone struggles in vain. Once on board the lugger the useful remora is detached, and is at once ready for use again.—New York Tribune.

SANTIAGO SURROUNDED

American Forces Within Seven Miles of the Doomed City.

ITS SPEEDY FALL CERTAIN

The Advance Covered by Cuban Skirmishers, who Burned the Blockhouses Only A Few Shots Exchanged With Our Troops—Juragua Abandoned by Gen. Linares—Where the First Stand of the Spaniards is Expected.

Port Antonio, Jamaica, June 24.—The advance of the American army has reached the edge of the tableland in which the harbor of Santiago de Cuba lies. Here, seven miles from Morro Castle, as the crow flies, the main body of trops has united and the Spaniards are in full retreat towards Santiago de Cuba. They may attempt a surprise, but this is not expected.

General Lawton's brigade, which rested Thursday night at Demajayabo, four miles west of Baiquiri, resumed its march at daylight. Before noon his brigade, consisting of the Twenty-second infantry, the First infantry, the Second Massachusetts volunteers, with companies of the Eighth cavalry and half of the Fourth cavalry, occupied Juragua, five miles beyond, and the American flag was raised there.

The Spaniards retired before the advance, which was covered by the Cuban skirmishers, burning the blockhouses as they went.

Colonel Wagner, with a small reconnoissance party of about 40 men, brushed against the flank of a retreating Spanish column, 200 strong, at Firmezas. A dozen shots were fired by the Spaniards, as Colonel Wagner fell back. Before General Lawton could bring up the Twenty-second, the van regiment, the Spaniards had decamped westward.

Juragua was abandoned by General Linares and 1,200 Spanish troops with such haste that they had no time to burn the town, though an ineffectual effort was made to destroy the locomotives of the railroad and the rolling stock.

General Linares retreated to Sevilla, six miles west of Juragua by road, and nine miles from Santiago de Cuba.

A detachment of 170 Cubans under Colonel Aguirra, came in collision with the Spanish rear guard. The Cubans lost two men killed and had seven men wounded. The Spanish loss is not known. One Spaniard was macheted.

General Chaffee, with the Ninth cavalry, the remainder of the Eighth and the Fourth, Seventh, Twelfth and Seventeenth infantry, reached Jurugua at dark.

General Bates, with the reserve of the Twentieth infantry, and Colonel Woods's rough riders, dismounted, with a dynamite gun, hurried forward from Baiquiri at three o'clock, proceeding by forced marches.

When the couriers brought the news that Juragua had been occupied, the troopships which had not disembarked their troops steamed to Jurugua with a view of landing them there. But the heavy sea beating on the beach made it impossible to get the boats through the surf.

Dispatches of General Linares, which have been captured, indicate that the Spaniards were ordered to retreat towards Santiago de Cuba without loss.

The Cubans expect the first stand to be made at Sevilla, and they have proved good prophets in the past. Gen. Lawton's men are badly fagged by forced marches and the intense heat. Their rations are almost exhausted. They started out with three days' supplies and further food could not be landed yesterday. But a pack train will be sent forward to-day.

Strong outposts were maintained last night in order to prevent a surprise and Jurugua is also under the protection of the guns of the warships. Thus the flank of the advancing American column is safe. The Spaniards, to attack our troops, must make a forced march through an almost impenetrable undergrowth.

CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES.

British Columbia Desirous of Representation on the Joint Commission.

Montreal, June 25.—An earnest effort is making by the representatives of British Columbia in Parliament to secure the appointment of a representative of that province upon the joint commission, which will meet in Quebec on July 15, to discuss the questions in dispute between Canada and the United States. A memorial has been sent to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, pointing out that among the matters to be discussed are the boundary dispute between Alaska and British Columbia as well as between that province and the state of Washington, and the fishery rights at the mouth of the Frazer river. One Liberal member of Parliament from British Columbia, who is in Montreal, expressed the fear that unless his province was represented on the commission, Sir Louis Davies would sacrifice all the rights of the Pacific fisheries in the endeavor to secure an amicable settlement of the questions in dispute on the Atlantic.

Beginning of the Senate Inquiry.

Washington, June 25.—The committee on claims yesterday began the investigation of the charges made in connection with the payment of the claim of $288,000 of the Methodist Book Concern by Mr. Barbee, the examining book agent. Mr. Barbee admitted the payment of $100,800, or thirty-five per cent, to Mr. Stahlman, as the attorney for the book concern, in the collection of the claim, but he held that the claim was just and that the employment of an agent was a matter which concerned only the book concern itself, taking the position that he was under no obligation to inform the Senate in response to the telegrams of Senators Pasco and Bate as to the amount that was to be paid the agent.

Omdurman Abandoned.

London, June 25.—A dispatch from Cairo to the Pall Mall Gazette says it is reported there that the Khalifa has abandoned Omdurman, the Dervish stronghold, near Khartum, and has fled southward.

DUN'S WEEKLY REPORT.

The War Has Not Affected Business to Any Great Extent—Heavy Grain Exports.

New York, June 25.—Very little of the new business seen, in proportion to the aggregate, has been caused by the war. Not any, discoverably by ordinary tests, has been prevented by war. No comparison is possible with the prostration and suffering in Spanish and mining districts. In two months this country has practically destroyed two Spanish fleets, and landed two armies at Manila and Santiago, with no considerable loss. It has gained beyond calculation in relative importance among other nations by reason of its quickly exerted power. Neither has the collapse of the wheat speculation caused the expected decrease of shipments, for exports continue remarkably large. Gold comes or does not come as we want it, the world's markets being evidently at our command. An offering of bonds by the government brings out at the start bids for more than three times the amount offered, while the popular subscription already for three-quarters of the amount exhibits in strong light the confidence of the people.

Wheat ceased to fall and begins to rise in price because foreign neds are not yet satisfied. Atlantic exports for the week were, flour included, 3,246,205 bushels, against 1,445,947 last year, and Pacific exports 517,153, against 87,089 last year, and the demand is not of a speculative character. The world's need of grain is greater than ever, and 213,821,567 bushels of wheat and 207,317,483 bushels of corn have gone already abroad, with a week to spare, for more than was ever before exported in one year.

Railroad earnings during the first half of June have been 7.1 per cent. larger than last year, and 8 per cent. larger than in 1892, while Chicago east bound tonnage for three weks has been 14.9 per cent. larger than last year and 52 per cent larger than in 1892. Stocks declined less than half a cent., but have fully recovered the loss, and are now $9.58 per share higher than a year ago, and $10.86 per share higher than two years ago, in spite of loss since the war began.

The industries, at the season when stoppages are to be expected, maintain production surprisingly. The iron industry is very dull at the East, with complaint that prices do not rise, but at Pittsburg and the West the works are getting more business constantly, and are even competing so sharply that prices are slightly lower for bars, cut nails, steel rails and Grey Forge, while southern iron is also offered lower there and at the East. Minor metals are fairly steady, with tin at 15.2 cents. Lake copper at 11.75, with 22,741 tons produced in the United States, and 6,486 abroad in May, and lead is stronger at 3.95 cents, with only moderate transactions.

Shipments of boots and shoes have been 1.1 per cent. smaller in June than in 1892, and smaller than in some other years, but previous deliveries had exceeded those of any other year and had largely supplied the market. Yet demands are now coming from all quarters for anticipation of sales for July and later months, especially in boots, in heavy shoes, brogans and in women's light shoes, showing a greater distribution than had been expected. Leather is still bought only to meete immediate needs, and not now largely, without change of price during the past week. Hides at Chicago have turned a shade weaker, declining nearly 1 per cent. Wool is stronger a shade, 100 quotations by Coates Brothers averaging 18.72 cents against 18.64 June 1st, but because of western demands, which are relatively 4 cents above prices which manufacturers will pay, excepting to fill immediate orders. Cotton has weakened three-sixteenths, with excellent crop prospects, but a larger demand for goods is seen, though not as yet enough to cause any advance in prices. Reports of distribution are generally encouraging.

Failures for the week have been 285 in the United States, against 216 last year, and 11 in Canada against 24 last year.

The Vesuvius a Success.

Port Antonio, Jamaica, June 25.—Operations at Santiago have developed the success of the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius. All doubts about the ecacy of her guns have been settled by the brilliant work of the last few nights. As the identity of the Vesuvius is well known to the enemy, during the day she holds a position on one side screenby and under cover of the flagship. The three big gun tubes rising diagonally from her deck are covered by a square black canvas.

At night she slips down through the fleet to within a few hundred yards of Morro battery, fires a few shells and then quietly withdraws without the enemy having found her location. This operation has been repeated for five nights. She fires three shells on each trip. There is no flash, no smoke or noise emitted from those three terrible engines of destruction, and the first intimation the Spaniards have of danger is the terrific explosion of two hundred and fifty pounds of dynamite dangerously close.

Transports Secured.

Washington, June 25.—The war department has solved the transport problem. William Heckman of Detroit, in the capacity of a personal representative of Secretary Alger, has succeeded in contracting for the purchase of a number of transatlantic steamships, the acquisition of which will give the army all of the vessels needed.

The names of the vessels cannot be obtained at this time, but may be made public to-day.

Neither Asked Nor Granted.

Washington, June 25.—The Associated Press is able to state on authority that permission to land marines or troops at Manila has not been sought by the German ambassador here of the state department, nor has any such permission been granted. In fact, there have been no overtures exchanged on the subject.

Hobson and Men Safe.

Washington, June 25.—The navy department has received the following cablegram:

"Playa del Este, June 24.—From a flag of truce I learned to-day that Lt. Hobson and his companions are all well. They are confined in the city of Santiago, four miles from Morro.

"SAMPSON."

TROOPS FOR SHAFTER

Reinforcements Will Sail To-day Promptly.

HOW THE VESUVIUS WORKS

To Embark on the Harvard at Norfolk To-day and to Sail at Once—The Vesuvius May Be Trained on Morro Castle—The Ship Which Throws Earthquakes—The Florida Sailed With Arms and Ammunition for the Cuban Insurgents.

Washington, June 25.—The unhampered disembarkation of General Shafter's army at Baiquiri and the preparations made for a prompt advance upon Santiago, are probably accountable for report which found extensive circulation this morning that the order for reinforcements for the Santiago campaign had been countermanded and that General Shafter would be left to fight the thing out with his present command, with such co-operation on the part of the Cubans as he could get. As a matter of fact, orders were sent out yesterday morning by the adjutant general for the movement of the Ninth Massachusetts volunteers and two battalions of the Thirty-fourth Michigan from Camp Alger yesterday afternoon. They will be embarked on the Harvard at Norfolk to-day and sail at once.

If it is true, as reported, that the Vesuvius would have made a target of Morro Castle before this with her terrifying missiles of gun cotton, but for the dread of harming the American prisoners supposed to be confined there, the news received in Washington yesterday morning of the removal of the Hobson party from the fort to a remote place of safety will end any further hesitation on Rear Admiral Sampson's part.

There is danger, however, that the first flush of satisfaction over the accomplishments of the Vesuvius too much may be expected of her. The immovable gun is not an easy piece of ordnance with which to aim at an ordinary mark. The whole vessel has to be brought to a position where the guns can come into play and then the utmost accuracy is necessary in calculating the distance so as to apply just the right propulsion from the valves. It is not so difficult to come with a very narrow space of the object aimed at measured on horizontal scale, but the danger is of overshooting or falling short. For scattering consternation or demoralization through a group of batteries or if need be, for shelling an enemy's camp or town covering a considerable ground area nothing could be finer. How well the stationary guns can be made to work when the target is a single fortification, like Morro Castle, remains to be seen. The believers in the Vesuvius type insist that now that her commander knows the distance and the relative situation of things about the mouth of Santiago harbor, and has put the guns to a considerable experimental test, the result of fire upon Morro Castle may be forecast with assurance.

The Florida Sails.

Tampa, Fla., June 25.—The Florida sailed Tuesday night for some point on the coast of Cuba, carrying about 400 Cuban soldiers under General Emilio Nunez, fifty men of the Tenth cavalry, two dynamite guns, a million and a half rounds of ammunition, 4,000 stands of arms and a large quantity of supplies for the Cubans on the island.

To Extend the Blockade.

Washington, June 25.—President McKinley will issue a proclamation in a few days declaring Batabano and ports on the Isle of Pines in a state of blockade.

This proclamation and its enforcement will, it is confidently expected, effectually close the last channel by which Captain General Blanco and the Spaniards in Havana receive supplies. To make these assurances doubly sure, it is the intention of the president to extend the blockade to any points by which supplies are being obtained by the enemy.

Secretary Long admitted that he had been informed that goods not contraband of war were being shipped to Havana via Batabano. He pointed out, however, that there was no instance in which the blockade as established by the president's proclamation of April 22, had been violated, so strict has been the watch maintained by the American warships.

Louisiana Purchase Centennial.

St. Louis, June 25.—It has been decided that the centennial anniversary of the purchase of Louisiana from the French government will be celebrated by the citizens of St. Louis in 1903.

Representative citizens met and decided to name a committee of fifty to effect a permanent organization. It is proposed to celebrate the occasion with an exposition similar to that at Chicago in 1893.

Clemmer Must Die.

Norristown, Pa., June 25.—James A. Clemmer, accused of killing Mrs. Chas. O. Kaiser, was found guilty of murder in the first degree yesterday afternoon.

Clemmer was also accused by Miss De Kalb during the trial of having plotted to murder Detective Frank P. Geyer because the latter knew too much about Clemmer.

Again the Cadiz Fleet.

Algiers, June 25.—The steamer Hampton reports that she passed the Spanish fleet Wednesday, bound east.

It was proceeding at half speed and showing no colors.

The cruisers were towing the torpedo boats.

The fleet consisted of five or six cruisers and about twelve transports full of troops.

President's Nephews Enlist.

Washington, June 25.—James De Walt Barber and James Fuller McKinley, nephews of President McKinley, have enlisted as privates in the Eighth Ohio volunteer infantry, at Camp Alger. They were mustered in yesterday.

GEN. MILES GOING TO CUBA.

His Departure Not to Be Hurried However.

Washington, June 25.—General Miles, in command of the army, will go to Cuba, accompanied by his staff, and direct the military operations in the field. The doubt as to the general's movements was cleared up yesterday, and the definite statement made that he would go to Cuba. He will not leave this week, however, as has been suggested, nor is it settled just when he goes. There is thought to be no start, as General Miles has the fullest confidence in General Shafter, who is conducting the advance on Santiago, and this confidence is shared by the president and secretary of war. For that reason General Miles's move will not be for the purpose of assuming the direction of the assault upon Santiago, as that movement is likely to be well advanced, if not entirely executed, by the time he leaves.

There are other important military movements requiring attention here, including the preparations for further expeditions which will go by way of Newport News and Tampa, Fla. Tampa is again to be made the rendezvous for a large force and the department is securing complete details with a view to centering another large fleet of transports there. With the troops moving to these points and the expeditions well advanced, General Miles will then be free to join the army in the field.

Personally, he is most desirous of being with the troops, for, as he says to his friends, he has been with the men for thirty years, and his spirit is with them now, although circumstances necessitate his remaining here for a time. There is a possibility that he may go with General Henry's division when the Harvard and Yale make their second trip from Newport News, but this is quite doubtful.

GENERAL DEFICIENCY BILL.

A Slight Reduction Made by the Senate Committee.

Washington, June 25.—The Senate committee on appropriations has made a report on the general deficiency appropriation bill. The committee reduced the appropriations made by the bill to the extent of $130,000 and increased it by the addition of $2,072,607, adding a net increase of $1,942,607, and bringing the total appropriation up to $226,140,246. The principal item of reduction is $50,000 on account of the Canadian commission, the House provision on this subject being stricken out. Of the increase made $712,053 is on account of the war department, $120,774 on account of the navy department, $179,990 on account of the treasury department and $250,428 on account of the District of Columbia. Three hundred and twenty-three thousand four hundred and forty-six dollars goes to pay judgments of the court of claims, and $224,585 to pay Indian depredation claims. Provision is made for the improvement of the channel of Elizabeth river at Hampton Roads, Va., at a cost of $360,000. Of the increase in the appropriation made on account of the war department $87,000 is for the increase of clerks, $100,000 is for contingencies, and $150,000 for the purchase of medical and hospital supplies.

ARMY BILLS PASSED.

Provision for the Appointment of Quartermaster and Commissary Officers.

Washington, June 25.—In the Senate yesterday a bill to increase the efficiency of the quartermaster's department of the army, and authorizing the secretary of war to make such distribution of the force of his department as he may deem expedient, was passed. The bill provides for the appointment of twenty assistant quartermasters in the volunteer army, with the rank of captain.

A bill to increase the efficiency of the subsistence department of the army and making provision for the appointment of twenty assistant commissaries of subsistence with rank of captain was reported from the military affairs committee and was also passed.

The bill relative to the engineer corps of the army, recently reported, was called up and passed.

Death of S. V. R. Cruger.

Bayville, L. I., June 25.—Col. Stephen Van Rensselaer Cruger of New York died at his summer residence in this place last night. He had been afflicted with Bright's disease for about eight years, which was the indirect cause of his death. Mr. Cruger was taken seriously ill Wednesday evening. His two sisters and Mr. McVickar, his partner, were with him to the end. Mrs. Gordon, the authoress, is in Europe. Cruger, who is well known as Julien The funeral arrangements will not be completed until Mrs. Cruger's return.

The Oshkosh Strike.

Oshkosh, Wis., June 25.—This city is in a fever of excitement. Militia have arrived from Milwaukee and their presence has added to the tension, but prevented another outbreak.

The strikers had planned an attack on the factory of the Paine Lumber Company, but when they reached the grounds soldiers stood ready to receive them and the mob faded away. The casualties in Thursday's fighting aggregate nine non-union men more or less disabled.

Masonic Hall Dedicated.

Burlington, N. J., June 25.—The Masonic Home at this place for indigent Masons of New Jersey, was dedicated yesterday with imposing ceremonies. All the officers of the Grand Lodge of New Jersey were present and also delegations from many lodges. Grand Master Josiah W. Ewan of Mount Holly delivered an address.

Departure of the Fram.

Christiania, Norway, June 25.—The Arctic exploring ship Fram, having on board Captain Otto Sverdrup's expedition to the Arctic regions, sailed from here at 11.30 yesterday morning. Dr. Nansen, the Arctic explorer, and an immense crowd of people were present to bid the party farewell.

Cornell Urged to Meet English Crews.

London, June 25.—The St. James Gazette says: "Cornell having twice proved their supremacy at home, it remains for them to try their luck against the best English crews."

Distinguished Honor for a Veteran.

Many Plainfielders have been accorded eminence and honor by being chosen to high office in societies of which they are members, but no choice has been more gratifying to the local branch of the order according such a distinction than the selection of William C. Smith as Grand Commander of the G. A. R of New Jersey, which was accomplished at the annual State encampment held at Long Branch yesterday.

For the first time in the history of Winfield Scott Post, it asked fraternal support from comrades in other places to elevate to the head of veterans of New Jersey a Plainfield man. Since there is nothing like success, and Comrade Smith is now Grand Commander, Winfield Scott Post is pleased beyond measure for the esteem and confidence which a sufficient number of other veterans have shown to elect to their most important office the candidate for whom they asked the favor of votes.

Grand Commander Smith was formerly a member of Co. F, Second Cavalry, and served in the Civil War with bravery and fidelity for the cause of the union. When peace came and the glorious order of the veterans was organized he was one of the first to exert his influenue and efforts for its success. In Winfield Scott Post he has filled the position of officer of the day, has served as commander two two terms, and for the past two years has filled the position of chief of staff to the Department Commander. Of his qualifications for the high position to which he has been selected, a recent circular issued by his intimate comrades truthfully says: "He is a soldier in every sense of the term, has the best interests of his comrades at heart and is thoroughly alive to their needs."

Military Criticism.

There is a tendency in many quarters among those who are not doing the fighting to run this war from the spectators' or the critics' standpoint. Most of these censors have no military experience and some of them are more bent on saying or writing clever things (always the more easily accomplished in the fault finding mood) than in reporting the true relation of things. There was plenty of this in our last war and it begins to ramp and rage in the present one. No doubt fault can be righteously found, but just with whom to find it or where the onus lies involves much nicer discrimination. But carping shows itself not merely in criticising facts, but sometimes in wild misstatement. For example, a writer of brilliant reputation, a correspondent of the London Times and of the New York Herald, has stated that the worth of our army has been vitiated by wholesale political appointments to the highest positions. This is flagrantly unjust. The facts are literally the opposite. Out of the 14 major generals but one of the appointments is faintly tinged with such a reproach, and even General M. C. Butler of South Carolina made himself a splendid name as a fighting commander under the Confederacy. Every one of these men has had large and competent experience in the field, the greater number of them in the regular army, since if not during the civil war. Of the 57 brigadier generals appointed 44 are promotions from the field officers of the regular army. Of the other 13 all but five had military experience in 1861-5. This quintet is the apex on which the pyramid or misrepresentation must truthfully stand. Mr. Lincoln was compelled by the most maddening pressure ever put on a chief executive to appoint a host of civilian incompetents, and the "jigadier brindle" crowd was the laughing stock of the nation and the pest of the army, though many of them did nothing, fortunately, but flaunt their epaulets and drink confusion to Jeff Davis over Willard's bar. That condition does not exist today.

Another brilliant correspondent sharpens his pen and dips it in gall over the alleged fact that the soldiers in the volunteer army have no confidence in their regimental officers because these superiors have shown no proficiency in the practical military needs of the field. Naturally enough, officers, however well drilled in the technic of maneuvers, cannot "extract sunbeams from cucumbers" and coin experience out of nothing. The militia were transformed into volunteers and carried officers of their own selection with them. Both officers and men are what none of our civil war volunteers were at the outset, with but few exceptions—fairly well drilled in company and battalion tactics and in the effective use of their weapons. Such magnificent raw or, more properly, half trained material the magic hand of war will speedily transform into a noble fighting force. It is easy to pick flaws in a tone of airy and oracular flippancy.

Dead Men's Shoes.

On the whole perhaps it would be a good thing if nobody were allowed to inherit much money from anybody else, not even parents. Where a rich person died leaving young children of course it would be necessary to provide for their mother and for them until they were of age. After that it really looks sometimes as if it would be for the best interests of themselves and of society to turn every one of them loose to earn their own living.

Young people with expectations are usually brought up in a manner at once the most helpless and the most extravagant. The young man's chief idea concerning money he never earned is to "blow it in." The young woman who inherits millions is the victim of foreign and domestic libertines, who seek to marry her, likewise with the object of blowing in the wealth neither she nor they ever earned a dollar of. Moreover, being born to great expectations dwarfs pitiably the intellectual powers of man and woman. They never know the joy, the triumph and the glory of struggle and victory, never know what they can do or are good for.

In another way the expected inheritance of wealth is disastrous. It brings out the meanest and worst qualities of human nature. It makes the expectant heir grudge every added year of the rich testator's life. There is a horror unspeakable about sitting down and waiting for dead people's shoes. Beyond a certain modest provision to heirs for necessities it is a very serious question whether great wealth ought not to go to institutions for the public benefit.

The Wagner season in London, where the music drama of the Nibelungen series is presented without a note cut a la Baireuth, with an intermission for dinner, is proving a marvelous soporific, the kind of Music that softlier on the spirit lies

Than tired eyelids on tired eyes.

The theatrical play which has had, with one or two exceptions, the greatest run on the American stage is Mr. James O'Neil's "Monte-Christo." He has appeared in it nearly 4,000 times. The only plays which come near this in popular appreciation are "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and Kate Claxton's "Two Orphans."

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Somerset county accuses Ocean of shirking its fair share of taxes, thereby increasing the burden of the other counties, and the State Board of Taxation will by law, be compelled to investigate the charge. It will be found, we fancy, that George Gould and a number of other rich men, have planted several millions down at Lakewood under a private understanding with the local taxing authorities that assessments should be light.—New Brunswick Fredonian.

Mayor John F. Wilson, of the borough of North Plainfield is suggested as a Democratic candidate for the office of Governor. Col. Wilson has more backbone in his little finger than the wobbly, willowy Foster posseeses in his entire body; and if the Democrats fail to nominate him we hope they will select a leader of the same sturdy stripe. The citizens of New Jersey will then have a chance to vote for a man in preference to a very poor specimen of curly-haired India rubber.—Cranford Chronicle.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The new official flag of the President of the United States is printed, for the first time correctly, on the cover of the July Ladies' Home Journal. The flag was recently adopted as the President's emblem, and henceforth will be employed to proclaim his official presence. When he is at the White House the flag will be displayed there, and wherever he may go as President of the United States it will be in evidence. Its publication in accurate color detail will be a matter of much interest, inasmuch as it will acquaint the public with the President's emblem.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Fashion Hints.

It not infrequently happens that quality marks the division between fashionable and unfashionable. This is the case in checks this year. The best qualitities are not twilled, and threads forming the weft and warp are of equal strength and thickness. Some favorite combinations are navy blue and cream, black and red and dark blue and red.

Mme. Fashion has some beautiful flower hats this season, and among her favorites is one of forget-me-nots, trimmed at the side with turquoise blue velvet loops and ends, and a large buckle of turquoise and pearls.

Save the Carrot Water.

Save the water in which young carrots have been boiled to add to soup stock. This vegetable will be found very palatable if a little beef extract is added to the water in which it is cooked. The carrots should be drained after they are tender and served with cream made from half a pint of milk into which a tablespoonful of flour and one of butter have been stirred. Add a little nutmeg to this cream before putting in the sliced carrots.

A Lovely Frock.

A very showy but very pretty French gown just received is of cream-colored silk striped with a beautiful shade of old rose, figured with a minute trail of rose-buds and leaves. The bodice is partly veiled with old rose mousseline de soie with black velvet ribbons strapping it across the front; velvet and chiffon neck and wrist trimmings and a black velvet girdle fastened at the back under two velvet rosettes.

Pretty Dress of Etamine.

An exceedingly pretty dress of cream-white etamine of silky diaphanous quality is made up over mauve silk, with a yoke of cream guipure laid over the silk. The skirt has three inches of the etamine set about three-eighths of a yard a part. Mauve satin belt-ribbons and shoulder-loops, below which falls a drapery of guipure lace, form the pretty trimmings on the bodice.

Stains for Floors.

1lb. raw umber mixed to the consistency of paint with boiled linseed oil. Have the floors carefully scrubbed and dried, then rub in the mixture with a piece of flannel; when this has dried in, rub over with beeswax and turpentine, and polish with a brush. To prepare the polish cut 3 oz. beeswax into shreds, melt slowly, and stir it to 1 pint of turpentine; beat till it is well mixed.

Gathered Satin Ribbon.

Great use is made of gathered satin ribbon about half an inch wide, in black, white, green, and other colors. This is employed in many ways, but most frequently to trim the upper and lower edges of narrow ruffles and wider flounces arranged on the bodice and skirt of summer gowns of silk, satin foulard, muslin, grenadine, nun's veiling, and similar light fabrics.

A hat suitable for large women this year is of braided straw, the crown being encircled by three flounces of turquoise taffeta ribbon, a tight band running around the crown. A spiral of ribbon and bunch of morning glories form the side trimming.

Fashions in Dress.

Shirt-waists of every dainty variety, fancy, tight-fitting basque bodices, with small revers, or Etons with or without elongated scarf-fronts, will next season be permissible on all sorts of out-of-door costumes, as well as many in-door toilets. These, notwithstanding their extended vogue, remain among the essentially picturesque fashions which can be elaborated upon by those who like fanciful effects, or they can easily be modified to suit the taste of the most simple dressers. The easy neglige order of things is still to be carried to a considerable extent this summer, reaching even to the gowns of ceremony. But trimness and extreme neatness go hand in hand with this approved style. There are soft surplice folds, but most carefully draped or drooped. There are ribbon garnitures, but time is taken to arrange each loop, choux, and falling end. The shirt-waist is taut on the figure, and where you find the flowing lines and the easy grace of the so-termed "neglige" toilet, there also you will find traces of the tailor's work, or the symmetrical finished workmanship of the artistic dressmaker.

Gingham Frock for Little Girl.

Dark ginghams in plaids and checks make very serviceable school dresses for children. They do not soil as quickly as the light shades, consequently do not have to be washed so often and keep their colors better.

A plaid frock, combining the colors of red, white and blue makes a patriotic as well as serviceable dress for a little girl. The blouse waist which is made on the bias is attached to the skirt by a plain band. Over this is worn a pointed belt of white linen, trimmed with narrow blue braid. White linen, trimmed with braid, also forms the yoke, revers and collar and the little turned up cuffs.

Hats and Bonnets.

The toque and the turban are set beside the sailor and English walking hats as claimants for fashionable favor this season. The little French toque is a greater favorite than the turban because it is becoming to more faces than the latter hat, and also because it admits of so very many more ways of trimming. It appears to be the very young or very old who can best wear bonnets in these days, granting with the former a profusion of wavy hair above the forehead, and a very simple but exceedingly Frenchy bonnet to crown this aureole. Middle-aged women still continue for general wear to select toques and certain shaped round hats of plain style and fair-sized brim in lieu of the so-called "bonnet," which is really no bonnet at all. These neat, smartly trimmed hats as a rule prove very becoming, and often the softening effect of the veil worn with them is much of an aid to the appearance. Judgment, however, must always be exercised in the choice of a hat for an elderly lady—its color, contour, and decoration. Eccentricities which might admirably become sweet sixteen would and do frequently render sombre sixty ridiculous. The toque is a very satisfactory compromise head-covering between the toy bonnet and the sometimes doubtful round hat for the woman past her youth.

Sun Bonnets.

At many of the importing houses are set forth the most fanciful of sun-bonnets, made of shirred silk muslin, chiffon, or fine organdie, finished with lace-edged frills, ruches, and strings. These are intended, not alone for very little maidens, but for youthful golfers and tennis-players as well, and for wear in the country with afternoon dresses of muslin, chambray, and the like; for boating wear for girls inclined to tan and accumulate freckles, and for picnic-parties. These pretty "Kate Greenaway" looking bonnets are very much en evidence in their various city show-cases, but whether they will prove as numerous by mountain, stream, and sea this summer, remains to be seen.

Cerise is still a fashionable color, and for that reason the price of cerise-colored silk has gone up.

Plain covert cloths will be much worn in tailor-made gowns.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Sachsen.

Dresden. Die verscharrte Leiche des vor mehr als Jahresfrist verschwundenen Dr. jur. Süßmilch aus Dresden wurde bei Zürich mit gebundenen Händen gefunden. Süßmilch, ein ungefähr 22jähriger hübscher Mensch, Sohn eines höheren pensionirten Offiziers, hatte nach in Leipzig glücklich bestandenem Referendariats- und Doktorenexamen eine Erholungsreise nach der Schweiz und Italien angetreten und ist das Opfer eines Raubmordes geworden.

Crimmitschau. Einem Fabrikanten ist der Musterschutz auf Strümpfe ertheilt worden, in welche die Strumpfbänder gleich eingearbeitet sind, so daß beim Tragen solcher Strümpfe das Anlegen von Strumpfbändern überflüssig wird.

Leipzig. Der preußische Eisenbahnfiskus erwarb hier vom Rath vorbehaltlich der Genehmigung der Stadtverordneten Areal im Werthe von über 4,000,000 Mark. Damit dürfte die Frage der so nothwendigen Errichtung eines Centralbahnhofes für Leipzig ein beschleunigteres Tempo annehmen.

Marienthal. Hier ist die Aschenborn'sche Dampfziegelei niedergebrannt. Beim Versuche, den Brand zu löschen, ist der Feuermann Hegermiller um's Leben gekommen.

Meißen. Auf dem Elbquai stieß ein in Gasern wohnhafter Mann in angetrunkenem Zustande den Kinderwagen mit seinem eigenen Kinde, den seine ihm begegnende Frau fuhr, in den Elbstrom hinab. Der erschrockenen Frau war es nicht möglich, die That ihres Mannes zu verhindern. Einigen auf einem nahen Holzhofe beschäftigten Zeugen dieser aufregenden Szene gelang es durch ihr schnelles Eingreifen, Kind und Wagen dem nassen Element zu entreißen.

Planitz. Zur Zeit grassirt hier die Trichinose. Nicht weniger als 50 Personen sind von der Krankheit befallen, die natürlich wieder das amerikanische Schwein verursacht haben soll.

Schirgiswalde. Das fünfjährige Söhnchen des Holzarbeiters Lohmann war kürzlich in der Kirche eingeschlafen und wurde vom Glöckner, nachdem sich sämmtliche Leute entfernt hatten, versehentlich dort eingeschlossen. Als der Knabe nach 9 Uhr aufwachte, fand er alle Thüren verschlossen. In seiner Angst setzte er die kleine Wandlungsglocke, deren Strang sich hinter dem Altar befindet, in Bewegung. Groß war natürlich das Erstaunen der Bewohner und namentlich des Glöckners, als plötzlich das Glöckchen ertönte. Bald darauf war der Knabe aus seiner unfreiwilligen Haft befreit.

Thüringische Staaten.

Altenburg. Hier wurde der Mörder Hugo Schädlich hingerichtet.

Weimar. Ein Opfer des Radfahrsports ist aller Wahrscheinlichkeit nach der hier verstorbene Oberst z. D. Wilhelm v. Rettberg geworden, der bis 1888 hier Bezirkskommandeur war. Der im 65. Lebensjahre stehende, sehr rüstige Herr, der nebenbei auch ein passionirter Jäger war, hatte sich erst in allerletzter Zeit dem Radfahren zugewandt. Einem Schlaganfall bei seinen Lernübungen im „Stern" folgte kurze Zeit später ein Herzschlag, der dem Leben v. Rettbergs ein jähes Ende setzte.

Freie Städte.

Hamburg. Die bedeutende Maschinenfabrik von Nagel u. Caemp auf der Uhlenhorst wurde durch eine gewaltige Feuersbrunst zerstört. Viel fertiges Material, darunter 12 fertige elektrische Krähne für den hamburgischen Staat sind vernichtet. Der Schaden ist sehr bedeutend. — Dem Alterthums-Museum sind auf Anordnung des Kaisers zehn Fahnen der ehemaligen Hamburger Bürgerwehr zugegangen. Dieselben bilden einen Theil der Anfang dieses Jahrhunderts bei der Besetzung Hamburgs durch die Franzosen nach Paris entführten circa 60 Fahnen und Standarten, die nach den Befreiungskriegen wieder ausgeliefert und seitdem im Berliner Zeughause aufbewahrt wurden.

Bremen. Nach einer hierher gelangten Nachricht ist der Bremer Stahl-Viermaster „Marthe," von Südamerika mit 4350 Tonnen Salpeter unterwegs, an der französischen Küste gesunken.— Mit der Verlegung des Weserdeiches am Südende des alten Hafens ist begonnen worden. Die Verschiebung erfolgt der Weser zu, wodurch binnenwärts erhebliches an Platz gewonnen wird.

Jersey's Greatest!

From the Northern border-line to New Brunswick, from the Hudson to the Delaware—wherever there are homes—there you will find Pianos purchased from Lauter Co., for the vast majority of Pianos in this section have been bought from us.

We have sold more Pianos than any dozen ordinary stores, because we only sell good ones, because our prices, quality for quality, can't be duplicated, and because we have invariably given satisfaction to our customers. We know that we can do better for the Piano buyer than he could do anywhere else; our immense business proves that the public knows it, too.

THE LOCKET MAN.

BY JEAN ELGINBROD.

Babette thrust a hat pin into Marie Antoinette's thinly clad sawdust body. "I'm so lonesome," she sad appealingly. But Marie Antoinette's classical china face remained stolidly indifferent. "An' we can't have any supper till mademoiselle gets those vests done. We didn't have very much for dinner," she added reflectively.

Marie Antionette, propped up in one corner of the little dingy, upper hall showed no sympathy. Babette rested her chin in her hands and watched the two Irish children on the floor below fight over the possession of a gorgeous tomato can. The contest was not a very exciting one, and her interest soon waned. Crossing the hall she softly opened a door and looked in.

"Are they most done, mademoiselle?"

Mademoiselle Cecilia, sewing by the window, smiled bravely at the childish face above the faded brown pinafore. Then she looked at the pile of heavy vests on the chair beside her and sighed.

"Not yet, cherie," she said. "Have patience. We'll have a good supper after I get the money for them; perhaps some sweet crackers, too."

Babette nodded gaily. She closed the door again and went back to her seat on the top stair.

"We mustn't bother mademoiselle when she's so busy, an' besides it hurts her to talk,' she carefully explained to Marie Antoinette.

Ah yes! Babette remembered how mademoiselle used to sing in a church, and at concerts, and earn such a lot of money—till she lost her voice.

"That was after she 'dopted you an' me. We're waifs, you know, Marie."

Marie Antoinette listened with resignation.

"An' she spent all her money, an' they didn't make her voice well again, an' now there's a big doctor come an' she's not any money to go an' get cured." Babette's unchildlike eyes grew big and solemn. "An' she don't tell us 'bout the 'locket man' any more. He's a nice man. When he was a little boy he lived right next door to mademoiselle, way off in the country."

She rocked her knees and sang part of a lullaby to Marie Antoinette, but Marie Antoinette wasn't sleepy.

Babette grew tired of the stillness and the darkness. She wondered if it was too cold to go out. She opened the door again and looked coaxingly into Mademoiselle Cecilia's tired eyes.

"We're going up to the corner, me an' Marie, to see the birds," she said.

Mademoiselle nodded.

"All right, cherie, run along. Don't go any further, and come back soon." Babette jumped into her home-made jacket and cap, and went down the four flights of stairs, past the Irish children, now peacefully at play, and the little Dutch baby amusing himself with a wonderful scarlet-coated dog that sprang up an indigo stick when you pulled the string. Babette liked the little Dutch baby, and his mother made such nice spicy gingerbread men with cranberry eyes.

Out upon the street boys were playing marbles, their dirty hands blue with the cold, and the first hand-organ of the season was grinding out a wheezy dance.

Babette listened a moment, then tucking Marie Antoinette securely under one arm, went on up the street and stationed herself contentedly before the window of a bird store. She could watch the yellow songsters for hours together, talking to Marie between whiles, and playing she was going to buy one, only it was so hard to decide which one was the prettiest. Sometimes she almost forgot she was only a little French waif adopted by Mademoiselle Cecilia, who lived in two rooms on the top floor of Poverty Flats, and sewed vests at nine cents a dozen. If mademoiselle might only get her voice well again! If she only had money to go to the new doctor!

Babette swallowed a lump in her throat. She knew mademoiselle cried nights sometimes, and grew so thin and white.

Perhaps the "locket man" might make her well, but he never came. He had such a nice face, too—in mademoiselle's locket.

From a church a little further on came the sound of singing. The choir boys who were practicing for Easter chanted triumphantly—

"Break forth into joy, sing together, Ye waste places of Jerusalem."

Babette listened. Then the idea came. She peered around the corner and thought earnestly. Among so many people some of them would give her money—if she only dared to try. She might get enough to make mademoiselle's voice well again. How glad she would be!

She looked curiously up into the people's faces. They looked good. She hesitated a moment, then turned the corner and sped up the avenue.

The choir boys' chanting died away. A few street venders were calling their wares, but Babette bravely took her station on the walk near the curbstone. She waited to catch her breath and untie her little red cap. Then holding it shyly out she took heart and began to sing a rollicking sailor song. She knew a great many songs, and her childish voice was shrill and clear!

People smiled at the odd little figure. Some gave a few pennies, more passed carelessly by. Once a burly policeman strode past, but he did not happen to notice her.

Babette took courage. Now it was a quaint Easter carol, now a lullaby, now an uneven chant. She began to grow tired, and Marie Antoinette hung head downward in a dejected fashion.

She was growing hungry, too, and the afternoon faded into dusk. Mademoiselle would worry if she didn't go soon; but there was so little money in the cap!

Again she scanned the people's faces. Perhaps that pretty lady coming would give something. She hitched Marei Antonette into a more respectable position, and began a love song mademoiselle used to sing.

Over and over again the words, "I've sped me back to thee, dear heart—to thee." But the pretty lady didn't give anything. No one seemed to hear it. A big tear splashed down the little dark face, and she wiped it away with Marie Antoinette's sprigged calico skirt.

Suddenly some one touched her on the shoulder.

"Where did you learn that song?"

Babette looked up into the brown eyes bent upon her. She noticed the pointed beard and curly hair and a light came into her eyes.

"Why," she said, "it's the 'locket man'!"

The locket man smiled faintly.

"Who's the 'locket man'?" he said.

"Why, it's you—it's Richard, you know, in the locket, in mademoiselle's locket. You're the little boy she used to tell me an' Marie 'bout. We're 'dopted, me an' Marie."

"What are you begging this way for? Mademoiselle must earn a good deal of money singing," he said harshly.

Babette looked up into his face.

"Oh, but she sews vests now, an' we don't have nice things any more, an' she cries lots of nights. She's lost her voice, you know."

"Lost her voice—Cecelia?"

Babette nodded wearily.

"An' she paid out all her money, an' they couldn't make her well again, an' we come to Poverty Flats, an' there's a doctor now who'll cure her, only all her money's gone—an' I'm so hungry!"

Babette's tired little voice broke. He looked down at her.

'Come," he said, "take me home with you!"

Babette took hold of his outstretched hand.

"Yes," he said confidently, "It'll be all right now."

* * * * * * *

Mademoiselle Cecilia, sewing by the little window that looked out over backened roofs and tall chimneys, cried a little to herself that afternoon. She wondered what was going to become of her—and Babette. If she only hadn't Babette! But she had taken the waif in days of prosperity; the little one was such a loyal soul, and besides she was French and the poorhouse was a lonely place for the orphan. Perhaps it would be better if she had let the child go. There one was sure of something to eat and a place to sleep, at least, and she was sure of nothing any more.

She thought of the dear old days when her father was alive, teaching French in the country academy—when Richard Hemingway lived just across the garden. What good times they had together—until her father died. Everything was different after that. She had the inherited Legrand pride and independence. She would be no man's portionless bride.

She did not tell Richard that—she knew he would not listen. She had slipped quietly away to the city with her little stock of money, and a friend of her father's had helped her on to success. In the height of her prosperity, after she had taken Babette, she read of Richard's departure to a Western State in the interest of a mining concern, and for a while her heart had failed her. What if he should never come back—or something should happen that he would never know it was for him she was singing and working—for him, and not for fame?

Then she lost her voice, and she knew it was the end of all her dreams. She fought bravely, but little by little her money drifted away and her voice did not come back.

Ah, well—she did not like to think of that time.

She brushed the bitter tears from her tired eyes and bent to her sewing. To-morrow was Easter Sunday. She wondered how the old farm house looked, and the garden; the marsh would soon be golden with cowslips, the apple trees heavy with pink-hearted blossoms; great clumps of violets would hide by the straggling rail fence—and pure-faced anemones She could almost see them

She thought of the days that were coming, the dusty, smothering, summer days, when the burning sun would beat at the window and upon the roof; the long nights when the great purple shadows rising ominously from the heated walks brought sickness, perhaps death, to the crowded tenement.

She held her work nearer the window. Daylight was giving place to dusk. Shadows lurked in the low-ceiled corners. Where could Babette be?

The door opened and some one stepped into the room.

"I'm glad you've come back, cherie," said mademoiselle, not looking up.

"Cecilia, dear heart, don't send me away!"

She started to her feet with a cry of fright and put out her hands blindly.

"Dick, oh Dick!"

Then she forgot her lost voice, her poverty, her independence, and went into his arms like a child. And from the threshold she heard Babette saying in her happy, tired voice,—

"It's the 'locket man'—it's Richard. Are you glad, mademoiselle?"

PAUL REVERE'S RIDE.

AN ECHO OF THE DAYS OF FREEDOM'S STRUGGLE.

When Trouble Began Between the Colonies and the Mother Country He Became the Trusted Messenger of the Patriots and Traveled Thousands of Miles.

With the nation arming for what may be another memorable conflict, the days of that first call to duty, in April, 1775, when was fired the shot "heard around the world," come to the memory of Americans. Of the many stirring deeds done during the "times that tried men's souls" the midnight ride of Paul Revere was the most important and brilliant single exploit.

When trouble began between the colonies and the mother country Paul Revere became the trusted messenger of the patriots and traveled thousands of miles on his faithful horse, carrying messages between various "Committees of Safety." Hancock, Adams, Dr. Warren and other patriots, whose names are dear to every American, were his friends, and frequently employed him to carry messages of the greatest importance to the cause of liberty. In a letter to Dr. Belknap, dated Boston, January 1, 1798, Paul Revere himself modestly tells the story of his patriotic services. He writes: "In the year 1773, I was employed by the selectmen of the town of Boston to carry the account of the Destruction of the Tea to New York; and afterwards in 1774, to carry their dispatches to New York and Philadelphia for calling a Congress; and afterward to Congress several times. In the fall of 1774, and winter of 1775, I was one of upwards of thirty, chiefly mechanics, who formed ourselves into a committee for the purpose of watching the movements of the British soldiers, and gaining intelligence of the movements of the Tories. We held our meetings at the Green Dragon tavern. We were so careful that our meetings should be kept secret that every time we met each one swore upon the Bible that he would not discover any of our transactions but to Messrs. Hancock, Adams, Doctors Warren and Church and one or two more."

This was before his famous midnight ride. On April 18, 1775, a movement among the British troops stationed at Boston was noticed. It was thought they intended to start for Concord and Lexington that night. If the British marched the people must be warned. It was also important to know whether the British were to go by water or by land. Paul Revere offered his services. It was agreed to show two lanterns in the Christ Church steeple, if the British went by water, and one, if by land, as a signal. Captain John Pulling, a friend of Revere, was to make the signals. These arrangements all completed Paul Revere returned to his home to prepare for the memorable ride.

He took his boots and surtout, and went to one of the wharves where he kept his boat, and was rowed across the Charles river by two of his friends. Here, with eyes fixed in the direction of the church tower, he awaited the signals. The dark waters of Charles rived flowed between him and Boston. It was getting late. One by one he saw the lights of the city go out. The silence of the night was all around him. The signals! How his stout heart throbbed at the thought of what they meant to his country. Would they never appear? Suddenly, a few minutes before 11 o'clock there was a glimmer of light in the tall church tower. Then, clear and bright, shining across the dark river, Paul Revere saw the signal lights. There were two. The British were going by water. No need to wait longer. He had a nation to arouse. He sprang to the back of his horse, dug the rowels into the animal's sides and, like the wind, was away. "The Regulars are coming!" he shouted, as he dashed by the lonely farm houses. "The Regulars are coming! The Regulars are coming! Turn out! Turn out! The Regulars are coming!" No need to stop to explain. All knew what that terrible warning cry meant. There was no more sleep for the people that night.

It was near midnight when Paul Revere galloped into Lexington. He rode at once to the house of Rev. Mr. Clark, where Hancock was staying. The guard stationed around the building at first would not admit him, and cautioned him not to make any noise.

"Noise!" exclaimed Revere. "Noise! You will have noise enough before long. The Regulars are coming out!"

Hancock heard his voice and called out: "Come in, Revere! We are not afraid of you!" and in he went.

His famous ride was over. He had aroused the nation. He had ridden better than he knew. But the work of Paul Revere was not done; nor was this last perilous ride for the good of liberty. His services won for him the title of "The Messenger of the Revolution." He was a gallant soldier, and served faithfully throughout the long war, winning the rank of lieutenant colonel.

At the close of the war, in 1783, he opened a foundry at the north end of Boston, where he cast church bells, brass cannons and iron ware. He also continued his work as an engraver. In 1801, he and his son established a large foundry at Canton, where they did an extensive business, rolling copper plates and making copper bolts and spikes, and casting bells and cannons. The bells and spikes used in the famous "Constitution" were made by Paul Revere. It is pleasant to learn that Paul Revere was successful in business, reared a large family and died esteemed by all who knew him. He was eighty-four years old when death came on May 10, 1818; and was buried in Granary Burying Grounds, Boston, where a small monument marks his grave.

THE NEGRO A FARMER.

No Race Prejudices to Contend Against in This Occupation.

The negro is a born farmer and agriculture is his natural occupation. By some sort of intuition he knows how to till the soil, and it is the occupation that seems to suit him best of all others. It is the most inviting field of industry to the black man. Here at least he will not have to contend against race prejudice, and here he is on an equality—from a business standpoint—with the white man. Nature is no respecter of persons, and, all things else being equal, the lands of the black man will produce as fruitfully as the lands of the white man. Whatever objections may exist to the negro on account of his race, they all disappear in the corn field. Nobody stops to inquire whether a bale of cotton or a barrel of corn was produced by a white man or a black man. The black man is wise, therefore, if he select agriculture as his occupation in life. He may always find a small farm for rent, and by thrift and industry he may from year to year lay by enough to eventually own the farm. Once in possession, he is an independent citizen, with a home which no man may deprive him of and upon which—barring politics—no intruder dare trespass.—Richmond Times.

A Unique Method to Gain a Bride.

The parents of a Bethany (Mo.) girl objected to her suitor, and to keep her from running away locked her in her room. Her "deadly beloved" was not to be outwitted, and remembering that she had a few weeks before taken a certain or ring belonging to him, he had a warrant issued for her arrest and sent the officer to serve the paper. While the officer was taking her to town the lover met her on the road and having all perparations made went on her bond and drove with her immediately to the preacher's house, where they were made one.—New York World.

A Massive Key.

One of the oldest and most curious samples of the locksmith's art is attached to the door of Temple Church, Fleet street, London. The key weighs 4 pounds, is 18 inches long, and, unlike other keys, it was not made for the lock. On the contrary, the lock was made for the key.

No Kingly Sinecure.

Of the eleven Emperors and Empresses of Russia between Peter I. and Alexander III., four have been assassinated.

Damming Up the Nile.

Poor old Egypt has had to fall into that step called the march of progress. The river where Cleopatra went out in barges of gold and purple has fallen into the hands of the engineers. The Sphinx and the pyramids will hear borne to their ears from the south the strange sound of unfamiliar machinery.

The Nile is going to be dammed up.

It is at Assuan, near the first Cataract, that the waters are to be stored. They will serve for the irrigation of Egypt. By the beginning of the next century the dam will be nearly completed.

The flood discharge of the river is a mile wide and thirty feet deep at this point. It will have to be discharged through sluices at the rate of 15,000 tons of water a second. The water will be dammed back to a height of about sixty-six feet above its present level.—New York Journal.

TO SAIL FOR SPAIN.

Commodore Watson Sails to Take Command of Fleet to Attack Spanish Coast.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 27, 12:35 p. m.—The Navy Department issued the following this morning to the newspaper correspondents:—

"Commodore Watson sails today in the cruiser Newark to join Rear Admiral Sampson's fleet of Santiago where he will take command of the armored squadron With the cruisers, he will proceed at once to the Spanish coast."

ANOTHER SKIRMISH.

Americans Steadily Advance on the City of Santiago.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Near Juragua, Cuba, June 26, via Kingston, Jamaica, June 27, 11:07 a. m.—News of a decisive battle is expected to reach here at any moment. There is a steady advance all along the line of the American front, and a conflict is not far off.

Gen. Wheeler's division was within ten miles of the city of Santiago Friday night. He was joined by the main body of Gen. Shafter's troops this morning.

The ships of Rear Admiral Sampson's fleet have reduced every shore battery and defence of any kind within twenty miles either way from Santiago.

Chaffie's wing of Gen. Wheeler's command captured and took possession of Zevilla, a little town seven miles from the city after a sharp engagement with the Spanish troops that were defending the blockhouse there. The Spanish were compelled to retreat with loss.

The official report places the American loss at twenty-one killed and eighty wounded. The Spanish troops left thirty-eight dead in the field.

From the positions now occupied by the American troops, they can plainly see the streets and inhabitants moving about in Santiago de Cuba. It is reported that large numbers of wounded have been entering the city at stated intervals.

CAMARA WILL RETURN.

Spanish Ambassador in Rome Says His Movements are a Ruse.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Rome, Italy, June 27, 12:35 p. m.—The Spanish Ambassador here says that the trip of Camara's fleet is only a ruse. The fleet, he says, will remain at Port Said for several days and then sail, but not through the canal, but back to Cadiz again.

CAMARA STARTS.

London Advices Say He Is Passing Through Suez Canal.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

London, June 27, 12:37 p. m—The Spanish fleet, commanded by Admiral Camara, is report here as having started on its trip through the Suez canal.

CAMARA AT PORT SAID.

Reported Unable to Proceed on Account of Lack of Coal.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Port Said, June 27, 11 a. m—Admiral Camara's Spanish fleet has reached this port, but is unable to proceed anyfurther on account of lack of coal. So far the Spaniards have been unable to obtain any.

Camara sent a request to purchase ten thousand tons but the Government refused to permit him to coal in Egyptian waters under any circumstances. Shore leave has been denied to the seamen of the Spanish fleet.

POPE FOR MEDIATOR.

At Present, However, the Queen Says the War Must Continue.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Rome, Italy, June 27, 12 m—The Papal representative in Madrid has telegraphed the Pope that the Queen Regent of Spain desires mediation by his Holiness when the opportune moment arrives with the object of concluding peace with the United States.

The represen'ative of the Pope declares, however, that the opportune moment has not yet arrived and that the Queen Regent is convinced that for the present Spain is bound to continue the war.

FROM THE FRONT.

Active Operations Are Expected Wednesday at the American Camp.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Off Baiquiri, Cuba, June 26, via Kingston, Jamaica, June 27, 1:33 p. m.—The Third and Ninth Cavalry remain here guarding the supplies of the army.

The supplies for the other regiments are being rushed toward Santiago as rapidly as possible. Active operations are expected to begin next Wednesday.

An interruption in the communication between the fleet and the army by storms is possible at any time. Juragua and Baiguiri are both open roadsteads and offer no protection to the fleet.

THE MOVE AGAINST SPAIN.

Ships That Watson Will Take Against The Spanish Coast Cities.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 27, 2:10 p. m—The official announcement that a strong fleet is to be sent off the Spanish coast has aroused intense feeling of satisfaction in official circles.

It sets at rest all talk of peace negotiations. It shows the clear purpose of the Administration to follow with an aggressive campaign.

The bold announcement seems to have been made for the purpose of recalling Camara's fleet from Port Said, en route to the Phillippins.

It was said that while the government has not any fear but that Dewey would be safe in any event, it would

TUCK TURNER IN TOWN TO PLAY BASE BALL

He Came With the Staten Island Athletic Club.

RAIN STOPPED THE GAME.

THE CRESCENTS WERE FAR AHEAD WHEN THE STORM ARRIVED.

Turner Played Left Field for the Visitors and Brought Home the Only Run They Scored—Timely Batting and Expensive Errors Gave the Crescents Nine Runs in the Three Innings.

It was not his ghost, it was the real thing, "Tuck" Turner, of the National League, that faced MacLaughlin out at the Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon. It was the very same "Tuck" who used to play on the old Crescents in the good old times when the whole town turned out to support the games, and when Keeler, Freddie Jones and a host of other favorites were on the nine that Tom Keller managed.

It brought back the old days to see "Tuck" step up to the bat, and everyone of the old cranks clapped his hands and cheered right heartily at the goodly sight. "Tuck" was looking well and was little changed from the times when he played here. He remembered many of the familiar faces and was given a hearty welcome by his old friends.

Turner came here with his old comrades from Staten Island. He was a Staten Island boy and played there before Tom Keller found him and imported him to Plainfield. He is laid off from his regular team and was east on a visit. So he consented to help out his old friends and get another glimpse of Plainfield which, "Tuck" says, has many pleasant memories for him.

The Staten Island Athletic Club team came here with a reputation. The Crescents expected to find their equal if not their superior, but it was not to be. The Staten Island boys played well, but the Crescents put up a better game. A few expensive errors and well bunched hits told the old story.

Now the game promised to be an exciting one after it was once started. There were three of the crack players of the visiting team who came forty-five minutes late which greatly delayed the starting of the game. Then there came an unexpected visitor before whom visitors and home team fled. It was a storm which, as it swept over the plains to the westward, looked like a veritable tornado. Great clouds of dust preceded it and audience and players took refuge from the terrible downpour that followed under the grand stand. Three innings and a half were played when the warning gust came and the threatening black clouds rolled up. The field was in such a condition after the rain that any thought of continuing the game was speedily dispelled. Under the circumstances, of course, it was no game.

The visitors had first innings. Turner was third to bat, the first two of the visitors having died at first. After two strikes were called on him, "Tuck" gave Cooney a quick grounder to handle. Cooney took it all right, but he had to put a little extra speed in it to reach first in time. Turner was off quick as a flash, and the way in which he covered the ground between home and first was a revelation to the other players.

In their half of the inning the Crescents scored three runs. Metz and Cavanaugh hit safely. Collins took first on four balls, and then Vroom hit a hot grounder that second could not stop and that Dave's brother, who was playing right field for the Staten islands, let go by him. The three men scored on the play. Neither side did anything in the second inning.

In the third, MacIntyre hit for one base with two out. Stevens made a plucky attempt to catch it, but it was beyond his reach and he just tipped it. He dropped a hard fly by Chard, advancing MacIntyre a base. Then Tuck came up and sent Mac home with a clean hit. That was the only run the visitors scored.

The Crescents began to hit the ball at once. Metz made a clean two-base hit. Cavanaugh took first and Collins made a single. A sacrifice by Vroom, a single by Lederer and a double by Cooney, together with expensive errors by Allen and the pitcher, netted six runs. Hollister sent a fly out in left-centre and Turner went chasing after it. The wind carried it away, but he finally managed to get both hands on it only to trip over a stubble and fall headlong. He had held the ball, but when he fell it bounced from his hands. The um-

WHO'LL HELP THE BABES

HERE IS A WORTHY CHANCE FOR PLAINFIELD PHILANTHROPISTS.

Four Little Tots Appealed for by the Children's Home Whose Limited Means Prevents Helping Them as They Would.

Those associated in the management of the Children's Home are constantly confronted with cases of children that are full of pathos, but in most instances they are able to help the unfortunate little tots. Now and then, however, such a thing cannot be directly and immediately accomplished by resorting to the benefits that the Home holds out, and such a case is now perplexing the good women engaged in the management and support of this noble institution.

In the last twenty-four hours application has been made at the Home for the admission of four little children. In one case there are two little sisters whose mother is in pitiable circumstances. Her husband is worthless in character and contributes nothing for her support inasmuch as he is confined in State prison.

In the other instance there are two babies, one twenty months and the other three months old. Both of these children are too young for admission to the Home.

Mrs. M. E. Kimball, president of the Children's Home, told a Press reporter this morning that the Home would be able to secure good homes for these four unfortunate children, but the present condition of the treasury prevents it unless special provision can be made for the support of them. Mrs. Kimball therefore asks those who are about to go off to sea shore or mountain to enjoy themselves to remember the four little babies dependent for even the barest necessities of life upon charity. If a few well to do people would remember the babies by contributing something to their support a home could be secured for them.

Mrs. Kimball states that during June eight applications have been made at the home for the admission of children.

WIND PLAYED HAVOC.

Uprooted Trees and Unroofed Buildings at Randolphville.

The storm of Saturday afternoon was very severe in Randolphville, below New Market, the wind tearing with the destructive force of a tornado through a narrow strip of country. In this limited space outbuildings were unroofed, enormous trees were uprooted and other large trees were twisted and broken off near the ground. Some of the trunks presented a strangely splintered appearance, as fine as strips for basket-making. One farmer, hastening to house his hay, had the whole load lifted from the wagon by the force of the wind and scattered in every direction.

During the high wind the large flag of Mayor Fiek's blew away, tackle and all.

Many of the trees of an apple orchard on Letson's farm, at Stelton, were broken down by the wind, and a large white oak tree near the pond, an old landmark, was also broken off near the ground.

A limb from a large tree near former Councilman Spangenberg's residence at Netherwood blew off, and Mr. Spangenberg and some other residents tried to pull the limb to the ground, for fear it would fall and hurt some one. When they did succeed in getting it loose, it fell directly on the electric light wires, and had to be removed by the Electric Light Company's men.

The ruins of Battle Row suffered in the wind. The chimney and a few lose pieces of timber were blown away.

In this city the rainfall was severe, flooding streets and hollows for the time being. Many trees suffered from the blast, while the young crops were bent over and beaten down.

A large tree on West Seventh street, near Spooner avenue, was split by the wind and one half blown across the roadway.

Injured in New York.

D. W. Rogers, of West Second street, proprietor of Rogers' seafood market, met with an accident this morning that will lay him up for some little time. It is his custom to go to New York almost every day to purchase supplies. He was coming down in a West street car and attempted to leave the car at Liberty street. He was thrown from the car and seriously injured and bruised. He is now confined to his home.

ESCAPED THE FREIGHT; BLUE LINER KILLED

A Central Track Hand Met Swift and Painless Death.

HIS BODY BADLY MANGLED.

DID NOT SEE THE EXPRESS OR HEAR WORDS OF WARNING.

Ellis Sullivan, an Italian, Struck by the Fast Express Saturday Afternoon and Instantly Killed—County Physician Granted a Burial Permit—Dead Man's Family are Now Living in Italy

Death, swift and painless, overtook Ellis Sullivan, an Italian laborer in the employ of the Central Railway Company, Saturday afternnon about 2:30 o'clock. He was struck by a fast Blue Line train, near the Berckman street bridge, and instantly killed.

Sullivan, who belonged to James Higgins' track gang, was busy with several others making slight repairs to the track near the freight house. A fast freight was passing and Sullivan, who had finished the job, started to walk down the track towards Netherwood.

The other men saw No. 512, a flyer bound east, which passes the North avenue station at 2:20 o'clock, coming, and shouted to Sullivan to get out of the way, but the noise made by the freight drowned their voices, and also the noise of the coming train.

Sullivan was struck by the pilot, thrown over against the freight and knocked back again. The engineer of the express put on brakes and stopped his engine as quickly as possible, and backed up to the scene of the accident. Sullivan was dead, and his body was horribly mangled. The remains were picked up and taken inside the freight house. County Physician F. W. Westcott was summoned and after viewing the remains gave a permit for burial and the body was turned over to Morgue Keeper Casey. Sullivan will be buried today in St. Mary's cemetery.

Sullivan lived on Lake street in a small house, and had worked for the railroad company seven or eight years. He was always considered a good, faithful man. He leaves a wife and four children in Italy, who will be communicated with at once. The county physician took charge of all the dead man's effects, and will turn them over to his wife.

A JEWISH WEDDING.

Rabbi Fine united in marriage two young people of the Jewish faith and nationality last evening at 8 o'clock in Red Men's Hall. The wedding was one of the largest ever held among people of that faith in this city.

The groom was Harry Gold, of 335 Watchung avenue, and the bride Miss Rebecca Levine, of 432 West Front street. The ceremony was performed with all the rites of the Jewish faith. The bridemaids were Miss Jennie Gold, of New York, a sister of the groom, and Miss Katie Rosenbloom, of New York.

M. Abrams, of this city, and Samuel Rofalsky, of New York, stood up with the groom, and three little girls, all dressed in white, held up the bride's train. They were the Misses Sarah Goldstein and Flora Levine, of this city, and Bessie Gold, of New York. The ushers were J. Miodovink and A. Wolgang, of this city.

After the ceremony a reception was held, and the dancing was kept up until a late hour.

The young couple will take up their residence on East Fourth street in a few days.

SHOCKED BY A LIVE WIRE.

A Colored Man Sent Rolling in the Gutter.

Solomon Lewis, colored, picked up a live electric light wire on the corner of West Eighth and Division streets Saturday afternoon after the shower and received a shock.

The wire was lying directly across the street, where it was liable to trip up a horse. Lewis undertook to break it and lay the two pieces to one side. After giving a few twists, the wire snapped, but at the same moment gave Lewis a shock which sent him rolling in the gutter, which was well filled with water. He is none the worse for his experience, except a sore hand.

Preached Very Acceptably.

Rev. J. S. Allen, pastor of the New York Avenue Reformed church, of Newark, preached very acceptably both morning and evening in Trinity Reformed church yesterday. He was the guest during his stay in Plainfield of one of his former parishioners, Robert Clark, at his hospitable home in Washingtonville.

BAD ENDING TO FUN.

TWO COLORED MEN HELD FOR MIDDLESEX GRAND JRRY.

Richard O'Connor, of Bound Brook, Alleged That he Was Badly Assaulted at the Driving Park Grounds.

A little fun began at the race meet at the Driving Park last week ended rather seriously for Henry Bundy and Charles E. Scudder, colored, this morning. Richard O'Connor, of Bound Brook, began fooling with Bundy, who wore a wide-brimmed hat in true cow boy style.

O'Connor claimed to want the hat, and snatching it off of Bundy's head ran away with it. Bundy and Scudder followed him, and O'Connor claims that the two colored men caught him in an out-house and struck him.

O'Connor came to this city Saturday, and had a talk with Captain Grant, then went to New Market and swore out a complaint against the two colored men before Justice Storms for, although both men live in this city, the alleged offense occurred in Middlesex county.

Bundy and Scudder were arrested and arrainged before Justice Nash this morning, and were held in the sum $100 bonds to appear before the Middlesex county Grand Jury at the next term of court. Bundy went his own and Scudder's bail.

Bundy is a hard working colored man and Scudder is employed by Captain William Hand.

WHERE WOMEN HOLD OFFICE.

Three Councilwomen to Serve in Lincoln's Municipal Body.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Lincoln, June 27.—Thirty seven citizens and citizenesses of this town turned out in the sweltering heat Saturday afternoon to attend the caucus called to nominate officers to be chosen at the annual election to be held July 4th.

Mayor Silas D Drake presided with his usual gusto and reviewed the past year's work in Lincoln He especially dwelt upon the success of women holding office, in which Lincoln had taken the initiative in the eastern states, and had thereby gained great fame from one end of the country to the other. The following nominations were unanimously made: Mayor, Silas D. Drake; Councilwomen, Miss Emma Egel, Mrs. Flora P. Wrench, Mrs. Alivia Hazard; Councilmen, T. W. Sheldon, Joseph Naylor and Edward Grauert; clerk, John C. MacNeills; street commissioner, I W. Stout.

FOR BETTER ROADS.

Civil Engineer Dunham Delivered an Interesting Address.

F. A. Dunham, C. E., of this city, has just returned from Springfield, Mass., where he attended the first field day of the Connecticut Valley Highway Association. A number of the members and invited guests spent Wednesday at Blandford, in the Berkshire Hills, one of the most beautiful spots in all New England. The object of the association in holding meetings in the various small towns of New England is to educate the residents of such places in the fundamental principles of country road improvements, and to mould the popular opinion so that everyone will vote and work for better roads in the future. A number of the prominent citizens of Massachusetts also made a few remarks and the first field day of the association was voted a grand success.

Class Colors Fly High.

The light blue and lemon-colored pennant and small American flag raised on the flag-pole back of the High School Wednesday night or early Thursday morning still wave in the breeze. The pennant, which shows the colors of the graduating class, attracts quite some attention. Whoever raised the flags tied the halyards so high above the ground that a ladder will have to be used to take them down.

Death of James O'Keefe.

James O'Keefe, a brother of Michael O'Keefe, of this city, died yesterday at his home in Vineland of apoplexy. He has resided in Vineland seven years. He was twenty years of age. The funeral services will be held at the home of his uncle, John Hickey, of Plainfield avenue. The notice of the funeral will be given later.

Oil Stove Exploded.

Moses Terrill, of Liberty street, was quite seriously burned while trying to throw an oil stove that had exploded out of the window Saturday afternoon. He had just lit the stove and left the room for a few moments when the stove exploded and threatened to destroy the house. The damage was about $20.

—Workmen began this morning to cut away the several fine trees along the eastern side of Arlington avenue between Fifth and Sixth streets. This is necessary in order to lay flagging.

THE ENGINEER WAS ASLEEP AT HIS POST.

AN OVERWORKED ENGINEER

PASSED A BLOCK SIGNAL WITHOUT SEEING IT.

Engineer Newland Had Been Working for Thirty-eight Hours on a B. & O. Locomotive—His Engine Struck the Rear End of a P. & R. Train—Blocked the Tracks for Five Hours.

Asleep at his post! This was the cause of a disastrous railroad wreck of two freight trains on the Central Railroad between this city and Dunellen yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Engineer William Newland, of engine 423, had been working steadily without any sleep for thirty-eight hours, and when his engine and train passed into a block which another train had not left, he was unconscious of what he had done. His train was preceded by a P. & R. freight train in charge of Engineer G. E. Lamb, and Fireman Thomas Brown, both of Philadelphia, which was bound for Jersey City. This train had passed into the block, but before it had cleared the block there was a break in the air brakes and this brought the train to a full and sudden stop.

Engineer Newland, of the rear train, a B. and O., bound for Cranford, passed the danger signal with his eyes closed, and after he had entered the block with the largest part of his train, he was too close to the train ahead of him to prevent a collision. The big heavy camel-back crashed into the caboose of train No. 1, thoroughly demolishing it. The pilot of the engine was completely wrecked as was also the tender. The sudden crash derailed two large freight cars on the rear train, filled with baled hay, and effectually blocked three tracks until long after 8 o'clock in the evening.

Engineer Newland received a contused wound of the head and he was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where the wound was dressed. Later he was sent to his home on Third street, Philadelphia. His fireman, Thomas Heaton, jumped from his engine before the collision and he escaped uninjured.

Thomas Fardy, the conductor of the head train, was the only man in the caboose, and he jumped before the crash and thus saved his life. No one outside of Engineer Newland was injured.

There was some delay at first, owing to tha fact that it was expected that a P. and R. wreck train would arrive to clear the tracks. It was too far away, however, and word was sent to the officers of the Central road to despatch their wrecking train to the scene of the accident. It was after 4 o'clock when the wrecking train arrived and it was after 8 o'clock in the evening when the debris was cleared away and travel was resumed.

In the meantime all trains used track No. 4 westbound at the point of the accident. Many trains were delayed, but the employes of the road performed excellent work. Superintendent G. H. Frecht was at the scene of the wreck and personally supervised the work, together with other officials.

It was only a few days ago that Engineer Newland was reinstated. He had paid a penalty of being laid off for one month for having had a similar accident on the B. & O. road. Of late the work has been very heavy and as stated above he had been working thirty-eight hours straight, and no doubt was feeling the strain severely. Most of the freight cars were new ones and were being run for the first time. The two derailed cars were like mountains to handle, and a large force of men were engaged in raising them and placing them out of the way.

It was some time after the wreck before Plainfielders generally heard of the accident, and then they flocked in great numbers to the place. An improvised telegraph station was located near the wreck and the operator from Dunellen was engaged in sending telegrams regarding the movement of trains.

Engineer Newland is forty-five years of age and was born in Scotland. He is married and lives with his family in the Quaker City.

Summer Clearing Sale.

The regular clearing sale of summer goods of every destription will commence at White's today. Their advertisement tells of many things that you can use and prices all run your way.

FROM SPAIN'S CAPITAL

Belief in Madrid That a New Ministry Is To Be Formed.

A CABINET CRISIS AT HAND

Sagasta Said to Be in Favor of Peace—Feels That the People of Spain Want a Cessation of Hostilities—All Depends on the Outcome at Santiago—Thinks That France or Russia Will Be Called in to Mediate.

Madrid, June 27.—A much talked of feature of the moment, when all are asking what will come next, is General Weyler's declaration in favor of the monarchy. This may have much to do with the greater feeling of calm today.

The existence of a cabinet crisis is denied by Senor Sagasta with absolute good faith. He further adds that at the council the prospects of war and not the conditions of peace were discussed.

The truth is that everything depends on the results of affairs at Santiago. Sagasta will not rush a crisis, being aware of the difficulties of reforming the ministry and establishing a government to meet the situation.

One feature is the perfect confidence of the public in Sagasta. His latest statement is that the rumors of peace negotiations are premature.

Sagasta Wants Peace.

The premier wants peace. He feels assured that the country both wants and needs peace. He also knows that peace made without the consent of the country would mean immediate revolution.

Should the country show itself strongly against the prime minister's peaceful wishes you may count upon it that Senor Sagasta will wish to place the reins of government and the terrible responsibilitly for the continuance of the war in other hands.

In the minds of all statesmen loyal to the monarchy and in the opinion of important political elements and social spheres having influence in Spain, the idea of peace gains greater consistency every day.

Independently of the fear which the Carlists and Republicans inspire, it is certain that the government will take means for placing before the country the problem of peace. It is recognized that the United States will formulate terms of peace which will be unpopular in this country and that none better are likely to be forthcoming.

New Government Probable.

According to a politician whose opinions have taken from much every day contact with the ruling spirits of the country, Sagasta, once he has got rid of the Cortes, will take measures for the formation of a coalition, the government having as its inspiration Marshal Martinez Compos, General Polavieja, Senors Silvela and Pidal, General Linares and Senor Rivas, retaining the present ministers of war and marine. Thus constituted, the government would proclaim the whole peninsula in a state of siege, reinforcing the garrisons in the north of Spain, Valencia, Catalonia and other Carlist and Republican centers and would then appeal to some friendly nation, probably France or Russia, to make terms of peace.

Madrid, June 27.—The cabinet held a meeting yesterday morning and later the premier, Senor Sagasta, went to the palace. He told the newspaper representatives that the cabinet meeting was to be reconvened and he refused to furnish any further information on the subject.

Although it is officially announced that the premier visited the queen regent in order to furnish her majesty with the usual report on current affairs, it is generally believed that the expected ministerial crisis has occurred.

The Correspondencia of this city yesterday published a report to the effect that the peace conditions suggested by the government of the United States include the possession by the United States of the island of Porto Rico, the independence of the island of Cuba under the protectorate of the United States, the establishment of a naval station for United States warships in the Philippines and the establishment of a coal depot for United States warships in the Canary islands.

A dispatch from Barcelona says that the Society of the Friends of Peace, consisting of members of the leading commercial and economic industries, have unanimously adopted an urgent resolution urging upon the government to negotiate for peace. During a warm discussion which preceded the adoption of the resolution, several of those present advocated peace at any price and the majority thought the war should be prosecuted until the Spaniards gained a victory "which would lessen the severity of the terms."

It was pointed out that since the war there had been a great decrease in trade; that many factories had stopped; that the workmen were suffering and that there would be distress in several provinces if the harvest was bad.

To Mark the Heroes' Graves.

Washington, June 27.—There is a feeling of profound sympathy for the parents and relatives of the brave men who were killed Friday in the vicinity of Santiago de Cuba.

Secretary Alger is doing all in his power to have the graves of the dead heroes definitely located.

A long dispatch was sent yesterday morning to Major General Shafter from the secretary of war. Secretary Alger expressed his appreciation of the excellent work already accomplished by the American army.

He said: "Take every precaution in burying the dead, so that their last resting place can in some future time be located by their loved ones at home."

British Battleship for Lisbon.

London, June 27.—The British first class battleship Illustrious, of 14,900 tons, sailed Saturday for Lisbon Portugal, under sudden orders received to protect British interests there.

THE'RE AT SANTIAGO'S DOOR

Eighteen Hundred Americans and Cubans Occupy Sevilla Can See Morro Plainly.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 26.—Troops of the United States and of Spain are almost face to face and less than four miles apart. To-night the picket lines at certain points were within hailing distance of the enemy. It seems certain that the battle of Santiago must come within a week. The troops are all ashore here and at Baiquiri, with the exception of a few scattered companies that have gone forward. The supplies are sufficient to enable the army to sustain a week's camping at both landing points.

The landing of troops, horses and supplies has been extraordinary. With only one steam barge and compelled to depend on treacherous small boats, General Shafter has landed more than 16,000 men, hundreds of horses and mules and supplies worth thousands of dollars on the exposed beaches, and only two men have lost their lives. No more than fifty animals have been drowned and scarcely a package of supplies has been lost.

The officials generally are surprised at the smallness of loss of life and property. General Shafter said yesterday:

"I am well satisfied with the progress that is being made. The disembarkation is slow; but, considering the limited facilities and the exposed nature of the landing places, the men have done well. I only await the landing of sufficient supplies to begin the movement on Santiago. I am unable to say when it will take place.

From the American position at Sevilla Santiago is plainly visible and the fortifications can be seen. The following report to General Shafter from the front shows the conditions:

To General Shafter:

We can plainly see Santiago, less than seven miles away. The country is level for six miles this side of the city, except for hills on the south, which extend to within a mile of Santiago. These hills now appear deserted. The country is fairly open and it will not be difficult to move troops over it.

General Chaffee occupies Sevilla today.

Saturday evening.

REPORT FROM SHAFTER.

Brief Official Accounts of the Fight and Landing of Troops.

Washington, June 27.—The first dispatch from General Shafter concerning the engagement between the Spaniards and the American forces has reached the war department and is as follows:

Playa del Este, June 25.

Adjutant General U. S. A., Washington:

Baiquiri, June 24.—Further news from General Wheeler places our loss in this morning's firing about ten killed and forty wounded. Captain Capron, First United States volunteer cavalry, killed. Wounded—Major Brodie, Captain McClintock and Lieutenant Thomas (received here "Thos." and supposed to be an abbreviation), First United States volunteer cavalry; Major Bell, Captain Knox and Lieutenant Bryam, First United States cavalry; Captain Knox seriously. Captain Wainwright, formerly reported wounded, is uninjured. The names of the others killed and wounded are not yet known. The Spaniards occupied a very strong and intrenched position on a high hill. The firing lasted about an hour and the enemy was driven from his position, which is now occupied by our troops, about a mile and a half from Sevilla. The enemy has retired toward Santiago de Cuba.

SHAFTER.

Another dispatch, received after, although apparently written before the one made public earlier in the day, was as follows:

Playa del Este, June 25.

Adjutant general, Washington:

Baiquiri, June 24.—In pushing out to occupy a good position near Sevilla, to wait and intrench until supplies and artillery could be landed, 14th and 10th cavalry (14th apparently is a mistake) and Woods's regiment had a skirmish and the enemy was driven from his position and General Wheeler now reports that he occupies their ground. Wounded, Major Bell, Captain Knox, Captain Wainwright, Lieutenant Bryam, First cavalry, and a number of men. Above names only given. Lighters and steam tugs asked for this morning should be sent at once.

New York State Building Completed

Omaha, June 27.—The New York state building at the exposition was completed Friday. It is one of the handsomest structures on the grounds and will be dedicated soon.

In Harrowing Doubt.

"What is the matter, Willie?" said one of his friends. "Have you been having trouble?"

"Y-a-a-s. I'm afraid I've gone and made myself verwy unpopular with Van Diggles and his wife, don't you know."

"In what way?"

"Why, you know they both ride a bicycle."

"Yes."

"In costume."

"And I met them this afternoon. They passed me one aftah the othah."

"And didn't you speak to them?"

"Y-a-a-s. I wish I hadn't, for, do do you know, everwy time I think the mattah ovah I'm half convinced that I lifted my hat and bowed to VanDiggles and said 'Hello, old man," to his wife."

Her Weakness.

WAR OFFICIALS ACTIVE

Twenty Thousand Men to Be Sent to Santiago At Once.

FINAL ATTACK MAY WAIT

Work of Reinforcing Shafter and That Quickly is the Business on Hand—Army and Navy Officials at Their Posts Yesterday—Nothing Was Heard from Shafter—But Plans Were Being Perfected to Aid Him.

Washington, June 27.—Every effort is being put forth by the war and navy departments to hasten the reinforcements to General Shafter.

Adjutant General Corbin was in his office at the war department yesterday, surrounded by his staff of clerical assistants. The telegraph wires between Washington, Chickamauga and Tampa were kept at a high temperature with orders for troops to proceed at once for Tampa and embark for Santiago de Cuba.

At present it is estimated that 20,000 additional men will be sent to sustain General Shafter.

It is possible that a greater number may be required to complete the capture of Santiago.

The greatest secrecy prevails at the department concerning the movements of the troops, but it is understood that those from Chickamauga are already en route for Tampa. They will be put aboard the eight transports now ready for sea and they will proceed to Santiago as rapidly as possible.

Ten transports are supposed to be bound north from Santiago to make a landing at either Key West or Tampa, according to circumstances.

Secretary Alger was also at his desk Sunday, but up to eleven o'clock he had received nothing from General Shafter since the previous day.

At the navy department the same activity was displayed by Secretary Long's official staff. The bureau of navigation was busy sending and receiving dispatches in the same mysterious manner prevailing in the war department.

Commodore Watson has notified the department that he has sent lighters and tugs to Santiago in compliance with the request of General Shafter to facilitate the landing of the heavy ordnance and supplies from the transports. It will take at least three days for the lighters to reach General Shafter.

In the circumstances it is not probable that the general attack upon Santiago will begin until General Shafter and his forces are thoroughly prepared for a prolonged engagement.

At the state department Assistant Secretary Moore was on duty, prepared to receive reports from the far East relative to the progress the Cadiz fleet is making toward Manila. He said he had no official information of the arrival of the fleet at the entrance to the Suez canal as reported. The American consuls in that vicinity are on the alert and they are expected to keep the state department informed on the subject.

IS MORRO DESERTED?

They Are Reported to Have Abandoned Their Fortress.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 27.—Morro Castle, the most formidable defence about Santiago harbor, it is reported on excellent authority, has been abandoned by the Spaniards.

If this be true it will now be the simplest task for Admiral Sampson, with such vessels in his fleet as he deems necessary for the work, to enter the harbor, attack Admiral Cervera's fleet and assist General Shafter in the capture or destruction of the city of Santiago.

Admiral Sampson had been ready for a week to smash this last remaining fortification at the entrance to the harbor. It was his intention to make the attack last Saturday after he had verified the information from shore that Lieutenant Hobson and his fellow heroes of the Merrimac's crew no longer were confined in the ancient and picturesque structure.

Gomez Fighting Spaniards.

London, June 27.—Dispatches received here from Madrid state that General Gomez's command, which is operating in the Santa Clara province, is sorely in need of arms, ammunition and clothing, and is being worried constantly by the Spaniards. He has received no supplies from Americans since the Spanish war against the United States began. American aid has gone to the insurgent forces in other parts of Cuba.

Gomez has 7,000 men under his command, but 2,000 are unarmed and the whole force is in dire straits. Many of the men have been sick.

New York Cleveland Game Forbidden.

Cleveland, O., June 27.—The constable of Collinwood showed his hand yesterday afternoon, and just before time to open the gates of the newly fitted baseball grounds at this place, notified the Cleveland Club officials that they would not be permitted to allow the crowd to enter. Many rooters were turned away. The game with New York, scheduled for yesterday, will be played Tuesday, which is an open date.

War Affects Pope Leo's Health.

Rome, June 27.—The health of the pope is much poorer than is officially admitted. During the past three months his strength has steadily decreased and his unceasing efforts to stop the war between the United States and Spain have told on him to an alarming degree. Despite his illness he still insists on daily consultations with Cardinal Rampolla and other cardinals concerning methods to stop the war.

Bostons Supscriptions to the Bonds

Boston, June 27.—At noon Saturday, when the United States sub-treasury closed its doors, Treasurer O'Neil had received in subscriptions to the new war loan $1,600,000.

THE FIGHT AT JARAGUA

A Line of Battle Twenty Miles In Length.

HOW VICTORY WAS WON

The American Army Achieves Great Results in Its Three Days March Toward Santiago—But Not Without Loss of Precious Lives—Spaniards Trapped Rough Riders in an Ambuscade—Americans Advanced from Two Weys.

Washington, June 27.—Further particulars of the fierce and sanguinary struggle near the town of Jaragua, about nine miles east of Morro Castle, which occurred on Friday morning, have been received.

The victory was not gained without the shedding of American blood and one officer and twelve of the troops lie under the ground on the field of battle, while about fifty others, including six officers, are in the field hospital suffering from wounds. Of these eight or ten will probably die. It is believed that the enemy's loss was at least fifty dead, besides many wounded.

Practically two battles were fought at the same time, one by the Rough Riders, under Colonel Wood, on the top of the plateau, and the other on the hillsides several miles away, by the regulars, with whom was General Young.

Information was brought to the American army headquarters on Thursday by Cubans that forces of Spanish soldiers had assembled at the place where the battle occurred to block the march to Santiago.

Cubans Were Tardy.

General Young went there to dislodge them, the understanding being that the Cubans under General Castillo would co-operate with him; but the latter failed to appear until the fight was nearly finished. Then they asked permission to chase the fleeing Spaniards, but as the victory was already won, General Young refused to allow them to take part in the battle.

General Young's plans contemplated the movement of half of his command along the trail at the base of the range of hills leading back from the coast, so that he could attack the Spaniards on the flank, while the Rough Riders went off to follow the trail leading over the hill to attack them in front. This plan was carried out completely.

Their Terrible March.

The trail was so narrow that for the greater part of the way the men had to proceed single file. Prickly cactus bushes lined both sides of the trail and the underbrush was so thick that it was impossible to see ten feet on either side. All the conditions were favorable for a murderous ambuscade, but the troopers kept a close watch and made as little noise as possible.

The first intimation had by Colonel Woods's command that there were Spaniards in the vicinity was when they reached a point three or four miles back from the coast, when the low cuckoo calls of the Spanish soldiers were heard in the bush. It was difficult to locate the exact point from which these sounds came. The men were ordered to speak in whispers and frequent halts were made. Finally a place was reached about 8 o'clock where the trail opened into a space covered with high grass on the right hand side of the trail and the thickest kind of bramble and underbrush on the other.

The dead body of a Cuban was found on the side of the road and at the same time Captain Capron's troops covered the outpost the heads of several Spaniards being seen in the bushes for a moment.

At this time the sound of firing was heard a mile or two to the right, apparently coming from the hills beyond the thicket. It was the regulars replying to the Spaniards, who had opened fire on them from the thickets.

In addition to rapid fire rifles the boom of Hotchkiss guns could be heard. Hardly two minutes elapsed before Mauser rifles commenced to crack in the thicket and a hundred bullets whistled over the heads of the Rough Riders, cutting the leaves from the trees and sending chips flying from the fence posts beside the men.

The Spaniards had opened and they poured in a heavy fire which soon had a most disastrous effect. The troops stood their ground with the bullets singing all around them.

Fish the First to Fall.

Sergeant Hamilton Fish was the first man to fall. He was shot through the heart and died instantly.

The Spaniards were not more than 200 yards off, but only occasional glimpses of them could be seen. The men continued to pour volley after volley into the brush in the direction of the sound of the Spanish shots, but the latter became more frequent and seemed to be getting nearer.

Colonel Wood walked along his lines, displaying the utmost coolness. He ordered the troops to deploy into the thicket and sent another detachment into the open space on the left of the trail.

Lieutenant Colonel Roosevelt led the former through the brush, urging his men on. The shots came thicker and faster every moment and the air seemed filled with the singing and shrieking sound of Mauser bullets, while the short pop of the Spanish rifles could be distinguished from the reports of the American weapons.

Sometimes the fire would come in volleys and again shots would follow each other in rapid succession for several minutes.

Killed Two Before He Died.

Captain Capron stood behind his men, revolver in hand, using it whenever a Spaniard exposed himself. His aim was sure and two of the enemy were seen to fall under his fire. Just as he was preparing to take another shot and shouting orders to his men at the same time, his revolver dropped from his grasp and he fell to the ground with a ball through his body. His troop was badly disconcerted for a moment, but with all the strength he could muster he cried: "Don't mind me, boys, go on and fight."

He was carried from the field as soon as possible and lived only a few hours. Lieutenant Thomas of the same troop received a wound through the leg soon afterward and became delirious from pain.

Roosevelt's Narrow Escape.

After ten or fifteen minutes of hot work the firing fell off some, and Lieutenant Colonel Roosevelt ordered his men back from the thicket into the trail, narrowly escaping a bullet himself, which struck a tree at one side of his head. It was evident that the Spaniards were falling back and changing their position, but the firing continued at intervals. Then the troops tore to the front and into more open country than where the enemy's fire was coming from.

It was just before the change of position was made that Edward Marshall, the correspondent of the New York Journal and Advertiser, was dangerously wounded. He was back of the troops and a ball struck him in the small of the back. The surgeons were unable to tell whether or not he would recover.

As soon as the position had been changed the American troops poured a more terrific fire than ever into the Spaniards as they got them into more open country and could see them better. It was not long before the enemy gave way and ran down the steep hill and up another hill to a blockhouse with the evident purpose of making a final stand there.

Colonel Wood was at the front directing the movement and it was here that Major Brodie was shot. Colonel Wood and Lieutenant Colonel Roosevelt both led the troops in pursuit of the fleeing Spaniards, and a hail of bullets was poured into the blockhouse.

By the time the American advance got within six hundred yards of the blockhouse the Spaniards abandoned it and scattered among the brush up another hill in the direction of Santiago, and the battle was at an end.

During all this time just as hot a fight had been in progress at General Young's station. The battle began in much the same manner as the other one, and when the machine guns opened fire the Spaniards sent volleys at the gunners from the brush on the opposite hill side.

Charged Up the Hillside.

The troops of cavalry charged up the hill and the other troops sent a storm of bullets at every point from which the Spanish shots came. The enemy was gradually forced back, though firing all the time, until they, as well as those confronting the Rough Riders, ran for the block house, only to be dislodged by Colonel Wood's men.

General Young stated afterward that the battle was one of the sharpest he had ever experienced. It was only the quick and constant fire of the troopers whether they could see the enemy or not, that forced the Spaniards to retreat so soon.

It is believed that the troops will be free from attack and that the Spaniards will not attempt to repeat the plan they adopted Friday of blocking the onward march of the Americans in the direction of Santiago. It is thought that they will make their last stand at the city itself, trusting that, with the assistance of the shore batteries and the guns on the warships in the harbor they will be able to repel the American troops, force them back to the sea coast and either capture them or drive them from the island.

Cadiz Fleet Enters Suez Canal.

Washington, June 27.—News has reached here that Admiral Camara's fleet has arrived at Port Said, at the Mediterranean entrance to the Suez canal. Steps will be taken to complete the plans for dispatching a flying squadron to bombard the Spanish coast cities.

The arrival of the Spanish fleet at Port Said means that it has arrived at the Suez canal and is now on its way through.

Plans for the attacking of the Spanish coast have been under consideration for a week, but it was decided that no definite steps would be taken until it was learned positively that the Spanish fleet was on its way to the Philippines.

Sampson Withdraws Charge.

Washington, June 27.—In response to a telegram from the navy department requesting definite information concerning the alleged mutilation of bodies of the four marines killed in the fight near Guantanamo, Admiral Sampson has sent the following dispatch to Secretary Long:

Playa del Este, June 24.—Replying to your dispatch, I have to report that a careful investigation has been made and it is reported to me that the apparent mutilation was probably due to the effect of small calibre bullets fired at short range, and I withdraw the charge of mutilation.

SAMPSON.

To Send Prize Ships North.

Key West, June 27.—The Spanish prize steamers Guido, Buena Ventura, Miguel Jover and Catalina will be sent to New York next week with their Spanish crews on board.

The Guido and her cargo will be sold. The Buena Ventura will be sold, but her cargo has been released. The government has appealed from the decisions in the cases of the Miguel Jover and Catalina. The owners of the cargoes of these two steamers have furnished bonds.

Sweeney's Great High Jump.

Trentin, N. J., June 27.—M. F. Sweeney, the former world's amateur champion high jumper and record holder, distinguished himself at his favorite pastime in the Catholic Club games, held in Trenton, N. J., yesterday. He cleared 6 feet 6 inches, beating his record, which is the world's standard, by three-eighths of an inch. Sweeney is now a professional athlete and his record will therefore stand as a cash prize effort.

For a New Ocean Steamer.

Berlin, June 27.—The North German Lloyd Steamship Company has ordered at the Schichau yards a double screw steamer of 22,000 tons and 171 metres long (about 560 feet), to be in readiness for the New York travel to the Paris exposition.

A BIG STEEL DEAL.

Carnegies and Rockefellers Plan an $80,000,000 Combine.

Chicago, Ill., June 27.—A deal involving about $80,000,000, in which the Carnegies, the Rockefellers, the Illinois Steel Company and other companies controlling the steel and iron industry of the United States appear to be participants, is looming up in the horizon and may mean a new "trust."

The deal, I am told, will include these big manufacturing corporations: Pennsylvania Steel Company, $4,750,000; Pennsylvania Steel Company, limited, $1,500,000; Cambria Iron, $7,974,550; Bethlehem Iron, $5,000,000; Illinois Steel Company, $18,650,635; Tennessee Coal and Iron, $21,000,000; Colorado Fuel and Iron, $11,250,900; Carnegie Steel, $25,000,000. The Minnesota Iron Company, which owns about forty thousand acres and seven iron mines in Minnesota and controls the Duluth and Iron Range railroad, is also said to be in the proposed deal.

Since the steel rail pool broke down there has been a great deal of disastrous competition in the iron and steel trade, but the Illinois Steel Company has had the best of the fight. What competition cannot, it is likely that money can do, and if the Carnegie-Rockefeller people can get control of a majority of Illinois Steel Company stock there will be a consolidation and a new trust.

MORE JAPANESE OUTRAGES.

Hatred of Foreigners Shown at Treaty Ports.

Nagasaki, Japan, June 4, via San Francisco, June 27.—Another series of demonstrations of Japanese hatred for foreigners has been made at near by treaty ports and Europeans and Americans are at this hour deeply exercised. A mass meeting at Kobe was held on Monday, May 30, and was the direct result of a brutal attack upon the German residents. They were strolling about, away from assistance, when they were set upon by a mob of Japanese and beaten into insensibility.

The attack was the most flagrant of a long series, and provoked general indignation. Its echo will, in due time, reach Tokio, but there have been protests before that spent their strength along the lanes of diplomacy.

The disorders are confined to treaty and seaports, where the Japanese have been contaminated by the touch of western civilization, practically no case being reported from the interior, but the traveller must pass the treaty port to get to the interior.

Situation Serious at Havana.

Key West, June 27.—Passengers on the captured Honduran brig Amapala, brought here Saturday, report that Havana looks like a deserted city since business and traffic are at a standstill.

The banking firms of Hupmann & Co., J. M. Borjes & Co., Varcisco Bues & Co., and N. Gelats & Co. are the only ones doing any business. All the other firms are either closing up or dragging on, waiting for the end of the war, having discharged all employes.

Hunger and starvation stare the lower classes in the face. The well to do have laid in three months' stores. After these are exhausted the distress will be general, as there is no further source of supply.

The stories regarding the relief by way of southern ports are denied, as nothing has gone into Havana for over a month, and the situation, consequently, is very grave.

Murder and robbery are of daily occurrence in Havana, prompted in every case by want and hunger.

Suffering in Santiago.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 27.—A letter received here from Santiago says the suffering there on account of the lack of food has greatly increased.

Many families have appealed to the authorities for relief from the military stores, but help has been refused to them.

All have been warned that the best thing to do is to leave the city as quickly as possible.

All traffic in small boats has been absolutely prohibited for fear that an attempt may be made to do mischief to the Spanish vessels or to leave the harbor and give information to the American fleet.

The conditions there are said to be the worst possible, and the writer says it is not believed the Spaniards can resist the Americans long. In fact it is hinted that if there is not some change for the betterment of the people they may rise against the military who hold the stores over which special guards have been placed.

England Takes Leiter's Wheat.

Chicago, Ill., June 27.—Geddes, who has charge of wheat liquidation in Great Britain for the account of Joseph Leiter's creditors, sold 1,200,000 bushels Saturday to an English milling syndicate. The terms were not announced.

These big transactions of Geddes's sales for the week 1,600,000 bushels, which is about half of the grain which he controls. Some of the business was of wheat in Liverpool, some of it wheat to arrive. While the prices are not given it is assumed that to make so large a trade at such a time as this would require a very inviting price.

Hurry Orders for the Harvard.

Washington, D. C., June 27.—The navy department has issued orders to Captain Colton, commanding the Harvard, that his vessel must leave port immediately with reinforcements for General Shafter. War department officials fully expected that the big auxiliary cruiser would leave Newport News Saturday afternoon, but owing to the delay in securing coal her departure was postponed. The Harvard carries about 1,800 men, made up of the remaining portion of Brigadier General Duffield's command.

Ocean Grove Opened.

Ashury Park, N. J., June 27.—The Auditorium in Ocean Grove was opened for the season yesterday and during the summer services will be held daily. The Auditorium has been carpeted, the organ overhauled and a new platform erected to give a more commanding position to the choir, which will be under the direction of Professor Tallie Morgan.

Dust from the Trolley.

A number of the residents on West Front street, from Elmwood place to Grant avenue, have written to The Press complaining of the whirlwinds of dust which follow in the wake of the trolley cars and finally settles down around the houses on that thoroughfare. They enquire how long the residents have got to endure this sort of thing. That's a pretty hard thing to tell. Perhaps the best thing for the aggrieved and aggravated residents of Front street to do is to personally interview the various Councilmen and as forcibly as possible impress upon them the need of taking some sort of action to compel the trolley company to sprinkle the streets sufficiently to lay the dust so that their cars will not send it floating through the air whenever they pass along.

When trolley capitalists or their representatives go among property owners asking for the right of way to build their street railway, they are profuse in their offers to "do the right thing" but once intrenched behind a franchise the right thing from the trolley company's point of view seems to be to operate the road at an expense that does not consider the rights or enjoyment of the people from whom they secured the favors.

The Plainfield Street Railway Company ought not to be granted another favor by the Common Council until they guarantee, in words that allow of no subterfuge to escape the contract, to operate their road without stirring up the clouds of dust that they do now to harrass householders along their various lines.

Children's Books.

A prominent New York journal has been inviting discussion and suggestion as to the most desirable books for young people to read. Many lists have been contributed, most of which show good sense in their selection. Such names, however, as De Foe, Bunyan, Sir Walter Scott, Cooper, Kingsley, Hawthorne and in our own day Kipling, Conan Doyle, Stanley Weyman, Lewis Carroll and Miss Alcott at once appeal to all old and young, for adults as well as youngsters delight in them. Good wine needs no bush. In fact, it may be set down as certain that young people take keenest pleasure in many of the books which are scarcely less tidbits for their elders. The age has gone by when it was believed that goody goody wish wash was the seasonable pabulum for lusty young minds reaching out with ardent imaginings to the unknown and that they could grow on skimmilk.

The point to be made is this: Healthy minded and well nurtured boys and girls as a rule go as unerringly to good reading as ducks to water. They don't need much advice on the subject other than what they naturally get at home. Certain classic stories are of course lighthouses. The immense multiplication of wholesome "juvenile" authors, in addition to these the cheapening of books and the increasing number of public libraries, all of which nowadays make a feature of works for the young, put first rate reading within the reach of boys and girls everywhere. Gruff old Dr. Johnson once said to a friend bewailing his inability to give his son a good education, "Turn him loose in a library and let him graze at will." Without going as far as did the learned doctor in the full implication of this advice it may be said that the majority of boys and girls rightly brought up go straight to the best reading in fiction,

ENSIGN JOSEPH W. POWELL.

Ensign Powell is the daring young officer who remained nearly two hours under the Spanish guns in Santiago harbor waiting to pick up the crew of the Merrimac. Shot and shell fell all around Powell and his men, but they escaped alive. Powell is a native of Oswego, N. Y.

history and travel as well as if they had been led there by the ear. The pointer puppy shows his instinct before he is broken to the gun.

The Chautauqua Season.

Notes of preparation are beginning to hum on beautiful Lake Chautauqua for the forthcoming season of combination school and picnic which has made the old Indian name as famous as it is mellifluous. Circulars flood the mails inviting to "the feast of reason and flow of soul" in honeyed language. The eyes of thousands of young schoolteachers of both sexes, as well as of others intellectually ambitious for at least a smattering of knowledge, are turned longingly to those blue waters of western New York where Minerva and Cupid have equal sway as patron deities. Yet it is not a vision of "sweet girl graduates" which is conjured up, but of more sober minded young women who have had their taste of the responsibilities of life. Here they find the means of a better equipment for work, while the facilities of rest, relaxation and enjoyment are those of a first class watering place.

The Chautauquan idea is peculiarly American. In no other country could it have blossomed into such lusty vigor. Lectures and courses of study on an immense gamut of subjects, from Egyptian hieroglyphics and the Greek digamma down to the art of cooking, are found quite consistent with much more than a dainty sip of the social goblet. Propinquity, that most wonderful of magicians, weaves its subtle web, and Hymen is always near by ready to promise his early benediction. Minerva herself wears a wreath of roses and no longer quarrels with the other laughing goddess. Let musty and cynical pedants laugh. The theory within its limits is sound to the core, and we say, "More power to the Chautauquan elbow" in practice. The mental stimulus and experience outflowing permeate every part of the country. American soil is so rich that "tickling it with the hoe makes it laugh with the harvest."

It would have belittled the massive proportions of Gladstone's greatness if he had accepted a title. Even a dukedom would have been a gimcrack jewel set on that mighty front. But not so with his family. It is a customary method in England to reward public service in this fashion. There would be nothing inconsistent in Mrs. Gladstone accepting the title of Countess of Liverpool or of his eldest son being brevetted Viscount Hawarden, as is now proposed.

There seems to be a difference of opinion as to the result of the great Leiter wheat deal in Chicago. Some estimate his profits as upward of $5,000,000. Others claim he has lost money. Whichever way it has gone, the authoritative announcement that the conjuror has ceased manipulating the balls is welcome. Juggling with the prices of the great food staple is specially criminal at such a time as this.

A manufacturer of that typical Vermont product, chewing gum, has blasphemed by calling his special brand "Dewey Chewys." Our latest naval hero will be saved from such a desecration as "Hobson's Choice," as that in current parlance means what the buyer is forced to take, not the eminently desirable thing.

Grant's tomb in New York in spite of the diversion of public interest continues to be a favorite resort for sightseers. No one is likely to rise to any similar prominence in the present war. But such a noble mausoleum is a perpetual reminder and stimulus.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Away up she goes! The commissioners to estimate the cost of widening the avenue, etc., for the boulevard from Elizabeth to Plainfield were not ready to report at the meeting of the Board of Freeholders last week, and it was stated they found the job much greater than they supposed. It is now rumored that the cost will be estimated at $1,000,000—or only ten times as much as was first intimated, and which Hon. John Kean's bid of $100,000 for the trolley franchise would cover.—Rahway Democrat.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The independence of the United States was declared a great many years ago, but there is in Plainfield today a man who was born in the English domain who still has a feeling concerning that affair. He will not allow his children to use fireworks the Fourth of July from the fact that it celebates a victory for this country and reminds him of the defeat of his mother country.

Former Councilman E. R. Ackerman, of West Seventh street, is the first Plainfielder to exhibit specimens of the new postage stamps issued in connection with the exposition to be held at Omaha. The writer has one of the one cent stamps, a present from Mr. Ackerman. It is green in color and is certainly very pretty. The larger denominations are in different colors. They are similar in may ways to the ones issued in connection with the World's Fair.

A correspondent writes: In school life, facts are not always correctly stated by reports and graduating exercises. This is forcibly brought to mind in the case of three pupils of the Plainfield High School, one of whom graduated on Thursday evening. Mr. Loizeaux, a former graduate, Mies Patton class '98 and Mr. Fisher class '99, finished mathematics as juniors (Loizeaux in 3d class) but by an unwritten law, that this prize must be kept open, seniors were not allowed to try for it. These pupils were punished for their brightness as no warning to this effect was given them before entering the geometry class, as juniors. Miss Patton was the only member of this class in '97 who had 100 per cent. in final exercises.

The Central Railroad Company, desiring to maintain in Plainfield a parity with the cititizens in the matter of patriotism, has purchased a flagpole thirty eight feet long. It will be erected on top of the North Avenue station and on it will be placed a handsome American flag. The pole arrived Saturday and will be located at once. The company is to be commended for this evidence of its good will and patriotism.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to the Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 27—Isaac Laing returned Saturday afternoon and is feeling fairly well. He stood the trip from Denver remarkably well and is glad to get home.

The trolley line through the borough will be laid to one side of the road instead of the centre. This will be advantageous. Notwithstanding the fact that the road is to be widened, horses and carriages as well as cyclers will have a far better show in the road.

The trolley poles have been distributed equally along the line of the road. The rails are expected every day. Just as soon as they arrive a gang of men will be started to work.

The members of the Middlesex Bowling Green Club played on the green at C. Schepflin's residence last Saturday afternoon. Play was concluded before the rain appeared.

Cornelius Ryno has purchased the corncob factory recently owned by Walter Smith, and the building will be removed to a building on the Abraham Dunham estate.

One week from tonight the Borough Council should hold their regular meeting, but it being Feurth of July the meeting will probably be postponed.

The matter regarding the laying of sidewalks in the borough will have to be reconsidered by the Council as the ordinance relating thereto is defective.

Next week Mr. and Mrs. Harry Terry will go to Asbury Park, where they will remain for a month. They have leased a cottage for that time.

Mrs. George Craig has returned from East Stroudsburg, Pa., where she attended the funeral of her father, S. M. Ace.

Harry Giles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Giles, is slowly recovering from an attack of diphtheretic sore throat.

Marguerite Wilcox, who is detained at home with diphtheria, is considered to be much improved.

Theodore Apgar has been the guest of friends at Little York. He returned home Saturday.

Mrs. E. S. Jamison, of Church street, is entertaining her mother, Mrs. E. P. Buckel.

Miss Maude Bolton, of Somerville, has been visiting borough relatives.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

New Market, June 27.—Rev. Frank Fletcher, as well as Rev. E. S. Jamison, will make addresses at the Fourth of July celebration to be held next week by Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. Both divines have been secured for the occasion.

Last Saturday afternoon at the Baptist church the Father Light Missionary Society held its regular monthly meeting. Addresses were made by members of the society and visitors from out of town. The meeting was a profitable one and at the close refreshments were served by members of the society. A collection was also taken for the church to complete the amount necessary to pay for the pulpit furniture.

Yesterday afternoon at the Baptist church the annual Children's Day exercises were held. There were recitations and songs by the scholars of the school and an address by the pastor, Rev. Frank Fletcher. The exercises were thoroughly interesting, and the attendance at the services was large.

The diphtheria cases in this vicinity are slowly improving. No new cases are reported.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 27.—The Epworth League of the Methodist church have changed their time of meeting from Sunday evening to Sunday afternoon, immediately after Sunday-school.

At the Baptist Sunday school session yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Braker were presented with a handsome leather traveling clock by the Sunday-school. Each little member of the school also brought a bouquet of flowers and presented them. Mr. and Mrs. Braker were both agreeably surprised at this token of esteem in which they were held by the Sunday-school. Mrs. J. S. Braker, who has been visiting her parents in Lewisburg, Pa., for several weeks returned Saturday. A reception will be tendered by the ladies of the church to both Mr. and Mrs. Braker in the church parlors this evening. All are invited to attend. Addresses will be made by Rev Mr. True, of the Episcopal, and Rev. Mr. Woodruff, of the Methodist churches. Mr. and Mrs. Braker will sail for Europe, from Boston, the 29th.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Baptist church gave a very enjoyable sociable in the parlors of the church Friday afternoon from 3 until 5 o'clock. Games and refreshments passed away two very pleasant hours for those attending. This is the last meeting of the Juniors until September.

John Schmidt and George MacCauley, of Company I, Twenty second Regiment of New York, stationed at Fort Slocum, enjoyed a short forlough and spent yesterday with relatives and friends in town. Both enjoy the life of a soldier and speak well of their treatment by "Uncle Sam."

During the heavy thunder shower Saturday afternoon a large willow tree in Charles N. Flanders yard was blown down, also a handsome maple in front of Mayor Kyte's residence in Fanwood.

The Berkeley Heights and Basking Ridge baseball game was interrupted by the heavy shower Saturday afternoon. Only two innings were played Basking Ridge led by the score of 12 to 2.

Mrs. Edward Emery and daughter, of Bayonne, are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Emery.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Westfield, June 27.—Communion services were held in the Congregational church on Sunday.

The ladies of the different churches of Westfield have arranged to send a box filled with good things to eat to the Westfield boys who are at Fort Hancock, each week. The "Baptist" box was sent Saturday and this week the "Congregational" box will be sent. Canned and cooked meat, condensed milk, jellies, cake, etc. will be gladly received by the ladies who may take charge of the work from week to week.

The Woman's Guild of St. Paul's church held a successful and much enjoyed lawn party and cake sale on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Codding Saturday evening. A large gathering was present and the Guild netted a neat sum for their treasury.

The Baptist church of this place has introduced the individual communion cup to their service This innovation has the hearty approval of the congregation and other churches of the town will no doubt follow the example of the Baptist in this new service.

Rev. George A. Francis delivered a very interesting discourse in the Baptist church Sunday morning. He took for his subject, "The Secret of Solomon's Failure."

The I. O. S. tennis tournament will be held on the Westfield Club courts Saturday, July 2d, and Monday, July 4th. The entries close June 30. Entrance fee 50 cents.

"Vacation Temptations" was the subject at the Epworth League meeting in the Metodist church on Sunday evening. N. H. Burr was the leader.

The township committee have had four deputy sheriffs appointed to take care of the crowd which is expected here on the Fourth of July.

There was divine service in German at the Presbyterian chapel yesterday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Dr. C. F. Klein, of Rahway.

Mrs. Jonas Miller, of Union, is spending several days with her sister, Mrs. Miller, at Branch Mills.

The Sunday-school service in St. Paul's church is now held Sunday mornings at 9:30 o'clock.

News in Short Paragraphs That are Interesting to Read During the Spare Moments of Many Busy Plainfielders.

—It is hoped that before long work will be started on the new borough school.

—A sign, posted conspicuously in the city park, now prohibits bicycle riding within its limit.

—The grand division of the Sons of Temperance of New Jersey will meet in Plainfield this evening.

—Employes of the city are now engaged in laying crosswalks on West Front street near West End Park.

—A meeting of the P. O. S. of A. will be held in Red Men's Hall tonight for the election of officers. A smoker will follow.

—Several of the new selective system telephones have been installed in the city. They seem to give excellent satisfaction.

—The Borough Council will hold its regular July meeting Friday evening of this week. Business of importance will be considered.

—The New Jersey Editorial Association will leave today on their annual excursion to the Thousand Islands. They will return next week.

—Many closed cars were run yesterday on the trolley owing to the fact that the lightning Saturday burned out the fuses on the open cars.

—This evening Commander W. C. Smith, of the Department of New Jersey, G. A. R., will go to Jersey City, to pay an official visit to a post at that place.

—"The Right Use of Time," is the subject for Friday evening's Christian Endeavor meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church. It will be a consecration service.

—Next Tuesday evening the department commander of the G. A. R., together with the assistant adjutant general, will pay a visit to Post No. 73, of this city.

—One of the coolest spots in Plainfield is the Crescent Rink, where the Twilight Social Club will give a grand picnic the evening of July 4th. The music will be furnished by Rogers.

—The attendance at the W. C. T. U. meeting last Saturday evening was unusually large. The service was also very interesting. During the evening iced lemonade was served.

—The public sale of the late Theodore G. Herrmann's flour and feed business at the corner of Richmond and Third streets, and of his personal property at 32 Whitewood street, will take place Wednesday.

—As a warning to persons who send money away in letters, The Daily Press would remind all that it is a very risky thing to do. A Plainfielder recently mailed $30 to New York to a Plainfield friend, taking the trouble to deposit it in the postoffice together with a special delivery stamp on it. That was over a week ago and no tidings of that letter has yet been received.

OVERALLS FOR LITTLE ONES.

The Official Robe of Licensed Fun and Permitted Mischief.

At a certain shop where children's wares are sold the overall is a respected garment. It is the official robe of licensed fun and permitted mischief. The youthful overall of this season is stoutly made, and attractively. It comes in blue denim, with suspenders attached. And—praise the Lord—it is in fashion for girls. Up to their eighth year they may wear blue overalls and little sunbonnets to play in. And if anyone pokes fun at them, it shows the ignorance or the silliness of such a mean gossip. The most conservative women this year are buying overalls for their small daughters just as they order them for their sons. The difference between the garments is largely in the trimming. The girls' overalls have red yokes and red suspenders, while the boys get along with only red stitchings. But then, for the boys, come tiny denim coats like the trousers. The girls are not supposed to wear these. The reason?

"A boy is dressed," said the attendant, "with only overalls and the jacket over his underwear. Mothers have not yet made up their minds to this simplicity for girls. Gamps of white cotton or linen, or sweaters, are worn by girls with overalls." Any child large enough to hold its own on the playground is big enough to dress in this highly sensible garment. The price, for girls, is sixty-nine cents; for boys, forty-nine. The comfort which this overall fashion insures to girls and boys and their mothers is hardly to be estimated in a moment. It means that the play hour is free for all from worriment about damage to clothes; that mud, even fence nails, no longer have power to poison young souls. Mothers can turn their hopefuls loose in a back yard, a garret or on a seashore, confident that nothing worse than dirt and tears will happen to small clothes. Tears can be mended easily, and the remedy for dirt is the occasional washtub.

Fancy the relief to women of limited means, this sanction by wealthy neighbors of a fashion of dressing the impetuous young, which recognizes their need of being next to lawless frequently. In intervening moments, for very tiredness, children want to be clean and good.

With this admirable garment boys and girls wear on their feet low or higher shoes of stout brown leather. It is imported goatskin; the heels are spring. The higher shoes keep out the sand. The soles are thick, the heels low and lacing is more sportsmanlike than buttoning. Withal these boots are easy and flexible. The careful shoeing of children is an intelligent enthusiasm with enough shoemakers to supply the demand from mothers wise enough to ask for feet-shaped shoes. It is the pride of one place in particular where young boots are sold that a child wearing from infancy feet covering of their make will grow up with perfect feet if nature gave to them a fair start. Black shoes for children as for adult, are dressier than brown, though there is a brown Russia leather sort which is good enough for much afternoon use.

Kate Greenaway Frock.

Nothing could be more quaint and becoming to young children than the little Kate Greenaway frocks which are now becoming so popular again.

For a sweet little miss of four or five, a lovely little gown is of white lawn dotted with blue. The skirt is quite plain in front and is finished at the bottom with two tiny ruffles. The short waisted bodice is laced part way up the front and worn over a dainty guimp of white lawn. The sleeves which are held in with a small cuff at the wrist, are slashed to show the white guimp underneath. A large sun hat is worn with this frock.

Dining Room Soda Fountain.

The dining-room soda-fountain was seen more or less often last summer. It is again put forward with the spring housefurnishings. It is a plain oaken box that might be anything until it is opened and its interior displayed. Within an ice-chest the supply of soda-water is held, and small bottles of various fruit syrups are also a part of the outfit. A more simple arrangement, where soda-water is wanted at the country house which is often not only miles from the traditional lemon, but equally removed from the esteemed effervescence dispenser, is the use of the home-made syrup with a siphon of plain soda. The fruit syrups—strawberry, pineapple, orange, raspberry, currant, and lemon—are easily made. The wish of a small boy for a soda-fountain right in the wall of his room is practically, if not to the letter, accomplished.

Porcelain Design for Doily.

Every woman loves a piece of good embroidery however simple it may be. And embroidery in the form of pretty accessories for the table is always desirable. There are five or six different size doilies which find a place on the dinner or evening table. There are doilies which are used under finger bowls, the fruit plate, the water bottle and any number of table accessories.

Made of Champagne Corks.

At a London club there is the most unique pair of curtains in existence.

This portiere is formed of hundreds of champagne corks, taken from every known brand of champagne, each of which bears the tin top which adorned it when the cork was in its parent bottle. The corks are made into strings, there being sixty of them to each string. Between every cork there are three big Chinese beads of turquoise-blue.

The corks are tied to a white enamelled pole, with fancy ends, and big sashes of blue ribbon adorn the brass knobs. The total effect is distinctly pretty.

What makes this unique portiere doubly valuable is the fact that each cork bears the autograph of a famous actor or actress of the present day.

White Barege Gown.

Newer in white gowns than those of duck, pique, or "dressy" muslin are toilets of white barege made over white taffeta silk and trimmed with a frill or ruches on the gored skirt that is shaped with a demi-train. The elaboration of these dresses is in the round waist which is decorated with chiffon pleatings arranged in surplice form, a narrow vest of handsome lace and belt and shoulder bows and ends of medium-wide white satin ribbon. The sleeves are very small mutton-leg shapes tapering to the wrist and there turning back with a narrow lace cuff finished with a satin bow. A frill of pleated chiffon falls over the hand. The neck is finished to correspond with ribbon bows, lace points, and a standing frill of chiffon.

Useful Items.

White silk handkerchiefs must never be washed in very hot water or they will turn yellow; use as little soap as possible.

To destroy ants paint the floor round their haunts with paraffin oil, and pour boiling water, to which has been added a little carbolic acid, down their holes.

To clean gas globes wash in cold soda water, rinse in cold water, and when dry paint all over with spirits of salts, using a clean brush, and rinse finally.

Immersing the head in cold water every morning, or moistening the hair incessantly are injurious; the hair should always be carefully covered with an oilskin cap while in the bath.

Birds on Summer Hats.

The odd association of tulle and birds is noticed again on many of the expensive summer hats, choux and loops of the airy material supporting a snow-white, violet, or jet-black bird. Often only the wings or tail feathers are employed among clouds of tulle, while perhaps the head and breast plumage of some mutilated songster peeps out from similar clouds on another model. Tall pointed feathers are likewise dyed a brilliant scarlet or a deep blue, and these and also bright green parrot's wings are used on hats of jet black.

The Handle Inconvenienced Him.

Pat had been presented with a handsome walking-stick. The stick happened to be a few inches too long, so Pat promptly cut off the splendid silver-mounted handle. A friend observing this asked him why in the world he had cut off the handle instead of shortening the stick at the bottom.

"Och! now phwat do yez take me for?" replied Pat. "Sure, and wasn't it the top that inconvaniance me?"

A Pleasing Effect.

A pleasing effect was achieved in the decoration of a music-room recently, on the occasion of a wedding, by the use of an India shawl. It was a large and fine one, with a pink centre. This was spread over the grand piano, and on the pink centre stood a pink jardiniere filled with apple blossoms. At the side of the piano, in a tall Chinese jar of pale pink and green, was massed more blooms of dogwood and apple blossoms mingled.

A Tea Farm in America.

It will be news to many people that there is a tea-farm in America. This is in South Carolina, and recently, at the annual breakfast of a Boston club, one of its members who lives in the Southern States, sent a package of tea from this initial farm, which was brewed and served to the company. Those who drank it pronounced it excellent.

"Well, little boy, what's your name?"

Mecklenburg.

Wismar. Die in den letzten Jahren in zum Theil langen Artikeln erörterte Frage, ob das auf 100 Jahre an Mecklenburg verpfändete Wismar, das im Westfälischen Frieden an Schweden fiel, von Schweden im Jahre 1903 wieder eingelöst und somit an diese Krone zurückfallen werde, hat nun auch aus dem Munde des Herzog-Regenten eine Antwort erhalten. Bei der Festtafel, die ihm zu Ehren die Stadt Wismar in dem Audienzsaale des Rathhauses veranstaltet hatte, schloß er seine Rede mit dem Satze: „Ich leere mein Glas darauf, daß nie wieder ein fremder Fuß diesen durch und durch mecklenburgischen Boden als sein Eigenthum betreten möge!"

Braunschweig.

Großherzogthum Hessen.

Darmstadt. Die hiesige technische Hochschule zählt im laufenden Sommersemester 1321 Hörer gegen 1315 im letzten Wintersemester, darunter 305 Hessen und 733 Angehörige der übrigen Bundesstaaten. Unter den Auswärtigen sind die Russen mit 130 Studirenden am stärksten vertreten. Der Lehrkörper der Anstalt setzt sich aus 29 ordentlichen und 10 außerordentlichen Professoren, sowie 23 Lehrern und Privatdozenten zusammen; dazu kommen noch 27 Assistenten.

Worms. Gegen einen hiesigen Metzgermeister, der die Lieferung für die Garnison hatte, ist Untersuchung wegen Betrugs eingeleitet worden, weil er, statt Ochsenfleisch, wie es nach den Lieferungs-Bedingungen verpflichtet war, Kuhfleisch geliefert hatte.

Bayern.

München. Die Kosten für die vorjährigen Kaisermanöver betrugen—wie Kriegsminister v. Asch im Finanzausschuß der Kammer mittheilte—allein für Bayern 1,481,650 Mark.—An der Decke des großen Saales im Hofbräuhaus steht neben vielen anderen schönen Sinnsprüchen auch folgender: „Der Eingeborene heuchelt nicht und wo ihm etwas mißfällt, sagt er es geradezu und beurtheilt öffentlich den Vornehmen wie den Niederen. Er sagt es laut und in's Gesicht sagt er's ihm!" Beklagt er sich aber über das Hofbräu, so wird er, wie die in letzter Zeit vielbesprochene Geschichte eines Stammgastes zeigt, aus den geweihten Hallen hinausgewiesen.

Deggendorf. Neulich Abends wurde am Stadtplatze von einem Radfahrer ein vierjähriger Knabe derart überfahren, daß sein Oberschenkel zersplittert wurde. Der rücksichtslose Mensch, der ohne Glocke fuhr, machte sich, ohne sich um das Kind zu kümmern, in raschem Tempo aus dem Staube und entkam, ohne erkannt zu werden.

Hof. In dem nahen Eisenbühl kam dieser Tage der ledige Tagelöhner Philipp Fichtelmann von der Arbeit heim und gerieth alsbald mit seiner betrunkenen Mutter in einen Wortwechsel. Fichtelmann schleuderte schließlich seine Mutter gegen die Thüre, wo sie mit dem Hinterkopf an's Thürschloß fiel und dabei solche Verletzungen erlitt, daß sie alsbald todt war. Fichtelmann wurde verhaftet.

Kulmbach. Die Erbauung einer Quellwasserleitung aus der Marktschorgaster Gegend erscheint nunmehr als gesichert, nachdem die hiesigen gewerblichen Etablissements einen jährlichen Verbrauch von 285,000 Hektoliter gezeichnet haben, so daß zur Verzinsung der Schuld nur noch etwa 8000 Mark fehlen.

Nürnberg. Das Glühlicht hat sich für die Straßenbeleuchtung hier derart gut bewährt, daß der Magistrat beschlossen hat, diese Beleuchtungsart in allen Straßen, in denen nicht elektrische Beleuchtung ist, einzuführen.

Passau. In Neuburg am Inn rutschte bei einem Neubau bei der Hebung des Dachstuhles das Gebälk ab. Das dreijährige Söhnchen des Bräumeisters Danninger wurde von einem abstürzenden Balken erschlagen, Danninger selbst wurde nicht unerheblich verletzt

A Parlor Suit Treat

If you have a moment or two, put it to good purpose—see the big Parlor Suit "spread" that's waiting for you. A dozen remarkably superb sample suits—often for less than it cost to put 'em together. About some of them:

One—a silk brocatelle suit, was $75—now $50.

Another velour suit—$30 before—now $35.

A great big Refrigerator stock—$5.49 is what you can get a hardwood upright refrigerator for—where can closer buying be done? The galvanized ice pick, tongs and pan go with it, free.

VAN HORN'S

Wickless Blue Flame Oil Stove
—easy as a lamp to run—but has no wick or valve—worth its weight in gold to housewives.

The "Monarch" Vapor Stove
—a great wonder—one burner generates all the vapor—powerful and sure. No details or "things" to operate—no worry, danger or uncertainty.

$5.95—just received—others ask and get a third more for it. Look up this Carriage stock of ours.

There's a daily exhibition of these stoves going on for all visitors—we sell the "Insurance" and "Quickmeal" Vapor Stoves, too.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

THE LITTLE MOTHER.

BY DELLA M. HARRIS.

She was a feeble old dame, and the driver, impatient of delay, grumbled incessantly, being obliged to hold the door of the stagecoach open for a long time while she was assisted to enter. The occupants shivered as the stiff November gale rushed in. Several disrespectful men swore audibly. Everybody wondered why one so infirm should venture out in such inclement weather.

She was enveloped in a long cloak, the hood drawn close over her head. A thick, black veil completely hid her features. She leaned heavily upon a stout cane.

She was seated beside a handsome, thoughtful looking youth who had offered her his assistance. Before leaving the stage, the maid who accompanied her turned to the youth.

"Hast thou any sisters, sir?" she asked, and then blushed very red, and looked perplexed.

"Yes, mistress, I have," he answered.

"Hast—hast thou a—a mother?"

"I have a mother too, mistress."

"Then wilt thou take charge of my little mother?"

"That will I with exceeding pleasure."

Now why didn't the lass place her mother under the protection of that large, strong looking officer, the worthy Captain Lowell? Mayhap his buckles were not so bright, nor his cloak so fine, as those of the youth. Who can explain a woman's motive? Not I, in good sooth.

The stage jolted on, and it was with difficulty that the men kept their places. The little woman braced herself with her stick, and kept her seat after a fashion that surprised them.

"Prithee, take my arm, little mother," Arthur Comstock, for that was the name of the youth, had suggested.

The old dame vouchsafed no other response than to place her cane with more firmness.

"In truth she hath pluck," Captain Lowell whispered in Comstock's ear.

Then they fell to talking about the uprising among the Creeks.

"Dost see any danger in store for us, captain?" Comstock inquired.

"Heaven forbid an attack ere we get to Marion! We are almost out of ammunition, and must needs get supplies there."

"They say Thunder Hawk holds council with the English officers."

"Ay, and it bodes no good for the colonists. 'Tis whispered that the devils skulk about and attack muleteers and stages. I told the driver it were well he go armed, even though we be delayed to wait for powder. At that he burst out laughing, and told me to look to myself, he was not afraid. The young upstart! 'Twere most unfortunate our trusty driver be stricken with fever."

"Heaven send we reach Marion," Comstock said. "Are you cold, little mother?" for she was all of a shiver.

She dropped her cane and clung to his arm. The act went straight to his heart. Tenderly he wrapped her cloak close about her.

The road ran smoother now, and one by one the men went off to sleep. The captain and Comstock remained vigilant. Soon the little mother released her hold, and her deep breath told that she was asleep. Like a tired child, she leaned her head over against Comstock's shoulder.

"'Tis not a romantic situation, methinks," the captain said with a laugh. "Prithee, fancy the old dame be the bright-eyed wench you told me of a few months since."

Comstock shook his head.

"'Twere well to have a lively imagination, my lad. Has aught come between you?"

"Only a little note saying she loved me not, but another," he burst out. "Captain, many a time hath she lain her head on my shoulder and whispered, 'Arthur, this is my place till death us do part.' 'Twas an ill day when I met her."

"Yet you would have it she loved you only, when I warned you against these pretty playthings. Haply, Comstock, you are learning your lesson early. Much older was I when it came to me. How long since thou didst receive the note?"

"A month, as the world reckons time."

A smothered sigh came from behind the veil.

"Captain," whispered Lowell Comstock, "I deem it best to raise her veil, else I fear she may smother."

He was about to make good his intention when his hand was stayed. With yells so fierce and bloodthirsty that it seemed the demons of the whole universe were suddenly loosed, the Indians sprang from the bushes and began firing at the stagecoach.

Every man leaped to his feet.

"Great God! The Creeks have attacked us!" came from their pale lips.

Above the clatter of the heavy wheels, they could hear the driver lashing the horses.

"Verily, the devils are coming," the captain shouted. "They think us unarmed. I have a few charges, and shall use them, I promise you, when I see my vantage."

hands and fell forward. Crack! Crack! Two more savages dropped. With renewed yelling the fiends rushed onward. Two more fell beneath the captain's bullets ere he flung down his rifle.

"'Tis all I have," he said. "Heaven pity us, and grant that driver and horses hold out till we reach yonder town!"

Suddenly the stage stopped, and the men who were not crouching were thrown to the floor. Comstock, with the old dame clinging to him, was dashed against the side of the stage. Some one bawled that the driver was making for the woods, and 'twere well for the rest to do the same. A moment afterward, no one remained save the captain, Comstock and the little mother.

Captain Lowell sprang up.

"The fool hath set the brake," he said in hurried tones. "Comstock, if I can but reach the seat, we are saved. Nay," for the youth was about to protest, "she wants you. See, she hath fainted."

Was it only a few minutes? To the listener within it was an hour. Was that a cry of pain that sounded above the whizzing of bullets, and the yells of the savages? Or was it only a grating sound as the brake was loosed?

The vehicle began to move. Faster, faster it went, till it seemed to be flying.

Arthur Comstock sought to revive the little mother. He threw back the thick veil, and oh, God! it was the white face of—of—Marion at last! Safe! When the jolly host of the Boar's Head beheld the pale face of the driver, and noted that his left arm hung helpless to his side, he threw down his pipe and cried out,—

"Good Lord deliver us! What's the matter?"

With his good sight hand the captain beckoned him to open the door of the stagecoach.

"Good Lord deliver us!" he burst out again. "Are they both dead? Here, you men, lift out the youth while I carry in the maid. That's right, my beauty! Open your blue eyes."

Meanwhile, Captain Lowell had looked at the fine, pale face of the girl, and turned whiter than ever.

"Yea, 'tis as I thought," he said.

"You must have your wound dressed, my noble fellow," the surgeon was saying. "How you managed yon frightened horses I know not. And with one hand, too."

Captain Lowell answered naught. He only followed the surgeon in a dazed sort of way.

When Comstock came to his senses, he raised himself and looked about him.

"I pray you where is she? Where is Helen?" he asked.

Captain Lowell came forward. His arm was in a sling.

"Ay, Comstock," he said in his hearty way, "the little mother was a pretty maid, after all. Your sweetheart, too, I take it. You could not have sustained her better had you known it; much shaken is she, and much frightened, but safe. Comstock," coming nearer, "I would tell you all I know, and spare the maid. I was unjust. She was true to you, though it seemed not so. What I tell you now I—I have from the man who would woo her, and asked for her hand. That lazy nigger boy gave the note she wrote him over in your hands, and it had grieved you much. The—the other wooer sought her again. She was no fickle maid, she said, and had answered him for aye in the letter. She left him trying to tell her he had received it not. He never knew who the other suitor was until—until—It matters not when. And now farewell, I needs must go to take command of my men. Heaven bless you and make you happy!" And he was gone.

"And so you set out to find your humble servant after the boy made known his error," Arthur Comstock said that night, as he sat alone with his sweetheart, his arm around her, she leaning her head on his shoulder. "Prithee, darling, why go in disguise?"

"I deemed it more prudent, and safer."

"How didst happen to find me?"

"By mere chance. Sarah, my maid, saw you get into the stage. Acting, I take it, on an impulse, we followed. She put me in your keeping, and took the next stage for home."

"Why not reveal yourself to me then?"

"Before the—them all? I deemed it proper to wait till we reached Marion. Besides, it were much pleasure to have you care for me so tenderly when you knew me not."

"Didst hear me tell all to the captain?"

"I was so tired I fell asleep. When I woke, you were saying, 'A month, as the world reckons time.' Then I knew you were lonely."

"Wilt tell me, dearest, who your other wooer might be? Heretofore, I had no knowledge that there was one."

"Beloved, I would gladly leave that question unanswered. But know it was none other than our saviour this day, the noble Captain Lowell."

"God forgive us both, sweetheart, for the pain we have caused him is great. He is no trifler, and loved you much, else he would not have asked your hand in marriage. Nor will he be cast down or dispirited, but will bear it like the hero that he is. May much love, prosperity and happiness come into his future."

Three months later, when Captain Lowell returned home after placing under subjection the Creeks, a great feast was spread in his honor. The captain danced gayly with all the maidens; it was noted by the good folks, who watched his every gesture in worshipful silence, that when he led forward Helen Comstock, he whispered some words in her ear and nodded toward her husband. Whereupon she blushed mightily, and looked pleased. Some, whose eyes sought Arthur Comstock's face, did say that he returned the nod with a smile. Moreover, those seated near enough heard him say, as if forgetting he was not alone,—

As if every man, woman and child for miles around knew it not!

SIMON'S NEMESIS.

The grey wolf of North America is not often an enemy that man has any great reason to fear. When he is especially hungry, which is chiefly in the winter season, he will band together and hunt anything.

But when I tramped through Green's Timber it was not winter time, and I knew of no reason why wolves should be hungry. Green's Timber is the name given to a particularly thick piece of jungle forest near the banks of the Snake River in Idaho. I was thrusting my way through the brake and thinking of anything but wolves, and particularly of the dear girl whom I had walked some miles to see that morning. Alma Treleaven had been my dear girl for only a week, and naturally my head was full of her as I tramped cheerily homeward. When I saw a long-coated grey form steal away from a glade as I entered it I scarcely marked the occurrence. But later I turned and saw the brute's blazing eyes and muscles stiffened for a spring. I barely had time to draw a pistol and fire. When it wanted scarcely an hour to sunset another strange thing happened to dispel my confidence. I had left the forest and had already made some way into an extensive prairie through which lay my road, when there fell upon my ear the unmistakable yelp, yelp of a pack in full cry. I looked round and saw close to the edge of the forest a swiftly moving patch of dots that I knew well enough represented thirty or forty wolves coming on with characteristic eagerness. They were two miles away as the crow flies, but about four miles back upon my trail, which I could see plainly they were following. In less than half an hour they would catch me up and there was no place of refuge within reach—except the swamps!

The swamps that lie along the Snake River are a terror to all who know them. In them the poisonous Crater moccasins live and thrive like mites in a cheese. Unlike most snakes, this reptile is credited with a spiteful aggressiveness that makes it far more dangerous than others of its kind. According to all accounts, the man who entered the swomps ran the continual risk of being assaulted and even pursued by the deadly reptiles. But with so certain and imminent a danger behind me I was ready and almost anxious to take the risk.

A howl of disappointment told me that the pack had arrived at the margin and dared go no further. I had terrors enough for that day and was particularly glad to reach home—about 8 o'clock. "I thought you were lost," said Simon, my chum, with a scared, white face that gave me a considerable shock. He looked more terrified than I had a right to feel, and I told him so. He spoke with eyes averted; as he reached down the plates for supper they clattered like castinets. When I had changed my wet garments for dry ones, and when a steaming hash had been placed upon the table, I began to relate my adventure.

I spoke but briefly of having seen Amy. Only a week ago he had seen almost as much of her as I, and I had a suspicion that her engagement to me was a sore subject. I accordingly hurried on to tell about the wolf in the wood. "What a strange thing," he said, turning away his head and speaking constrainedly. "I suppose the beast was mad. Been eating stale flesh, likely."

Then I told how I had seen the pack on my trail four miles behind. He got up from the table, with clenched fists.

"How did you get away?" he asked. I told him the rest.

"Wh—e! Came through Moccasin swamp," he ejaculated. "It swarms with snakes. No man has been through it before." It struck me that he spoke as though he was disappointed at my escape.

Suddenly he put his hand to his head and sprang into the air, with a piercing shriek filled the room "I'm bitten, I'm bitten! You brought it home," he shouted, and to my terror I saw a long, black body hanging from him, its fangs buried in his neck. Simon had leaned his head against my jacket that was hanging to dry, and the snake must have been in one of the pockets.

The reptile was quickly dispatched, but Simon's case was quite hopeless. The fangs had almost entered the jugular, and a few minutes sufficed for the poison to reach the heart.

Ere he died Simon blurted out a strange confession. He recited his love for Amy and her preference for me. Jealousy, he said, had taken full possession of him; he had last night rubbed my leggins with valerian, an infallible attraction to wolves. Only the swamp could save me from the pack, and that was almost certain death by snakes. I had passed safely through the swamp, and had unwittingly brought home with me the instrument of his punishment.

I thought the confession over, and resolved to believe that it was all an imaginary story, the outcome of the poison working in Simon's veins. I hope that this may be so, but I confess that I so far allowed the possibility of another version as to burn those gaiters.—The Golden Penny.

Had No Chance to Tell.

"Don't you come around here with any more of your patent frauds," said Uncle Reuben. "I've been took in once, but you ain't goin' to catch me agin."

"What's the matter?" asked the gentlemanly agent. "The lightning rods I sold you are all right, aren't they?"

"All right? Well, meybe you call 'em all right; but they've been up for more'n six months now, and the lightning hasn't hit 'em once!"—Chicago News.

M. DURAN IN AMERICA.

Most Celebrated Portrait Painter in the World.

Carolus Duran, the celebrated French artist, the painter of beautiful women and the Prince of Wales and other princes and members of the royalty, is making his first visit to the United States.

M. Duran is a striking looking man, tall, elegant, hair worn long, slightly curling, pointed beard, small hands and feet, with the added distinction of a plentiful display of jewelry.

The artist, whose real name, by the way, is Charles Emile Durand, is sixty-one years old. He is proud of the fact that he is self-made. His father was a horse dealer in one of the Paris suburbs and his mother kept a small cafe frequented by students. He worked hard for his artistic education, and managed to visit Spain and Italy.

He has founded a school of his own in portrait paintingand gets big prices for his work, ranging from $3,000 for the bust of a child to $14,000 or thereabouts for mother and child. Among his best known works is a portrait of Consuelo Vanderbilt, Duchess of Marlborough.

He is said to have painted portraits of more beautiful women than any other artist in the world. His other works include "Evening Prayer," "A Vision," "Dame at Gant" and "Gloria Mariae Medicis." Much of his work is in the luxembourg Museum of Paris.

FIRST WOMAN DOCTOR.

She was a Successful Practitioner Nearly 300 B. C.

The first qualified lady doctor in Europe, as far as is known, was a young Athenian woman named Agnodice. In the year B. C. 300 she disguised herself as a man and began to attend the medical schools at Athens, which it was against the law for a woman to do. She afterward practiced among the women of Athens with extraordinary success. But her secret becoming known, she was posecuted for studying and practicing medicine illegally. The Athenian women, however, raised so furious an agitation in consequence that the case was dropped and the law repealed. Coming to later times, we find several women who obtained the degree of doctor of medicine and practiced in Europe before 1492, especially in the Moorish universities of Spain.

Trotula of Ruggiero in the eleventh century had a European reputation, and practiced as a doctor in Salerno. At the beginning of the fourteenth century Dorothea Bocchi not only received the degree of doctor, but was professor of medicine in the famous University of Bologna. Since then two other ladies have been professors of medical subjects in the same university—Anna Mangolini (anatomy) and Dr. Maria delle Donne (obstetric medicine), the latter being appointed in 1799. In the year 1311 an edict was issued in France forbidding surgeons and female surgeons to practice until they had passed a satisfactory examination before the proper authorities. These female surgeons are again refered to in an edict of 1352.—Pittsburg Dispatch

The Fashionable Siberian.

For five months of the year the Siberian man of fashion lives in the open air, either at the mining camp or in the hunting field. He is an early bird under all circumstances, and invariably rises between 7 and 8 o'clock, although he may have had but a couple of hours' rest. Nearly every meal is succeeded by a nap. However, dressing operations do not take very long, for when he retires the Siberian only divests himself of his coat and boots. Shirts are unknown in Siberia, and in many houses beds, also. The samovar is set on the dining room table at 8 A. M., together with eggs, black and white bread, sardines, jam and cakes, &c. Breakfast is eaten and washed down by five or six glasses of tea stirred up with sugar, cream, and sometimes jam. At one o'clock dinner is served, and at 5 in the afternoon another small meal, much like that of the morning is taken. A meat supper follows at nine o'clock. —Ladies' Home Journal.

Making Business.

The proprietor of the shoe shop sat on a packing case and looked enviously at the rival establishment across the way.

"I wonder why it is that he is getting all the business," he said.

"He has gone over his entire stock," explained the clerk, who had taken the trouble to investigate the matter, "and has renumbered the sizes. As a result a woman who ordinarily wears a No. 3 shoe can be fitted with a No. 2 in his store."

Then, of course, it was apparent why nine out of every ten women in town absolutely refused to patronize any one else.—Chicago Evening Post.

STRICKEN BY HEAT.

LATE DETAILS OF THE HOT WAVE IN AUSTRALIA.

Frightful Sights Amid the Sufferers of Sydney—At the Melbourne Observatory 109.5 Degrees Were Registered Under Severe Shade.

A weird story of aridity, where all is usually parched and dry, where men drop dead with thirst and fishes perish in the shallow lakes in the city parks and birds fall stricken from the skies, comes from far off Australia.

It is an annual event at the Antipodes, where the 24th of December corresponds with our longest day in midsummer. Christmas in Australia is the season of intense heat. But this year the terrific hot wave was a little later than usual, though when it came it transformed the greater part of the continent into a hot oven and baked men's skin like bread.

For the term of two weeks succeeding December 30th, the pavements in cities like Sydney, Melbourne and Victoria were burning people's feet. Horses were struck dead under the sun's rays as with a shock of electricity; and on the cattle and sheep ranges hundreds of thousands of animals perished in consequence of the springs and creeks running dry. At the Melbourne Observatory, 107.3 degrees were registered under severe shade, a record which was increased two days later to 109.5 degrees under the same conditions. At a gazabo of a town, called Omeo, perched in the winds of that sweltering land, the record was 105 degrees, while at a certain part of the well settled colony of Victoria the shade was no less than 116 degrees. Nor was this unprecedented At a place called Croki, in 1896, the temperature was 121 degrees and at Perth it was 117 degrees.

A writer in descanting on this drought says, "The earth seemed to faint under the white, blinding skies. The harvests shrivelled. The orchards with all their leafy promise were smitten as with the blast of a furnace; the grass turned to dust over the wide plains; a lurid haze covered the country and the sun was like an adobe of blood." It is stated that grapes were actually cooked upon the stems of the vines on which they grew; and all human activity was suspended in the public offices and on government contracts for four hours each day. The heat was so thoroughly oppressive that men could do little more than lie down or immerse themselves in cool waters during the day. During a single day the 410,000 inhabitants of Sydney consumed 19,500,000 gallons of water or almost fifty gallons per head, the average consumption for New York in a day of corresponding summer heat being eighteen gallons per capita with our thousands of factories in full blast.

During this period which lasts without intermission for two weeks or more, bathing is most necessary in order to avoid sunstroke. The streets of Sydney are kept washed down with water each day in a constant effort to lower the blistering temperature. This, however, does not satisfy the inhabitants, and the city authorities have to shut off the water supply for several hours each day in order to prevent waste, the people being thus put upon short commons in the public interest much as a ships' officers stint the supply of provisions in a shipwreck. The mortality in Sydney especially among babies is unprecedentedly high during this annual visitation of sunstroke which cuts off the very old and young and neither spares man or beast or living thing.

Last year the heat, while greatest in New South Wales was also general throughout Australia; but the capriciousness of the climate was so variable this year that while horses were smitten and mad dogs foamed in the streets of Sydney or cattle fell dead in the neighboring pastures, there was a deluge of rain in Brisbane; and the sewers and waterworks burst with the pressure of rainfall. In other words, while five of the six colonies of the Queen were being roasted, and when men could only venture into the harvest fields by moonlight to save the remnant of the blighted crops the sixth colony was inundated with water to such an extent of humidity that most of the farm crops were levelled down and rotted in the floods.

There was constant high winds all over the Island continent in this sense, however, that while a tornado of wind and rain were pelting themselves over Queensland with the fury characteristic of warm southern countries—destroying crops and demolishing sheep farms en route—there was a very different sort of a storm in Victoria and New South Wales. An unusual feature of the hot wave that prevailed in these latter provinces was that a high wind resembling a blast from the fiery hosts of Hades blew over the country, reaching a velocity of fifty or seventy-five miles an hour. It was a wind that caught the fumes and glow of the parched plains and of the burning sands over which it swept being here and there fanned into a more furious degree of insufferable and oppressive dryness, by the frequent brush-fires that were spontaneously generated in its track by the friction which the wind produced. Most of these brush fires were the direct result of the wind and heat. Once started they rushed through the half-scorched prairies as would a fire through dry tow, gathering up dust from the baked and blazing fields and darkening the skies for hundreds of miles with blinding clouds of smoke, and which after enveloping the country were still traceable in the atmosphere at a distance of some two hundred miles on sea.

The Basking Ridge and Sterling teams met Saturday afternoon and played seven innings when the storm broke up the game. The score was then 1 to 0 in favor of Basking Ridge. T. Lyons, of this city covered third base on the winning side. The game was played at Sterling.

The Clinton Avenue Club went to Somerville Saturday afternoon to meet the reorganized Somersets of that city. It was the first attempt of the Somersets to recover from their failure of last year. The Somersets had Wood, of West Troy, in the box, and Shaw, a Somervillian, as catcher. Their team was strong. Hoffman and Townley were the battery for the Clinton avenue team. The visitors scored three runs in the first inning and four in the third. The Somersets made four in the second and three in the third, tieing the score. It continued that way until the fifth inning when the rain came down and the umpire called the game. Denny Kane covered first base for the Clinton avenues.

GOLF.

Golf is one game whose patrons cannot stop for rain or snow, as was shown Saturday afternoon. The monthly handicap was scheduled for that date and so were the Fisk Cup Junior Handicap ond the Mrs. Charles J. Fisk Cup Handicap. In the monthly handicap only a few players came in before the shower caught them, while others had to leave off at about the tenth or fifteenth hole. Almost all the players for the Junior cup made all the holes, but there was not a point scored for the Mrs. Fisk cup.

The clubhouse presented a cozy appearance during the rain. Mrs. Geo. A. Chapman gave the tea Saturday afternoon and was assisted in receiving by Mrs. W. E. Lowe, Mrs. Howard Fleming, Mrs. S. F. Kimball, Miss Dumont, Miss VanBoskerck, Miss Wood, Miss Coe and Miss Bushnell.

The scores made in the monthly handicap were:

	Gross.	Handicap.	Net.
H. W. Beebe	97	14	83
W. T. Kaufman	100	10	90
Reve Stockton	101	5	96
F. W. Walz	97	14	83

For the Fisk Junior cup:

	Gross.	Handicap.	Net
Whitney Baker	100	0	100
Irving W. Clark	120	30	90
O. H. Fleming, Jr.	105	20	85
Paul W. Kimball	98	10	88
David S. Pond	100	5	95
G. H. Richards	89	3	86
N. P. Rogers, Jr.	126	16	110
Clarence S. Roome	121	26	95
H. LeC. Roome	131	28	102

When the rain was over several of the players began where they had left off, and continued the game. This was made necessary because the events couldn't be postponed. Those who did not play out lost the game by default.

TUCK TURNER IN TOWN

pire did not see it and called Hollister safe, giving Turner an error. In reality he was fairly out. It made no difference in the general result, however.

The Staten Islanders failed to score in their half of the fourth, and then the storm put a sudden ending to the game.

The Plainfield boys did great fielding and won praise even from the experienced "Tuck." Lederer ran backwards and made a phenominal catch while Metz ran backward and caught a ball with his left hand that noboby supposed was in his territory at all. Stevens error was excusable for the wind made the flight of the ball very deceptive. Turner had nothing but praise to say for his successors on the Crescents but he remarked on the poor attendance that now greets baseball in Plainfield.

When he left the Crescents, Turner went to Philadelphia where he rose to be one of the leading batters in the League. Then he was sold to St. Louis and now that club has sold him to Kansas City. "Tuck" and Kansas City do nct agree, which accounts for his present trip east.

The detailed score of the game, or as much of it as was played, was as follows:—

CALL SPENCER CONWAY TO ACCOUNT

An Odd Fellow Says He May be a Moses for Some, But Not for All.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Will you allow me space in your valuable paper to deny the assertion made in your paper by Spencer Conway, last Saturday evening, concerning the Odd Fellows. I deny that some of the leading men in some of our churches rented Washington Hall for the Odd Fellows entertainment, and say it is false. We did not give our annual entertainment in opposition to those given in the several churches. Our bills and tickets was printed and distributed to the public previous to any of the churches. Mr. Conway might be a Moses for some of his colored brethren but he can't lead the Odd Fellows. Now, Spencer Conway, if you will open your Bible to the seventh chapter of St. Matthew and read from the first to the sixth verses and put that in practice you will not find time criticize such a noble and grand order as the Odd Fellows. SUDDEN DEATH AT NEW MARKET.

Miss Jennie Armstrong Had Been in Feeble Health for Some Time.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Market, June 27—The sudden death of Miss Jennie Armstrong, aged thirty-five years, occurred last evening at the home of Mrs. Stein, of this place. Miss Armstrong has been employed by Mrs. O. T. Waring, of Plaidfield, for nine months past, and of late her health became poor. She came to Mrs. Stein's home to be treated by Dr. Nelson, and she had only been here a few days. Last evening about 10:15 she was preparing to retire and when she reached her room she took some medicine prescribed by Dr. Nelson. A few minutes later she fell to the floor dead. Dr. Nelson was sent for and he pronounced death due to heart failure.

Miss Armstrong has a brother living in Toronto, Can., and word has been sent to him regarding the death. It is not known that her parents are now living. She was engaged to Gilbert VanNest, of this place, and it is understood that the marriage was to take place at an early day.

FUNERAL OF DAVID M. DEMAREST.

Rev. A. V. V. Raymond Paid Great Tribute to His Character.

The funeral services of the late David M. Demarest were held from the house corner of East Seventh street and Crescent avenue, last Saturday afternoon at 2:30. There was a large attendance of friends and relatives of the deceased. The Scripture reading and opening prayer was by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor of Trinity Reformed church, and Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, president of Union Theological Seminary, made a few remarks concerning the life of the departed. He spoke of benevolence to charitable organizations, his integrity and success in business, and his modesty and retiring manner. Mr. Raymond stated that it was not the wish of the departed that he be loudly praised for any deeds in life, that he much preferred that a few words be spoken. The doctor also spoke of Mr. Demarest being a good man and true to his word. The services throughout were very impressive.

The floral offerings were many and very beautiful. The pallbearers were all nephews from out of the city. Interment was in Hillside cemetery.

Received News of Her Brother's Death.

Mrs. Carman, of Elmwood place, received word yesterday telling her of the death of her brother at Spring Valley, N. Y. He has been very ill for some time past and his death was not unexpected. Mrs. Carman left yesterday for Spring Valley to attend the funeral which will be held to-morrow.

Cut His Hand.

George Gould, a butcher in the employ of E. E. Brown, at the corner of Park avenue and Second street, gashed his left hand quite badly Saturday afternoon while cutting a piece of meat for a customer. Proper treatment was given and Mr. Gould is able to continue his duties.

—Daniel Shay, Richard Hoffman and Spencer Scribner went to Sea Girt this morning to join the Third Regiment. All three have passed their first examinations.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials Address,

ST. PAUL DISABLES TERROR

Spanish Destroyer Attacked the Cruiser Near San Juan.

M'KINLEY PROCLAIMS ANOTHER BLOCKADE TODAY.

The Attempt to Sink the St. Paul Was a Failure—The Spanish Losses—Camara Meets with Further Trouble—Will Repair Machinery—Plans for Commodore Watson's Eastern Squadron.

THE TERROR DISABLED.

Attempt to Attack The St. Paul Was a Complete Failure.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 28, 12:28 p, m—A report has reached here of an attempt to destroy the auxiliary cruiser St Paul by two Spanish warships off San Juan. It resulted in the defeat of the Spaniards.

The report comes from Captain Sigbee, commanding the St. Paul. The action took place off San Juan Wednesday afternoon. The St. Paul was attacked by an unprotected Spanish cruiser and the Spanish torpedo boat destroyer Terror.

The St. Paul was scouting about the entrance to the harbor of San Juan when the two Spanish ships suddenly appeared steaming out of the harbor. The Terror made a sudden dash for the American ship, which quietly awaited the attack.

The crew of the St. Paul had been summoned to action in short order and coolly opened fire on the approaching destroyer. The aim of the American gunners was excellent. Three of the shells from the large guns landed on board the Spaniard.

From the deck of the St. Paul it was possible to see that one officer and two men were killed by the shots and three others wounded. The Terror was evidently hit in a vital part, for she suddenly stopped in her advance.

The Terror dropped back under the cover of the fortifications and was with difficulty towed into the harbor in a sinking condition. She is now reported to be in the harbor undergoing repairs.

THE BLOCKADE EXTENDED.

President McKinley Declares Southern Cuban Ports and San Juan Blockaded.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 28, 1:16 p. m—The promised proclamation of President McKinley, extending the blockade, was issued this morning from the White House.

The proclamation declares a blockade of all the southern Cuban ports and of San Juan, Porto Rico. Notification of the blockade has been formally made to all the nations represented here.

STILL TROUBLE FOR CAMARA

Must Not Take Aboard Stokers He Hired at Port Said.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Cairo, Egypt, June 28, 12:16 p. m—Admiral Camara, commanding the Spanish squadron now in these waters, has been informed by the Egyptian Government that it would be violating its neutrality laws to permit him to embark 150 stokers who were previously engaged at Port Said for the Spanish fleet.

Several Spanish agents had been sent ahead to engage the men quietly, but the facts leaked out to the officials of the Egyptian Government.

The authorities in Port Said have been notified to see that the men do not go on board the ships under any circumstances.

Admiral Camara has signified his intention of remaining in Port Said for three days to make some necessary repairs to the machinery.

WATSON SAILS.

Will Soon Lead the Fleet Against the Spanish Coast.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Key West, June 28, 11:52 a. m—Commodore Watson sailed from this port this morning for Santiago on the cruiser Newark. His orders were imperative. He was informed that he would find his squadron ready for him off the Cuban coast.

Washington, June 28, 11:55 a m.—The project of the administration to carry the war into the enemy's country has found favor on all sides. In consequence, it is largely discussed in official and other circles.

It is conceded that Commodore Watson's first objective point will be the Canary Islands, which offer an easy prey to the American fleet. There he will seize a base of supplies.

He will then proceed to the coast of Spain where he will bombard Ferrol, Cartagena and Barcelona where the Spanish shipyards are located.

Should Admiral Camara's Spanish fleet be recalled from Port Said, a great naval engagement in Spanish waters will follow.

Commodore Watson will eventually be reinforced by the battleship Indiana, and the cruisers Brooklyn, Columbia, Minneapolis, St. Louis and St. Paul.

THE FOURTH EXPEDITION.

Gen. Otis Will Command 6.000 Troops That Will Sail July 9th.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

San Francisco, June 28, 1:22 p. m.—Gen. Otis is now busy reorganizing the troops remaining here for the fourth Manila expedition.

This expedition will probably consist of 6,000 troops under the command of Gen. Otis. It is expected to sail on July 9th.

THEIR THIRTY-FIRST ROBBERY.

The "Roadhouse Gang" Visits "Ye Olde Meeker Inn."

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Summit, June 28.—"Ye Olde Meeker Inn," at Union, was robbed for the second time witin three weeks yesterday morning. The thieves succeeded in getting $40 that was in the cash register and a quantity of liquor and cigars. From the method in which the place was entered, it is thought that the work was done by members of the same "gang" that has been operating in this section of New Jersey for the last six weeks. In that time the thieves have broken into thirty-one roadhouses on the county roads leading from Newark and Elizabeth. Some of these places have been robbed as often as three different times. Citizens in the towns most frequently visited have been talking of taking the law into their own hands and forming a vigilance society to deal summary vengeance to any thieves that they catch.

A HANDSOME BRIDE MISS HARTE MADE.

The Well-known Author's Daughter Wedded Yesterday.

NEW YORK MAN THE GROOM.

ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE USUAL WEDDING PRANKS FAILED.

The Event Solemnized With a Pretty Service at the Home of the Bride's Mother on Putnam Avenue—Decoy Carriage Was Used to Carry Away the Couple Ahead of Bedecked One.

Miss Jessamy Harte, of Putnam avenue, the eldest daughter of Bret Harte, the well-known novelist and fiction writer, was married yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock to Henry Milford Steele, a New York publisher. The wedding was a quiet one. It took place at the home of the bride's mother.

The bride, tall and graceful, looked handsome in a white organdie gown elaborately trimmed with white satin ribbons. She wore a white tulle veil, and carried a bunch of white lilies-of-the-valley. The maid-of-honor was Miss Ethel Harte, the bride's sister, who wore violet flounced organdie, a white hat, and carried white sweet peas. There were also three little ribbon girls, all dressed in white, who were Miss Helen Harte, the bride's neice, Miss Marian Marsh and Miss Susan Wharton, all of this city.

The bride and her party entered the parlor from the dining room where they met the groom and his best man, Herbert Denman, of New York, who came in from the hall.

Rev. Dr. J. C. Bliss, of New York, a former pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, performed the ceremony. Immediately afterwards a reception was held, after which the couple left on their honeymoon.

The parlor was decorated with ivy vines, palms, daisies and roses. The bride and groom stood directly in front of a mass of green foliage, which almost obscured the two large front windows, while the ceremony was being performed. The other parts of the house were similarly trimmed.

Mrs. Edward Stout, of New York, who presided at the piano, played the Lohengrin wedding march as the party came into the parlor and Mendelssohn's as they went out. Preceding the ceremony the sweet strains of Yansen's wedding music filled the house.

The couple attempted to play a trick upon the guests to avoid being the victims of the countless pranks and jokes that are played upon newly-married couples nowadays. The coach stood at the door ready to convey them to the depot, but the groom had provided another carriage, an ordinary hack, which was quietly standing in front of a neighbor's house on Franklin place, just around the corner from the bride's home.

It was the intention of the couple to slip out of the back door, go over the fence, and while the guests were wondering where they were to drive away. But something was suspected and the couple were closely watched so that they could not execute their well-laid plans.

Finally they were compelled to leave by the front door amid a shower of rice and old shoes. Their coach was waiting for them, but here the couple out-manœuvred the guests, for instead of entering the gaily decorated coach which they were to ride in, the groom beckoned to another driver near, and hurrying his bride inside, were driven off by the astonished coachman, who wasn't in the joke.

Tonight Mr. and Mrs. Steele go to Groton, Conn., on the shores of Long Island sound, where they will spend the summer. They will live in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Steele were remembered with valuable wedding presents, and both the bride and groom remembered the bridal party in a nice way.

Among the guests present were Benjamin Kimball, of Boston; Joseph Taft and Ernest Seaton Thompson, of New York; Mrs. Alfred Griswold and Mrs. Frederick Rosenberg, of Jersey City; Daniel Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Webb Parsons, and Mrs. Edward Stout, of New York; Miss Clara Graves, of Staten Island; S. F. Steele and Miss Kate Steele, of Oswego; Mr. and Mrs. Pond, of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Conklin, Miss Minnie and Miss Kate Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Evarts Tracy, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Streuli, Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Miss Edith Gilbert, Harry Opdyke and Miss Ethel Bowers, of this city.

WORD FROM SANTIAGO.

A PLAINFIELDER, NOW WITH SAMPSON'S FLEET, WRITES HOME.

Interesting Letter From Wm H. Lawrence to His Uncle, F. E. Kinsman, of Sherman Avenue—Exciting Experiences Related.

Among the many brave men who are now with Rear Admiral Sampson off the harbor of Santiago de Cuba, preparing to destroy the Spanish fleet that now lies hidden in the harbor, is William H. Lawrence, a Plainfield boy. Lawrence's uncle, F. E. Kinsman, of Sherman avenue, has just received a letter from Lawrence, written on board the U. S S. "Gloucester," last week. Lawrence writes as follows:

U. S. S. Gloucester, June 21st, 1898.

I wrote you last from Key West. Since then we sailed to the southern coast of Cuba. We are now part of Sampson's blockading fleet, off the port of Santiago, and right under Morro Castle, which, by the way, I hear the New York papers affirm has been destroyed, but we who are right here do not think so. There was a small bombardment on the castle, but little harm was done. It is our ship's duty and position to lay every night under the heavy guns and watch the narrow entrance of the harbor for boats trying to come out. The other night we thought a torpedo boat had us sure, but it was one of our own. In the fleet here now are the New York, Brooklyn, Massachussetts, Iowa, Oregon, New Orleans, etc. The large ships generally lay about three miles from Morro Castle, which is right at the entrance, while we with one or two others lay about a mile off during the day, but at night are sometimes within a quarter of a mile of the fort or castle. It is very dangerous, as our warships have their powerful searchlights thrown on the entrance all night, which keeps us in plain view from the fort all the time. Nearly every night we all have to stand by our loaded guns for hours at a time. I do not think any fighting will be done until the troops arrive, and then we can expect some hot work for us all.

The Spanish fleet is still in the harbor, as our fleet are kept constantly informed by the Cubans, who say that the flower of the Spanish army and navy are inside. Our ship has sent three landing parties ashore, landing three Cuban captains and one general, whom we brought from Key West. On our way from there we went about seven miles up a narrow river on the north side of Cuba and came very near being wrecked. We lost one anchor and ran our bow-sprit among the trees on the river side, but the water being very deep we managed to back out safely. The captain of this ship, the Gloucester, was Lieutenant Commander Hawkins, of the battleship Maine. Wm. H. Lawrence.

TREASURER OF HOSPITAL BOARD.

H. P. Reynolds Chosen to Succeed E. H. Ladd, Jr.

Last evening the regular meeting of the board of governors of Muhlenberg Hospital was held at the Public Library. H. P. Reynolds was elected treasurer of the Board in place of E. H. Ladd, Jr., who stated at the last meeting that he would resign. Mr. Ladd, therefore, declined a re-election at the meeting last evening. He has served well and faithfully as treasurer and the board regrets his withdrawal very much. However, the office will be in good hands, and Mr. Reynolds will make a thorough and efficient officer. No other business of any importance was considered at the meeting and an early adjournment followed.

KING'S DAUGHTERS ELECT.

Annual Meeting of Whatsoever Circle Held Last Night.

The annual meeting of the "Whatsoever Circle" of the King's Daughters, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, was held last night at the home of the president, Mrs. A. D. Phillips, of Central avenue.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. A. D. Phillips: vice-president, Miss Myra Runyon; secretary, Miss Margaret Rand; treasurer, Miss Adelia Runyon.

Reports of committees were read, and the president was appointed a committee of one to see what the circle can do for the Girls' Club. Refreshments were served before the members of the circle went away.

To Investigate an Estate.

Attorney Irving L. Brady, of the First National Bank building, leaves this week for a business trip through Illinois and Tennessee. Mr. Brady goes west for the purpose of investigating a large estate for a Plainfield party, and may attend the Christian Endeavor convention at Nashville.

JOLLY MAYOR WILSON.

HE ENTERTAINED THE SOMERSET COUNTY FREEHOLDERS.

Incidentally He Overcame Objections to Repairing a Bridge—The Mountain Avenue Macadamizing Was Accepted.

Yesterday afternoon the members of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders, together with Prosecutor Nelson Dungan, Squire Sutphen and County Engineer Dougherty, of Somerville, paid an official visit to the borough for the purpose of inspecting Mountain avenue which was macadamized some time ago and up to yesterday had not been accepted. The members expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the work performed on that thoroughfare.

After this inspection the members went to Johnston's Drive and inspected the bridge at that place, also the bridge near Mayor Wilson's house on Greenbrook road. The latter bridge has stood for twenty-seven years and during that time has never had any repairs. At first the Freeholders were not favorably inclined to repair the bridge, but Mayor Wilson appeared and gave the members some good advice and offered a few suggestions, after which he invited them to his hospitable home and treated them freely out of his bountiful supply.

While his Honor had the officials of the county as his guests he gave them a good talk. In his address he touched on nature, art, the picturesque mountains, the babbling brook, and North Plainfield's charming women. He held the closest attention of his guests, and when his remarks were concluded he received the cordial and hearty approbation of all. The Freeholders finally promised His Honor that the bridge near his place should receive the attention it deserves, and they all agreed that North Plainfield could not have a better representative as a leading official.

$30.05 FOR THREE DINNERS.

James Pedeflou Wins His Case Against Joseph W. Chapot.

Thirty dollars and five cents is not a very large sum to pay for three quiet little supper parties for one's self and a few friends, especially when one has champagne and cigars, but Joseph W. Chapot, of Evona, objects to paying the small bill, so Henry Pedeflou, who keeps the famous tavern in the mountains, which is often frequented by Plainfielders, and where Chapot got the suppers, brought suit in Justice Mosher's court to recover the amount. The case was tried yesterday and judgment rendered for the plaintiff, who was represented by Counselor Wm. K. McClure, and execution was issued at once.

Pedeflou claims that Chapot came to his hotel on December 1, 1895, with two friends, and had supper, including drinks and cigars, the bill amounting to $5.30. In September, 1896, Chapot again went to the hotel, this time with three friends, ordered supper, wine and cigars, the bill amounting to $11.25. Next time, in November, of the same year, Chapot and five friends had supper at Pedeflou's, this time with champagne and cigars, the bill amounting to $9.70, total, $26 25 with interest, $3.80. Pedeflou claimed these bills were never paid.

Chapot didn't deny that he had ordered and eaten these suppers, but claimed to have paid for them at the time. Pedeflou had plenty of proof that Chapot didn't pay for them so the Justice had no hesitancy in awarding a verdict in favor of the plaintiff.

Had to Walk Home.

Ralph Harkins and Walter Dreier, both of West Front street, rode to New Brunswick on their wheels, then they traveled by trolley to Metuchen and walked the remainder of the distance. The cause of it all was Harkins' rear tire. The valve would not hold air, neither would it consent to stay fixed The repair shops were all closed over in Brunswick so they started to walk home. A trolley car came at an opportune moment and carried them to Metuchen. They walked the rest of the distance, arriving home at 2 o'clock in the morning.

Will be a Great Day for Juniors.

The Junior Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will go on their annual outing Thursday morning. Mrs. F. O. Herring has invited them to take possession of her cottage on Johnston's drive for the day and enjoy themselves to their hearts' content. The invitation has been very gladly accepted.

NATIONAL CONVENTION NOW IN SESSION AT TRENTON.

Six Hundred Prominent Irishmen From All Parts of the Country are Gathered There — Bishop McFaul Presided.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, N. J., June 28—The National convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians began yesterday in this city. The convention will last a week. The delegates to the convention represent both of the factions into which the order was split for a number of years. The friction in the order was overcome a short time ago through the mediation of Bishop McFaul, of this city, and it was at his expressed desire that the two wings upon reuniting selected this city as the place for holding the convention. The importance of the convention has brought full delegations to Trenton. There are about 600, and almost as many more prominent Irishmen from all parts of the country are present as spectators.

The delegates met informally at 10 o'clock and proceeded in a body to the cathedral, where solemn high mass was celebrated.

The first session of the convention yesterday afternoon was open to the public. Bishop McFaul presided. The Bishop, in opening the meeting spoke of the pleasure it gave him to see the warring factions of the order brought together once more and acting in harmony. Mayor Sickle delivered the address of welcome on behalf of the city. Responses were made by P. J. O'Connor, of Savannah, Ga., on behalf of the American Branch, of which he is the president, and by Rev. E. S. Phillips, National Delegate of the Board of Erin Branch. After the speaking the convention closed its doors. There was a reception last evening to Bishop McFaul at the Opera House.

Several thousand dollars have been raised by the citizens of Trenton for the entertainment of the visitors The principal feature of the programme is a parade, which will come tomorrow.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians was organized nearly 200 years ago in Ireland, but the first organization in this country was in 1837. It has grown rapidly and there is not a State in the Union where it is not represented. The total membership of the two wings is 125,000. The split occurred at the National convention in Cleveland in 1884.

AT FORT HANCOCK.

A Mine Exploded and Caused Great Excitement Among The Soldiers.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Fort Hancock, Sandy Hook, N. J., June 27.—A fire started in the shed that covers the hoisting engine on the dock Saturday evening. It was caused by the fire in the furnace being improperly banked. A mine, lying near the shed, was exploded, blowing timbers and ironwork fifty feet into the air. The fire was finally extinguished with hand-pumps and a stream from a passing tug.

Private C. V. Wootman, of Company H, Third Regiment, left here Saturday morning to be married to Miss Cora Hoffman, of South Somerville. He was given a rousing sendoff by the boys as he is very popular with all.

The high winds of Saturday night blew over several tents, but the damage to the camp was comparatively slight considering the fact that the tents are pitched right on the sand.

An Early Morning Disturbance.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mills, of West Third street, was arrested on Grove street in the borough at 2 o'clock this morning for being drunk, disorderly and resisting the arrest of an officer. Marshal Wise caught the woman, and finding that he was going to have trouble with her blew his whistle four times and secured the aid of Special Marshal Carson. The officers had a great deal of trouble in getting the woman to the lockup, but she was finally landed there. This morning she was fined $10, and she very submissively received the verdict. The question of paying the money or going to jail for twenty days has not yet been decided.

Say They Ordered Streets Sprinkled.

Lemuel W. Serrell, who is interested in the Plainfield Street Railway Company, told a representative of The Daily Press today that early in the season the company made a contract with Pope and French, of this city, to sprinkle the streets along the line of the trolley twice each day during the season, and if they have failed to do as they agreed, the company would like to know it and they will see that the contract is lived up to.

AN EXCITING CHASE FOR A SNEAK THIEF.

The Culprit Went Through Back Yards and Over Fences.

OPERATED VERY BOLDLY.

TRIED TO LOOT THE HOUSE OF W. C. SMITH, JR.

Identified as the Man Who Successfully Robbed the House of Andrew Vanderbeek on Duer Street a Week Ago—Justice Crosley Held Him to Await the Action of the Grand Jury.

"Stop thief! Stop thief!" were the words that greeted the ears of Chief Marshal Wilson yesterday afternoon while he stood near Grocer Arnold's store on Somerset street. At the same time he saw a man running towards him on the opposite side of the street, and not far behind was Arthur Smith, son of W. C. Smith, of Grandview avenue. It was young Smith that was calling, and the man in the lead was Edward Doaney, of New York.

It was between 3 and 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon that Mrs. W. C. Smith, Jr., of Watchung avenue, was calling on her mother in-law across the street. She sat where she could keep an eye on her home. She happened to look up and noticed a man walk up on the porch. He knocked on the door. No one answered and he pulled the doorbell. After looking in the window he walked back to the door and, taking a key from his pocket, opened the door. He then went in, leaving the door ajar.

Mrs. Smith, Jr., at once told her mother-in law what she had seen, and after arousing Arthur Smith, who was asleep, the three hurried to the house. They entered and found the strange man standing in the dining room by the buffet. He very quickly darted for the back door. This was locked, but the key was there and it was but the work of a second to open the door. Out of the door he fairly flew and over the fence he went like a shot.

Close behind him was Arthur Smith. He was determined that the sneak thief should not get away if he could help it.

The thief crossed the fields to Fairview avenue, through the yards of Messrs. Hand and Slater to Jackson avenue. From there he went through Conover's yard into Mr. Daily's yard and so on to Manning avenue. From the latter avenue he ran into Somerset street and it was then that Chief Wilson saw him. Closely following was young Smith. He was nearly out of breath but succeeded in attracting the attention of Chief Wilson.

The thief ran through Somerset street to Lincoln place. It was there that Chief Wilson gave chase. The man ran between Sharkey's blacksmith shop and Boyce's Hotel and continued a regular hurdle race over fences and through the various yards adjoining. By this time a host of people were on the trial and the chances for the thief to escape were growing slim.

He ran through Mr. Krausse's yard and nearly knocked Mrs. Krausse down. At 25 Vine street he tried to get into the house, but found the doors locked. From there he ran through the same yard to the rear and hid between two fences in some tall grass. Mr. Daily, of Manning avenue, spied the thief and caught him before he could go any further. By this time Chief Wilson and Marshal Campbell appeared, and Mr. Daily turned the man over them. Those who were there say that the thief was completely exhausted and that his tongue was protruding from his mouth. He was locked up and later in the afternoon he was taken before Justice Crosley who held him for the Grand Jury without bail.

When the man was asked his name he gave that of Edward Doaney and his residence New York. It is not generally believed that he gave his right name. He told the officials that he had been employed by some of the largest dry goods firms in New York, and he frequently alluded to his wife and children. It was learned that he called at the home of Mr. Wightman, on Fairview avenue, and represented himself as an agent for the Domestic sewing machine, while at the homes of Mr. Neeley and Mr. Berkhand, in the srme neighborhood, he said that he was selling the Howe machine.

This Morning Chief Wilson had Photographer Moffett, of Somerset street, take Doaney's picture, and in a few days he will go to New York with the picture and see if there is a similar one in the rogues gallery.

REWARD FOR HEROES

The President Sends Special Messages to Congress.

PROMOTION AND HONORS

Authority Is Asked of the Senate for the Transfer of Hobson to the Line—Recognition for Newcomb and His Crew for Their Services at Cardenas; Also for Captain Hodgson Who Figured in Battle of Manila.

Washington, June 28.—The president sent the following message to Congress yesterday:

To the Congress of the United States:

On the morning of the third of June, 1898, Assistant Naval Constructor Richmond P. Hobson, U. S. N., with a volunteer crew of seven men, in charge of the partially disabled collier Merrimac, entered the fortified harbor of Santiago, Cuba, for the purpose of sinking the collier in the narrowest portion of the channel and thus interposing a serious obstacle to the egress of the Spanish fleet, which had recently entered that harbor. This enterprise, demanding coolness, judgment and bravery amounting to heroism, was carried into successful execution in the face of a persistent fire from the hostile fleet as well as from the fortifications on shore.

The president then quotes Admiral Sampson's message commending Hobson's brave deed, and continues:

The members of the crew who were with Mr. Hobson on this memorable occasion have already been rewarded for their services by advancement, which, under the provisions of law and regulation, the secretary of the navy was authorized to make, and the nomination to the Senate of Naval Cadet Powell, who, in a steam launch, followed the Merrimac on her perilous trip for the purpose of rescuing her force after the sinking of that vessel, to be advanced in rank to the grade of ensign, has been prepared and will be submitted.

Cushing, with whose gallant act in blowing up the ram Albemarle during the civil war, Admiral Sampson compares Mr. Hobson's sinking of the Merrimac, received the thanks of Congress upon recommendation of the president, by name, and was, in consequence, under the provisions of section 1,508 of the revised statutes, advanced one grade, such advancement embracing 56 numbers. The section cited applies, however, to line officers only, and Mr. Hobson being a member of the staff of the navy, could not under its provisions be so advanced.

In considering the question of suitably rewarding Assistant Naval Constructor Hobson for his valiant conduct on the occasion referred to, I have deemed it proper to address this message to you with the recommendation that he receive the thanks of Congress, and further, that he be transferred to the line of the navy and promoted to such position therein as the president, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, may determine. Mr. Hobson's transfer from the construction corps to the line is fully warranted, he having received the necessary technical training as a graduate of the Naval Academy, where he stood number one in his class; and such action is recommended, partly in deference to what is understood to be his own desire, although he being now a prisoner in the hands of the enemy, no direct communication on the subject has been received from him, and partly for the reason that the abilities displayed by him at Santiago are of such a character as to indicate especial fitness for the duties of the line.

WILLIAM McKINLEY.

The second message was as follows:

To the Congress of the United States:

On the 11th day of May, 1898, there occurred a conflict in the bay of Cardenas, Cuba, in which the naval torpedo boat Winslow was disabled, her commander wounded and one of her officers and a part of her crew killed by the enemy's fire.

In the face of a most galling fire from the enemy's guns, the revenue cutter Hudson, commanded by First Lieutenant Frank H. Newcomb, United States revenue cutter service, rescued the disabled Winslow, her wounded commander and remaining crew.

The commander of the Hudson kept his vessel in the very hottest fire of the action, although in constant danger of going ashore on account of the shallow water, until he finally got a line made fast to the Winslow and towed that vessel out of range of the enemy's guns, a deed of special gallantry.

I recommend that, in recognition of the signal act of heroism of First Lieutenant Frank H. Newcomb, United States revenue cutter service, above set forth, the thanks of Congress be extended to him and to his officers and men of the Hudson, and that a gold medal of honor be presented to Lieutenant Newcomb, a silver medal of honor to each of his officers and a bronze medal of honor to each member of the crew who served with him at Cardenas.

It will be remembered that Congress, by appropriate action, recognized the several commanders of ships of war for their services in the battle of Manila, May 1, 1898. The commander of the revenue cutter Hugh McCulloch, present, and in active co-operation with the fleet under Commodore Dewey on that occasion (by executive order under the provisions of section 2,757, revised statutes), is the only commander of a national ship to whom promotion or advancement was not and could not be given because he held the highest rank known to the revenue cutter service.

I now recommend that in recognition of the efficient and meritorious services of Captain Daniel B. Hodgson, United States revenue cutter service, who commanded the Hugh McCulloch at the battle of Manila (that officer being now in the 63rd year of his age and having served continuously on active duty for thirty-seven years) be placed on the permanent waiting orders on retired list of the revenue cutter service on the full duty pay of his grade.

(Signed) WILLIAM McKINLEY.

The president also sent the following special nomination to Congress:

Executive Mansion,
Washington, June 27, 1898.

To the Senate of the United States:

I nominate Naval Cadet Joseph W. Powell to be advanced two numbers under the provisions of section 1,506 of the revised statutes and to be an ensign in the navy for extraordinary heroism while in charge of the steam launch which accompanied the collier Merrimac for the purpose of rescuing her gallant forces when that vessel was under the command of Naval Constructor Hobson run into the mouth of the harbor of Santiago, Cuba, on the third inst., and dextrously sunk in the channel.

WILLIAM McKINLEY.

A PACIFIC COALING STATION.

American Flag Waves Over Marcus of Weeks, at Doorway of Manila.

San Francisco, June 28.—A special from Honolulu says the United States possesses an island suitable for coaling, and even for a naval station, in the Pacific, nearly 2,700 miles west of Honolulu, and in the doorway of Manila.

It is known as Marcus of Weeks and is more than half way to the Philippines.

The island belongs to Captain Foster, commander of a sailing vessel plying between the Orient and San Francisco. He found it while out cruising and took possession. It was at that time unclaimed and unoccupied. By consent of James G. Blaine, then secretary of State, the American flag was hoisted over the island and still remains there, the same being sanctioned by Great Britain and all the powers.

The island is in 24.4 north and 154.2 east. It is about five miles long and is densely covered with trees and shrubbery. It has a white sandy beach and near the center is a knoll rising about 200 feet above the sea.

It is near the tracks of vessels from Honolulu to Yokohama and has been offered to the United States for a coaling station.

A Third Fleet from Spain.

Cadiz, June 28.—It is announced here that the Spanish cruisers Vitoria and Alfonso XIII have left the arsenal and that the Caraca and Isla de Luzon are ready for their armament.

It is further reported that an additional force of men has been ordered to be employed in order to hasten the completion of the armored cruiser Princesa de Asturias.

The auxiliary cruiser Metooro is said to have received her new armament, and the armored cruiser Cardinal Cisneros is announced to have left Ferrol.

The Spanish officials express the hope that the third Spanish squadron will be ready for sea in five weeks' time.

The military governor of Cadiz is mounting new guns, and is preparing additional defences between Forts Rota and Candelaria, owing to rumors of a contemplated American invasion.

The Austrian Riots.

Vienna, June 28.—Dispatches received here from Lemburg, capital of Galicia, say the rioting peasants pillaged Alt-Sandec for several hours on Saturday evening. The houses and stores in the Ring Square were plundered and destroyed, their contents being removed in vans, which were in waiting, to the country.

An organized attack was also made upon Neu-Sandec, several miles from Alt-Sandec, but the cavalry dispersed the peasants after a hand to hand fight and subsequently the infantry surrounded the town. The peasantry, however, sacked many of the Jewish houses in the suburbs and set fire to several buildings.

Troops have been dispatched to Przemysl, fifty-one miles west of Lemberg, where disturbances are threatened.

Przemysl has over fifteen thousand inhabitants.

Clark Gets His Sentence.

Wilmington, Del., June 28.—Thomas S. Clark, convicted in the federal court here of aiding and abetting and conspiring with William N. Boggs, defaulting paying teller of the First National Bank of Dover, was yesterday sentenced to five years' imprisonment and a fine of $5,000. His imprisonment will be in the New Jersey penitentiary at Trenton, where E. T. Cooper, convicted recently of a like offence, is now serving a sentence of eighteen months.

Argument in the demurrers offered by the defence to the indictment of United States Senator Richard R. Kenney for complicity in Boggs's crime, began yesterday. The Kenney trial will begin on Tuesday, July 5.

Peary's Arctic Ship.

New York, June 28.—The Arctic exploring steamer Windward, presented to Lieutenant Robert E. Peary, is being fitted for its trip to the north pole. Since crossing the ocean from England the vessel has been anchored off Tompkinsville, Staten Island. Yesterday she was towed to Pier 57, North river. There the stores and other supplies necessary for the voyage to the polar regions will be put on board. Lieutenant Peary expects to start north in less than a fortnight.

Take It Easy.

On the Rio Guama, June 26, via Kingston, Jamaica, June 28.—The Cuban auxiliaries with the advance forces seem utterly worthless. They sit in the shade all day and at night smoke cigarettes and gorge on Uncle Sam's rations, while the American soldiers, with empty stomachs and no tobacco, build roads all day under a blazing sun and sleep on their rifles under the sky at night.

The Yellow Fever.

Washington, June 28.—A dispatch from Surgeon Carter at McHenry, Miss., to Surgeon General Wyman of the marine hospital service, says that one new case of yellow fever in town developed on Thursday and another one has been discovered four miles out in the country. This latter developed on Sunday.

NEWS FROM SANTIAGO

Preparing For the Final Struggle and Capture.

THE CITY IN GREAT TERROR

Disposition of the Various Regiments Overlooking the Valley Where the City Lies—Our Outports Close to the Spanish Intrenchments — Dynamite Guns Moved Into Position — The Vesuvius.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 28.—The advance force of the American army rests on this stream, with the city of Santiago de Cuba four and one-half miles westward, in plain sight.

Sunday night the outposts, consisting of two companies of the Seventh infantry, under Major Coolidge, occupied positions at right angles to the road, guarding the crossing a mile and a half beyond Sabanilla, where three regiments of General Lawton's division camped, the First, Fourth and Seventeenth, the Eighth, Twenty-second and Second Massachusetts, with the Rough Riders, Tenth Cavalry and portions of several other regiments strung out behind them towards Juragua. About eight hundred Cubans, under General Gonzales, were camped around General Lawton's headquarters, but less than fifty of them did scout duty Sunday night.

General Wheeler yesterday, with the First, Second and Tenth cavalry, and the Rough Riders, with dynamite guns, moved up to where General Lawton's outposts were Sunday night, and four batteries of the Third artillery and four Gatling guns, with a special detail under Lieutenant Parker, were brought up and planted on the brow of a hill overlooking the basin in which Santiago de Cuba lies.

Not a shot was fired from the American side Sunday night, though the front of the American line was not 2,500 yards from the intrenchments where the Spaniards proposed to combat the advance on Santiago de Cuba.

Three cannon shots were heard during the night. They seemed to come from the distant Spanish batteries, or perhaps seaward.

The top of every hill and mountain north and east of Santiago is occupied by block houses, whence the Spaniards can view the movements of the American army as it advances beyond Sabanilla, while to the eastward of the city, gashing every knoll and bit of high ground, are Spanish intrenchments.

Active Operations Expected To-morrow.

General Shafter has removed his headquarters from here to Jaragua. Transports here are rapidly landing the last supplies of forage and ammunition, and the last of the four light batteries of artillery started yesterday afternoon for Jaragua by road. The ordnance officers say that the road is impracticable for siege guns and that the landing facilities for them are inadequate.

Active operations before Santiago, according to official information, are expected to begin to-morrow.

About five hundred mules are still corralled here. The military authorities are rapidly making up a pack train to take forward rations. The men on shore have five days' supplies, but supplies for ten days are needed as a precaution against a sudden move.

General Shafter expresses satisfaction with the work of the officers who had charge of the landing of the troops in an enemy's country and under conditions never before faced by an army, considering the character of the landing places and the adjacent country.

Commodore Schley, commenting on the landing, said: "It is breaking all records in modern history to land such a number of men, fully provided with all the necessaries and in a hostile country. I cannot fathom the lack of Spanish opposition."

Commodore Schley thinks the Spanish naval officers, as a last resort, will destroy their ships by blowing them up.

A Cuban spy, who was recently in Santiago de Cuba, says that a reign of terror exists among all classes there owing to the nightly attacks of the Vesuvius, with the terrible explosion of her dynamite shells. A week ago last night one of her shells, striking Cay Smith, demolished several warehouses and a fort there, besides dismounting several guns. Windows, it also appears, were broken in the city, and the general effect was similar to that of an earthquake.

A Profitable Business.

New York, June 28.—Spike Sullivan, who defeated Dal Hawkins, the much heralded lightweight boxer of San Francisco, in twenty-two rounds at the Lenox Athletic Club last Friday night, received for the winner's end $2,343.50, while Hawkins was presented with $714.50, which was the loser's end. Sullivan, besides carrying off the winner's end, also won over $2,000 in bets, which swelled his winnings to over $5,000, all of which, with the exception of about $200, was put in the bank.

To Invade the Province.

Washington, D. C., June 28.—It is the intention of the government to invade the entire province of Santiago de Cuba as soon as the city has surrendered.

For this purpose Major General Shafter will remain in Cuba with an American army of 20,000 men and a Cuban army of 10,000 men, under General Garcia.

Fernandina and Miami have been abandoned as places of embarkation. All expeditions for Cuba or Porto Rico that leave the United States will embark at Tampa.

A Balloon Experiment.

Tampa, June 28.—The first experiments with the observation balloon were made yesterday. Major Reber, Professor C. E. Pellew, Tracy F. Tisdell and five privates of the Signal Corps visited the gas works on the outskirts of the city and began the work of instruction at 7 o'clock. Mr. Tisdell is a professional aeronaut and balloonist.

ROUGH RIDERS CRITICISED.

It Was a Mistake to Use Cavalry as Infantry.

Washington, June 28.—There is a disposition among experienced military men here to criticise the tactics of the Rough Riders in Friday's battle near Sevilla. It is said that there was foolhardy management in exposing the mass of the men needlessly to the Spanish fire, instead of throwing out the customary skirmish lines. It is recalled, however, that the whole movement was under command of Colonel Wood, Roosevelt's superior officer, who is experienced in Indian fighting in the Northwest, under conditions very much like those of the war in Cuba.

The prime fault for the heavy loss seems still to lie where it was placed in these dispatches on Saturday—in the use of cavalry trops as infantry. Used as cavalry, their tactics under Wood would have been all right, but infantrymen have to be trained, both officers and men, to their own class of work, as carefully as cavalry have to be trained to theirs, and they are utterly different. General Young's handling of his men was strictly infantry fashion. He had his skirmish line out and the men were alert in taking advantage of every hiding place where they could fire upon the enemy with the least exposure of themselves. Moreover, General Young had a light piece of artillery with which he could rake the bushes ahead of him and on the sides and make it impossible for the enemy to keep within easy range of his troops. One such piece would have accompanied the advance of the Rough Riders, but, according to report, it had to be abandoned on account of the steepness of the hill the men had to ascend. In all these circumstances all criticism in detail should be deferred until the fuller official reports reach Washington.

Our Navy Growing Rapidly.

Washington, June 28.—The sudden growth of the United States navy, owing to the war, is strikingly shown by the new naval register which has been prepared in the navigation bureau and is to be issued on the first of next month.

According to the register the active list of the navy now has a grand total of 1,755 officers, as follows: 781 line officers, including 65 cadets at sea; 161 medical officers, 111 pay officers, 200 engineers, including 21 cadets at sea; 24 chaplains, 11 professors, 37 constructors, 15 civil engineers, 190 warrant officers sailmakers and mates; 216 naval cadets at the Naval Academy. One hundred and eighty-two officers of the retired list are now employed on active duty; 693 officers have been appointed for duty during the war, namely, 348 in the line, forty-eight in the medical corps, thirty-eight in the pay corps, 225 in the engineer corps and thirty-four in other grades.

In the marine corps twenty-four second lieutenants have been appointed for service during the war. Since January 1 there have been 28 retirements and 22 deaths.

Among the retired are Admirals Beardslee and Selfridge; among the deaths, Captain Gridley, Commander Elmer, Lieutenant Jenkins, Ensigns Bagley and Breckenridge and Engineer Merritt.

On the list of ships of the regular navy are eleven first class, eighteen second class, 43 third class, 6 fourth class, 35 torpedo boats, building and authorized, 12 tugs, six sailing vessels, 5 receiving ships, 12 unserviceable vessels and 33 vessels of all rate other than torpedo boats are under construction or authorized. On the list of ships of the auxiliary navy are 36 cruisers and yachts, 32 steamers and colliers, 25 tugs, 15 revenue cutters, four lighthouse tenders and the two fish commission vessels.

Aunon Thinks Camara Can Whip Dewey

London, June 28.—A special dispatch from Madrid says the minister of marine, Senor Aunon, has made a statement to the effect that Admiral Camara's squadron will leave Port Said today for the Philippine islands.

He is also credited with saying he believes the squadron is powerful enough to defeat the ships under Rear Admiral Dewey.

The dispatch further announces that the hope is expressed in Madrid that Manila will be able to resist until the arrival there of Admiral Camara's squadron.

A dispatch has been received here from Admiral Camara announcing his arrival at Port Said. He adds that the ships under his command had a capital voyage and averaged a speed of ten miles an hour.

made her last obeisance, denoting her subjugation to her husband, one of the party held before her a lighted red wax candle, which, not being extinguished by her movements, was considered an omen of good luck. The marriage ceremonies and feasts continued for a week.

HAWAIIAN ANNEXATION.

Early Sessions of the Senate to Be Held Hereafter.

Washington, June 28.—After the transaction of brief routine business in the Senate yesterday, the resolution offered on Saturday by Mr. Davis, Republican of Minnesota, providing that hereafter, until further notice, the daily sessions of the Senate shall begin at 11 a. m., was laid before the Senate.

Mr. Jones, Democrat of Arkansas, made the point of no quorum, and the roll was called. Forty senators responded, five less than a quorum. Mr. Lindsay, Democrat of Kentucky, said that there were many senators absent who had voted for the early hour of meeting, and he moved that the sergeant-at-arms be directed to request the attendance of such senators. The motion was modified to the usual Senate formula and adopted.

At 11.15 five more senators appeared and the resolution of Mr. Davis was agreed to without division.

Consideration of the Hawaiian annexation resolutions was resumed, Mr. Clay, Democrat of Georgia, addressing the Senate in opposition to them.

The annexation of Hawaii would, Mr. Clay insisted, start this country upon a career of conquest, which was opposed to the true destiny of the United States. He claimed that to make the present war an excuse for the adoption of a colonization policy would be a violation of the declarations made in the Cuban resolutions, and would involve the country in tremendous difficulties and possible ruin. He declared that the United States had no business to capture the Philippine islands, as the war had not been begun for any such purpose.

MOVING THE ARMY SOUTH.

A Force of 30,000 Men to Be Kept Constantly on Southern Coast.

Washington, June 28.—As stated on Sunday another movement of troops has been ordered. Fifteen thousand men from Chickamauga will be sent to Tampa as soon as the troops at the latter place have left for Santiago.

Formal orders to this effect have reached Major General Brooke. The first of the men from Chickamauga will leave that place as early as they can get away. They will occupy the camps where the men of General Coppinger's corps are now located at Tampa.

It can be authoritatively stated that from now on troops will be gradually moved to the southern coast. As fast as men are taken out of Tampa, Fernandina and other points, their places will be filled up by new troops from Camp Alger and Chickamauga. The best equipped and drilled troops from the other places will be called on to go to Tampa and Fernandina, the policy of the government being to keep at these two cities a force of 30,000, which can be drawn on at any time for expeditions to Cuba or Porto Rico.

GILLESPIE SUCCEEDS FRANK.

New Commander of the Department of the East.

Washington, D. C., June 28.—Several important army orders have been issued. Brigadier General R. T. Frank, who succeeded Major General Wesley Merritt in command of the department of the East, with headquarters at New York, is relieved of that command and ordered to report in person to the secretary of war for assignment.

General G. N. Gillespie, colonel of engineers, who was recently appointed brigadier general of volunteers, is ordered to take command of the department of the East.

Brigadier General A. C. M. Pennington has been relieved from command of Camp Black, Hempstead, L. I., and probably will be assigned to duty with the Fourth Army Corps in Florida. Brigadier General Roe has been assigned to duty with the First Army Corps at Chickamauga.

It was rumored about the war department yesterday afternoon that ex-Congressman Perry Belmont will soon be given an important army appointment.

HURRY ORDERS FOR RECRUITS.

Formation of Three New Regiments in New York to Be Hastened.

Albany, June 28.—The adjutant general's department yesterday received a request from the war department asking that the volunteer orgfianizations under the second call be recruited as speedily as possible. In compliance with this request Adjutant General Tillinghast has directed that the work of organizing the Two Hundred and First, Two Hundred and Second and Two Hundred and Third regiments be rushed as rapidly as practicable. He says that in order to facilitate matters it is possible that the troops will be sent by companies without arms, equipments or uniforms to Camp Black, where they will be mustered into the United States service at once.

Yankee Burns Five Ships.

Key West, Fla., June 28.—The Yankee, which has arrived here from Cienfuegos, reports that on Saturday afternoon, off the Isle of Pines, she captured, burned and destroyed five Spanish schooners loaded with fish. She also captured two prisoners, who were released, and four dogs, now on board the Yankee.

The latter also reports that the Spanish gunboat with which she was engaged on June 13 off Cienfuegos, was of 1,030 tons. The officers of the Yankee think the Spaniard was sunk, as the gunboat was greatly damaged by the Yankee's shots.

Monitors Not Damaged.

Washington, June 28.—A story was afloat yesterday to the effect that the big double turreted monitors Puritan and Miantonomoh had been struck and seriously injured by Spanish shells off Havana. Inquiry at the navy department, backed by a few anxious messages from friends of the people aboard developed the fact that both of these monitors are at Key West, where they have been at anchor for some time past. The officials know of no recent firing upon American blockading vessels from the Morro or other forts at the entrance of Havana harbor.

SPANISH PORTS DOOMED

A New and Formidable Flying Squadron.

WILL SET SAIL THIS WEEK

Important Bulletin Issued To-day from the Navy Department—Decision to Attack Spanish Cities Reached Only After Careful Consideration in Washington—Important Coast Towns to Be Bombarded.

Washington, D. C., June 28.—The war policy of the administration has been made public by the announcement of the navy department that a squadron is to be formed at once and sent against the coast of Spain. The announcement was as follows:

"Commodore Watson has sailed on the Newark to join Admiral Sampson, when he will take under his command an armored squadron, with cruisers, and proceed at once off the Spanish coast."

The news occasioned more excitement and enthusiasm among the army and navy officers than any event since the destruction of the Spanish fleet at Manila.

Hardly had the thrill caused by the first bulletin subsided when another one was posted giving the detail of the squadron to be sent to Spain and the rearrangement of the naval forces in the Atlantic, made necessary by the creation of this new squadron.

The Fleet That Will Be Sent to Spain.

Spain is to be crushed at once. Another terrible blow is to be struck and it will be directed by a fast squadron of powerful armored warships. The fleet thus far selected to proceed to Spain consists of the battleship Oregon, which is famous the world over for her record breaking trip from San Francisco to Key West; the Iowa, next to the Oregon, the most formidable armor clad in our navy, and the second class armored cruiser Newark, fresh from the Norfolk navy yard.

Accompanying this force will be the auxiliary cruisers Yosemite, Yankee and Dixie, formerly the El Sud, El Norte and El Sol, respectively, fast vessels of the Morgan Steamship line.

Three of the largest colliers owned by the government will go with the squadron, loaded with coal, and will keep the cruisers and battleships provided with fuel.

Watson to Command.

Commodore Watson, formerly in command of the blockading squadron off Havana, is to have charge of the expedition. He will have the Newark for his flagship.

The orders of the department are for this fleet to be formed at once and leave immediately for Spain.

The Newark sailed Monday morning from Norfolk for Santiago, where the flying squadron is to be formed.

At that place it will be joined by the Oregon and Iowa, the three converted cruisers and the colliers.

Fleet Expects to Leave Thursday Night.

The department expects it to leave on its cruise for Spain not later than Thursday night or Friday morning.

It is possible that the Newark may meet the other ships at sea and thus gain a day or so on the journey.

The general orders to direct the operations of this squadron are to wage aggressive warfare against Spain.

This will mean that the Spanish cities are to be bombarded and also that the Cadiz fleet is to be destroyed.

The department picked the vessels to comprise this force with the idea of having efficient men in command of them, as much as getting powerful ships.

Every Captain a Fighter.

Every captain in the fleet is a fighter. Captain Clark of the Oregon has demonstrated that he is a fearless commander; Captain Robley Evans has already earned the sobriquet of Fighting Bob; Captain Barker was until recently a member of the war board and has the confidence of the secretary. Captain William Emery, who is on the Yankee; Captain Brownson, on the Yosemite, and Captain Davis, on the Dixie, are all men who have demonstrated their courage and skill as commanding officers.

THE LATEST FROM MANILA.

Situation Remains Unchanged—First Expedition Had Not Arrived.

Manila, June 23, via Hong Kong, June 28.—Up to the time this dispatch is sent the transports from San Francisco having on board American troops intended to reinforce Rear Admiral Dewey had not arrived here and there was no change in the situation.

The insurgents have not made any further advance and the Spaniards have been continuing the construction of sand bank fortifications and the planting of sharpened bamboos around Manila for the purpose of stopping the insurgents' advance.

The papers here continue appealing to the natives to come to the assistance of Spain.

Camara's Orders.

Madrid, June 28.—It was announced here that Admiral Camara, in command of the Spanish squadron, now at Port Said, has been ordered to proceed through the Suez canal with the warships under his command.

Port Said, June 28.—Upon the application of the United States consul here orders have been issued forbidding the coaling at this port of Admiral Camara's squadron until further orders.

Columbia to Join Sampson.

Block Island, R. I., June 28.—The auxiliary cruiser Prairie is expected to arrive here at once to take the place of the Columbia, which left here Sunday night under orders to proceed to Cuban waters to join Admiral Sampson's fleet. The Columbia left here as soon as her instructions were received, and, steering about south, put on a twenty-knot speed, which should bring the ship to Santiago by Wednesday night or Thursday morning.

American Heroism.

This is not likely to be a long war, but it is already beginning to blossom into splendid feats of courage and self sacrifice. It is the old inspiring story. Give the opportunity, and there are always plenty to leap at the very stars. Every war we ever had has scintillated with these shining deeds, and the obscure records of our Indian fighting are illuminated with episodes that blaze through the dreary commonplace. Human nature is a pretty good nature after all in spite of its seamy sides. Lieutenant Hobson's heroic achievement in Santiago harbor ranks among the finest exploits of human daring. And while Hobson and his little crew actually wear the laurels let us not forget that half the fleet looked on their luck as the picked forlorn hope to steam into the jaws of death with unfeigned envy and would gladly have taken their places. This feat is the due sequence of that superb enthusiasm which fired Dewey at Manilla, Farragut at Mobile and New Orleans and Porter in running the Vicksburg gantlet; which took Cushing and his clumsy pole torpedo to the ironclad sides of the Albemarle; which beat that call to quarters in Smyrna harbor, when the heroic Ingraham snatched Martin Koszta from an Austrian prison or death; which flamed in the breast of Captain Joseph Reid when in 1814 with a single ship in Fayal harbor he fought the whole British fleet and delayed their departure for New Orleans a week, where its timely presence might easily have changed Pakenham's defeat to victory; which lent wings to Decatur's martial temper when he forced his way into Tripoli harbor in 1804 and gave the captured Philadelphia to the flames; which made John Paul Jones an incarnate demon of battle in that terrific fight off Scarborough head, world wonder of the period. The Hobson feat need surprise no one. It is the latest link in a shining chain. But it will not remain so if the war lasts long. Such things are in the air now.

We can fancy the army looking on the sister service, which has been winning all the glory, with the keenest jealousy. The same fiery spirit animates officers and men there as burns beneath the badge of the foul anchor. For its size, there is probably no military body in the world made of such splendid material, so full of esprit de corps, so ambitious to make its mark, so effective a force of fighting men, as our regular army. With this example and support our volunteers, hardened to the field, will move with equal pace and courage once the chance is given them. We are proud of our gallant navy. But our pride in our men who will fight on terra firma need be no less, for the same American spirit with its capacity for heroism animates them all, whether they once fought under the blue or under the gray. All they ask is opportunity.

The artistic spirit and skill shown in advertising posters have frequently provoked comment, but if many of these are admirable the majority are crude and even contemptible from the standpoint of good work. There is no reason why all commercial art should not have some respect for genuineness or verisimilitude of effect. One of the worst lapses deserves a word of comment, for it is a poster spread broadcast, and it illustrates admirably "how not to do it." It represents three military officers of high rank studying a plan of battle at the entrance of a tent. These dignitaries are in full feather, with chapeaux, epaulets, sashes wound about their swelling chests, all starched up to the last point of parade pomp. Decent art sense would have put these dignitaries in "fatigue" dress, fit for the hard work of the field.

It is desirable that when the list of vacancies in the rank of second lieutenant in the regular army, amounting to upward of 150, shall have been filled a goodly proportion of these appointments will be found to have come from the regular enlisted force. The ranks of the army are full of intelligent and well educated men who deserve promotion. By making as few purely political selections as possible for these subalternships the president will show his sagacity and patriotism. There is nothing which so stimulates esprit de corps as such invitation to the rank and file. Among the causes which made Napoleon's armies so irresistible none worked so potently as that symbolized in the phrase "the baton in the knapsack."

That great statesman, Mr. Labouchere, who governs politics and society from the chair of London Truth, has already arranged terms of peace. He proposes that Cuba shall be handed over to the United States and that Spain shall be left in possession of Puerto Rico and the Philippines, each side to pay its own costs. We wonder at his generosity to us. While we are about it we might as well pay Spain a handsome indemnity for the privilege of giving her a good "licking."

Verdi, the aged operatic composer, was urged by his friends to leave Milan during the dangers of the late bread riots. He shrugged his shoulders and said that sort of thing made him feel thoroughly at home in his beloved Italy. In his time he had seen one every two years.

People who are looking for temptations always find them.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The Plainfield Press has discovered a scheme to widen the road, macadamize it, and build a trolley from Cranford to Rahway, via Bloodgood's Mills. The Press is nearly as good at making startling discoveries as the New York World. We haven't heard of it yet in Cranford.—Cranford Citizen.

The "Sage of Tunlaw" is the latest entry for the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination. As some may not have heard of the "sage" before it may be well to state that his everyday name is Wilson and that he enjoys the proud distinction of being Chief Magistrate of the borough of North Plainfield, in Somerset county. The credit of entering this dark horse is due the Plainfield Press, which vouches for Mr. Wilson, who is also spoken of as "Colonel," as a "man of unusual business ability," "a person of calm, far-seeing wisdom with recognized sagacity and prudence, and a practical philosopher. He is a sage in the truest sense of the word, and the Democratic party is fortunate to have a man so universally acknowledged to be such." For the Democracy to look any further for a candidate would seem to be a work of supererogation. Let's make the sage's nomination unanimous. — Newark News.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The Dime Savings Institution is rapidly taking a place in the front rank of New Jersey financial institutions. The deposits in the bank now amount to about $427,000, and it is recognized as one of the soundest in the State. They pay three per cent. interest on all monies deposited, the same as the Government pays for its bonds. Depositors are assured of their deposits being safely kept in the burglar proof safes in the bank.

Among the great army of volunteers now encamped near Falls Church, Va., at what is known as "Camp Alger," there is a former Plainfielder. Charles Johnson, of Newark, who has a large circle of friends in this city, is now with Company D., 1st N. J. Vols. He has written a very interesting letter to this office. He tells something of the camp life there and seems well pleased with the life of Uncle Sam's soldiers.

An unusual gift was received by the editor of The Press this morning. It was a package of tea grown on American soil. It will be surprising news to many people to know that the tea is grown in the United States, but such is a fact. It is cultivated with considerable success on the Pinehurst farm at Summerville, S. C., in which C. V. Culyer, of Washington avenue, in the borough, is interested, and it was through his favor that the package of tea was received at The Press office. It is the only farm of its kind in the country, and promises to be a success. The tea has the appearance of good quality, and resembles the oolong tea we get from Japan.

Stewart Hoffman, of Somerville, was in town on business yesterday.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

New Market, June 28—No service was held at the Baptist church last Sunday evening on account of the Children's Day exercises held in the afternoon. The pastor, Rev. Frank Fletcher, assisted in the service at the Dunellen Presbyterian church.

Miss Shinn, of the First Baptist church, Plainfield, addressed the members of the Father Light Missionary Society last Saturday afternoon in the Baptist church. At the same time a sufficient amount of money was secured to pay for the pulpit furniture.

Bishop Scarborough made a visit to the Church of the Holy Innocents' last Sunday and confirmed a small class. The visit was much enjoyed by the members and their friends.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 28.—During the performance of the Charley Deirch Concert Company Saturday evening, some miscreant threw several rotten eggs into the canvas inclosure. This is malicious mischief, and if the parties are caught they would be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

The parlors of the Baptist church were filled last evening with the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Braker, who had gathered to give them a reception previous to their departure for Europe tomorrow, where they go to attend the International Sunday-school convention held in London during July. It was not distinctly a Baptist affair, as the Methodist and Episcopal churches had accepted an invitation to attend, and the three churches united in wishing them a bon voyage and safe return. The entertainment was opened with a selection on the piano by Miss Randolph. Addresses were made by Rev. Mr. True, Rev. Mr. Woodruff and Mr. Krausse, of Cranford, and Dr. F. W. Westcott, president of the board of trustees. Mr. Braker responded with feeling remarks in which he spoke of the interest both he and Mrs. Braker had in the church and its people and said the reception would always by a pleasant memory to both. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the church. The parlors were tastefully trimmed with the Stars and Stripes, cut flowers and ferns. During Mr. Braker's absence his pupil will be occupied by Mr. Springer, a divinity student from Crozier Seminary.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grant, of Plainfield, were the guests Sunday of Mrs. Grant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Paff, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. John R Morey entertained friends from New York Sunday.

Mrs. George Goodbrough is entertaining her cousin.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Westfield, June 28—The death of Mrs. Esther A. Wilson, wife of Henry C. Wilson, occurred this morning at her home on First street, aged fifty-two years. The funeral will be held from her late residence next Thursday afternoon.

One of the finest ball games of the season took place on the Broad street grounds Saturday afternoon, the teams playing being the Riverdales, of New York, and the Westfield Club. On account of the rain the game was called at the end of the fifth inning when the score stood 2 to 1 in favor of the visitors.

A party of wheelmen composed of Robert Carberry, W. E. Knight, R. T. Townley, Chauncey Smith, A. H. Clark, Charles H. Bent, C. E. Pearsall and Wm. Moody, enjoyed a bicycle trip to Lake Hopatcong Sunday.

The honor scholars in St. Paul's Sunday-school for the month of May were: Etta Sheild, Frances Lee, Alice Davis, Edwin Sheild, Richard Davis, Minnie Matzart and Bessie Mattice.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church are arranging to give an ice cream and cake sale on the lawn at the home of Mrs. Burhans Thursday evening.

DRESSED CHICKENS.
There is nothing quite so good for dinner as chicken, is there? It is something of which we never tire. A tender, juicy fowl, nicely browned and a hungery man—well, they instantly become one. We pride ourselves on our dressed chickens. We would like to have your meat trade—and we think a plump dressed chicken would be a good introduction.

ON THE HEIGHTS.

"Alan, Alan, I am really and truly going to papa to-morrow."

The girl's face glowed with happiness; her little feet kept time as if to some gay march, and her fair curls fell about her face; truly, her Quaker-like garb was a mockery to Elizabeth Weston.

Her lover took her hands in his, saying wistfully,—

"You will leave me alone?"

"Oh, Alan, I could not stay—I could not!"

"You are young; you will outgrow this restlessness, and I would make you happy."

"You would make me happy here in poverty-stricken Orroway? Shut in from the world by the hills, for all your love, you do not understand what this narrow life is to me; to you, who are of the elect, it is happiness; I look at you as you sit in meeting on Sunday, and you look as if heaven were near while I feel as if the bare, white walls were crushing me; and I long for music and flowers, for a beautiful home and costly gowns, and life! I must succeed. Alan! Ambition beckons me to come to her, and some day I shall reach the heights."

"We might reach them here. Love beautifies even whitewashed walls, and, you can have your flowers, and sing. I shall be desolate when I lose you. Is love nothing to you, Elizabeth?"

"Nothing, nothing!" she repeated, as if to convince herself; then she went on, "My restlessness would disturb your peace. I am like my father, of the world, and you belong to Orroway." Then, entreatingly, "Do not look so grieved, Alan. I love you dearly; I could not have borne existence here without you. I shall always remember your goodness. Kiss me now—and go."

He kissed her slowly, sadly, and walked away from her, with bowed head, through the arbutus scented wood; and once, while she watched him, she stretched out her arms toward him, as if to draw him back then let them fall by her side; and the purple twilight fell upon her.

In the after years there was no time for dreaming—scrambling over rough places, slipping, falling, then going bravely on again, following the gray figure, until at last Elizabeth stood face to face with Ambition on the top of the mountain. Success and Fame came to her, placing the hard won laurels on her fair hair.

Then she looked about her for some one to give her a word of praise. There was no one. She had had no time to make friends; her father had died before she learned to know him.

"If Alan were only here," she cried, "he would rejoice to see how I make people laugh and cry at my will; he would say, "Thou hast bravely fought and won."

She looked down into the Commonplace Valley and saw the women clasping their babies, and wondering if love really made the valley beautiful; then she said,—

"They tell us one cannot have everything. I have success—I will be content."

She went on working still, as if she had not reached the top, and wishing vaguely that she had not so much time to look down.

"A gentleman to see madam."

Alan Maslin, her dear, kind Alan, stood within her door. He had come to her at last. It was a foolish man who said "Whom success crowns have abandoned love." Success had crowned her, and now Love, too, had come.

"You have come, after all these years, these long, long years, Alan!"

"They have been long to you, Elizabeth?"

"Very long. You need not be afraid to hold my hands; they are the same you used to kiss—only a little whiter than when I helped Martha with the butter."

"They are very small and white. You have changed, Elizabeth."

"Grown old and ugly?"

"No, no—more beautiful! You are happy?"

"Is one ever happy?"

"But you have all you desired—success, beautiful gowns, and," glancing about him, "you must be rich."

How slow he was! Why did he not take her in his arms and tell her he loved her still? She would prove her love for him by giving up all for his sake—hushing her beautiful voice, and going back to dreary, whitewashed Orroway.

"You are rich?" he repeated.

"Yes. But tell me of yourself, of Orroway. Martha has never written to me since I left the sheep for the goats!"

"You are not married?"

"No; I never had but one lover."

Surely now he would speak!

"I remember you thought love folly. Perhaps it would have been for you; but mine for Anne grows greater every year."

"Anne?"

"My wife, Anne Hilary that was. I thought you knew I married her." Then, looking into her white, drawn face, he queried, anxiously,—

"Are you cold, Elizabeth?"

She shrugged her shoulders and smiled brightly, as she answered,—

"A little, Alan. One is always chilly on the heights."

Finished Her Education.

"The parcel postman has just called at the Twickenhams', next door, and left a football, a bicycle, two cricket balls, a package of sweaters, a pair of spoon oars and a bundle of golf sticks."

"Then their daughter must be home from college and her education finished."—London Figaro.

AGE OF COLLEGE STUDENTS.

Some Figures Given Recently by the President of Dartmouth.

Some interesting figures regarding the average age of students entering college were given by President Tucker of Dartmouth in a recent talk. In 1780 this average age was 19 years; in 1790, 20 years; in 1800, it fell to 18, and in 1810 to a trifle less than 18. In 1820 it had risen to 18 plus, in 1840 to 19 and in 1850 to 19 plus, where it has since remained so far as the records have been consulted. What is most surprising is the high average for the early period. Requirements for admission to the leading colleges a century ago were of course far below what they are now, and it seems to be a fact that most graduates then who later attained great distinction entered college at ages not known now. Thus Webster and Choate entered Dartmouth when less than 15 years old, and George Ticknor when only about 12 years old. John Trumbull, the poet, passed his examination for Yale when only 7 years old, though he did not enter the college for some time afterward. He was a prodigy, however, and his period was half a century earlier than that of Ticknor and Choate. Nevertheless, cases of entering college at 12 and 14 years a century ago could be cited in large number, but the Dartmouth figures would indicate that they were the exception and not the rule. Possibly, however, Dartmouth itself would prove to be an exception among colleges. The sections from which it drew students most largely were more remote and less favored with preparatory educational advantages than those about Harvard and Yale, and this made a great difference.—Springfield, Mass., Republican.

LIKE MOTHER, LIKE SON.

A Little Incident Which Happened in the New York Post-Office.

One of the most remarkable among the feats of the post-office in finding people—and such feats are many—is recorded by a New York paper. A letter was received at the post-office in that city addressed simply: "To my mother, New York, America."

The letter came from Ireland, but as there are in New York several women who have sons in Ireland, the post-office people despaired of finding the right one. However, the letter was turned over to the deciphering department. Now it so happened that on the very day of its receipt there an old Irish woman came to the general delivery window and said,—

"Have ye a letter from me b'y?"

The fact that a woman with the cast of mind required for such an inquiry should come at that time, struck the clerk, who had heard of a letter for a woman whose name was not given, as something more than a coincidence. It was quite possible that such a woman might be the mother of such a son.

So he took the letter, observed the postmark, and asked the woman where her "b'y" lived. She gave the name of the place with which the letter was stamped. Some other questions were asked and the answers noted down. Then the clerk gave the woman the letter, on the condition that she should open it on the spot and return it if it were not for her.

She opened it, and lo! its contents proved conclusively that it was really from her son in Ireland.

A Wonder Room in a Chicago House.

There is a curious room in Chicago. It is in one of the most imposing mansions of the city—a mansion famed for its dinners and balls. This little room is fashioned of mirrors. Ceiling, floor and walls are all of mirrors, some of which are convex, some concave, some flat. The door is also of looking glass, and it opens with a spring, which is not easy to find. One of the jests of the household is to entice a guest into the glittering room, close the door and leave him for a few moments to find his way out. The effect upon the senses is bewildering. The occupant sees himself in grotesque shapes all around. He is dogged with caricatures of himself. He sees himself with a flat and swelling face and with an elongated and lugubrious phiz; he perceives himself squat as a dwarf and towering like a beanpole, and can find no escape from these absurd presentments of himself.

A Thoughtful Hen.

A lady who lived for some time when she was first married on a Mississippi cotton plantation says that among their poultry was a hen who developed a fondness for a more civilized way of living. She preferred the house to the hen yard, and never lost an opportunity of mounting the steps and entering. She was always "shooed" out, but this did not cause her ardor to decrease. Finally she conceived the idea of making an offering to the inmates of the house in return for accommodations, so nearly every day she would enter and lay an egg in the sheet trunk, which stood open at that time of day in the hall. The family was so amused at this performance that they allowed her to go in and out without molestation.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

A Primitive Method of Operation.

The simplest public railroad now operated is thought to be one between Atami and Odawara, in Japan. It is a narrow-gauge road, and is run by man power. The cars have seats for four persons each, who sit back to back. A train consists of two or three cars, and is drawn up hill by half a dozen coolies; at the top of the incline the coolies jump on the platforms and the train runs down to the terminus by gravity, with the speed of an express. It is said there has never been an accident on this road.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Aus der Rheinpfalz.

Speyer. Der 15jährige Lehrling eines hiesigen Bankgeschäftes wurde dieser Tage wegen größerer Unterschlagungen entlassen. Gerichtliche Untersuchung gegen ihn ist eingeleitet.

Haßloch. Bei einem Unwetter hat hier der Blitz nicht weniger als acht Mal eingeschlagen. Scheuer und Stall des Schreiners Freudenberger gingen in Flammen auf, wobei mehrere Stück Vieh zu Grunde gingen. Dem Schuhmacher Nonnenmacher wurde eine Kuh im Stalle vom Blitz erschlagen.

Neustadt. In der hiesigen Pechfabrik von Heck kam ein Arbeiter mit einem Licht dem Kessel zu nahe. Der Kessel explodirte und der Arbeiter wurde schwer verletzt, der Dachstuhl demolirt.

Württemberg.

Stuttgart. Sämmtliche Offiziere und Militärbeamte des Württembergischen Armeekorps verzichten auf ein Tagesgehalt. Die dadurch erzielte Summe wird der Prinzessin Pauline als Hochzeitsgeschenk überreicht werden. Die Prinzessin verehelicht sich im Oktober mit dem Erbprinzen von Wied. Natürlich geschieht dieser Verzicht auf ein Tagesgehalt völlig freiwillig und ohne Beeinflussung durch die Vorgesetzten.—Am Pfingstsonntag fand hier zum ersten Male in den Anlagen des königlichen Schloßparks ein Blumenkorso statt. Die königliche Familie und fast die ganze Hofgesellschaft betheiligten sich daran. Etwa 130 reich und geschmackvoll dekorirte Wagen mit den festlich geputzten Insassen und den geschmückten Pferden boten in dem Korso ein schönes, farbenprächtiges Bild.

Ellwangen. Ueber den flüchtigen Bankier F. v. Welden ist der Konkurs verhängt worden. Die Ueberschuldung soll 90,000 Mark betragen. Man vermuthet, daß Börsenspekulationen den sonst soliden jungen Mann zu Grunde gerichtet haben, da er das hiesige Bankgeschäft erst vor drei Jahren unter den günstigsten Bedingungen übernahm.

Heilbronn. Großes Aufsehen hat hier der Selbstmord des Herrn Ganther, Vorstand des städtischen Laboratoriums, erregt. Was ihn in den Tod trieb, ist noch nicht bekannt.

Rottweil. In Altstadt fand man bei den Grundarbeiten für die Kirchengrundmauern sehr interessante Reste aus der Römerzeit. In einer Tiefe von fast zwei Metern stieß man auf einen eigenartig hergestellten Fußboden: Ziegelplättchen von etwa zehn Centimeter Länge, sieben Centimeter Breite und zwei Centimeter Dicke waren gerade so wie die Brettchen unserer Parkettböden neben einander gelegt und zwar auf die längere Schmalseite; der so entstandene sieben Centimeter dicke Fußbodenbelag mußte natürlich ebenso dauerhaft wie hübsch sein.

Ulm. Hier wurde ein Deserteur verhaftet, der vor anderthalb Jahren in Kempten vom dortigen Jäger-Bataillon wegen Unterschlagung fahnenflüchtig und seitdem steckbrieflich verfolgt wurde. Er wagte sich vor einigen Wochen von Wien hierher, miethete in Söflingen eine Wohnung und fand in Ulm Stellung. Doch wurde die Polizei auf ihn aufmerksam.

Weingarten. Beim hiesigen Infanterie-Regiment erkrankten über 50 Mann an einer räthselhaften Krankheit, einer Art Ruhr. Als muthmaßliche Krankheitsursache wird von den Militärärzten der Genuß schlecht gebrauten oder ungenügend vergohrenen Bieres bezeichnet.

Baden.

Hohenstadt. Die ledige Karoline Herold dahier wurde vom Bezirksamt als Hilfsrathschreiber verpflichtet. Es ist dies der erste weibliche Rathschreiber in Baden.

Mannheim. Der Bürgerausschuß nahm eine neue Begräbniß- und Friedhofsordnung an, deren hauptsächlichste Bestimmung die Benützung der Leichenhalle obligatorisch macht. Der von den Sozialdemokraten eingebrachte Antrag, die Kosten der Beerdigungen auf die Gemeindekasse zu übernehmen, wurde abgelehnt.

Tauberbischofsheim. Hier wurden dieser Tage elf Zigeuner eingeliefert. Sie sind beschuldigt, in Königheim einem Herrn, der sich wahrsagen ließ und dafür 79 Mark zahlte, nebenbei noch 420 Mark entwendet zu haben. Der Bestohlene wurde also hart bestraft für Dummheit und Aberglauben!

Elsaß-Lothringen.

Straßburg. In dem hier garnisonirenden Fußartillerie-Regiment Nr. 14 sind 30 Soldaten in Folge des Genusses von Kartoffeln erkrankt.—Das Kriegervereinswesen hat in den Reichslanden in den letzten Jahren erfreuliche Fortschritte aufzuweisen. Während nämlich der Landesverband am 1. Januar 1894 nur 154 Vereine mit 16,177 Mitgliedern, darunter 8031 eingeborenen Elsaß-Lothringern, zählte, ist die Zahl der Vereine inzwischen auf 192 mit 20,110 Mitgliedern gestiegen. Von diesen sind 11,718 Eingeborene. Die Kriegervereine verfügen über ein Vermögen von 394,930 Mark.

Which Is Better, Try an Experiment or Profit By a Plainfield Citizen's Experience

Something new is an experiment.
Must be proven to be as represented.
Be successful at home or you doubt it.

The statement of a manufacturer is not convincing of merit.
But the endorsement of friends is.
Now, supposing you had a bad back,
A lame, weak or aching one,
Would you experiment on it?
You will read of many so-called cures,
But they come from far-away places.
It's different when the endorsement comes from home.
Easy to prove that it is so.
Home endorsement is the proof that backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.
Read this case:

Mr. P. J. Kreitling, Proprietor of Barber Shop and Cigar Store, living at No. 253 W. Front street, says: "I had all kinds of pains in my back and loins for the last 5 or 6 years. Standing all day long at a barber chair aggravated the difficulty very much. If I stooped and remained in that position a short time it was very hard to straighten up again and if I attempted to lift anything heavy twinges caught me in the back. I used different kinds of plasters but they did not relieve me. After reading several statements in my paper about Doan's Kidney Pills curing people similarly afflicted, I made up my mind to try a box and procured them and after a short time was entirely relieved. Doan's Kidney Pills not only cured the pain but they strengthened my back. My wife was troubled in a similar way and was also cured by Doan's Kidney Pills. We both consider them a good medicine and will gladly recommend them to anyone suffering from symptoms of disordered kidneys."

THE MUTILATED EAR.

It was getting toward nine o'clock when my attention was attracted to a pretty little girl who was tripping across Regent Street. Just as she reached the curb she slipped upon a patch of ice and fell heavily. It took me about half a second to reach the little woman and pick her up. She was shaken by the fall, though not injured, and I had to support her for a moment.

I had tramped up and down my beat three or four times when a bareheaded cashboy ran out of one of the big shops and yelled at me,—

"Come quick! The manager has caught a shoplifter!"

"Ah, officer," said the manager, who was a mere business machine, "I am glad you have come. One of our clerks at the lace counter discovered that a valuable piece of lace had been stolen and gave the alarm. This woman hurried away from the counter. The lace was found in an outside pocket of her cloak. This is the piece on the desk here."

There was a sudden movement on the part of the woman. She snatched her handkerchief from her face, extended her right arm and finger, which shook with rage, and, turning her blazing eyes upon the business machine, she fairly screamed,—

"'Tis false! I am no thief!"

She was the black-eyed little girl that I had picked up scarcely half an hour before.

Then she told me her little story. She was an orphan and had been brought up by an old aunt in Yorkshire. About six months before this her aunt had died, and she came on to the city and turned her hand to lace-making and had been able to support herself decently since then.

She said that she had stepped into the shop to make some small purchases and was arrested when walking away. She protested that she did not know how the lace came to be found in her pocket.

I explained the case to the sergeant at the station and got his permission for her to sit in a chair in the office instead of occupying a cell all night.

Somehow I couldn't get the sorrowful look of those black eyes out of my mind, and I couldn't sleep, and when daylight came time hung on a peg until court time came. I walked around thinking over the case, trying to arrive at some solution favorable to the girl.

Of course when we got to court Minnie—that was her name—was convicted in one, two, three order. She made no statement—just stood dazed like—and the judge held her for trial in the court above.

As they led the girl away she was the picture of death. I gave her a nod of encouragement, but she returned it with a look that said just as plainly as words could have said,—

"My heart is broken."

I had questioned her closely as to the appearance of the people who had stood near her at the lace counter. She could remember none save one flashily dressed woman who had attracted her attention because of a remarkable mutilation of one of her ears, as if a piece had been cut out in a triangular form.

I persuaded the superintendent to grant me leave of absence for a couple of days and went to work. I overhauled the pictures at the office and gazed hard and earnestly at the features of every female "crook" in the "rogues' gallery," but I could not find the one I was after.

At last I fell to reading the remarks under the picture of a bold, handsome face and was knocked all into a cocked hat by the words:—

"Has a triangular piece cut out of the left ear."

I had a long talk with a detective friend of mine, and after awhile he was able to place the woman and told me where she most frequented.

All that day and nearly all the next I was on the lookout for that lady and was despairing when a big, handsome woman swept past me, actually brushing against me with her sealskin cloak.

I glanced up and fairly started, for one of her ears was mutilated just as the girl and the note in the office had described.

The woman swept on, and I followed. She entered the very shop where I had arrested Minnie and went up to the very counter where the lace was stolen and began examining the stock. And then, selecting a trifle, she paid for it and turned to go.

I was in a quandary. But I was determined to make an effort and run the risk of making a serious mistake. Stepping up to her I touched her shoulder and whispered,—

"Come with me. I want you a moment," at the same time looking straight into her eyes.

Every drop of blood left the woman's face. She fairly trembled for an instant, and then she looked back defiantly and went with me.

We had moved but a step or two in the direction of the bookkkeeper's den, where the girl had been searched three days before, when something struck my feet. I stooped and picked up a bundle of lace. The woman had dropped it. I was right. I had found my thief.

Seeing that she was caught, the shop-lifter owned up that she had stolen the piece of lace. When accused of the other theft for which I wanted her, she confessed to that too.

My, but wasn't that a grateful little woman! She just ran and placed her arms around my neck and kissed me. I was kind of taken back, for, although I rather enjoy kissing, I don't like too many witnesses.

I married her two weeks afterward, and the business machine gave her a two hundred and fifty dollar outfit and was glad to get out of the awkward fix at that price.

CUT-RATE MARRIAGES.

Philadelphia Magistrates Must Pay the City $5 Whether They Get that or Not.

Not all that comes to the mill of a Philadelphia magistrate is grist for him to grind for his own benefit. There appears to be a widespread impression that the fees secured for performing marriage ceremonies are perquisites which the members of the minor judiciary dare tuck away in an inside pocket without making a record of it. But that's all a serious blunder. The law prescribes that a magistrate who links two loving hearts earns a $5 fee for the city, and when he makes a return therefor the "V" must be forthcoming. The law was treated with more or less disregard until Comptroller Walton stepped into office. Then every cent had to be accounted for, and if a bridegroom undervalued the services rendered and tendered a fee of less than the legal amount it fell to the unhappy magistrate to make good the discrepancy.

A few days ago a well-dressed young man, accompanied by a young woman arrayed in spotless white visited Magistrate O'Brien's office and besought him to perform the act of prestidigitation which makes two one. The magistrate sized up the couple and felt no hesitancy in anticipating a munificent reward for his kindly services. Pronounced husband and wife, the senior member of the new combination thrust his hand deeply into his inside pocket and brought forth an envelope which, in the magnifying vision of the magistrate, looked to contain surely not less than a crisp ten. The envelope was sealed and not suspecting its real contents, Mr. O'Brien placed it in his own pocket. After the couple had gone the magistrate tore open the paper and was almost transfixed when a $2 bill was revealed. Of course the only way to make the account good is for Mr. O'Brien to take the money from his own pocket. He doesn't believe in paying for the privilege of discharging one of his multifarious duties, and has written to the groom to produce the difference.

The Boy Favored Modern Methods.

The boy had been in thought for several minutes. At last he said.—

"Father, it's wrong to fight, isn't it?"

"Yes, my son," replied the father, pleased to see that his lessons on the subject had not been wasted.

"It's wrong to try to settle disputes by resorting to force, isn't it?"

"It is, indeed," returned the father. "The whole tendency of modern civilization is to do away with fighting of all descriptions."

"Muscle doesn't count for much as it used to, does it?"

"No, my boy, physical prowess does not rank as high as mental ability in the world today."

The boy again relapsed into thought for a few minutes, apparently pondering his father's words.

"Then, of course, we're all for peace now," he finally said.

"Of course, perfect peace is the ideal for which we strive."

"And we should strive for that ideal in private and public affairs, shouldn't we?"

"Always."

"That's what I thought," said the boy, reflectively. "Don't you think we have a good opportunity to apply it now?"

"In what way, my boy?"

"Why, let's arbitrate the question of that licking that you are going to give me after dinner. Everybody arbitrates now."

It was arbitrated.

One on Him at Last.

He was a rich old fellow, one we would call good hearted, much as we say it's a fine day when it isn't. He liked young company and jolly people. He was sure to be at the cigar case when some of the boys bought goods and got that bargain cigar out of the three-for-a-quarter lot. No one could wet his whistle at the village bar without running onto the beaming old fellow, whose whistle was always pretty dry too, and he drank everybody's tod, but never any of his own buying. His niggardliness was detested, but there was something in his personality that created a friendship so strong that cold-blooded reason could never dethrone. So the old fellow drank the summer boarders' rum, smoked their cigars, and really made them happy to know him. The migrations north of the bird of pleasure brought the same people to the same old village and the same old hotel. Everything seemed changed, for the old fellow was gone.

He had gone over the river with Charon during the winter. The boys wandered to the village cemetery, and a shiny marble slab as fresh as an untravelled man, stood up there as familiarly as the old fellow used to stand at the end of the village bar. It said:

"Boys, this is one on me!"—Turners's Falls Reporter.

Got a Good Thing and Liked It.

"And didn't you like it up there?" The deposed angel elevated her brows suggestively.

"Well," she rejoined, "they gave me a perfectly swell crown and then said I'd have to take it off if there was anybody sitting behind me, and I just told the usher he could go ahead and eject me if he wanted to."—Detroit Tribune.

Untamed.

"Marriage!" said the unsophisticated youth. "Marriage has a civilizing effect on a man. If not, why is it that an old bachelor is so apt to be cross and crusty?"

"Because," said the Cumminsville sage, "because an old bachelor is not afraid to say what he thinks."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

RAILROADS IN CHINA.

Railroad Building Not Done Precipitately in the Flowery Kingdom.

There are in all more than 400,000 miles of railroads in the world, and of this mileage nearly 175,000 belong to the United States and 150,000 to Europe. The balance is distributed unequally thoughout Asia, South America, Africa and Australia, with a larger mileage in Australia than in Africa. The present railroad mileage of China is insignificant when compared with that of some American states or American systems. It consists of one road, from Tientsin to Kaiping, a distance of eighty miles, or about as far as from New York to Rhinebeck. This diminutive Chinese railroad, constructed under the supervision and as a result of the advocacy of Li Hung Chang, is the one railroad in China, but it is to be extended into a trunk line to reach the capital city of Pekin, and to connect the latter with Tientsin. It is to be an imposing affair, with double tracks and many stations, and is to be under the general control of the imperial authorities at Pekin. The estimated cost of the road is 3,000,000 taels, equivalent to about $4,250,000.

Railroad building, like everything else in China, is done with cautious deliberation, and sometimes by a crab-like movement. The first railroad line in China was started more than twenty years ago, and was intended to connect the big city of Shanghai with Wusung. After it had run successfully for a year the Chinese government bought it, and soon thereafter the track was torn up and the materials were shipped out of the country. That was the end of the first railroad in China. A second small road had the same fate, and then there was a lull in railroad building until the construction of the Tientsin line, the extension of which is to bring the road into the city of Pekin. The people of China are not favorable to what an English writer has described as the freedom of trade. They object to any new alliances with foreign countries which will entail the opening up of either the ports or the cities of China to outsiders. Accordingly, railroads are to be expected only through the intervention of the government, and the representative of whatever progress there is in the Chinese government is Li Hung Chang.

THE LATEST HUMOR

"That fence wants painting badly. I think I'll do it myself," said the young husband.

"Yes, do it yourself if you think it wants to be done badly," said his wife.

"What are you crying for, child?"
"Archie hurt me."
"How, pray?"
"I was going to hit him, when he ducked his head and my fist went against the wall."

"What is your name?" asked the judge of the young wife.
"Carolina Augusta Emma."
"And how are you generally called?"
"My sweet ducky," answered the young wife, bashfully.

"Ah!" said Mrs. Buzby, to her husband, who has come home with a black eye and no hat, "that's what you get for riding a bicycle."

"No, my dear; it's what I got for not being able to ride one," said Busby.

"That's a French coin, sir," said the conductor. "I can't take it."

"You can't?" said the passenger. "You gave it to me in change this morning."

"Well, you see, I'm more particular than you are."

"By the way, shall I put in a buffalo? The ride over the mountains will be a little stiff," said the stable keeper, referring to the robe.

"Ah, couldn't you let be 'ave a 'orse, you know?" said the English blood. "I'd rather not drive a buffalo the first time, you know."

One exceedingly warm day in July a neighbor met an old man and remarked that it was very hot.

"Yes," said Joe, "if it wasn't for one thing I should say we were going to have a thaw."

"What is that?" inquired the friend.

"There's nothing froze," said Joe.

Miss Lakeside—"Mr. Beacon Street, I understand you have been telling people I talk too much."

Mr. Beacon Street—"My dear young lady, what I said was that your volubility was devoid of terminal facilities."

Miss Lakeside—"Oh, that alters the case. How people do get false impressions."

"Will you kindly tell me what time the four o'clock train leaves?" asked the affable stranger.

"Well, of all the chump questions!" cried the ticket agent. "Say you'd better chase yourself away before the depot falls on you."

"Oh, never mind," said the stranger, "if the question irritates you. I just wanted a little information. I'm the new superintendent of the road, you know."

"But tell me, how did you happen to marry him?" asked Aunt Mary.

"Why, you see," replied Bertha, "everything was ready. He had asked me to have him and I had consented; he has procured the license and engaged the clergyman; and I had sent out cards and ordered the cake; so, you see, we thought that we might as well go through with it. There, aunt, that is the reason, as near as I can remember it."

HE WAS LOOKING FOR TROUBLE.

But the Religious Editor Had a Scheme Which Circumvented Him.

He came into the editorial room of the Daily Twinkler. He had the air of one looking for trouble, and would not be happy until he got it. He lounged up to the city desk.

"Say, are youse de bloke wot gits dis kinner-garden pape out?"

The editor trembled. He thought of his family and little children. Yet, despite all, he answered truthfully that he was the editor.

"Well, say! will youse put me ont' de farmer wot wrote dat roast on me in dis morning's pape? He said dat—well, dat don't cut no ice. Jes' let me put me lights on him. Where is he?"

"Oh," said the city editor, relievedly, "the man you want is our religious editor. He is in the next room. You—you will not hurt him?"

"Hurt 'im? Naw. I'll only put 'im in a paper bag. Jes' phone up t' de coroner's an' say fer me dat he will have a stiff in ten minutes."

He trotted into the adjoining room. A mild-eyed, slender man sat at the desk writing church notes.

"Say! me handle is Mick McManus, from de Ate, and youse did me dirt dis A. M. Are youse de felly wot wrote dat me mug cracked beer glasses every time I takes a high ball?"

"Oh, yes," said the mild-eyed man. "What a charming story I made out of it."

He reached over and got a couple of fifty-pound dumb-bells and began moving them gently.

"And did youse say dat me family wus mugs, and dat we stopped tickers an' made railroad tracks crooked when we smiled?"

"Yes, I wrote it. It pleased the boys on the staff." He was now throwing the bells up to the ceiling and catching them with his little fingers. "Is there anything I can do for you?"

"Naw. I only wanted to meet youse, an' say dat de gag tickled de Ate fer all dey was wort. Fix us up again. Ta-ta." And he drifted out again.

Then the religious editor took up the two-pound, black-painted wooden dumb-bells, placed them in a cubby-hole, and continued his peaceful work.—New York World.

Ballast for Ducks.

Few people credit a duck with the sense he really possesses, said Fred Ozenne, a disciple of Nimrod. "For years I have been wondering what had caused the presence of a good-sized pebble bank on the shore of the lake in the Grandivola section of the Louisiana marsh. Had it been a sand bank I could have understood it, but it was composed of pebbles, all very much alike, rounded and smooth almost to a size, and apparently differing from the small stones found in the gravel beds of the South. Several of the hunters in that section had seen the pebble beach, and, like myself, they could not understand it. All winter long it seemed fresher than at other times, and during the summer the grass would kind of cover its upper portion, and the mud from the fresh water dim the lustre of the stones near the edge. There was not another beach like it in the marsh.

"One winter, in fact it was just when the first cold spell struck us, I was hunting with a friend in the lake I spoke of. It was one of the finest ducking spots in the state. This was before they had begun to make glue from the eggs in Canada. When we reached there there was not a duck to be seen. The next morning I was hiding in the grass near the pebble beach when I heard a sound of wings, and a large flock of mallard settled near me. Before I could raise my gun the entire lot walked out on the pebble bank, and, to my astonishment, began to disgorge a lot of small stones like the ones already there. This occupied but a short time, and the flock began quacking and sailed into the lake, and I shot several. This settled the mystery of the pebble beach. In the spring I was again hunting in the lake, and when the first warm weather came the ducks began to go home. They would come to the beach, and, after a few preliminaries, swallow a lot of the pebbles, then fly around for a few minutes in order to see if their balance was all right. If they were too heavy they would disgorge a few stones, or if too light swallow a half dozen more.

"I found by observation that in order for the ducks to make long flights it was necessary for them to fill up with a certain number of stones to secure a proper equilibrium for the return trip. After I found this out I always had plenty of game to show my friends."—New Orleans Times-Demociat.

ZIMMERHACKLE'S OBSERVATIONS.

Some men never settle up because they never settle down.

Nothing will clean the dirt out of bottles and the air out of bicycle tires like carpet tacks.

There is no objection to a young woman being able to play the piano. But she should also learn to cook. Music won't satisfy a hungry stomach a great while at a time. Your husband will find time to eat three times every day, but he will only find time to listen to your piano playing on a full stomach. Learn the piano, but don't neglect the kitchen. You may be lucky enough to marry money enough to hire a cook, but even then, there will be thousands of times that you will thank your stars you know how it should be done.—Dansville Breeze.

JUST IN TIME.

Carroll Trainor was to go to Mexico to make his fortune and Lila Havens had promised to remain true to him till his return. When they parted, he decided to return to Baltimore at once and make arrangements to go to Mexico. Lila Havens went on alone to friends she was to visit at Sharpsburg.

"We expected you this morning," said her hostess.

"Yes, dear, but you see, I was unavoidably delayed. What a lovely day it has been!"

"And there is a telegram for you, Lila."

"Really? Something aunt forgot to mention, I dare say. Excuse me." She broke it open carelessly. "Dear me!" She puckered her brow. "Only fancy! The admiral is coming down here tomorrow."

The admiral appeared on the scene the day following.

"My dear Lila," he said, "I must have a little talk with you."

"Yes, uncle."

"Lila, my dear"—they were quite alone—"I have had a proposal for your hand in marriage. If I had chosen the man, I could not be better pleased than to see you the wife of Judge Mason."

"Uncle! He is more than twice my age. I never dreamed of it."

"He is a young man, my dear—a vigorous young man. He will idolize you. You knew he admired you."

"He is a widower."

"But his only daughter is married."

"Oh, uncle, it—it is out of the question."

"My dear"—the old man looked suddenly grave and pale—"there is bad news. You must make up your mind to meet it bravely."

Lila's face reflected some of the paleness of his own.

"Uncle—my—money—have I lost it?"

"There has been a terrible financial failure. I hardly know how to tell you. We only heard yesterday, and we don't know for sure as yet. I am afraid—Lila, you must bear up—I am afraid you have lost nearly all you had."

The girl leaned back in the chair. There was a stunned look in her face. She did not speak. The admiral went on, speaking more rapidly,—

"I can hardly blame myself. It was an undreamed of thing. Of course there is a little real estate left you. Heaven knows I wish it had been all in houses. Judge Mason——"

"Oh," the girl broke in suddenly, "he won't want me now—when he knows I am penniless!"

"My child, he came as soon as he knew it."

She went to her room and locked herself in. Then she wrote to Carroll Trainor:—

"I am no longer rich. There is no use of an engagement. I have lost everything. Perhaps you will be rich some day, Carroll. If so, you must come and find me."

But she said nothing of Hon. Thomas Mason.

The girl's soul sickened within her. A brief note from Trainor told her that he was just leaving for the gulf coast, where he would find a steamship for Vera Cruz. He thought he would never return to the United States.

A great despair came over her. In her sensitive state she felt that he no longer cared for her.

She capitulated and consented to receive Judge Mason's addresses.

Three months had passed. The wedding was to take place the last week of June. Miss Havens was to become Mrs. Thomas Mason.

The wedding invitations were about to be sent out. The wedding day was fixed a fortnight hence. Miss Havens, out on a shopping errand, turned a street corner sharply and ran against some one. She looked up and grew pale. It was Carroll Trainor.

"You!" she said faintly.

"You didn't expect to see me? Lila, for heaven's sake, is it true that you are going to marry Judge Mason?"

She nodded with an effort. The idea of the marriage to which she had become reconciled, but never enthusiastically disposed, suddenly seemed sickening. Her whole soul revolted.

"Carroll!" she gasped. "Oh, Carroll! If there were any escape!"

"Escape? What do you mean? Isn't it your own choosing? Are you being forced into marrying the old widower?"

"I—I—oh, you seemed not to want me, and uncle and aunt seemed not to want me! Nobody seemed to want me—except Judge Mason.

"I—deserted you! I've just returned from Mexico," said Trainor, "and I'm going back there at once. I've got a splendid chance. It's lonesome for a man to be by himself. The climate is like paradise."

The admiral and his good lady were at the breakfast table.

His morning mail lay before him. He took up the top letter of all and gazed severely at it. The handwriting was Lila's. The letter had been posted the night before. He opened it, read it in silence and passed it to his wife.

"Do not send the invitations," it said, "for I shall not marry Judge Mason. He is a good man and will understand it was a mistake. I love some one else and have gone away to marry him. We shall spend our honeymoon in a palm thatched hut in Mexico."

Mrs. Blair could not speak. After a moment's silence the admiral observed:

"On the whole, I'm glad the marriage is off. The judge's daughter was greatly opposed. She might have made things unpleasant after a bit." And still again, "she's a plucky little creature, Lila is! God bless her!"

The Clinton Avenue Club is going to Somerville some day or else the Somerville players are coming here to settle that tie of Saturday afternoon. The Clinton Avenue boys went up with the expectation of being defeated, not a very encouraging state of mind, certainly, nor inclined to bring them victory. Nevertheless they put up a strong game and the Somerville boys had their hands full. It was not the Somersets, who collapsed so completely last year, but a new aggregation of baseball cranks in the county seat who have taken the familiar name.

It was really a pity that the rain came when it did Saturday afternoon and so prevented the Crescents from finishing their game with the Staten Island Athletic Club. From the results of the three innings that were played there seemed little doubt as to the final result. Nevertheless it would have been interesting to see if the Crescents could continue to put up such a stiff game as they opened with. Undoubtedly the Staten Island team was a strong one and had plenty of good material in its ranks. It is hard to account for the numerous errors that the visitors made unless it was that the warm opening on the part of the home team rather took the heart out of the visitors before they had fairly warmed up. The sudden dwindling in the support of him must have made it unpleasant for the visiting twirler. He has the reputation of being a good man in the box, but the Crescents hit his pitching early and often.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Thomas Whitenack, of Scotch Plains, and Thomas Burns, of Pemberton avenue, are recent purchasers of Eldridge wheels.

Invitations have been extended to all the members of the Y. M. C. A. to meet the wheeling division in the large hall Thursday night at 9 o'clock.

Miss Agnes Blair, of East Second street, and Rev. C. E Herring, of Watchung avenue, started yesterday morning on their wheels for Belmar.

Sunday morning at 4 o'clock, Frank Maxson, of West Sixth street, Harry Rogers, of West Sixth street, and George Main, of Central avenue, started on their wheels for Westerly, R. I. They will go by way of Long Island and cross to the mainland by boat.

It is the intention of the New Jersey Division, League of American Wheelmen, to establish local organizations as rapidly as possible in every city and township in the State. It is proposed that each local consul should call together all the members resident in his township or city as soon as possible to perfect a local organization. The officers shall consist of the local consul as chairman, a secretary-treasurer, and such officers as may be deemed necessary. As local organizations are formed, a number will be assigned to each by the State secretary-treasurer, and they will thereafter be known as Local Consulate No. ——, L. A. W. The scope of work to be undertaken will necessarily vary in different localities. The matter of good roads should take precedence of all others, and members should be encouraged to make reports of poor roads that they may observe any infringements on the rights of wheelmen, as well as to suggest improvements. For the purpose of investigating and properly disposing of complaints, and for otherwise prosecuting L. A. W. work, committees should be appointed on roads and highways; membership, who should not only work to secure members, but to see that those already members become active and renewed from year to year. Legislation, who should watch carefully the doings of local authorities, or be ready to assist in any work by the State organization. Local Consul T. A. Cuming is considering the advisability of calling together the members of the L. A. W. in Plainfield for the purpose of organizing a local branch as recommended.

GOLF.

There will be no playing for the Mrs. Charles J. Fisk cup during July and August.

The board of trustees of the Park Golf Club will meet this evening and receive the report of the committee on greens. The club house is now rapidly nearing completion, and it is hoped that there will be some playing on the new grounds July 4th.

ROD AND GUN.

The local fishermen say that weakfish and bluefish are biting freely at Amboy.

Warren Townley and Wren Townley, of the borough, spent yesterday in suburban waters. They report a good catch.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Brecht and daughter, of New Rochelle, have been guests at the home of John D. Titsworth, of Madison avenue.

J. Harry Manning, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who sailed for London a week ago en route to the world's Y. M. C. A. convention in Switzerland, arrived in London today.

Miss Ethel B. Bowers, of New York, was a guest at the Harte-Steele wedding last evening, and she was also a guest of former Mayor and Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., of Washington Park. She returned to New York this morning.

—A council of the Daughters of Liberty was organized at Dunellen last night. The first meeting was held and a number of members from Lakeside Council, of New Market, met with them.

DEATH OF MRS. LONG.

An Aged and Esteemed Woman of the Borough Passes Away.

The death of Mrs. Jacob Long, aged 81 years, occurred this morning at 7 o'clock at her home on Craig place after an illness lasting about two weeks, from a complication of troubles. Her serious illness caused grave anxiety among her relatives, and her recovery was not wholly expected.

Mrs. Long was born at Martinsville and lived there up to about twelve years ago. During the past twelve years she has resided in the borough She was married 57 years ago to Jacob Long, and she is the first to pass away in the family consisting of herself and husband, four sons and two daughters. The husband and children all survive her.

Of the sons, William H., lives in Somerville; J. S. B., at Martinsville; Jacob Jr., in New York State, and Dr. M. B., resides on Park avenue, this city. The daughters are Mrs. Mary Van Nest, of Martinsville, and Mrs. Steven O. Staats, of West Second street. There are twenty-one grandchildren, and three great grandchildren, all living. Mrs. Long was a faithful member of the M. E. church at Mt. Horeb, and she was an earnest Christian woman, who lived steadfastly in the faith.

The notice of the funeral service will be published later, when the arrangements are completed.

A TROUBLESOME TENANT.

John Dorgan Promised the Judge He Would Move Out.

John Dorgan, who lives in one of Samuel Dreier's houses on West Second street, has been annoying the neighbors in the vicinity of Plainfield avenue for a week.

Last night Mrs. Dreier came to Chief Grant and asked him to go with her and lock Dorgan up, as he was shouting and cursing around there and making such a noise that the neighbors could not sleep.

When the Chief had picked up Officer Flanagan and reached Dorgan's house, he found that Officer Lunger had arrested Dorgan and that he was safe in the lockup.

This morning Dorgan was a thoroughly scared man. City Judge DeMeza threatened to give him five months in the county jail, and the prisoner was very much afraid that the Judge was in earnest. He was allowed to go upon his promise to get out of the house by tomorrow noon.

PRAISED FOR ENLISTING.

Frank Vosseller Commended by Democratic County Committee.

At a meeting of the Union County Democratic Executive Committee held at Elizabeth yesterday, the following resolution, introduced by E. D. Moffett, of this city, was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Frank Vosseller, a member of this committee from the Second ward, city of Plainfield, has enlisted in the service of the United States for the war against Spain, and is now on his way to join the army, it is hereby

Resolved, That this committee commend him for his patriotism and fidelity to his country, and extend to him their best wishes for success, hoping that the war may soon be ended and our country restored to peace and prosperity.

John L. Crowell, of Rahway, and P. J. Ryan, of Elizabeth, were selected as the Democrat members of the County Board of Registry and Elections.

Alfred Cox, of Netherwood, was selected by the committee to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Vosseller.

LOT MARSHALL DEAD.

Passed Away Last Night After a Lingering Illness.

James Lot Marshall, of Park avenue, died last night about 9 o'clock, after a lingering illness. Although he had been seen frequently on the streets up to a few days before his death, he was not at all strong, and his death was not unexpected.

The deceased was born in New York, and moved to this city with his parents 50 years ago. He had just passed his 56th birthday. The deceased leaves a widow and one child, a married daughter, Mrs. William Olghren of Brooklyn. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon from the house, Rev. E. M. Rodman officiating. Interment will be in the North Plainfield cemetery.

Mr. Marshall was a son of the late Daniel Marshall, who died seven years ago.

man as the same one whom he saw a week ago going into Andrew Vanderbeek's house on Duer street. The day following Mr. Pangborn stated that he saw a man enter the yard, but thought nothing strange of it. He is positive that the man is the same one he saw a week ago. When questioned, Doaney refuses to say anything about himself. He will be taken this afternoon to Somerville to await the action of the Grand Jury. He did not have time to secure anything at the home of Mr. Smith, on Watchung avenue, but a charge of breaking and entering was preferred against him.

Rev. Garrett Conover, wife and son, who came by carriage from Nyack-on-the-Hudson, to Mrs. J. K. VanArsdale's, on Grove street, two weeks ago, started on their return trip this morning.

A BIG JOB.

Hard Work to Estimate Correctly the Cost of Widening County Road.

[Special to The Daily Press.]

Elizabeth, June 28—The commissioners appointed to secure an estimate of the cost of widening Westfield avenue from Elizabeth to Plainfield for the purpose of selling to the highest bidder the franchise to build and operate a trolley line between the two places have not yet made a report, stating that the undertaking was a large one and they would need at least another month. A protest was received from the Town Committee of Cranford against the proposed improvement, and the Board of Freeholders was warned that any attempt of the county to widen any road or build a trolley through the street or streets mentioned in the plans would be contested.

It is said that the widening of the road would cost not less than $400,000, and that the most that would be bid for the trolley franchise would be $200,000. It is not expected that a trolley line on Westfield avenue will be in operation under two years at least, as the people do not relish the idea of their homes being moved back or their front yards being cut off without adequate compensation.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Shafter Favors That Method To a Direct Assault By Troops.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 29, 1:39 p. m.—General Shafter reports to the War Department that he had surveyed the field about Santiago and could carry the city by assault in forty eight hours.

He has decided, however, to wait until the big guns are in position and carry the city with their assistance instead of by direct assault.

TO EXTEND BLOCKADE.

Sampson Instructed to Increase Blockade According to President's Proclamation.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 29, 1:50 p. m—Orders were sent to Rear Admiral Sampson this morning by the Navy Department directing him to extend the limit of the Cuban blockade, as provided by President McKinley's proclamation.

Rear Admiral Sampson has now the largest fleet of vessels under his command that was ever directed by a single officer in the United States Navy. The vessels number 107.

TO FIGHT SOON.

Army Officials Expect to Hear of Another Great Conflict Shortly.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 29, 1:27 p. m—Although there is nothing in the plans of the Admistration to base an attack on Santiago within the next few days, there is a general feeling among the officials of the War Department that news of a battle similar to that of last week will shortly be forthcoming.

The opinion has foundation in the fact that Gen. Wheeler's division has moved up to a point within rifle shot of the Spanish outpost surrounding the capital.

Some anxiety is felt in relation to the Spanish reinforcements under General Pando. The subjugation of Santiago will be brought about by storming the earthworks according to the military methods of half a century ago.

In modern warfare great use will be made of Shafter's big guns landed from the transports to reduce the defences of Santiago. They will cause great havoc among the Spaniards without causing the loss of life that ultimately followed the old method.

MORE AID FOR SHAFTER.

Cruiser Yale Returns to Carry More Troops to Southern Cuba.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 29, 12:03 p. m.—Word has been received at the Navy Department that the auxiliary cruiser Yale has started from Baiquiri, Cuba, for Newport News, Va.

The Yale just carried a load of supplies and ammunition to Shafter's army in Cuba. The supplies were successfully landed only a few days ago.

The present mission of the Yale is to take aboard another complement of troops at Newport News, under the command of Brigadier General Garretson for service in southern Cuba.

SPANIARDS PREPARED.

Spanish are Fortifying the Different Approaches to the City of Santiago.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Playo Deleste, Cuba, June 28, via Kingston, Jamaica, June 29, 12:54 p. m.—News was received at Cuban headquarters today from the Cuban scouts that was afterwards communicated by General Castillo to General Shafter concerning the movements of the Spaniards.

The information was to the effect that the Spaniards were strongly entrenched at Santa Ursula and Laguna, both important entrances to Santiago.

Two heavy batteries have been erected in the two named places and heavy ordnance mounted, including the guns landed from the Spanish cruisers in the harbor.

The batteries are supported by 6,000 men, mostly veteran troops. They have erected a strong fortress and strengthened the other defences.

General Shafter has issued rigid orders that the American troops shall not engage the Spanish forces unnecessarily. The object of these orders is to keep the troops for a strong and decisive attack. It is known that the Spaniards will make a strong resistance and Shafter does not wish to have his men tired out beforehand.

MORE INSURGENTS.

Half Clothed and Nearly Starving Cubans Join American Forces.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Siboney via Playa Delecte, Cuba, June 28, via Kingston, Jamaica, June 29, 12:54 p. m—Two thousand insurgents of Garcia's command arrived today on the troop ship Loena from Aseradoes under command of Sanchez.

The majority of these insurgent troops were half naked while in some instances they were entirely nude. They were all half famished and made ravenous attacks on the provisions that were supplied them. They said that they had had little to eat for months.

Army in Good Health.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 29, 12:12 p. m.—Major General Shafter reports to the War Department that the health of the army in Cuba is remarkably good. No deaths have occurred among the wounded at the battle of Laquaisina. The graves of the dead at that battle have been so marked as to make identification sure.

Red Cross Yacht Sails for Cuba.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

New York, June 29, 12:10 p. m.—The yacht Red Cross departed from this port this noon for Cuba. She carries large medical supplies and a corps of physicians for Red Cross service in Cuba. The yacht is owned by BRAVE SOLDIER ONCE; NOW STURDY CITIZEN.

Interesting Sketch of the Career of Commander Smith.

ALWAYS ACTIVE IN G. A. R.

HAS A BROAD ACQUAINTANCE WITH NEW JERSEY VETERANS.

Born in Freehold and Enlisted in the Army in 1863—Engaged in Many Encounters, Always Acting Bravely—Once Shot From Under His Horse—Many Years Prominent Borough Citizen.

William C. Smith, who was elected Grand Commander of the G. A. R., of New Jersey at the annual State encampment at Long Branch last Friday, was born in Freehold, Monmouth county, but has resided in Plainfield for the last thirty years.

He enlisted in Company F, Second New Jersey Cavalry, at Freehold, August 10th, 1863, and was discharged November 1st, 1865, after having served in some of the toughest engagements of the Civil War. In all he was engaged in thirty nine battles or skirmishes with the Confederates, and was once shot from under his horse while crossing the Tallahasse river and so badly injured that he had to be sent to a hospital at Mound City, Mo., from which place he went back to service before he was actually fitted to do so. He was assigned to the invalid corps, but of his own free will went back to his regiment and fought with his comrades until he was discharged at Natches, Tenn., under order 76 of the Department of the Mississippi. Among some of the important engagements he took part in was those at Fairfax, Va., Wahatchie, Tenn., Lulia, Miss., Jackson, Tenn., Abeerdeen, Miss., Tallahatchie, Miss., Bolivar, Tenn.

At the close of the war Commander Smith returned to Freehold to take up the peaceable pursuit of a mason and building contractor. He came to Plainfield a few years later. Here in a short time he built up a large and prosperous contracting business and has ever since been identified in the active business in Plainfield.

Commander Smith is a man who regards his citizenship as of great importance, and has always taken a great interest in local affairs. For several years he was treasurer of the township of North Plainfield. After the borough of North Plainfield was formed he was one of its Councilmen, in which position, as chairman of the street committee, he did excellent service in improving the municipality. In politics he is a Republican.

Ever since the close of the war the military spirit has always been prominent in his character. When Plainfield was honored with Company E., Third New Jersey National Guards, Mr. Smith was captain of the company. At that time Company E was one of the best drilled companies in the National Guard, the credit for which belonged solely to Mr. Smith.

In G. A. R. circles, both local and State, he has been a prominent figure for several years and his elevation to his present high position is but the most natural result in choosing for the highest office in the State a man who is excellently fitted for the position by experience and ability. He was one of the first members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, of Plainfield, when it was organized December 13, 1882, and since then has held nearly every office in the gift of the post, being its commanndr for two years. He has been officer of the day for the post for several years, and a member of the council of administration almost from the very start.

No G. A. R. man in the State has probably a broader acquaintance among the members of the order in New Jersey than Mr. Smith. For two years past he has been chief of the staff to the Department Commander, and in this position he has been in constant personal communication with every post in the State several times a year. He has also visited nearly every post at least once during his term as chief of the staff, and in this made many acquaintances that developed considerable support in securing for him the honorable position to which he has been elected. In this way also he is eminently fitted himself to know the needs of the Grand Army throughout the State better than any other member of it.

THE 4TH IN PLAINFIELD.

THERE WILL BE NO PUBLIC CELEBRATION HERE THIS YEAR.

The Unusual Patriotic Feeling Will Be Expressed In a Greater Amount of Burnt Gunpowder—Large Sales.

Plainfield will not see any active public celebration of Independence Day next Monday. The one experience of three years ago in arranging a public celebration for the day was sufficient. As a result, the Fourth of July will be a quiet day in Plainfield. Quiet—no, not quiet, for the youth of the city is overflowing with patriotism this year that will find vent in the burning of gunpowder and the kindred other noisy manner of celebrating the day. There will be no public celebration in Plainfield. The only outdoor event of the day open to the public will be the two baseball games. The evening will see, however, several handsome exhibitions of fireworks. The Park Club and the Hotel Hunterston will be the principal ones, each of which will be followed by a dance.

Westfield, Dunellen and Bound Brook are all preparing for active celebrations and will probably attract many Plainfielders. Athletic games, bicycle races, baseball, speeches and sundry other attractions will form part of the different celebrations.

It is evident already that the year will see an unusually noisy Independence Day. Never has the demand for firecrackers, fireworks and cheap cannon powder been so great. The manufacturers of blank cartridges report a demand for blanks far in excess of what they had supposed. As a result most of the supply has been contracted for and those who came late have suffered.

The local dealers have noticed the increase although the trade in fireworks and firecrackers has scarcely commenced. Those who usually wait until the last moment before purchasing may find themselves without any if they do so this year.

ENGAGED IN GOOD WORK.

Supplying Flowers to Hospitals—To Entertain Poor City Girls.

An executive meeting of the Local Christian Endeavor Union was held last night in the Y. M. C. A. This was the last meeting until September. The president spoke of the work done during the past month. The outlook for fresh air work during July and August is very good.

A branch of the national fruit and flower guild was formed under the auspices of the Local Union, with Mrs. W. S. Lowry president and Miss Florence G. Hawkins secretary and treasurer. The guild procures transportation free for fruit, flowers and jellies to any of the hospitals or missions in New York. This free transportation is given by the express companies. The Park Avenue Baptist, Seventh Day Baptist, First Baptist, First Presbyterian and First Church of Christ joined the guild last night, and the other churches are expected to join soon.

The fresh air home for girls has been given up, and instead the members of the Union have decided to take young girls into their own homes a week or ten days at a time. This plan was adopted because the Union lacked means to rent a house, and to go to the expense necessary to maintain it.

HAS IT IN FOR THE POLICE.

A Boisterous Individual Didn't Like His Night in the Rookery.

"I'll tell you one thing, Judge, the police 'll have to be careful how they tackle me again," said Malon Titus, an elderly man, after City Judge DeMeza this morning had fined him $5 for being drunk yesterday.

Titus's threat was not heeded and he went stumbling on towards home.

The prisoner was ejected from the cafe of the City Hotel yesterday by the bartender into the hands of Officer McCue, who locked him up in a cell after a hard tussle, for Titus, although "too sick to remember anything," as he said this morning, determined not to be taken to the lockup.

What trick he will play upon his captors next time he is arrested remains to be seen, but it is very evident that he has something up his sleeve.

Sailboat Upset and Boy Drowned.

While sailing on Prince's Bay Saturday afternoon, Larry Townley and Robert Wilmot, of Metuchen, and Wm. Bennett, of Iselin, were upset by the squall that preceded the storm, Bennett was struck in the face by the boom and sank immediately. His body was recovered Sunday evening. He was a cousin of Robert M. Clark, the well-known Plainfield lawyer. The funeral was held yesterday and Mr. Clark was in attendance.

DISLOCATED HIS HIP.

WILLIAM MOORE'S WEIGHT WAS TOO MUCH FOR THE LEADER PIPE

The Pipe Broke and Moore Fell Fourteen Feet—Taken to the Hospital—His Injuries are Not Very Serious.

William Moore, aged 42 years, residing at 472 West Front street, was taken to the hospital last evening about 9:30 o'clock suffering from a dislocated hip.

Early in the evening Mr. Moore was on the roof of his house cleaning out the leader pipe. He allowed his weight to rest considerably on the pipe, and the result was that it broke. He fell a distance of about fourteen feet and the hip bone was dislocated. The injured man's family heard the noise and they hastened to learn the cause. They found Moore lying prostrate on the ground and unable to move or get up.

They communicated with the family physician and later the man was taken to the hospital in the ambulance, where he received proper treatment. Moore's injury is not considered at all serious, and it will only be a question of a short time when he will be able to leave the hospital.

VISIT OF GEOLOGISTS.

EARTH'S FORMATION TO BE STUDIED BY SCIENTIFIC MINDS.

Harry H. Webb, of Westervelt Avenue, Will Conduct the Party to Several Points of Interest in This Vicinity.

Plainfield and vicinity will be invaded by a party of scientific minds July Fourth when the New York Mineralogical Club will come here to visit the Watchung mountains, Washington Valley, Scotch Plains and Fanwood to study the geological and mineralogical formations to be found in this section.

The party will be guided by Harry H. Webb, of Westervelt avenue, this city, who is a member of the club, and a thorough student of the subjects to which it is devoted. Mr. Webb has made an exhaustive study of geological and mineralogical formations through this section and is well-prepared to explain the interesting features of the various spots selected by him to be visited.

The party will arrive here from New York on the 9:54 a. m. train and will board a trolley car on the Somerset street line, and at the terminus will disembark to walk to Wilson's stone quarry. Mr. Webb has prepared an interesting circular descriptive of the places to be visited. One paragraph prepared by Mr. Webb reads:

"Wilson's quarry in the trap ridge has produced excellent specimens of green and white prehnite, some stilbite and calcite. Copper occurs at the juncture of the trap and sandstone. Interesting glacial phenomena are to be seen. A sandstone quarry at Washingtonville, half a mile distant, may also be visited, where dendrite has been found. The region is very picturesque, and it is advisable to take a camera or field glass."

During the day the excursionists will be entertained at dinner by Mr. Webb.

VOLUNTEERS ERECT A TENT.

This Summer it is Located on the Corner of Church and East Second.

The American Volunteers were so successful in their tent services last summer in the borough that they decided to erect the tent again this year, this time in the vacant lot on the corner of Church and East Second streets.

The tent was raised last night, and will be formally opened for services Saturday night. The tent is a large one, seating 350 people, and no doubt the efforts of the Volunteers will be as well rewarded in this part of the city as they were in the borough.

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Sacrament will be observed, Rev. A. A. Phelps officiating. July 4th a flag raising and ice cream festival will be held from 4 until 10 o'clock. A large flag will be raised at 5 o'clock with appropriate ceremonies, and there will be a speaker and music. Commander Booth and Colonel Lindsay, the latter from Philadelphia, are expected here some time during July.

Accidentally Shot Himself.

Richard Rudd, of Clinton avenue, accidentally shot himself in the left hand yesterday while handling a revolver. The mechanism was out of order, and while trying to adjust it the pistol snapped. The bullet was only of twenty-two calibre, and did not penetrate very deep.

Marriage at Mt. Bethel.

This afternoon takes place the marriage of former Freeholder Robert Zereible, of Mt. Bethel, to Miss Kate Williams, of Washington Valley. A reception will follow the ceremony, to be held in the Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall.

MET TWO HOBO ROBBERS

Peter Rote Says Two Tramps Attacked Him on a Train and Stole His Stock—In City Court This Morning.

Peter Rote is the name of a poor unfortunate from Lancaster, Pa., one of whose eyes has been put out by a flying nail. He faced City Judge DeMeza this morning, and told a thrilling tale of being robbed by two tramps on a coal train last night.

Rote said that he was a peddler, and left New York yesterday with two "fake" gold watches and a few trinkets which he intended to take out into the country and sell. He also had a five dollar bill in his pocket.

Rote boarded a coal train at Bayonne, and just as the train was passing through this city last night two rough-looking tramps climbed over the cars to where he was and while one held him the other struck him a blow in the face and, holding a knife close to his eye, ordered him to keep quiet or they would kill him.

They took his watches, trinkets and money and then left him. Rote climbed off of his car at Dunellen, and says that he notified the athorities there of his loss, but this they deny.

He then came to this city, reported what had occurred to Sergeant Kiely, who locked him up for safe keeping until today. Central Railroad Detective Dougherty was put on the case, and Rote will be held until tonight to see whether any trace of the alleged robbers can be found.

Rote claims to have trouble with his good eye, has a partly healed cut on his throat, which looks as if it might have been inflicted by himself, and altogether presents a forlorn appearance.

A SALAMAGUNDI PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Mellick Entertain in Honor of Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. George Phelps Mellick gave a salamagundi party Monday evening at their home on LaGrande avenue, in honor of Miss Anne Mellick, of Montclair, and Miss Marion Hartley, of New York. The games at the different tables were "shouting cities," anagrams, jack-straws, tiddledy-winks and slap jack.

The first prizes were won by Miss Ethel Bowen and Frank Frost. Miss Martha Tracy and Miss Hartley tied for the booby prize, and Miss Tracy won it on the play-off. Carl Pfeiffer won the men's booby prize. After the contest was over the guests spent the remainder of the evening in dancing on the broad piazzas.

Those present were the Misses Brady, Ethel Bowen, Katheryn Ryder, Elsa Pfeiffer, Anna Miller, Sarah Schuyler and Martha Tracy, and Messrs. Frank Frost, R. A. Beebe, Henry W. Brower, Charles S. Cook, Carl Pfeiffer, Henry V. Ryder, George S. Ryder Van R. Schuyler, Russell Burke and Harry Patton.

PRIMARY TEACHERS PICNICED.

A Pleasant Day Spent at Mrs. F. O. Herring's Cottage.

About thirty-five members of the Primary Teachers' Union of this city assembled on Johnston's Drive yesterday and enjoyed themselves during the day in various ways. It was the annual picnic and the usual good time was a result. Owing to the heavy rain early in the morning it was impossible for the members to have their spread on the ground, and through the kindness of Mrs. F. O. Herring, her cottage on the mountains was used for the occasion. Games of all kinds were played and the time passed all too quickly. A bountiful lunch was served which the members fully enjoyed. It was late in the afternoon when the happy crowd returned to Plainfield, but all agreed having spent a most enjoyable day.

For a Public Library Flag.

Many have suggested that at this time particularly the Public Library should display a flag. In response to this suggestion a movement is now on foot to raise by individual subscriptions the necessary amount for a suitable flag for the purpose. Certainly the City Library should have a fine flag. The size and quality of this will, however, depend upon the patriotism and generosity of Plainfield citizens. Small or large amounts will be received for this purpose at the office of The Daily Press and at the Public Library.

Escaped the Fire.

E. H. Booth and wife, of 930 Central avenue, were stopping at the Clifton House, Niagara Falls, and had just sent their trunks to the railroad station when the fire broke out that destroyed that famous hotel. They say it would have been terrible had it happened at night instead of 10 o'clock in the morning.

A TWILIGHT WEDDING AT END OF JUNE DAY.

Babcock-Phillips Nuptials Celebrated Last Night.

A PRETTY HOME MARRIAGE.

EPISCOPAL SERVICE USED TO MAKE THE LIFE UNION.

Home of the Bride, Miss Elizabeth M. Phillips, Was Charmingly Decorated for the Occasion—The Wedding Party Made a Handsome Scene—The Groom is a New York Business Man.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James Rushmore Phillips, of West Front street, was the scene last evening of one of the prettiest of June weddings, when their daughter, Miss Elizabeth M. Phillips, became the wife of Juan Acres Babcock, of New York, in the presence of a number of admiring relatives and friends.

The ceremony was performed at 7:30 o'clock by Rev. W. M. Downey, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, the beautiful Episcopal service being used. Miss Florence Pierson, of this city, presided at the piano and executed the wedding march. While the march was being played the bridal party entered the parlor. The flower girl, Miss Florence Phillips, sister of the bride, preceded the party. She was prettily gowned in pink and carried a beautiful basket of flowers. Following her was the maid of honor, Miss Georgia James, of New York, gowned in pink organdie. She carried sweet peas. The bride came next leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away in marriage. She was charmingly gowned in white organdie, trimmed with ribbons. She also wore a veil and carried bridal roses. The groom and his best man, J. L. Peck, of Pittston, Pa., met the party at the altar, where the officiating clergyman stood ready to receive the entire bridal group.

The home was very prettily decorated with daisies, ferns and palms, and especially attractive were the decorations in the parlor where the ceremony was performed.

Following the ceremony a reception was held and the young couple were kept busy receiving the congratulations of the friends. All wished them success and happiness through life. A bountiful supper was served during the evening, while excellent music added very much to the enjoyment of the occasion. At an opportune time Mr. and Mrs. Babcock left the house to enjoy a three weeks wedding trip. They will first go to St. Lawrence county, N. Y., where they will visit Mr. Babcock's relatives. From there they will go to the Thousand Islands and the Adirondacks, and on their they will remain for the summer at a suburban summer resort on the New Haven Railroad. In the fall they will go to housekeeping.

Mr. Babcock is employed by the firm of F. J. Barger & Co., commission merchants, of Warren street, New York. He is very popular among a large circle of friends. His bride is also a highly-esteemed young woman who has a host of friends who will wish her and her husband a prosperous journey through life.

Among those who attended the wedding were the following:

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Acres, Miss Place, of Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Miss M. Dowdeswell, M. R. Dowdeswell, A. J. Dowdeswell, Mr. and Mrs. Halline, Nelson Shernan, Chauncey Mitchell, of Brooklyn; Mr. Douglass, of Jersey City; F. C. Barger, Miss Barger, the Misses Piper, Miss James, Warren Silsbe, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dresser, of Bloomfield; Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. James Rogers, Mrs. Davis, Miss Davis, Miss Bertha LaRue, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Huff, James McGee, Adam Neuman, Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Downey, William Moore, Miss Ella Gardner, Miss Florence Smith, Captain G. M. Phillips and wife, Miss Warmington, Mrs. H. N. Smith, Miss Florence Pierson, Miss Stevens, Clifford Pierson, of Plainfield.

There was a very large collection of useful and costly gifts received by the bride and groom. The maid of honor received a gift of a valuable stick pin from the bride, while the best man received a similar present from the groom. Among the gifts received was a costly silver service from a celebrated whist club of Brooklyn, of which the groom is the president.

Cut Deep.

If you are thinking of buying a carpet, or if you will need one this fall, it will pay you to examine the Brussell carpets on sale at I. H. Boehm's this week at 45 cents a yard. They are all new designs and 75 cents would be considered very cheap for them.

HARD FIGHT EXPECTED

Both Army and Navy Are Closing About Santiago.

SHAFTER IS AT THE FRONT

General Linares Has Made Plans to Desperately Resist—Artillery Troublesome Lack of Good Roads Makes It Difficult to Place Heavy Guns in Advantageous Positions—Lieut. Blue Makes Another Investigation.

Washington, June 29.—At the war and navy departments the most decisive sort of operations in Cuba are expected to be reported before the week shall end. The news regarding General Shafter's movements is entirely satisfactory, and it is generally accepted that what history will know as the battle of Santiago will be fought within the next few days.

Those who have predicted an easy victory at Santiago are now changing their views, for latest advices indicate that General Linares is preparing for stubborn resistance.

Every road and bypath leading into the city of Santiago it is learned, has been mined with dynamite by the Spanish soldiers, under the direction of General Linares.

From several sources the information comes that the Spanish general has a larger force at his command than has been supposed. Conservative leaders in the Cuban army declare that at least fifteen thousand Spaniards have been gathered in Santiago. It also is asserted that the city's defences have been strengthened to a marked degree and that the capture of the city will not be the easy task so many have expected.

Thus far the Americans seem to be more in need of artillery than of men, but it is believed that the composition of the present land force is due to the plan for the co-operation of the fleet.

The next fighting will be directly before Santiago. Our troops have swept all before them. They took Sevilla sooner than they had expected to and without a struggle. Owing to the extraordinary energy of our commanding officers in pushing the men along, coupled with the eagerness of the troops to advance, the American flag was raised over Sevilla during Saturday night.

In this village, where General Linares made his headquarters while the American troops were landing, a desperate engagement was expected. The Spanish troops had been hastening to that point from all directions for several days. It was the last defence between Santiago and the American troops. Despite its strategic importance, however, the Spanish offered but little opposition. They fired on our troops for some time, but in a desultory way, and without effect. They then retired from the village, leaving it for the Americans to occupy.

Our troops, after making Sevilla a temporary headquarters, pressed on to a point two miles beyond and established themselves within four miles of Santiago. The Spaniards halted in their flight at Caney, a small settlement to the northeast of Santiago and on the right of our line.

General Shafter's next order will be to attack the enemy's trenches. These are in regular trocha form. The brush has been cleared for a distance of one thousand yards from the lines, which consist of a series of small forts connected by deep trenches and barbed wire.

Off Santiago, June 27, via Kingston, Jamaica, June 29.—Lieutenant Victor Blue of the auxiliary gunboat Suwanee has returned to the fleet from another investigating trip ashore. He reported that Admiral Cervera's ships were all in the harbor. With the exception of one torpedo boat destroyer they are at anchor and show no signs of activity.

Lieutenant Blue went ashore on Saturday to the west of Morro Castle, accompanied by some Cuban guides. He advanced until about two miles north of Cabanas and almost up to the enemy's batteries. He travelled sixty miles and rejoined the Suwanee this morning. At one time the lieutenant was at a Cuban outpost separated only by four hundred yards from a Spanish outpost.

"They popped away at each other all the time," said Lieutenant Blue, "but I do not think the Cubans hurt the Spaniards very much and I know the Spaniards did not hurt the Cubans."

Lieutenant Blue was able to accurately locate the position of each of Admiral Cervera's ships.

Rear Admiral Sampson warned his fleet this morning to exercise great care in shooting at the hills east of Morro Castle, pointing out that the American army had advanced and that our own troops might be deployed on the hillside.

No More Spanish Fours.

London, June 29.—It is reported that the stock exchange committee has concluded to remove all mention of Spanish fours from the official list and to quote the same under names, sealed or unsealed.

The former refers to those payable in gold in London. The action of the Spanish government in the matter is generally disliked, and Spain has lost a free market in Paris and London for over two-thirds of her debt.

Spain Doubts It.

Madrid, June 29.—The Spanish government does not credit the report that an American squadron is to visit Spanish waters; but the ministers say that they have taken all possible precautions, that the ports are all ready and that twenty-six thousand men who have been called to the colors will be distributed among the principal Atlantic and Mediterranean ports of Spain.

Arrival of the Yale.

Washington, June 29.—The navy department has posted the following bulletin:

"Admiral Sampson reports that the Yale arrived Monday and discharged her troops."

THE ENEMY IS REINFORCED

Twenty Thousand Men Have Been Added to Linares' Force The Attack Is Delayed

Washington, June 29.—On the receipt yesterday of definite information from General Shafter that the enemy's force now entrenched behind the fortifications of Santiago de Cuba numbers not less than 30,000 men, the war department sent out hurry orders for sending large reinforcements to our army of invasion.

By this time nine thousand troops may have sailed for Baiquiri from Tampa, and if they have not gone the transports will sail at almost any hour.

Late last night orders were sent to the camp of mobilization at Chickamauga for the entire First Army Corps there, comprising 30,000 men, to be got ready to move at once. This large force probably will sail from Newport News as soon as transports can be provided.

It is not expected here that General Shafter will wait to assault Santiago until the troops from Chickamauga can reach him. It is more likely that the movement from Camp Thomas is made in contemplation of the attack on Porto Rico, which is to be made, probably, with conquered Santiago as the base.

The total strength of General Linares at Santiago before the arrival in Cuba of General Shafter's original force, was set down by Lieutenant Blue and others of our scouts at not less than 10 000 men. Yesterday General Lawton learned that 20,000 reinforcements had reached the invested city.

This information was quickly communicated to the war department by General Shafter, and in a few minutes there was the utmost activity in that branch of the government service.

It was decided after a hasty consultation by the war board that a considerably army would be required to take Santiago, with such a large force defending it, and with perfect intrenchments constructed by General Linares to overcome.

A GRAVE SITUATION

Delay in Sending Troops May Cause Trouble

London, June 29.—The St. James Gazette, yesterday afternoon, commenting upon the prospect of the American forces attacking the coast of Spain, says:

"The reception of the news evidences a change in public opinion which, at the commencement of the war, thought Europe should notify the United States that the war must be confined to American waters. It is now recognized that the Americans are fully entitled to make war in their own way, and they are indeed driven to retaliate upon Spain in this manner owing to the tactics which Spain has chosen to pursue."

The Evening News publishes a long dispatch from Manila. It emphasizes the strong anti-British feeling which has sprung up at the capital of the Philippines and refers to the necessity of sending more British ships there and to the conviction of the Spaniards that Germany is going to help them.

The Evening News then says: "There are two points in our telegram which we commend to the attention of the government. Firstly, the influence that the presence of the German squadron is exercising on the situation. Secondly the obvious danger to the English should the Spanish soldiers, who are without food and wages, determine to kick over the traces."

The reports coming from America that the United States has requested Great Britain to enforce the neutrality laws by forbidding Admiral Camara's squadron to coal at Port Said, are unfounded. The United States ambassador, Colonel John Hay, has not received any instructions on the subject and it is believed in government circles here that the United States is not anxious to have Admiral Camara denied. It is surmised that the United States consul at Port Said acted on his own initiative in protesting against the coaling of the Spanish fleet. It is pointed out that if the Spaniards are denied admission to the canal a precedent will be established which will prevent the United States from using the canal in the event of that country desiring to send warships to the far East by that route during the war.

The report that Spain has purchased the Chilian armored cruiser Almirante O'Higgins, a very powerful vessel of 8,500 tons and steaming twenty-two knots, now receives some credence. It appears that the O'Higgins was very recently offered to the United States for $6,000,000, but the authorities at Washington declined to purchase her, considering the price to be twice her value. The United States embassy here has reports from several sources that Spain has purchased the O'Higgins, but the Armstrongs deny that she has been sold.

The Russian Press.

St. Petersburg, June 29.—In view of the continued improvement of the military position of the United States, the newspapers here are changing their tone to friendship for America. They now speak with contemptuous pity of Spain, the reason being, it is alleged, the growing fear of a possible Anglo-American alliance.

The Russian press, however, does not think such an alliance very probable, and predicts that the victory of the United States over Spain will lead the former into a colonial policy which will eventually result in a conflict with England.

New Japanese Ministry.

Yokahama, June 29.—Okurma Stagaki has been charged to form a new cabinet. It will be the first party cabinet in the history of Japan.

The resignations of the Marquis Saigo Tsugumichi, the minister of marine, and Lieutenant General Katsura, the minister for war have not been accepted. They will probably retain their posts, in deference to the clan feeling among the officers. Stagaki becomes premier and Itagaki will be minister of the interior.

BLOCKADE EXTENDED

The President by a Special Message Closes More Ports.

SAN JUAN IS ON THE LIST

All Vessels Warned Not to Seek an Entrance to Caribbean Sea Harbors—Neutrals May Leave Ports—After Thirty Days May Be Captured as Prizes—The Cuban Southern Coast from Cape Cruz to Cape Francis is Barred.

Washington, June 29.—The president has issued a proclamation extending the blockade of Cuba to the southern coast, from Cape Frances to Cape Cruz, inclusive, and also blockading San Juan, Porto Rico. The proclamation is as follows:

Whereas, For the reasons set forth in my proclamation of April 22, 1898, a blockade of ports on the northern coast of Cuba, from Cardenas to Bahia Honda, inclusive, and of the port of Cienfuegos on the south coast of Cuba was declared to have been instituted, and

Whereas, It has become desirable to extend the blockade to other southern ports.

Now, therefore, I, William McKinley, president of the United States, do hereby declare and proclaim that, in addition to the blockade of the ports specified in my proclamation of April 22, 1898, the United States of America has instituted and will maintain an effective blockade of all the ports on the south coast of Cuba, from Cape Frances to Cape Cruz, inclusive, and also of the port of San Juan, in the island of Porto Rico.

Neutral vessels lying in any of the ports to which the blockade is, by the present proclamation, extended, will be allowed thirty days to issue therefrom with cargo.

WILLIAM McKINLEY.

President of the United States of America, June 27, 1898.

By the President,

J. B. MOORE.

Acting Secretary of State.

The proclamation increases the extent of the blockade fully fourfold, it having been confined, heretofore, to a stretch of a little more than 100 miles to the north, and the single port of Cienfuegos on the south coast of the island. The demands upon the navy in the way of ships to patrol the coast, however, will not be nearly so heavy in proportion to the territory to be covered as in the case of the first blockade, for the reason that the new blockaded coast line lies entirely within the great bight on the south Cuban coast, in which the water is generally very shallow and the ports are few into which a vessel of any draught could enter. The most important of these ports are Manzanillo, Trinidad and Tunas.

West of Trinidad is Cienfuegos, which is already blockaded effectively. From that point westward for nearly one hundred and forty miles there is no point to be blockaded until Batabano is reached. This port is distant only about forty miles from Havana by rail, and is believed to have been the principal source of food supplies for the Spanish capital. For 150 miles west of this, clear over to Cape Frances, the western edge of the blockaded territory, there are no ports for deep vessels of any considerable draught, and even if there were, the country in the interior, Pinar del Rio, is in the hands of the insurgents, and supplies could not be sent through to Havana. The purpose of extending the blockade to the westward to Cape Frances, was to command the channel between the west side of the Isle of Pines and Cape Frances, and thus render much easier the task of the blockading vessels.

Coal for Camara.

London, June 29.—Speculation is rife regarding the hurried visit of the American ambassador to the foreign office Saturday.

According to information current in well informed circles the visit had nothing to do with peace negotiations. Ambassador Hay desired to point out that it would hardly be a friendly act to allow Admiral Camara's fleet to coal in Egypt or other British stations in the East. He was informed that orders had already been sent, that, in accordance with the neutrality proclamation, only sufficient coal to bring the Spanish squadron back to the nearest port should be supplied. It is suggested that this nearest port would have to be Spain itself.

Spanish Lost Heavily.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 29.—A Spanish spy who was captured by the Cubans on Sunday reports that the Spaniards in Santiago believe the Americans suffered heavy loss during the fighting near Sevilla Friday. The Spanish loss, he said, was very heavy in both killed and wounded.

The spy also reported that there was much criticism in Santiago on account of the fact that the American landing was not contested at Baiquiri, and he also says there was talk of an American attempt to flank the Spanish troops.

Finally, the spy says there is very little food in the city of Santiago.

First New Jersey Volunteers.

Sea Girt, N. J., June 29.—The 202 recruits required to fill the quota of the First New Jersey volunteers have been mustered in, and the detachment will leave Camp Voorhees for Falls Church, Va., at six o'clock Friday morning, in charge of First Lieutenant C. Albert Gasser of Company K. Two hundred and ninety-two men needed for the Second regiment have been mustered in and the remainder will be sworn in today.

Ordered to Manila

Washington, June 29.—Adjutant General Corbin said yesterday that the First regiment New York volunteers, now at Governor's island, would leave for the Philippines at once, and would form part of the next expedition to start from San Francisco for Manila.

Two Ounces of Blood Daily

Are added to your veins by taking one of Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids with each meal three times daily. This is the only natural iron medicine known. It is the natural iron extracted from fresh bullocks' blood.

We do no miracles; all we do is to cure people and give them two ounces of new blood daily when they take Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids. By enriching the blood they restore its natural iron or Hæmoglobin to it; it cures all the chronic blood diseases, among which may be mentioned anæmia, or paleness; chlorosis, or green sickness; palpitation, rickets, scrofula, consumption or tuberculosis, indigestion, amennorhœa, pains in the head or back, and all monthly irregularities. Physicians will tell you that this is the only medicine in the world that can do this, and if they are up-to-date they prescribe them in all such cases.

WILL BE [illegible] UT PEACE.

The President Believes That the Expedition to Spain Will Bring Desired Result.

Washington, June 29.—President McKinley believes that the dispatch of a strong fleet of American warships to Spain will do more than anything else to bring the present war to a close. He is of the opinion that as soon as the people of Madrid and the general Spanish public hear that a half dozen powerful men of war are on their way to their coast a sudden change of public sentiment will occur. The Spanish populace have very little real idea of the wealth, resources and power of the United States. They have been fed for months on misleading statements from the rabid Spanish press, and have the idea that we are a third rate nation made up of cowardly people. Weyler has bolstered up the war party at Madrid with his lies about the strength of the Spanish army in Cuba and the ease with which the United States can be defeated. The fake dispatches to Madrid from General Blanco about reverses that our forces are meeting with and the wonderful Spanish victories have added to the feeling that is general throughout Spain that it is only a matter of time before we will ask for mercy. The administration believes that the only way that this false impression can be dispelled and the ignorant masses of Spain forced to realize our power is by giving them a practical illustration of some of our resources. With the arrival of a fleet of our ships off the Spanish coast and the explosion of some 10 and 12-inch shells in the cities of Cadiz, Valencia, Carthagena and Barcelona, the Weylerites and the supporters of the war party will receive such a rude awakening from their idle dreams that they will be glad to ask for a termination of the war. Such a move on our part, President McKinley believes, will give the balance of power in Spain to the peace party and that thus strengthened there will be speedy overtures for a close of hostilities.

THE FOURTH EXPEDITION.

Will Probably Sail July 9 With Gen. Miller or Gen. Otis in Command.

San Francisco, June 29.—The fourth expedition to the Philippines will probably sail after the ninth of July, with either Brigadier General M. P. Miller or S. G. Otis in command. Major General Otis will accompany the squadron.

Owing to the departure of the third Manila expedition, Major General E. S. Otis has issued orders reorganizing the remaining troops as follows:

First Brigade—Brigadier Gen. Miller, United States volunteers, commanding—Fourth United States cavalry, Troop A of the First Nevada cavalry, Light Batteries G and D, Sixth United States artillery; Batteries A and D, California heavy artillery, volunteers and the remaining battalions of the Fourteenth, Eighteenth and Twenty-third United States infantry.

Second Brigade, Brigadier General Charles King, United States volunteers, commanding—Twentieth regiment of Kansas volunteers, First regiment Tennessee volunteers and the recruit battalion of the First California, First Colorado, First Nebraska, Thirteenth Minnesota and Second Oregon regiments of volunteers.

Third Brigade, Brigadier General S. G. Otis, United States volunteers commanding—Seventh regiment California volunteers, First regiment Montana volunteers, First regiment South Dakota volunteers, Fifty-first regiment Iowa volunteers.

A battery of light artillery, composed of 125 men, under Captain Palmer of Cheyenne, Wyo., arrived here yesterday. Governor Richards makes the statement that ten per cent. of the population of Wyoming of military age are now in the army. Wyoming has furnished three times the number of men required under her quota. This is the best showing made by any state. Four Wyoming volunteers were left behind when the transports sailed Monday on account of illness.

New French Cabinet.

Paris, June 29.—The new French cabinet, as definitely formed, is as follows:

President of the Council and Minister of the Interior—M. Henri Brisson.

Minister of Finance—M. Paul Peytral.

Minister of Education—M. Leon Bourgeois.

Minister of Justice—M. Ferdinand Sarrien.

Minister of War—M. Godefroy Cavaignac.

Minister of Marine—M. Edouard Simon Lockroy.

Minister of Foreign Affairs—M. Theophile Delcasse.

Minister of Colonies—M. Georges Trouillot.

Minister of Commerce—M. Emile Maruejouls.

Minister of Agriculture—M. Albert Viger.

Minister of Public Works—Senator Tillaye.

Michael's Fast Time.

Boston, June 29.—Jimmy Michael made a ten mile record in his training at the Waltham track that ranks as the most wonderful ride in cycling history. It will stamp Michael as still the greatest rider of the age in all probability.

For several days the riding was but of the ordinary sort, but Monday, when but three men were at the track outside the team, Michael let himself out to an extent that sent records tumbling one by one right along up to ten miles. Michael did his ten miles in 17.20.

Michael's ten miles in 17.20 is 27 1-5 seconds lower than the world's record against time, held by J. W. Stocks, and [illegible] seconds faster than McDuffie's [illegible] mile competition record [illegible] mile at Berkeley oval in [illegible].

MORE TROOPS FOR CUBA

Eleven Thousand Soldiers Start From Tampa.

GEN. MILES EXPECTS TO GO

Preparations Are About Completed for a Start—Twelve Transports Will Be Required to Carry the Troops—A List of the Regiments to Be Taken—Convoys Will Be Ready to Guard Them—Porto Rico Invasion to Follow.

Washington, June 29.—Before the end of the present week an army of about 11,000 men, consisting of both regulars and volunteers, will have embarked from Tampa and Newport News for Santiago. General Garretson's brigade, now at Camp Alger, Va., has been ordered by the secretary of war to proceed immediately to Newport News for duty in Cuba. A large part of this brigade will be embarked some day this week on the Grand Duchesse and sent immediately to reinforce Major General Shafter. General Garretson's brigade consists of about four thousand men.

The second division of the Fourth Army Corps, under the command of Brigadier General Snyder, will leave Tampa on Thursday and proceed to Santiago under the protection of a strong naval convoy. This division consists of both volunteers and regulars and is considered by army officers as the best division of the Fourth Army Corps. The entire number of men that will leave Tampa under command of Brigadier General Snyder is about 8,000.

The troops in the second division of the Fourth Army Corps are the Fifth Ohio, First Pennsylvania and Thirty-second Michigan, which constitute the First brigade of this division, under the command of Colonel Kenna.

The Second brigade, under the command of Brigadier General J. N. Anthony, consists of the Sixty-ninth New York, Third Ohio and Second Georgia.

Brigadier General W. F. Randolph commands the Third brigade of this division, which consists of the Fifth United States cavalry, two troops of the Second United States cavalry, two troops of the First United States volunteer cavalry, the First Ohio cavalry, and six light batteries and two heavy batteries of United States regular artillery. These troops are to be loaded on transports as rapidly as possible and sent direct to Major General Shafter.

Major General Miles will leave for Santiago with one of the expeditions departing this week. It is not his intention to interfere in any manner with the campaign of Major General Shafter, but to supervise the embarkation of the troops from Santiago that will go to Porto Rico. Both the president and General Miles have the utmost confidence in the ability of Major General Shafter.

The movement of a new expedition from Tampa is in fulfillment of the Porto Rico invasion plan, though by indirection. It was originally proposed to send the next expedition from Tampa to Porto Rico, but later developments proving that the capture of Santiago was going to be so much more difficult a task than had been supposed, it seemed wiser to reinforce Shafter heavily and leave the Porto Rico expedition until Santiago had fallen and we had disposed of our prisoners. The complete strength of General Shafter's army will amount to 30,000 men, when all his reinforcements have reached him, and he will be well supplied with artillery, which now is a great desideratum. The only New York regiment in the present expedition from Tampa is the second.

CURRENT HUMOR.

A North Corolina paper says:

"A negro struck his wife two terrible blows on the head with an axe. The negro escaped to the woods, and his wife soon revived and said: 'I mighty glad he done it, kase now he'll stay cl'ar er de neighborhood, en I won't have ter suppo't him no mo'. It wuz a lucky day fer me when he hit me wid dat axe!'"

Very few of us are as thankful as that for these little blessings in disguise!—Atlanta Constitution.

Norah had been told to say at the front door that her mistress was not at home when certain callers appeared upon the scene. It evidently went much against the grain for her to make herself responsible for even so small a white lie, but she promised to do so, and, with certain modifications, kept her word.

"Is Mrs. Blank at home?" queried the caller.

"For this wan toime, Mrs. Smithers, she ain't!" said the maid; "but Hivin help her if yez ashk me agin! I'll not lol twice for annybody livin', upon me sowl!"—Harper's Drawer.

"My husband is so nice about explaining these war terms to me. I know I aggravate him awfully, too, sometimes. Why, only think, I had to ask him this morning what the seat of war was for!"

"Yes?"

"Wasn't it foolish? But he is so patient. The idea that I didn't have sense enough to see that it is for the standing army to use when it gets tired!"

Justice—"You are charged with committing an assault on this man and blacking his eye. What have you to say, sir?"

Gentleman—"Your honor, my wife lost a pet dog, and I caught this fellow bringing it back."

Justice—"You are discharged. But as for you, you scalawag, the next time you steal a lady's dog and don't keep it, I'll send you up for six months."—New York Weekly.

A Fight With the Spanish Destroyer Terror.

Washington, June 29.—The navy department yesterday posted the following bulletin:

"Captain Sigsbee reports that on Wednesday afternoon, while off San Juan, Porto Rico, he was attacked by a Spanish unprotected cruiser and the Spanish torpedo boat destroyer Terror. The Terror made a dash which was awaited by the St. Paul. The St. Paul hit the Terror three times, killing one officer and two men and wounding several others. The Terror dropped back under cover of the fortifications with difficulty, and was towed into the harbor in a sinking condition, where she is now being repaired. Later a cruiser and a gunboat started out, but remained under protection of the forts.

"Admiral Sampson reports that the Yale arrived yesterday and discharged her troops."

Washington, June 29.—The navy department is ringing with Captain Sigsbee's name again, recalling the early days of the Maine affair. His exploit in disabling the Terror and driving a Spanish cruiser and gunboat back to the cover of the forts in San Juan harbor is winning him praise on all sides. The Terror was well named. She had spread a vague dread among the enemies of Spain owing to the fact that warfare with such a craft was still unknown, and fear of the unknown is always greater than of the same object, however terrible, when we know how to measure its powers.

ON THE BLOCKADE.

It is Monotonous Business, but No One Complains.

Off Havana, June 27, via Key West, June 29.—For the first time in four weeks a newspaper dispatch boat visited the blockading fleet off Havana yesterday. The conditions were found to be as peaceful as the waters of the Gulf Stream were turbulent. Since the good practice by the Spanish gunners against the Montgomery the other day particulars of which were cabled at the time, nothing has occurred to break the monotony of this peaceful blockade.

Rarely has Cuba's capital been seen under such exceptional advantages as it was yesterday morning, when the Cynthia II steamed lazily along the nine miles off the harbor entrance. The air was clear, the sun was shining brightly, and Spain's scarlet and yellow could be distinctly seen through marine glasses as it floated from Morro's flagstaff in front of the semaphore. To the east a long line of earthworks, not seen before by newspaper men, crowned the hill, and advices from Havana say work on these and similar fortifications to the westward are being pushed daily.

Blockade duty is not pleasant service, and while no one with the fleet complains, there is a feeling that some effort might be made to provide the warships with ice and fresh vegetables, which would be highly appreciated, as ice is almost a necessity in this climate.

HAWAIIAN ANNEXATION.

Apparent Collapse on Part of the Opposition.

Washington, June 29.—The prospects of Hawaiian annexation are apparently more favorable than last week. A majority of the anti-annexationists declare that it is not their purpose to filibuster, and they are already negotiating for bringing the debate to an end. An entire collapse of the opposition is liable to be announced any day now according to the annexationists, and most of the other side agree with them, regarding the struggle as too uneven to be long continued.

White and Pettigrew have folded up their speeches and given up the fight. Jones of Arkansas is the only real spirited belligerent leader left.

Around the World.

Newport, R. I., June 29.—Flying the Stars and Stripes, the Spray, Captain Joshua Slocum's thirty-foot lugger rigged craft has arrived in Newport harbor after a trip around the world. She was seventeen days from Antigua, West Indies.

Captain Slocum, alone in his boat, left Boston on April 24, 1895, and since then he has sailed the world over. The Spray is a twelve ton boat thirty feet long. To secure seagoing qualities she was given considerable breadth of beam. Captain Slocum says his trip has no equal in history.

An Earthquake in Italy.

Rome, June 29.—Two sharp earthquake shocks were felt yesterday morning at Rieti, forty-two miles from here. The worst one was at 1 a. m. It lasted nine seconds and a number of buildings were damaged. The Carbineer barracks were rendered uninhabitable and the whole population was panicstricken.

At Castel-Franco an earthquake shock has injured a number of people and has killed one child.

The German Elections.

Berlin, June 29.—The complete result of the second balloting in the election of members of the Reichstag is as follows:

Conservatives 19, Imperialists 10, Center 23, Reform party 5, National Liberals, 39, Radical Union 11, Radical People's Party, 29, German People's party 8, Agrarians 3, Socialists 24, Poles 1, Guelphs 8, Independents 6.

The Bankruptcy Bill.

Washington, June 29.—The bankruptcy bill was passed by the House yesterday afternoon, as was expected, by a large majority. The concessions made by the conference committee to the Populistic element were so generous, that, as in the Senate, the vigor of free silver opposition usually exhibited against national bankruptcy measures was very much abated.

British Ship Galatea Wrecked.

London, June 29.—The British ship Galatea, Captain Curd, from Hamburg for Sydney, N. S. W., was wrecked at Hammond's Knoll. The crew was rescued by means of a lifeboat and taken to Yarmouth. The loss is estimated at 100,000 pounds.

FOR THE VACATION SEASON.

Subscribers leaving the city for the summer season can have The Daily Press sent to their new address by notifying the buisness office. The address will be changed as often as desired. "Home news" will prove most interesting while you are away.

A Street Sprinkling Car.

Those concerned in the management of the Plainfield Street Railway aver that they have done their duty in attempting to obviate the aggravating fault of filling the air with a whirlwind of dust whenever a trolley car passes along.

And how? By contracting to have the streets sprinkled twice a day along their various lines for a part of the distance. Common sense teaches that to sprinkle the streets twice a day in the endeavor to prevent the cars from stirring up clouds of dust is a totally inadequate remedy. When the sun is beating down with an intensity that drives the mercury in thermometers up above the nineties the work of the street sprinkler is nullified an hour after it is performed.

If the street railway magnates are really sincere in their pretentions not to harrass householders with the dust, why don't they establish a street sprinkling car? With a sprinkling car in operation the various streets on which the tracks are laid could be gone over rapidly and frequently enough to keep the dust well laid all the time. Such a car is in constant operation on the street railway lines in Elizabeth and between that city and Newark. It is highly appreciated by the residents in front of whose homes the cars pass, and little or no complaint now prevails about the inconvenience from dust circulated through the air by street cars.

About the Weather.

In these days when the heat is so decidedly evident, the weather furnishes even more than the usual amount of conversation. The weather has always been an old standby as a topic of conversation. Now it is something that is perfectly evident to all, and yet some people give the impression that they are imparting important information when they earnestly address their friends after this fashion: "It's a warm day." Just as if anybody, even if deprived of the senses of sight, speech and hearing, would not be equally well aware of the fact. But the friend, as if it were something remarkable that their opinions should coincide, replies with equal ardor, "That's right, it is a warm day." And so it goes.

Spanish Barbarism.

The centuries are sown so thick with illustrations of Spanish cruelty down to the very present that nothing should surprise us very much. Yet a thrill of horror shook the American heart very naturally at the news that our marines slain in the first Guantanamo skirmish were found with their bodies hideously mutilated. We have been accustomed to such things occasionally in our Indian wars and could understand these exhibitions of wild beast ferocity in the breechclouted Apache or Sioux. But they do come with a shock to civilized sensibilities when shown even by Spanish guerrillas nowadays. After all, it needs but a little review of the recent past to find similar instances of this human deviltry on the part of the chivalrous countrymen of Don Quixote in the wars waged in Spain itself.

It was the habitual practice of the Spanish forces co-operating with the Duke of Wellington to torture and butcher the French wounded who fell in their hands and afterward to slash the corpses with knives. To repress this the stern duke ordered his Englishmen to hang or shoot at sight any Spanish soldier caught in such diabolism. During the Carlist wars bayoneting the wounded was the ordinary procedure. It meant in each case one less foe to fight another day. Mutilating the dead, too, wreaking hate on the senseless shell, was a privilege granted by the Carlist leaders and imitated by their no less savage opponents. Probably nothing in the history of war can equal the Carlist strife in Spain as an exhibition of the most hideous and brutal propensities of man transformed to savage, not even the Chouan performances in La Vendee. Such things must be expected in our war now, for "you can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear," and the Spaniard only acts logically in accord with his heredity and history. It only remains for our military chiefs to exact swift and terrible punishment when it is possible to catch the criminals.

GUANTANAMO BAY.

A map of the channel that leads to Caimanera looks like a slice of rat-eaten cheese, but Americans don't care for that if the holes are large enough to squeeze our ships through. In the foreground is Fisherman Point, where our gallant marines won a victory and raised the flag.

Federation In Australia.

The attempt to federate the Australasian commonwealths on a basis resembling the Dominion of Canada has been temporarily defeated, though in the nature of things it is sure to come in the early future. It is a high compliment to the United States that in most essential ways the details of the constitution offered suggest more closely that of our own republic than that of our northern neighbor.

The main features of difference from our own institutions would be in a cabinet all members of parliament, as in Great Britain, and a chief executive or governor general appointed by the crown, as at present. In their make up, methods of election and respective powers the two houses of parliament are strictly modeled after the American congress. The model is further followed in the judiciary, admission of new states, methods of amending the constitution, reserve of powers not explicitly granted to parliament by the states, and the method of raising governmental revenue by customs and excise duties, instead of by direct taxation.

The latter named feature probably broke the back of the project. New South Wales, the richest and oldest of the colonies, is strongly free trade, and when it was perceived that the trend of sentiment would pass the enabling bill the ardent free traders in the legislature succeeded in amending it by raising the required majority of popular vote necessary to 80,000 instead of 50,000. This defeated the success of the scheme, as New South Wales is the premier state, and the others would hardly accept final federation without her. In any case, however, two of the smaller states cannot vote on the union for a year to come. This possibly will give a chance for another and more favorable vote in the "kicking" colony, as the voting majority only fell 10,000 short.

Plans are maturing to construct an immense tunnel at New York under the East river, New York city and the Hudson river. The tunnel will commence in Brooklyn, where work will begin by the sinking of a shaft 70 feet deep. It will cross under East river opposite the lower part of Manhattan Island. Then the tunnel will cross the lower part of New York 70 feet below the surface of the earth, so as not to disturb the foundations of the great skyscraping buildings there. Next it will go beneath the bed of the water again and cross to Jersey City. The complete tunnel will be four miles long.

A prominent librarian in an article in The North American Review refers to the date of free libraries as being only about 100 years back. He is nearly 6,000 years out of the way. The Assyrian and Babylonian libraries of brick books, which date back 4,000 B. C., compiled and managed under royal supervision, were free to the public. The rules were pretty strict, however. Any one not returning a book was liable, if caught, to be impaled or flayed alive. They put a high premium on the value of books in those days.

—Tomorrow evening Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet and elect officers. A full attendance of the members is desired.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The Badger has been ordered to Key West, and the New Jersey Naval Reserves are happy in the hope of soon being in the thick of the fighting. Since the day that they left the Brooklyn Navy Yard they have been working hard and unceasingly—no holidays and no shore leave. But the drill and exercise in the delightfully exhilarating atmosphere along the New England coast have put the boys in splendid shape. They have their sea legs now, and are as hard and brown as veterans, to say nothing of the fact that they respond to orders like veterans. Keep your eye on the Badger, if she ever gets within the fighting zone! She has a large force of embryo Hobsons aboard.—New York Tribune.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

One of the facts advanced in favor of a permanent pavement in the business section of Plainfield is that it dries so quickly after a storm and there is no mud to trouble. As far as drying rapidly is concerned, North avenue, at present, has quite a reputation in that line. No matter how hard the storm, let the rain once stop and the sun come out, and inside of three hours pedestrians are compelled to keep their eyes partially closed to keep out the dust. It is a fact, without any exaggeration, that dust can frequently be seen blowing along that thoroughfare within three hours of the advent of the sun after a storm.

Fairview Council Entertains.

Fairview Council, No. 248, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Mt. Bethel, held its second annual ice cream festival last night. There was a large attendance, especially from Plainfield. Walter Pomeroy, of Brooklyn, entertained his audience with some sleight-of-hand tricks, and Whit Frazee, of Plainfield, rendered several cornet solos.

—James Sayer, who was injured a short time ago at Corle's livery stables on East Second street, has been discharged from the hospital.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials Address, —A horse attached to the wagon of Jacob Swanski, a butcher from New Market, was attacked with the colic while on West Second street this morning. The animal laid down despite the efforts of the driver and snapped both shafts. It took the combined efforts of four men to get the equine on his feet again.

CHICKERING PIANOS

Dr. von Bulow, the great German composer and pianist, expressed his opinion of CHICKERING PIANOS this way:

"I say, as an artist, without prejudice that they are the best Pianos in the world taking everything into consideration. We have Pianos in Germany of splendid tone, but the action is not perfect. In certain movements like this I cannot play as I would like to on the German Piano. On those Pianos I have to play as the Piano permits. On the Chickering I play as I wish."

Could words be stronger?

The CHICKERING has been well termed "The Oldest in America, the Best in the World". Here, and here only, in New Jersey.

A STOLEN PICTURE.

My own poor holidays were of the scantiest at the time of this narration. I had enjoyed my freedom for ten days of June, but though the period bade fair to live for ever in my memory I seemed to have been already a twelve-month back at work upon the evening when I found Dick's letter awaiting me at my lodgings.

"My Dear Mortimer: I am in town again at last; arrived last night. Come round and smoke a pipe—to-night, if possible; I've a hundred things to tell you. Meanwhile—if you'll believe it—I'm engaged. Yours, DICK."

The news he told me was the pleasantest possible; for I also, to tell the truth, had learned in my days of freedom how unenviable are the liberties of the mere bachelor. I remained free for the present; but I nevertheless hoped to follow his example before the year was out.

One can do a good deal in ten days; indeed, I had fallen hopelessly in love in less than that number of hours. But I felt it rather much to ask that Maud should have recognized and learned to reciprocate my feelings in so short a time; and so I had not spoken. All the same, I knew that it would be a crushing disappointment to me if she had not accomplished it. Her home was at Brighton, she once told me; and she well knew my friends, the Meynells.

For Maud—I could find no words to express her. I put my hand into the breast-pocket of my coat and drew out a photograph. It was not a very good likeness; the hair was not dressed in the fashion which had become so familiar to me—and that fashion of a surety was the most charming that ever occurred to the mind of ingenious woman. But still, the picture had enough of her to be for me the most beautiful thing in the world—save only her sweet self. I had stolen it. She was stopping with the Luttrells, with whom I spent my holiday at Sandybar; and Madge Luttrell was a great friend of mine. She had detected or foreseen my devotion to Maud, I think, even before it revealed itself to me. At any rate, I knew she would be discreet, and, trusting to her clemency, I had stolen this precious photograph out of her album upon the morning when I left Sandybar.

I had soon finished the meal which stood ready for me, and from which I had been kept by Dick's note and by the emotions resulting from its perusal. Then I found my hat and stick and my very largest pipe, and set out across London to Dick's rooms. The place was in darkness and untenanted when I entered, but I knew that he would not fail me, and struck a match to discover if he had left a note to tell me when he would return. "Back at eight," it read. "Meanwhile, there's baccy and a new Stevenson."

It was now upon the stroke of 7, so I lit the lamp, found the Stevenson, and prepared to spend an hour pleasantly. The time passed most happily; at last I laid aside the book and filled my pipe. I walked across the room to take a spill from the mantel-shelf, and in a moment found myself gazing at the photograph of Maud Cameron—the girl I loved, the girl I hoped to marry.

It was in a frame of elaborately beaten silver, already somewhat tarnished by tobacco smoke, and beyond a doubt was a portrait of Dick's fiancee.

There was a sudden sound of footsteps on the stair, a hand upon the door, and (even as I thrust back her photograph into my pocket) the door opened and Dick entered.

"Hope you've not had a long wait," he said. "I had to be out for awhile."

"Not long," I answered. "And I—I found plenty to occupy me. And now, I suppose, I must congratulate you?"

Dick laughed. "Do you only suppose? I am the luckiest beggar in the world. But never mind; you will see her some day, and then you will speak differently. You will envy me—madly; for indeed—— But we'll wait until you have met her; only I promise you you may safely venture your congratulations. Here is her photograph, by the bye, a wretchedly bad one, but still not at all unlike."

He moved to the mantel and handed me her picture, enclosed in that abominable frame of his. I took it from him, and for a minute and more gazed hard upon her face.

"It is all true," I kept whispering to myself. "She has betrayed me."

Dick watched me in silence, evidently convinced of my admiration; in reality I was wondering whether it would be better to tell him that we had met.

Presently he broke silence. "Well?" he said, holding out his hand for the return of her photograph.

"You are lucky," I answered slowly. "She is very beautiful."

"Ah," he said, contentedly, "but you don't know how beautiful. That photograph is a libel."

He put it back upon the mantelshelf, and selected a pipe. Then he stretched himself in an easy chair.

"You two must know one another; indeed, she is already eager for your acquaintance."

I was steeled, I thought, against all that he could tell me, but upon this I wellnigh betrayed myself. Had she admitted that her fancy for me—I knew that she had come near to loving me—was dead, I could have borne my burden uncomplainingly, and might have forgotten. But that she should deny that it had existed—that she had ever known me—that was past toleration.

"They live at Brighton," Dick continued, "so that we are not too far away to visit them. You must come down some day with me. I want you to know her."

There are times when it were unwise to be sincere.

"I shall be delighted," I said, even while I reviewed the excuses upon which I should be able to rely in the event of his some day tendering a more definite invitation. Then I turned the conversation into other channels, and in a little while (somewhat to the disgust of my friend, who had much to tell) I left.

About a month had passed when I had a note one day from Mrs. Luttrell:

"Dear Mr. Mortimer—We have taken tickets for the Lyceum matinee on Saturday, and three or four friends are to meet us there. I wonder if you are free that afternoon, and would care to meet us at Charing Cross and go with us to the theatre. Yours very truly, Frances Luttrell."

It was a miserable, foggy day, and I half-feared they would not come. But, though their train was somewhat delayed, they presently arrived, and we took a cab along the Strand. Madge looked unusually pretty, and greeted me with a disappointing cheerfulness. I had counted on a little sympathy from her, but her aspect was one of rather mischievous enjoyment. It would have been timely enough if she had held in store for me some very delightful surprise. She even referred to a matter which I had hoped for a month past had escaped observation.

"I did not think that you would descend to theft," she said; "I would have given it to you. And of course you discovered your mistake?"

We were entering the theatre as she spoke; there was a momentary press of people, and I affected not to have heard her speech. Indeed, I was not a little angry; her clumsiness was obviously intentional, for I was well aware that she in no wise suffered from want of tact.

A moment later we were being shown to our seats.

"Will you take the inside seat?" said Madge, and I moved obediently to the last vacant place—next to a lady whose face was turned from me. I was just taking my seat when she turned and looked up at me. She had the grace to blush—for it was Maud Cameron—but there was no tremor in her voice when she spoke a moment later.

"How do you do?" she said politely. And in the same words I answered her.

Presently she leant a little nearer and spoke to me in her soft, pretty voice.

"You have nothing to say," she said. "You may talk, you know."

I turned to her with a look of desperation. Why could she not leave me to myself?

"I had forgotten," I said. "I must congratulate you—or Dick, at any rate."

"O!" she answered, smilingly, "you may congratulate me also; do not fear. It has happened marvelously well."

"Marvelously well!" I echoed.

"Yes," she continued; "and particularly in that you are his particular friend. It is so nice for the wife when the husband's friend is nice. But why didn't you tell him you knew the Luttrells—and me?"

I stared at her, incredulous of her cruelty.

"How could I tell I tell him?" I said indignantly. "You had denied acquaintance with me, and since you had forgotten, do you think I wished to remember?"

I was a trifle startled at the effect of this speech. It should have silenced her, I thought; but it seemed as if I had injured her, and now a greater indignation than my own arose in her.

"It is not true," she said. "What do you mean? I saw him only a fortnight ago, when I returned from Sandybar, and I distinctly remember telling him that day that I had met you there. Mother did suggest that he might bring you down one Saturday, but of course——"

I interrupted. "You only saw him a month ago? Why, 'tis a full month since he told me you were engaged. And yet you have known him only a fortnight?"

She looked at me with a sort of pitiful amazement.

"He told you he was engaged to me? Why, he's engaged to Mary, my sister. And besides——"

A new life entered into me; the old hopes lived again. Yet I was unconvinced.

"He showed me your photograph," I said.

She looked at me a moment. Slowly the bewilderment faded from her face, and it appeared she was mightily amused.

"Did he tell you my name?" she asked.

"He showed me your likeness, and told me you were engaged to him. I don't remember if he told me your name. But there was no need; I do not forget so easily."

Maud chuckled—there is no other word.

"You had seen the photograph before?" she said.

"I stole it out of Madge Luttrell's album the day I was to leave Sandybar. I thought——"

"Surely it was a little curious to steal the photograph of a lady you had never met? For it is to Mary, my sister, that Mr. Ferguson is engaged, and it was her photograph you took from Madge's album. She is considered rather like me."

I was stunned with the sudden joy and with the sense of my great stupidity. I know that her eyes were upon me, and would have given worlds to be with her, for a moment only, away from this great crowd of people.

"I burnt it," I said, "a month ago. You will give me one of your own."

She answered nothing, and at that moment the curtain rose. But I was well content.—From Black and White.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Oesterreich.

Wien. Dieser Tage wurde der Kammerdiener des Unterrichtsministers Grafen Bylandt-Reidt, ein gewisser Joseph Bildermann, wegen Diebstahls verhaftet und dem Landesgericht eingeliefert. Der Kammerdiener hatte nämlich dem Unterrichtsminister das Fahrrad gestohlen. Er fuhr in den Prater, betrank sich und verkaufte das Rad.— Für das beste Stück des Raimund-Theaters erhielt der frühere Burgtheaterdirektor Burckhardt mit seinem Lustspiel „Katherl" den Raimundpreis von 830 Gulden.—Unter großer Betheiligung der Bevölkerung wurde hier das Makart-Denkmal enthüllt.—Der Sekretär der „Gesellschaft der Friedensfreunde," Ernst von Beiringer, hat sich dem Gerichte wegen Unterschlagung einer bedeutenden Summe zum Nachtheile der Gesellschaft selbst gestellt.

Baja. In der Nähe von hier sind dieser Tage acht Personen, die während eines heftigen Unwetters über die Donau setzen wollten, durch Umkippen des Kahnes ertrunken.

Budapest. Hier fand ein Duell zwischen einem General und einem Subalternoffizier statt. Die Duellanten waren F. M. L. Kirchhammer und Artillerie-Oberlieutenant Florian. Der Oberlieutenant wurde schwer verwundet vom Platze getragen. Die Ursache des Duells ist unbekannt.

Innsbruck. Der Bauarbeiterausstand ist beendet, die Forderungen der Arbeiter wurden theilweise bewilligt.

Klausen. Gegen Mitternacht überfuhr neulich ein Personenzug in der Nähe von hier einen Bahnwächter, Vater von sechs Kindern. Er wurde am Unterleib schwer verletzt und blieb bis fünf Uhr früh unbemerkt. Obwohl noch drei Züge über ihn gingen, lebte er noch bis sieben Uhr.

Neustift im Felde. Hier hat eine dem Bauer Joseph Leitner gehörige Kuh vor ca. zwei Monaten ein Kalb mit sechs Füßen geworfen. Die vier Füße sind normal ausgebildet, das dritte Paar wächst in der Gegend der Schulterblätter heraus und ist in den Gelenken beweglich. Das Kalb ist frisch und munter.

Prag. In Priesen bei Postelberg erfolgte ein Rutsch des sogenannten Kreiseberges, der in einer Länge von 700 Meter gegen die Ortschaft Priesen fortschreitet. Augenblicklich ist keine Gefahr vorhanden, doch ist solche bei fortgesetztem Regenwetter nicht ausgeschlossen. In Seestadtl und Strahn traten ebenfalls Erdrutschungen ein.

Umhausen. Dem Waldaufseher Franz Gritsch gelang es kürzlich, im Oetzthal einen prächtigen Steinadler zu erlegen. Ein wohlgezielter Schuß, und der Adler stürzte todt herab, leider in eine Schlucht, aus der er sehr mühsam heraufgebracht wurde. Er hatte eine Flugweite von 3.2 Metern.

Trient. In der Nähe von Busa del Bento, am Westgehänge des 1350 Meter hohen Cheyul in den Trientiner Alpen, stürzte der 21jährige Trientiner Victor Dante in Folge Unkenntniß des Weges auf schlüpfrigem Fels über die hohe Wand ab und blieb sofort todt. Sein Tourengenosse war vorher umgekehrt.

Schweiz.

Bern. Notar Moser, Chef der Polizeikontrolle der Stadt Bern, ist durchgebrannt. Als Privatmann hatte er eine Vormundschaft übernommen, wobei ihm Titel im Werthe von 5000 Francs anvertraut worden waren. Er war aufgefordert worden, Rechnung zu legen und sich über die anvertrauten Gelder auszuweisen. Hierfür wurde ihm die Frist von sechs Wochen eingeräumt. An dem Tage, an welchem die Frist zu Ende ging, verschwand er von hier spurlos.

Zürich. Seit dem 1. Juni ist der Verkehr auf der Arth-Rigi-Bahn eröffnet und damit eine der schönsten Bergfahrten der Welt den Schweizer Reisenden zugänglich gemacht. Diese Linie ist die schönste, schnellste und billigste Verbindung von Zürich nach dem Rigi.

Uri. Das Russenkreuz in der Schöllenen zur Erinnerung an Suwarows Zug über die Alpen ist nun vollendet. Es ist am rechten Ufer der Reuß, gerade gegenüber der Teufelsbrücke, in einer schief abfallenden Felswand angebracht und besteht aus behauenen Granitblöcken. Zunächst wurde aus der Felswand eine gewaltige Nische ausgesprengt, um das auf dem Grunde derselben ruhende Kreuz vor Beschädigung durch Lawinen zu schützen. Die gewaltigen Dimensionen dieses Denkmals werden erst klar, wenn man am Fuße desselben steht, und das Ganze macht in seiner Einfachheit einen sehr günstigen Eindruck.

Basel. Der Große Rath des Kantons hatte sich kürzlich mit der Frage der obligatorischen und staatlichen Mobiliarversicherung zu beschäftigen, nahm jedoch derselben gegenüber eine ablehnende Stellung ein und war hierin der Ansicht, daß die Verstaatlichung nicht immer von Segen und speziell die Durchführung der staatlichen Mobiliarversicherung für einen kleinen Kanton ein wirthschaftlicher und versicherungstechnischer Rückschritt sei. Bei der entschieden verstaatlichungsfreundlichen Strömung, die sich in der letzten Zeit in unserer Wirthschaftspolitik bemerkbar gemacht hat, ist dieser selbstständige Entschluß des Basler Großen Rathes nicht ohne Bedeutung.

If you have a moment or two, put it to good purpose—see the big Parlor Suit "spread" that's waiting for you. A dozen remarkably superb sample suits—often for less than it cost to put 'em together. About some of them:

One—a silk brocatelle suit, was $75—now $50.

Another velour suit—$30 before—now $35.

A great big Refrigerator stock—$5.49 is what you can get a hardwood upright refrigerator for—where can closer buying be done? The galvanized ice pick, tongs and pan go with it, free.

Wickless Blue Flame Oil Stove —easy as a lamp to run—but has no wick or valve—worth its weight in gold to housewives.

The "Monarch" Vapor Stove —a great wonder—one burner generates all the vapor—powerful and sure. No details or "things" to operate—no worry, danger or uncertainty.

$5.95—just received—others ask and get a third more for it. Look up this Carriage stock of ours.

There's a daily exhibition of these stoves going on for all visitors—we sell the "Insurance" and "Quickmeal" Vapor Stoves, too.

Sec. 2. That the manner of placing said posts or poles shall be as follows:

They shall be firmly planted in the ground, adjacent to and within eighteen inches of the curb line on streets where curb lines have been established, and secured by cement or grouting wherever necessary to maintain the poles in an erect position, and said posts or poles shall not be less than one hundred feet apart.

Sec. 3. That said Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company be and is hereby authorized to construct and maintain for the uses of its business of generating and distributing electricity for the purposes of light, heat and power, a system of subways or underground conduits, including the necessary manholes and street openings and lateral connections to property lines beneath the surface of the streets and other highways in said City, and to drain same to storm sewers, and to place, maintain and operate in its system of subways or underground conduits the wires, cables or other electrical conductors necessary for its business, and to construct, maintain and use for such purposes a system of electrical conductors in connection with the necessary poles and appurtenances for the distribution of electricity from such conduits.

Sec. 4. That said system of subways herein authorized shall be constructed as follows: The same shall be at least three feet below the surface of the streets where located, with manholes where necessary, level with the surface of the street; the trenches shall be carefully backfilled and the material thoroughly rammed to the satisfaction of the Street Commissioner; the work of rolling and repairing the pavement shall be done by the Street Commissioner and the cost of said work shall be paid by said Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company; and all the work of constructing shall be carried on under the supervision of the Street Commissioner. In case the said company shall fail to restore, relay or repair, or cause to be restored, relaid or repaired, any pavement or street surface within forty-eight hours after receiving notice from the Street Commissioner that such work is required, said Street Commissioner shall have the right to cause such work to be done and the cost thereof shall be paid by the said Company.

Sec. 5. That said Company shall indemnify the said Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield against, and assume all liability and damages which may at any time arise, come or occur to said City from any injury to persons or property from the doing of any work herein authorized, or any work done upon, under or along any of the streets of the said City by said Company, or from neglect of the Company or its employes to comply with the provisions of any ordinance of said City relative to the use of streets or highways or public places, particularly as to the erection and maintenance of lights and guards at or about excavations; and the acceptance by the Company of this ordinance shall be an agreement by it to pay to the Common Council of Plainfield any sum of money for which the City may become liable from or by reason of such injury or damage.

Sec. 6. That said Company shall construct such subways and appurtenances at the rate of at least sixteen hundred feet (1,600) each year from the date of the approval or final adoption of this ordinance until the following streets are clear of wires and poles of said Company, viz:

The Common Council shall have option to designate in what order subways in the streets specified in this section shall be laid; and the said Company shall be at liberty to construct subways in the other streets specified in the first section of this ordinance earlier than herein specified, upon said Company applying to the Common Council and obtaining special permission in the premises.

Sec. 7. That this ordinance shall be void unless said Company shall file with the Clerk of said City its acceptance hereof within twenty days from and after the passage hereof, which acceptance shall be taken and construed to be a consent to the terms and provisions hereof, and an agreement by said Company to perform whatever is hereby required within the time or times herein limited, and said Company shall also within said period of twenty days file with the Treasurer of said City a bond, with sureties to be approved by the Mayor, in the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of the terms and conditions of this ordinance.

Sec. 8. That said Company shall pay into the Treasury of said City all advertising and printing fees incurred by the City under this ordinance, and this ordinance shall take effect immediately.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

GEO. B. WEAN, City Clerk, pro tem.
Plainfield, N. J., June 13th, 1898.

AN ORDINANCE

to amend an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance Concerning Dogs," approved July 6th, 1897.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Sections 2 and 3 of the ordinance to which this is an amendment shall be as follows:

Section 2. That there shall be established for the purpose of impounding dogs not muzzled as provided in Section 1st hereof, found running at large, a dog pound, to be in charge of a pound-master to be specially appointed. Two suitable persons shall also be specially appointed whose duty it shall be to seize and impound all dogs not muzzled as required by Section first, which shall be found running at large in the streets in said City. Said persons so appointed shall wear a shield as a badge of office, said shield to be provided by the City Clerk, and shall be entitled to receive as compensation for his services the sum of Twenty-five cents for each dog delivered by him to the pound-master. Should any person appointed as aforesaid seize or impound any dog other than such as are not muzzled as required in Section first, he shall upon conviction be punished by a fine not exceeding Five Dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding five days, either or both.

Section 3. That all dogs delivered to the pound-master shall be subject to a charge of Twenty-five cents per day or fraction of a day for their keep while in charge of the pound-master, and a penalty of One Dollar to be paid by the owner of the dog to the pound-master for its redemption in addition to the charge for keep. The pound-master shall receive as compensation for his services, one-half of the penalties paid him, and shall be entitled further to the charges for keep before mentioned. All dogs unclaimed or unredeemed at the expiration of four days after their being impounded shall be put to death by said pound-master in the most merciful and human manner possible.

AN ORDINANCE

to amend an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to License Inns and Taverns and to Regulate and Prohibit the Sale of Spirituous and Fermented Liquors," approved February 10th, 1892, amended April 7th, 1894.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

That there be added to said ordinance the two following sections, to be numbered Sections 25 and 26 respectively:

"Sec. 25. That any license heretofore granted and now in force, or that may hereafter be granted, under the provisions of this ordinance, may, at the discretion of the Common Council, be renewed by the Common Council for the period of one year from date of the expiration thereof, upon application of the licensed person or persons respectively, and it shall not be requisite in order to such renewal that the application therefor shall have annexed thereto any certificate of citizens or freeholders or any affidavit or affidavits; provided that such applicant for renewal of license shall not have been theretofore convicted of violating any of the ordinances of the City of Plainfield, or any of the laws of this State; and provided further that before receiving any renewal of license as herein contemplated, the applicant shall enter into recognizance in the same manner as if said license was applied for or granted under the appropriate foregoing section of said ordinance.

"Sec. 26. That upon petition of any person duly licensed under this ordinance, or his legal representative, the Common Council may, pursuant to Chapter CLXXIX of the public laws of New Jersey for the year 1892, permit a transfer of the license held by such applicant to another person to be named in such application, to be designated in said application, upon the payment of a transfer fee hereby fixed at the sum of Twenty-Five Dollars in each case."

AN ORDINANCE

for the repairing and permanent improvement of East Ninth Street.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the roadbed of East Ninth Street, extending from the northeasterly crosswalk of Park Avenue to the southerly crosswalk of Watchung Avenue, be forthwith repaired and spread with broken stone for a width of eight feet on each side of the centre line of said street and for a depth of four inches at the general expense of the City, to be paid for (after first applying the direct contribution of property owners) out of the money raised by tax for the improvement of streets, as provided by the Act of the Legislature entitled "An act to authorize cities to make permanent improvements in the roadbeds of streets at the general expense," approved May 18, 1894.

Sec. 2. That before any work shall be done under this ordinance, the property owners along the line of the proposed improvements shall deposit with the City Treasurer the sum of six hundred and fifty dollars ($650 00).

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL.]

Adjourned regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, held on Thursday, June 16th, 1898, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present.

The minutes of the previous meeting, reading of bills being omitted, were, on motion, approved as read.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Freeholder Adams presented the following:

Whereas, Great and useless destruction of property in this township is threatened through the proposed widening of North avenue and the building of a street railroad upon the same; therefore be it

Resolved, That this committee is unalterably opposed to the widening of North avenue, or the building of a street railroad thereon, or any other operation whatever under the provisions of Chapter 118 of the Laws of 1898, commonly known as the County Boulevard Act; and be it further,

Resolved, That the township attorneys be, and is hereby instructed, to take such legal measures as may be necessary to prevent this threatened destruction of property.

This resolution was passed without a dissenting voice at the meeting of the Township Committee of Cranford on May 31st 1898.

On motion of Freeholder Farrell received and referred to the committee on legal questions.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Elizabeth, June 16, 1898

To the Honorable the Board of Chosen Freeholders, Union county N. J.:

Gentlemen—The undersigned would respectfully report that owing to the short time since their appointment by your body to make an appraisement of damages for land taken for the widening of Westfield avenue from Elizabeth, N. J., to Plainfield, N. J., they are unable to make a complete report of estimate until your next regular meeting.

Respectfully submitted.

Louis Quien, John D. Runyon, John N. Wilcox, committee.

On motion of Freeholder Brucklacher received and placed on file

By Committee on Bridges in Union Township:

The committee on bridges in Union township would recommend the building of a brick arch bridge on Long avenue, the cost not to exceed $438, and the building of an iron beam brick arch bridge on Fairoute avenue, the cost not to exceed $250. Signed, James A. Burnett, J. Martin Roll, W. H. Hulskamper, committee.

Freeholder Farrell moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll-call it was unanimously adopted.

The committee on Bridge street bridge at Rahway presented the following as its report:

Elizabeth, June 16, 1898.

Chairman Committe on Bridge Street Bridge, Rahway, N J.

Dear Sir: The undersigned would respectfully report that in his opinion the present bridge over the Rahway river on Bridge street, Rahway, N. J., is unfit for further service, and should be replaced by a new bridge. The cost of a new bridge at this place complete, including removal of old bridge, would be as follows: Stone arch bridge, single span of 100 feet, $11,057; concrete arch bridge, single span of 100 feet, $10,460, concrete arch bridge of two spans of 50 feet each, $7,782; plate girder, single span of 100 feet, $8 765; plate girder, two 50 feet spans, $7 060.

I would recommend the two span concrete bridge, which has "I" beam ribs as it will be a permanent bridge, and will have no annual repairs.

Respectfully yours,
Louis Quien, C. E.

After some discussion the report was received and placed on file.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Adams:

Resolved, That a committee of three (3) be appointed with power to rebuild the stone bridge on Riverside avenue, near Casino avenue, at Cranford, N. J., said bridge not to cost over $375.

Freeholder Farrell moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

Freeholder Brucklacher moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Ehrlich:

Resolved, that a new arch bridge of two spans each, of 50 feet opening, 22 feet roadway in width, and 8 feet sidewalk be built over the Rahway river on Bridge street, Rahway, N. J, the cost of same not to exceed the sum of $8,000

Freeholder Brucklacher suggested that the resolution lie over until the board had a chance to consider the different plans for said bridge, as heretofore presented by Mr. Quien.

Freeholder Ehrlich urged that there be no delay, as the present bridge was in a bad condition, and an accident might occur that would perhaps be costly to the county. He had not had time to examine into the different styles of bridges as mentioned by Mr Quien in the report of the committee, but believed that such a bridge as provided in the resolution would be entirely satisfactory.

Freeholder Farrell said that a new bridge had been petitioned for by a large number of property owners in Rahway, as the records of the board would show. The present structure was unsafe, and daily growing worse; it might soon be necessary to close the street, to the inconvenience of the public; he did not think it would be good judgment to delay the matter.

Some further informal discussions ensued, after which Freeholder Ehrlich moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

Freeholder King moved to adjourn, which was carried, and the director declared the board adjourned until Thursday, July 7th, 1898, at 2 30 p. m.

The Clinton Avenue Club is going forth on the warpath now with increased regularity. Saturday the Y. M. C. A. team will meet the Clinton Avenue boys on the grounds of the latter for an exciting game. Both sides are confident of victory.

The Crescentt have a game scheduled for Saturday afternoon with the strongest amatuer nine in Mott Haven. It comes from the Dreadnaught Athletic Club, whose doughty little football players made such an eviable reputation last season. The baseball team this year has been winning game after game and will give the Crescents a lively hustle. The players are all young men and have played together long enough to feel sure of each other.

Last Saturday afternoon, while the audience and players were waiting for the storm to end from their shelter in the dressing rooms under the grand stand, they were highly entertained by a little vocal music from several of the players. Besides being able to play short stop, "Billie" Metz has a tenor voice that he knows how to use. Collins and Lederer carried the air and the bass, and between the three a very creditable harmony was produced.

It was something of a surprise when the Crescents found the Staten Island Athletic Club such an easy mark last Saturday afternoon. Considering the strong team that it was represented to be and the excellent showing it has made about the country, nobody had any idea that the Crescents were going to have everything all their own way as they certainly did in the three innings that were played. "Tuck" Turner was surprised and he complimented Manager Mumford very highly on the team that he had gotten together. "Tuck" said that they were strong enough to tackle anything in sight and he wished the management the best of luck for the remainder of the season.

There is something of the feeling among the young men of Clinton avenue and Dunellen as there used to be between the people of Plainfield and Somerville in the good old days when the West Ends and Crescents flourished in deadly rivalry. There is nothing that so fills the soul of the Clinton avenue boys with unalloyed bliss as to administer a rousing defeat of some kind to his friends down at Dunellen, and the Dunellen boys are not a whit behind them in a similiar feeling. Twice have the two ball teams met and now each one has a victory to brag over. The deciding game is scheduled for the morning of July 4th. According to agreement, the game should be played at Clinton avenue but as the Dunellen boys are planning for a general good time on that day they want to make the game part of the attraction and have it played in Dunellen. It will remain to be seen where the game will be played but it will undoubtedly be played somewhere that morning and all who witness it will see a battle to the death.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Thomas Lynus, of West Second street, has purchased a fine sorrel horse from a party in the borough. The horse can go better than 2:28.

The race meet of the Somerset Driving Club, of Somerville, will be held this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon on the fair grounds. It will be the second in the circuit of the Central New Jersey Driving Association. The events this afternoon will be the 2:25 class, trotting; 2:35 class, pacing, and a special event for road wagons, the owners to drive, open to the four counties. Former Judge W. A. Coddington's "Belle" and Sheriff Wm. T. Kirk's "Foxie" are both entered in the latter event. Tomorrow afternoon the events are 2:17 class, trotting, open to 2:20 pacing; 2:30 class, trotting and pacing; 2:40 class, trotting.

GOLF.

The board of trustees of the Park Golf Club met last evening and received the report of the committee on greens. It was very satisfactory and the board decided that the links will be completed by July 12th, and that there will be some playing on the grounds July 4th. Several new members were elected at the meeting.

DEATH OF MRS. MORGAN.

An Estimable Woman, Well-Known In Local Circles, Passes Away.

Mrs. Clarina Bartow Morgan passed away early this morning at her home, 125 East Ninth street, after a long period of illness. The end was very quiet. Mrs. Morgan was the widow of the late Rev. James Hervey Morgan and daughter of the late Robert and Maria Lorillard, of Boston. She leaves two sons and three daughters, three of whom have been residing with her.

Mrs. Morgan has lived in Plainfield for many years and was a faithful attendant at Grace P. E. church until ill health prevented her attendance at the services. She had many friends in this city who will be shocked to learn of her death.

The funeral will be held from her late home Friday morning at 11:30 o'clock.

PRESS READERS KNEW IT.

Delayed News of Sale of Pond Company's Stock Comes From Ohio.

This afternoon The Daily Press received a telegram from Springfield, O., signed "H. E. Sage," which stated that a "big Ohio company buys Pond Works, Plainfield, N. J. Specialty, cannon carriages." Last Saturday The Press published an article from the American Machinist, stating that the Niles Tool Works Company, of Hamilton, O., had purchased considerable stock in the Pond Company. The article also gave some other details which Press readers doubtless remember.

Inquiry at the office of the Pond Company's shops this afternoon failed to secure any further information than the article from the American Machinist gave.

WHAT THEY STUDY.

The Young Man's Course Didn't Give Him Time for the Fine Arts.

A most amusing conversation took place not many months ago between a Chicago young woman student and one of the opposite sex who was following a scientific course in a neighboring city. The young woman had "gone in" for art, literature, languages, music, etc., and was inclined to patronize the scientific young man, who had had little time for such things.

"How many hours a week do you devote to literature?" she asked.

"None this year," was the reply.

"What languages do you study?"

"None. I read German; that is enough."

"Doesn't your professor read some great play of Shakspeare with you? Don't you study some great world poem? Don't you study something about art or music?"

"No. I have time for none of these things."

"I study metallurgy," replied the young man, who happened to be an embryo mining engineer. I study thermodynamics. I study lithology, the theory of probabilities, differential equations, quantitative analysis, blowpiping, electricity, hydrodynamics, oredressing, mining law, assaying, political economy, the strength of materials and several other things. These I must know something about by June next or my examinations will cause me trouble. I put in four house at lectures and recitations and three in the labatory five days in the week. Saturdays I work from 8 to 5 in the assaying laboratory. I have no time for fine arts or world poems."—Chicago Post.

MAKING WOOD RIMS FOR BICYCLES.

An Interesting and Lucrative Industry in Maine.

The average annual output of wood novelties in Maine has a value well over $1,000,000. One of the most interesting branches of the industry is the manufacture of wood rims for bicycles. The factory where the manufacture is carried on has a floor space of 74,800 feet; its daily output averages about 1,800 rims, and the value of its yearly product is about $120,000. The wood used is rock maple, and each rim is composed of three pieces glued and pressed together with such force and exactitude that the rim appears like one piece, and only the most searching examination can detect the joints. After these pieces have been steamed, bent, and glued, they are submitted to an enormous pressure in a steam-power machine. They are then taken to the lathes, one of which turns the concave surface of the outside, and another the convex surface of the inside of the rim. After passing on to the sandpaper machine for smoothing, they are stained and varnished and bored for the spokes, and are ready for shipment. The wood must be perfect, and not the least defect or discoloration is allowed to pass. Much of the machinery has been designed, expressly for this plant, and the machines as well as all the steps in the construction of the rims require the supervision of skilled mechanics.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

HOLY CROSS FESTIVAL.

Storm or Hot Weather Did Not Interfere With a Large Attendance.

The warm wave yesterday did not interfere with the attendance or the success of the strawberry festival held in the parish building of the Church of the Holy Cross. Both afternoon and evening there was a large attendance and the stock of good things provided disanpeared early in the evening as the gathering was much larger than was expected. The interior of the building was prettily decorated for the occasion, with many varieties of flowers forming a pleasing effect. Among those who contributed in no small measure to the social and financial success of the festival were Mrs. T. L. Murphy, Mrs. Wm. A. Westphal, the Misses Long, Miss Lizzie Kiernan, Miss Blanche Miller, Miss Thorn, Miss Phillpitt, the Misses Smith, Miss Annie Murphy, Miss Ida Fountain and Sunday-school Superintendent Wm. A. Westphal.

INSULTED A WOMAN.

A Young German Now Locked Up in the Borough Jail.

Roy Herord, a young German, is in the borough jail awaiting some disposition of his case. Last night he was in a West Third street saloon, and the proprietor claims that he insulted a woman who was in a side room. He was ordered out of the saloon by the proprietor, who threatened to call a policeman, but before the officer could be found Herord started on a run for town, followed by a crowd of men and boys.

Near Front street and Elmwood place, Special Officer Wenzepried joined in the chase, and followed the man down Sycamore avenue across the brook, where he held him until Marshal Wilson could be called. The Marshal locked him up.

Herord retained Murphy & Blatz to defend him. It is not known what will be done with the case, but he will probably be released tonight.

THIEF A RESIDENT OF ELIZABETH.

The Picture of Doaney Develops New Facts About Him.

Photographer Moffett, of Somerset street, has developed the pictures he took of Edward Doaney, the thief arrested in the borough Monday. A man called this morning to see the pictures and he says that the thief is a resident of Elizabeth.

Roundsman Frederickson also saw the pictures and he thinks it is the same man he saw wandering about the city prior to the Vanderbeek robbery. It is confidently believed that Andrew Vanderbeek will regain the valuables stolen from his house.

Doaney was taken to Somerville last night in company with Mrs. Lizzie Mills, of this city, who failed to pay her fine. Chief Wilson took the two to the county seat.

CARRIAGE MAKER SUES.

Elijah Stevens, of Somerville Wants Pay for a Rubber-Tire Rig.

Pope & Runyon, attorneys, have begun suit in Justice Moffett's court for Elijah Stevens, of Somerville, against Augustus Baldwin, of this city, for $107, which amount he claims is still due him on a rubber tire road wagon, set of harness and lap robe, which Baldwin purchased from him in August, 1897.

Stevens is a carriage manufactuer at Somerville, and took a chattel mortgage note on the rig, which he claims Baldwin has not yet settled.

NEW POSTMASTER TOMORROW.

Mr. Bird Will Assume His Government Position.

Postmaster E. H. Bird will probably assume his new duties at the postoffice tomorrow evening. His resignation will go to the City Council at the meeting to be held at that time, and his successor will probably be appointed at the meeting. Regarding the assistant postmaster, there is not likely to be a change at present. Mr. Bird has asked Mr. Whitenack to remain for the present, and it is more than probable that he will do so.

Mr. Powers' New Assistant.

The business of John M. Powers, the Somerset street pharmacist, has increased to such proportions that he has found it necessary to add an experienced prescription clerk to his staff of clerks. In that position he has engaged Frank R. Story, of Brooklyn, a graduate of the College of Pharmacy of New York. Mr Story was in college at the same time as Mr. Powers and will prove a valuable acquisition to Mr. Powers' thriving business.

A Fractious Horse.

C. M. Raybert, of North avenue, had a little trouble with his spirited horse this morning. The animal was tied in front of Mr. Raybert's store, when suddenly it became frightened, broke the tie-strap and upset the wagon. For a few minutes matters looked serious, but plenty of assistance from the neighbors speedily straightened the tangled rig out and no damage resulted.

Taking Testimony.

The taking of testimony in the Varette Macaroni case will be continued tomorrow before Special Master Charles A. Reed in his office.

PICNICED BY THE DRIVE.

An Enjoyable Afternoon Spent by a Party of Young People.

A number of the young people of East Third street and that vicinity held a picnic on Johnston's drive yesterday afternoon. Those in the party were Nellie Apgar, Florence and Mabel Symons, Grace and Eva Webster, Jennie Thorn, the Misses Leighton, Fred VanLieu, Edward Baker, David Wyckoff, Bert Ford, Matthew Sweeney, Willie Nash and Charles Dunlap.

The party left by the trolley at noon and spent the afternoon in playing games, walking about the mountains, eating their lunch and having a good time generally. The party arrived home in the evening. The party was arranged by Nellie Apgar and Florence Symons. Mrs. Utzinger, of Grandview avenue, chaperoned the young folks.

IN ROESEL'S BEHALF.

Arguments to be Made For and Against a New Trial.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 29.—The Court of Errors and Appeals has designated Friday, July 1, as the time when it will hear arguments for and against granting a new trial to Louis Roesel, the condemned murderer of Farmer James C. Pitts, of Summit. The execution of Roesel has been postponed until the Court of Appeals renders its decision. Should it be adverse to the prisoner, he will be promptly resentenced. Roesel takes the efforts of his lawyers to save his life with the utmost indifference, and does not seem to care whether he is hanged or not.

COMMANDER SMITH SPOKE.

Thanked His Friends for Support at Annual Encampment.

The meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., held last evening, was one of special interest to the members. Department Commander Smith and Assistant Adjutant General E. C. Morse, were present, and each made an appropriate address, in which they thanked the members for the earnest support given at the recent annual encampment. There were also remarks by the other members. The next meeting of the post will be held on the fourth Tuesday evening in July. The members decided that during the very warm weather it would be better to meet less frequently.

Testimony in the Miles Case

Special Master Wm. M. Stillman, of West Front street, took testimony yesterday in the William H., Anna and Frank Miles case. City Judge DeMeza, Counselor Craig A. Marsh and W. Holt Apgar, of Trenton, were the lawyers engaged.

THE DUTY OF MEN.

A Woman Says That Dr. Warde Should Not Go Free.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Certainly Plainfield is loyal enough in the present crisis of our country with her soldier boys in line, and one staunch hero already sacrificed to the service, but there is another crisis, peculiarly ours, in which the stand of our men is amazing.

There has been a man in our community, who has lost no opportunity to become well-known, who has furnished on other people's money, and who has left us now with only a vile reputation as his memorial.

But this is not merely a matter of one man's coming and going. This man should not be allowed to walk abroad and we know it. Men may commit dreadful deeds, they may even murder, but they are brought to justice, while this one who is worse than a murderer, because he ruins souls, goes quietly away unmolested, is seen in New York, is heard of in Binghamton, is communicating at his pleasure with Plainfield and no one lifts a hand to bring him to the penalty which he has doubly earned. Where are our men? Several years ago all England was filled with a fury of indignation over a similar crime, and so far as the courts allow, justice was brought down upon the criminal, but England is the land of Gladstone. It is true that our nation was founded upon the rock of social and religious purity. Is it also true that our present generation has fallen so far below this mark as to face a horrible crime again and again, only to let it slip out unpunished, to be repeated in some unsuspecting town? Can our men excuse themselves thinking, "oh well, we are free from him now, there let the matter end." Is it not the business of the State, of the city, of every individual man to raise his hand to abolish an evil which threatens both individual, city and State?

Perhaps some one reasons that "there are some things about which the least said the better," fearing the poisonous scandal. Is it not a worse poison for these boys and young men to know the crime, for they do, and to know that their own fathers, the men whom they respect and admire, keep silent regarding it, cover it up, or even countenance it. Oh, horrible thing! Where are our men! are they cowards? A Citizeness.

Lookout for Being a Delinquent.

It is this time of year that the person who owes taxes wants to hustle a little and make it a point to see the tax collector. In a few days Collector Bird, or his successor, will publish the names of all delinquent taxpayers, and there are lots of people who would rather pay than to have their names go in print.

CAMARA CAN COAL NOW.

The Egyptian Government Has Granted Him Permission.

CANEY NOW OCCUPIED BY AMERICAN TROOPS.

Revolt in the Caroline Islands Reported at Hong Kong—Insurgents Overcame Feeble Spanish Garrison—Spanish Retreating Before American Advance—Railroad to Santiago Being Rapidly Completed—Siege Guns Landed

CAMARA CAN COAL.

Egypt at Last Granted Him the Long Sought Permission.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Port Said, Egypt, June 30, 1:44 p.m.—The Egyptian government has at last granted the required permission to Admiral Camara of the Spanish fleet to allow his vessels to coal from their transports in Egyptian waters.

SPANIARDS RETREATING.

Gen. Shafter's Troops Will Occupy Caney Now Almost Deserted by Spanish.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Lawton's headquarters, five miles east of Santiago de Cuba, June 29, via Kingston, June 30, 12:10 p. m—The troops of Lawton's division spent yesterday in scouting for the enemy. There were numerous small skirmishes, but none of them proved serious affairs.

General Shafter, with a small escort, went almost to Caney, a few miles north east of Santiago, a point to which the majority of the Spaniards had retreated.

Only a small number of Spaniards now remain there indicating that they are evacuating the place. Gen. Shafter has decided to advance the American forces to that point and take possession.

CANEY OCCUPIED.

Spaniards Evacuated Last Night Under Orders From Linares.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Playa del Este, Cuba, June 29, via Kingston, Jamaica, June 30, 1:43 p. m—The American troops now occupy Caney, two miles northeast of the city of Santiago. Geo. Linares ordered the evacuation of that place last night and the Spanish troops retired to the protection of the city defences.

The evacuation of the Spaniards was discovered this morning and the Americans immediately took possession. It is expected that Gens. Shafter and Lawton will make their headquarters there tonight.

ARMY IN CUBA.

The Lines Slowly Closing In On the Doomed City of Santiago.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

American camp at Juragua, Cuba, June 29, via Kingston, Jamaica, June 30, 12:25 p. m—This camp will probably be held at headquarters for the medical and commissary departments after Gen. Shafter leaves for the front.

A sufficient force, probably from the volunteer regiments, will be left on guard to protect the camp from any sudden attack.

Six thousand men are now on their way here from Tampa to reinforce Shafter's present army. Practically the entire fighting force will be swung into Caney and Aguagores, making a base of operations at those places.

The railroad to Santiago is being rapidly pushed forward by the engineers and a large force of troops. Its completion will greatly simplify the movement of the supplies. The siege guns landed at Baiquiri last night have been started for the front.

REVOLT IN CAROLINES.

Hong Kong Advices Say That the Insurgents Easily Overcame Spanish Garrison.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Vancouver, Canada, June 30, 12:25 p. m.—Advices just received from Hong Kong say that the natives on the Caroline Islands have revolted against Spanish rule.

The Spanish garrison on the islands was small and ill-equipped. The revolt was reported to be sudden. The Spanish troops were almost helpless and made little resistance.

The insurgents were soon in control, and are reported now to be arranging some of government independent of the Spanish rule.

NOW FOR SPAIN.

Watson's Eastern Squadron Ordered to Sail for Spain Monday.

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Washington, June 30, 2:09 p. m—Orders were sent to Commodore Watson today instructing him to take the command of the Eastern Squadron and sail against the Spanish coast Monday.

Another Battle?

(From the Union Associated Press.)

Cape Haytien, Hayti, June 30, 1:50 p. m.—Furious cannonading far to the northward has been heard here all the morning.

BIDS TO BUILD NEW HOSEHOUSE.

Arthur Brothers' Offer of $5,550.88 Was the Lowest.

A meeting of the fire and building committee was held last night for the purpose of opening the bids for the new hosehouse which may be erected in the West End. Arthur Brothers were the lowest bidders. Their bids for all the work connected with the house is $5,550 88 Tonight, at the meeting of the Council, the matter will be acted upon.

Other bids are as follows; George J. Tobin, plumbing and heating, $869. James Dawe, $5,700 75. John Abbott, carpenter work, painting, tinning and electric wiring, $1,992. Seaman Williams & Co., mason work, $3,862. Wyman & Haberle, $5,854. William H. Pangborn, $5,824. William H. Brokaw, $5,953. Pierson & Gayle, $5,798. George Cobb, hot water heating, $427. A. B. Thorn, plumbing, hot water heat, gas fitting, tinning, cornices and sky lights, $1,029.24.

Arranging for the Sociable.

A meeting of the chairmen of the different social committees from the societies in the Christian Endeavor Local Union was held in the lecture room of the First Baptist church last night. The chairmen of the various committees to arrange for the coming lawn festival and social were appointed as follows: Reception committee, L. H. Bigelow, Jr.; decoration committee, E. E. Anthony; refreshment committee, Miss Grace Petrie. A programme, consisting of recitations and music, was arranged.

Won Many Medals.

George Proctor Smith, of the High School, probably has won more medals in athletic events than any other man in the city. Over forty of those he has won are on exhibition in J. Hervey Doane's show window.

THE 'PLAINS TERROR BROUGHT TO BROOK.

Young Thomas Sellers Committed Highway Robbery.

HE IS ONLY 14 YEARS OLD.

JUSTICE CLARK HELD HIM FOR THE GRAND JURY.

His Career Has Been One of Thrilling Escapades — Assaulted a Seven-Year-Old Girl and Robbed a Young Boy of Charles Krammer—He Will Probably Be Sent to Reform School

[Special to The Daily Press.]

Scotch Plains, June 30—A modernized fourteen-year old Duval, who has been causing a reign of terror in Scotch Plains and Fanwood for some time past among the youthful inhabitants, was brought to brook last night, and is now languishing in the Union County Jail awaiting the action of the next Grand Jury, on the charge of assault upon a young girl of seven years and highway robbery upon a young boy, both the children of Charles Krammer.

Thomas Sellers is the name of this terror. His arrest thus far has been one of degrees toward State Prison. Ever since he was old enough to toddle he has declined to obey or be disciplined by his parents—worthy old German people.

His latest escapade occurred a few days ago. He renewed his deviltry then by attacking little Miss Krammer, grabbing her as she was passing along the road and throwing her down. The girl's wits were almost frightened from her. Her screams attracted the attention of several people and young Sellers made off in a hurry.

He kept out of sight for a couple of days and then Tuesday appeared on the scene again by intercepting Krammer's son, who was returning from Meyer's store along Westfield avenue. The houses are some distance apart at that point and the young desperado attacked the little fellow, knocked him down and made him give up twenty five cents that his mother had given him to purchase some articles that she needed.

The Krammer boy went home and told a tearful tale of the cruelties practiced upon him by Sellers. Incensed beyond measure by the action of the youthful robber, Krammer went before Justice Clark yesterday and swore out a warrant against Sellers for assault upon his daughter and highway robbery upon his son. The culprit was arraigned last night and put on a bold front. He did not seem to realize the enormity of his acts.

Justice Clark knew that he was too young to be sent to prison, but in order that he might eventually be committed to the State Industrial School at Jamesburg, he held him for the Grand Jury on the preferred charges. He was taken to Elizabeth this morning.

DR. COLES' THRILLING RUNAWAY.

Coop d Up in a Hack He Had to Take the Consequences.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 30—Dr. J. Ackerman Coles, the well-known Newark physician, who resides here, had the unpleasant and dangerous experience yesterday of being cooped up in a hack while his horse was running away, and being compelled to set there and take the consequences, which looked serious. The doctor was being driven from his home to the station, and as the coachman, Joseph Mercer, went to turn from Mountain avenue into Park avenue he collided with a heavily loaded stone wagon.

Dr. Coles' horse commenced to rear and plunge from fright and before he had gone very far the coach toppled over on its side with Dr. Coles imprisoned in it. The horse kicked himself loose from the carriage and ran wildly down the street. Fortunately for the doctor he was only severly shaken up by the accident, and was able to pry open the door of the coach and crawl out. The coachman was quite seriously hurt by being thrown out of the seat.

M. Quinn's Storage Rooms.

Michael Quinn, of East Fourth street, has just had his storage house freshly painted. These storage rooms are among the best in the city, being light, dry, well ventilated and always clean. The roof is slated and the sides of the building tinned. Mr. Quinn still has a few rooms to let. All the rooms are seperate, with keys for the lessee to carry, and one man's goods are in this way kept distinct from another's.

DEDICATING A CHURCH.

SERIES OF SERVICES BEING HELD AT BOUND BROOK THIS WEEK.

Presbyterians Replace the Edifice Which Was Destroyed by Fire During the Disastrous Flood Three Years Ago.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, June 30—The dedicatory services of the new Presbyterian church in Bound Brook were begun last evening with a service held in the new edifice. The church was first opened Monday night with an organ recital by C. Wenham Smith, late of the Plymouth church, Brooklyn, assisted by Miss Lottie C. Elverson, soprano, and Paul Petry, baritone.

The service last evening was presided over by Rev. Walter A Brooks, of Trenton. Before introducing him, Rev. T.E. Davis, pastor of the church, gave a short sketch of the history of the church. A colony of Scotch Presbyterians came to Bound Brook in 1684. There is no record of their having any house of worship until about 1690, before which time they rode horseback to Woodbridge on Sundays to attend church there. The date of the first Presbyterian church in Bound Brook is not known.

In 1725, the second edifice was erected. Two others were erected on the same site successively in 1760 and 1829. The latter was used as a house of worship until February 6th, 1896, when it was destroyed by fire at the time of the great flood in Bound Brook. The new building is the fifth.

Prayer was made by Rev. A. A. Murphy, of New Brunswick, and addresses by Rev. Dr. J. W. Rogan, of Flemington, Rev. Dr. W. W. Knox, of New Brunswick, and Rev. Dr. S. M. Studdiford, of Trenton, all members of the New Brunswick Presbytery.

The report of the church treasurer, William H. Brokaw, showed that the new church has cost nearly $35 000, all of which, but $1,800, had been raised.

The formal dedicatory services will be held this afternoon, and will be followed tonight by a service for the young people at which several prominent Christian Endeavorers will speak. Rev. Dr J. Clement French, of Newark, will be present.

FORMER FREEHOLDER MARRIED

Robert Zerzieble Takes Miss Kate Williams for a Wife.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Warrenville, June 30—The marriage of Miss Kate Williams to Robert Zerzieble, both of this place, was celebrated last evening at the home of the groom. Those present at the wedding included only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The ceremony was performed by the Congregational minister of Coontown. The bridemaid was Miss Williams, a sister of the bride, and the best man was Mr. Williams, a brother of the bride.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall, where a large number of people from all parts of the county were present. Among the guests were nearly all of the members of the Somerset County Board of Freeholers. Dancing was a feature of the occasion and the festivities were continued until a late hour.

The groom had newly furnished his home already for occupancy and he and his wife will go to housekeeping at once. The groom was a former member of the Board of Freeholders and is very popular throughout the county. His wife is also a highly-esteemed woman and has a host of friends.

Returns to Work.

E. E. Anthony, of 444 West Front street, who was compelled early in March to give up his position as clerk in the Union Marine Insurance Company office, 51 Wall street, New York, on account of head trouble, caused by too close application to business, has been persuaded by the company to again take up his position for a few hours a day until he gets stronger in health. He will return to his duties tomorrow.

Funds for Calvary Church.

The Board of Trustees of the Calvary Baptist church are in hopes that before long they will be able to commence to build a new church. Last Sunday was rally day and during the past thirty days the sum of $318 22 has been raised, through the efforts of Rev. Scott Wallace, of Belmar. During the past two months that Mr. Wallace has been with the people he has raised $500.

Many New Signers.

The new court of Independent Order of Foresters met last evening and secured fifteen new signers. The court will meet again July 20th.

Mrs. Carman, of Elmwood place, will return from Spring Valley, N. Y., this week, where she has been attending the funeral of her brother.

TO FURNISH THE STAMPS

LIBERAL ACTION TAKEN BY THE CENTRAL RAILROAD.

They Will Provide Shippers With the Stamp to be Affixed to Freight Receipts—Comes as a Pleasant Surprise.

Already the citizens of Plainfield are beginning to see that the provisions of the War Revenue Law, which takes effect tomorrow, is going to reach everybody One of the provisions states that for all goods sent by freight a receipt must be issued by the railroad company to which a one-cent internal revenue stamp must be affixed.

It was generally supposed by the local expressmen and those who are accostumed to shipping goods in any quantity that the shipper would have to bear the tax. The officials of the Jersey Central Railroad have given them a surprise, however, in the circular that has just been sent to all the freight agents along the line. Station Agent J. A. Haynes, of this city, just received his notification today that the railroad company has decided to bear the tax for its customers.

The instructions of the company are to the effect that the company will furnish the one-cent internal revenue stamps for one shipping receipt in every case. Where the shipper requires one or more duplicates, they will be furnished him at his own expense. No goods will be shipped without a shipping receipt being issued.

THE Y. M. C. A. CAMP.

A Fine Place for Young Men to Spend Their Summer Vacation.

The Y. M. C. A. camp at Northfield, Mass., opens today and closes September 1st. The camp will be in a grove of pines and birches on the lower slope of Notch Mountain, directly east of the village, near at hand and yet secluded. The swimming float on the Connecticut is within a mile, the fine tennis courts and baseball field used by the students are about midway, and near the auditorium, tents 12x25, accommodating four, furnished with cots, mattresses, pillows and looking-glasses, can be had at $2 per week for each tent. Any group of young men bringing their own tent can be assigned location without expense. Those who wish to do their own cooking can get groceries, meat, bread, etc., from the stores at Northfield, and milk from the farms near at hand. Board at the camp dining-room (plain, but good, wholesome food in abundance, and well cooked) will be furnished at $3.50 per week, making the total charge $4 per week each with four in a tent.

Young men, whether or not members of any Young Men's Christian Association, are invited. Many employes of city business houses, and others whose vacation is limited by time and expense, find physical and spiritual recreation while camping here.

The young men of the encampment are always welcome to attend all platform meetings of the several conventions held in the auditorium. However, each camper will be entirely at liberty to attend such services as he desires.

Very favorable railroad rates have heretofore been secured from such centres as New York, Boston and Troy, and it is expected that similar ones will be had this year.

Queen City Elects.

At the last meeting of Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F. officers were elected as follows: Noble grand, Floyd Fuller; vice grand, J. B. Brown; corresponding secretary, R. J. Neal. Other officers will be appointed by the noble grand at the installation which occurs in July. The lodge will not meet next Monday night, on account of its being the Fourth.

Herold Pleads Not Guilty.

Roy Herold, who was arrested Tuesday afternoon for raising a rumpus in a West Third street saloon, as told in last night's Press, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before City Judge DeMeza yesterday afternoon, and was held in $100 bail for trial Saturday morning.

To Erect a Gospel Tent.

Two gentlemen from out of town were looking about for a suitable place where they could erect a tent in which to hold gospel services this summer. They seemed pleased with the vacant lot across from the Rink, on Watchung avenue, and may locate there.

To Build a Handsome Residence.

E. E. Marshall, the North avenue dealer in paints, has plans out for a handsome residence to be erected very soon on Verdon avenue, in the borough. The dwelling will cost about $3,000. Mr. Marshall will build to sell.

COSTLY SORT OF PRANKS

MALICIOUS WORK OF BOYS IN A HOUSE BEING BUILT.

Defaced the Walls With Daubs of Paint and Played Havoc in Other Ways—Four of the Gang Arraigned.

It was lots of fun, while it lasted, for a gang of young hoodlums to play havoc with the walls and woodwork of a new house which is in course of erection at the corner of East Sixth and Berkman streets. The house is in charge of a contractor, who has been annoyed for weeks by the pranks which t is gang have been playing upon him. The contractor bore it in silence until Tuesday night when the gang broke into the house and destroyed more property with their so-called fun than can be put in order again in many hours' hard work.

This morning four lads, who are suspected of being the ringleaders in the affair, were ordered to appear before City Judge DeMeza. The boys are Adam Fulmer, Alex. Boyd, James McGanley and Bert Smith, all of whom live in that neighborhood. Owing to the sudden calling away of the City Judge, the case had to be laid over until tomorrow morning.

Jacob M. Higgins, a plasterer, is the complainant. Tuesday night, he says, after the workmen went home the boys began their fun. The spirit of mischief must have run wild for, instead of playing tag and other harmless games, they seized paint brushes and sticks and scratched their initials on the hard finished walls, changing their pure whiteness to a light red and green. They emptied pails of water into the men's tool-bags and on the floor, which ran through and saturated the ceiling below. A barrel of lime was destroyed and they defaced the woodwork.

When the workmen came to work yesterday morning they were angry through and through. Higgins notified the police, who started in to investigate. The clues were plain to be seen, for there upon the white walls were many sets of initials, "A. F.," "A. B.," "B. S.," etc. which the police soon lengthened out into the owners' names and swooped down upon these four youngsters, who are said to be connected with the affair. They are not the only ones, and more arrests are likely to follow.

William H. Brokaw, the carpenter, who is building a house on West Sixth street near Grant avenue, has also had trouble with boys. They play their pranks about his house, deface the white walls and stairs and destroy the men's work.

ELEVEN PLAINFIELD VOLUNTEERS.

All in Third Regiment—Companies They are Assigned To.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Camp Voorhees, Sea Girt, N. J., June 30—A detachment of eleven young men from Plainfield have joined the ranks of the Third Regiment of New Jersey Volunteers after successfully passing the necessary examinations. The Plainfield recruits are divided among the different companies as follows: Company B, John J. LaMaire and Edward Prentice; Company E, Daniel N. Shea, Frank H. Haurand, Isaac L. Giles, John W. Morecra't, J. Swick, Fred Frey and John Staats; Company H, H. J. McCormick and Richard Hoffman.

They all came to Sea Girt Monday and passed a splendid physical examination and were mustered in yesterday morning. It is supposed that they will be sent to Fort Hancock, Sandy Hook, shortly to join the Third Regiment, and will subsequently go to Manila. The boys are enjoying camp life, but are anxious to get to the front as soon as possible.

A Spookish Looking Character.

Last evening a short time after dark a strange person was seen wandering about several yards on Duer street between Craig place and Lincoln place. It was thought that the person was a man dressed up in woman's clothes. Whoever the person was residents in the neighborhood frightened the spook away. So far as can be learned nothing was taken.

At the W. C. T. U. Rooms.

The W. C. T. U. rooms will be open all day and evening July 4th. Lemonade, sandwiches and iced coffee will be served free. Daily papers and magazines will be easy of access, and two song services will be held during the day and evening. Evangelist Graham, who has been located at Fort Hancock, will make an address.

A Lawn Party.

A lawn party was given by Miss Libbie Joseph at her home on East Sixth street Tuesday evening, in honor of her guest, Miss Hattie Brown, of Scranton, Pa. Croquet by Chinese lantern light was enjoyed. The first prizes in the game were won by Miss Brower and J. R. Giles. A dance followed.

MYRTLE TWIG WINS AT SOMERVILLE MEET.

Took Three Straight Heats in 2:25 Class Yesterday.

AFTERNOON OF FINE RACING

IT WAS OPENING DAY OF THE MEET OF SOMERSET DRIVING CLUB.

The Three Events of the Afternoon Were Won in Straight Heats—"Woven Wind" Divided Fourth Money—Judge Coddington's "Belle" Finished Second in Road Wagon Event—Plainfield Entries.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 30—The horsemen of the Somerset Driving Club were favored with delightful weather for the opening day of their race meet yesterday afternoon, held at the fair grounds in this city. While the three events were all won in straight heats, they were close enough to furnish plenty of enthusiasm for the finishes. The track was in good condition and the weather all that could be wished. An audience numbering one thousand gathered to see the sport.

Plainfield carried off her full share of honors and was well represented by a dozen horses from various Plainfield stables. The meet was the second in the circuit of the Central New Jersey Driving Association, the first meet in which was held in Plainfield last week.

Tom Brantingham carried off three straight heats with "Myrtle Twig" in the 2:25 class. The bay mare held her pace in great shape and won out in the first heat from her old rival, "Hattie Walters." The latter made a game race for the heat, but after that apparently lost all life, finishing fourth. "Woven Wind" went well and divided fourth money with Sweet's entry.

There were no Plainfield entries in the 2:35 class for the pacers, but a close race resulted. "Prince S.," a New Brunswick horse, carried off first honors after a close contest with "John L."

The special for road wagons, 2:28 class, furnished plenty of sport. The contest for first place proved an easy thing for "Shall," of the Belle Mead stable, but the others fought fiercely for the places. Judge Coddington's "Belle" made a strong bid for first place, but she was fairly outclassed. Brower piloted her carefully and held the second place from the start. Fairbairn's roan mare and I. F. Randolph's "Belle Hayes" were among the back horses and fought out with "Consolation" for fourth money. Fairbairn's mare made a good show in the last heat and finished fourth. No very fast time was made in any of the races, although the horses made a creditable showing.

The summaries were as follows:

Hard Words for Women.

Mrs. Carey and Mrs. Mary Kiederling, of East Second street, mother and daughter, are ordered to appear before the City Judge tomorrow morning to answer to a charge of calling a neighbor, Mrs. William Leitheusser, names, and telling her that they "wished the Lord would strike her dead." The language was used in the progress of a quarrel which the three got into.

Young Girls Picnic.

Mrs. Frazee, of West Sixth street, took five little girls of the neighborhood, Bessie, Annie and Hattie Randall, Lucy Coriell and Bessie Wilson, for a long drive in the country yesterday afternoon. The little ones enjoyed the treat very much.

Mr. Dunn Now Manager.

William Dunn, for many years one of George W. Rockfellow's faithful clerks, was promoted last week to the position of manager of the store. Mr. Dunn began his new duties Monday.

READY FOR ATTACK

Shafter Will Strike Before Pando Arrives to Aid Linares.

ARMY IN SPLENDID SHAPE

Thought That the Americans Will Not Wait for More Troops—Shafter Confident He Can Take the City Now—Garcia With 4000 Cubans on the Right—Splendid Condition of the Army—The President Sends His Thanks to Shafter.

Washington, June 30.—General Shafter has reported to the war department that Spanish troops numbering 8,000 with pack trains and cattle are advancing from Manzanillo, and are now within fifty-four miles of Santiago.

General Shafter has also reported to General Miles that he can take Santiago in forty-eight hours, but indicates that the undertaking might involve considerable loss. He is fully aware of the approach of Spanish reinforcements and it is believed here that he intends to take the town immediately and that news of a battle may be expected at any time.

To Anticipate Pando.

A number of dispatches have been received from General Shafter covering all the details of the present military situation. Some of them are to the secretary of war, others to Major General Miles. They cover substantially the same ground. It is evidently General Shafter's purpose not to wait for the reinforcements now going forward to him, but to attack before the 8,000 Spanish troops approaching the city from the west can arrive. The statement that they are now but fifty-four miles from Santiago is the most definite information thus far received. It is about 100 miles from Manzanillo, so that the Spanish forces had covered about one-half of the distance at the time they were located by the American officers. This was probably a day or two ago, for General Shafter's dispatch was sent last night, and in the meantime the Spaniards undoubtedly have advanced considerably further.

The droves of cattle which the Spanish army is bringing along shows a purpose to lay in ample fresh meat in anticipation of a siege. This and the pack trains hamper a rapid advance, but even with a bad road the Spaniards probably will make from ten to twenty miles a day. Much reliance had been placed on General Garcia's Cubans to prevent this advancement of reinforcements from the left. But it appears that Garcia's entire force has been withdrawn from the left, and has now been landed with General Shafter's main body on the right of the city.

General Shafter also reports the details of this transfer of Garcia's forces. He says the transfer from Acerraderos covered fifty miles, and that 3,000 of Garcia's troops were landed on the right of the harbor, making in all over 4,000 Cubans concentrated with the American troops on the right of the city. This move was doubtless made before word had reached General Shafter that the Spanish reinforcements were fifty-four miles to the left of Santiago, else it is felt that Garcia's forces would have been kept on the left to hamper the advance of the Spaniards, and if possible hold them back.

Despatches Received by Secretary Alger.

Washington, June 30.—The war department posted the following dispatch yesterday on the bulletin board:

Playa del Este, June 28.

Hon. Russell A. Alger, Secretary of War:

Off Siboney, June 27.—The graves of the dead are marked so that there will be no mistake in identification. The health of the command is reported to me by the surgeons as remarkable, outside of the wounded. There are to-day less than 150 men sick. So far no wounded have died, and but two men of disease since leaving Tampa.

SHAFTER,
Major General Commanding.

The war department also gave out the following cable correspondence:

War department, Washington, June 25.—Major General Shafter commanding: The president directs me to send his thanks to you and your army for the gallant action of yesterday, which I gladly do.

R. A. ALGER,
Secretary of War.

Baiquiri, Cuba, June 26.

Hon. Secretary of War, Washington:

Sincere thanks to the president for his congratulations.

SHAFTER,
Major General.

The New Transports.

Washington, June 30.—Major Hopkins and Agent Hecker of the war department have returned from New York, where they have been for several days looking after transports.

Two of the vessels recently purchased, the Mohawk and Mississippi, are almost ready for service. The first will sail on Saturday and the second on Monday from New York. Both have been fitted to carry cavalry.

The Mohawk will carry 1,000 and the Mississippi 800.

It is understood that they will be sent South immediately to carry forces to Santiago. The regiment of cowboys under Colonel Torrey will probably sail on one of these vessels from a Florida port.

The Rising in Turkestan.

St. Petersburg, June 30.—Chief Mahomedali Khalif and five other ringleaders of the attack recently made by 1,000 natives on a Russian post, garrisoned by 300 infantry, at the town of Andijan, Turkestan, in which twenty of the soldiers were killed and eighteen others wounded, have been publicly hanged.

Tea Cargo Came too Late.

Port Townsend, Wash., June 30.—The Northern Pacific liner Columbia has arrived, fourteen days from Kobe, Japan, with a large cargo of tea, from the time she sailed with all possible speed in order to reach the United States before the duty of 10 cents per pound on tea went into effect. It is estimated that the duty on her cargo will exceed $400,000.

FROM THE ENEMY'S POINT OF VIEW.

How Havana Hears the News from Santiago and Elsewhere

Havana, June 30.—It is said at the palace of the captain general here, the headquarters for official news, that the American forces are finding difficulty in advancing upon Santiago de Cuba.

It is claimed that they followed the railroad track to Jaragua from the mines situated a short distance from the coast between Siboney and Aguadores, but were unable to reach the latter place in spite of the protection afforded by the fire of the American warships.

The commander of the Spanish gunboat Ardilla reports that while reconnoitring on June 26, at Coloma, Punta Cortes, and other places at Coyaela, he was informed that a strange steamer with one smokestack, apparently a warship of 3,000 tons, was in sight. The stranger soon caught sight of the Ardilla and pursued her.

The gunboat kept within the blue sea and succeeded in keeping out of range of the guns of her pursuer. To the southeastward the stranger, which turned out to be an American ship, appeared to be in company with several other vessels.

The Ardilla made a reconnoisance on the following day, June 27, and discovered that the American ship had captured the sloops Nomesia of Batabano, Province of Havana, Amistad and Manuelita, of Colma, province of Pinar del Rio, and the pilot boats Luz and Jacinto. It is claimed when the sloops were sighted the American ships hoisted the Spanish flag, which caused Joaquin Fernandez, the pilot of the Luz, to hoist the Spanish flag, believing he had to do with a Spanish warship. The pilot also approached the American vessel, and did not find out his mistake until the latter fired a blank shot and afterwards fired loaded shells at the pilot boat.

The shells, it is claimed, exploded near her. The American ship by this time seems to have driven the Spanish craft into a bunch, including the Luz, Jacinto, Amistad, Nemesia and Manuelita. The latter, it is further alleged, let go their anchors and were abandoned by their crews, who made for the shore, going in the direction of Punta de Piedras, on the southwestern extremity of Pinar del Rio, between the Isle of Pines and the mainland.

The commander of the Nemesia, with one of his crew, remained on board his sloop and was captured and taken on board the American ship. Later he was set at liberty after having been questioned regarding the Spanish fleet and the general situation of affairs.

The American ship is described as carrying one gun forward, another at her stern and four guns on each side. She is said to have been commanded by a "frigate captain," and to have "carried about six hundred men with blue pants and red fringe," who said they were going to Cuba and afterwards to Key West.

Correspondent Marshall's Condition.

New York, June 30.—A cable dispatch from near Santiago says Edward Marshall, the newspaper correspondent, who was shot twice in the charge of Roosevelt's Rough Riders, is improving. He is on the hospital ship Olivette and everything possible is being done to save his life.

Several pieces of bone have been removed from the patient's spine. Two of the doctors attending him declare he will recover.

A Message from Hobson.

Birmingham, Ala., June 30.—The Age Herald prints a special dispatch from Greensboro, Ala., the home of Judge Hobson, father of the hero of the Merrimac, giving a cablegram received from his son at Santiago yesterday.

The cablegram reads:

"Santiago de Cuba, June 28.

"My health continues good. Feel no uneasiness about me."

MORAL EFFECT OF PRUNES.

Said to Have a Soothing Effect on the Nerves—Useful as a Medicine.

European authorities on dietetics are discussing the discovery of "a well-known physician of Chicago," who claims that he has proved the prune to be a moral agent. He says that he has made the prune the subject of special study and has conducted a series of experiments with a view to testing the prune as a preventive of crime. At one time connected with a school for the reform of unruly boys who had rebelled against all former attempts to civilize their conscience, he fed them for a week once a day, and at the end of that time they were mild-mannered and bidable. The prune, he claims, has a certain medicinal property which acts directly on the nervous system, which is where the evil passions have their seat.

However good the physician may make his claim, one thing is certain, that the prune in Germany has been a household medicine for the last half century. There is daily at the disposal of the members of the family a stone jar of very nicely cooked prunes, from which the household eat a few at any time in the day, dipping into it, as one may say, as a lady in France does her ornamented box holding sugared almonds.

It is well to know that for grip prunes made into a drink are very good food and medicine for the patient. They are prepared for medical practice and nursing thus: They must be of a good (but not "fancy") quality, washed in a sieve under running water. Then put them in a basin and cover with cooled boiled water closed from air and dust, allowing them to stand until swollen. Then cover them tight in the same basin and let them simmer for three hours. They will be sweet enough.

The prune drink for fever is made in the same way, but to every pint of prunes a quart of boiled water should be added and they should be allowed to simmer to rags. Strain and then give the patient to drink. Lemon juice may be added if desired.—Chicago Times-Herald.

SPANIARDS OBSTINATE

Madrid Claims the Struggle at Manilla Will Be Desperate.

NEWS FROM MANY SOURCES

Spanish Believe German Warships Will Prevent Shelling of City by Dewey—Merritt Expects to Reach Manila About July 25—His Installation as Governor General to Be Simple—Our Sailors Suffering from Lack of Fresh Food.

Madrid, June 30.—Dispatches received from Manila yesterday under date of June 24 say the Spaniards are determined to fight to the death and that there is every reason to believe that when the American troops arrive desperate fighting will occur on land and sea.

It is supposed at Manila that the German warships will prevent the bombardment of that place, and it is alleged that Prince Henry of Prussia is on his way there on board a warship.

The Spaniards are said to be actively pushing preparations for the defence of the city. General Aguinaldo, the leader, declares that the family of General Augusti, who are prisoners in his hands, are at Panapanga and are well treated.

San Francisco, June 30.—Major General Merritt sailed yesterday for the Philippines. He expects to reach Manila by July 25 or August 1, at the very latest. Before his arrival General Greene will have consulted with Admiral Dewey as to the advisability of making a joint attack on Manila.

General Merritt's installation as governor general will be attended with as little ceremony as possible.

In his proclamation he will assure the people that forms of worship and churches will not be interfered with. This will be made clear, as will also the fact that property is not to be confiscated, in order to offset representations to the contrary which have been made by the agents of Spain.

Dewey Protects a Spanish Captain.

Port Townsend, Wash., June 30.—According to advices brought from Japan by the steamship Columbia, which has arrived here, considerable indignation prevails among American sailors at Manila over the treatment of the captain of the Spanish gunboat Callao, which sailed into Manila bay about a week after the battle and was captured by Dewey's fleet. The Spaniards claimed he showed cowardice in not returning the fire of the Americans. After giving him a Spanish court martial he was sentenced to be shot, but Commodore Dewey came to his rescue and took him under the protection of the American government.

Hundreds of people in Manila are using every effort to leave and are offering $500 and $600 for transportation. As the time draws near for the arrival of the American soldiers, the residents of Manila are becoming more restless.

Another source of anxiety, in the case of the bombardment of Manila, is what the Spaniards will do with their women and children. They cannot be sent to the interior as there they would become the prey of the rebels. It is stated that an appeal will be made to the British consul to make arrangements for their removal in case of bombardment.

Since leaving Mirs Bay, on April 27, the American fleet has been unable to obtain fresh provisions and the men have been living on salt fare. Notwithstanding this, there is no sickness among the crews and all are patiently waiting for orders to take possession of Manila.

The Spanish soldiers are anxious to meet the American troops in battle. They are well armed with Mauser rifles and Captain General Augusti says every one will fight with desperation to maintain the honor of Spain.

Dewey's men tried to destroy a bridge but had to retreat, as the Spaniards outnumbered them. They say the troops from San Francisco will get a warm reception as Spain has a large number of soldiers in Manila.

San Francisco, Cal., June 30.—It is believed that the steamers Peru, City of Puebla, City of Acapulca and State of California will constitute the fleet for the fourth expedition to the Philippines.

Information was received from Washington to the effect that the Alameda, due here yesterday from Australia, would not be impressed into the government service.

Fifth Expedition Probable.

It is said that a fifth and final fleet of transports will leave this port within a month and the only United States troops left here will be those assigned the duty of home defence.

Tacoma, Wash., June 30.—It is reported that the Pacific Coast Steamship Company's steamer Umtilla will be impressed as a Manila transport. She can accommodate from 800 to 1,000 troops, besides carrying 800 tons of freight.

Report of Gen. Shafter to Gen. Miles.

Washington, June 30.—General Shafter has reported to General Miles that he can take Santiago in forty-eight hours, but indicates that the undertaking might involve considerable loss. He is fully aware of the approach of Spanish reinforcements, and it is believed here that he intends to take the town immediately, and that news of a battle may be expected at any time.

Gone, but Where?

Montreal, June 30.—Lieutenant Carranza, chief of the Spanish bureau in this city, has been missing since Monday and the Star announces that he has left the city, but that as far as can be ascertained he has not returned to Spain.

Merritt Sails for Manila.

San Francisco, June 30.—The steamship Newport, with General Merritt on board, sailed yesterday for the Philippines.

Fleet Can't Coal at Port Said.

Cairo, June 30.—The Egyptian government has definitely refused to permit the Spanish fleet to coal at Port Said.

ADMIRAL SAMPSON REPORTS.

Favorably Impressed With Gen. Garcia and With the Progress of Events.

Washington, June 30.—Secretary Long has received a long detailed dispatch from Admiral Sampson covering the movements of the fleet during the past week. The substance of the dispatch was given out in a bulletin yesterday. The following is the text of the bulletin:

On the morning of June 16 the batteries at the entrance of Santiago were subject to a severe bombardment by the fleet. The firing was deliberate and in general most excellent. The batteries were quickly silenced.

On the 15th the Texas, Marblehead and Suwanee destroyed the fort at Guantanamo. On the 16th the Yankee engaged the Spanish gunboat off Cienfuegos.

On the 17th Lieutenant Harlan with two steam launches, one under Cadet Powell and one under Cadet Hart, made an examination of Cabanas bay. The launches were subject to a heavy and continuous fire at short range and were struck seventeen times, although no one was hurt. Lieutenant Harlan, in his report, praises the conduct of Cadets Hart and Powell, Coxswains O'Donnell and Blon.

On the 9th General Garcia and staff visited the flagship, having arrived that morning at General Rabi's camp at Aguadores. My impressions of General Garcia are of the most pleasant character. He is a large, handsome man, of frank and most engaging manners, and of most soldierly appearance. The fleet has, at my direction, furnished arms, clothing and food to the Cuban forces both east and west of Santiago. Much has been done in this direction at Guantanamo by Commander McCalla, who has been most energetic in rendering them all assistance possible.

Great activity and courage have been shown by the Cuban troops at Guantanamo and Commander McCalla is most eulogistic in reference to their conduct. There are about 10,000 Cuban forces in this vicinity.

On the 20th the army transports arrived and General Shafter and I paid a visit to Generals Garcia and Rabi. The process of disembarkation was rendered difficult by heavy seas, the heaviest which we have had during the three weeks the fleet has been stationed here. By three in the afternoon, however, 4,000 men were ashore and the camp was proceeding with great rapidity.

The pier was not injured and one of the steamers went alongside of it. The water supply was not injured. The Vesuvius has done almost nightly firing since she has been here. The explosion of the shells produces a very great effect.

SAMPSON.

AN AERIAL TORPEDO.

Lieut. Grandon Claims to Have Made an Important Discovery.

London, June 30.—The Daily Mail publishes an interview with Lieutenant Grandon, describing his alleged invention of a torpedo system that will revolutionize naval warfare. Lieutenant Grandon claims that his system will increase the effective range of torpedo boats to six thousand yards by the use of aerial torpedoes charged with an explosive more powerful than dynamite.

He asserts that he has received a letter from President McKinley saying that the American war and navy departments have been directed to investigate his system.

Degrees for McKinley and Black.

New Haven, June 30.—The honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred yesterday by Yale University upon William McKinley, president of the United States.

Hanover, N. H., June 30.—Dartmouth College yesterday conferred the honorary degree of doctor of laws on Governor Frank S. Black, '75, of New York.

A NEW SPANISH FLEET.

It is to Be Formed of Cruisers and Collected at Cadiz.

Madrid, June 30.—According to an announcement printed yesterday the queen regent intends to immediately sign a decree providing for the formation at Cadiz of an auxiliary cruiser division.

It will consist of the Alfonso XIII, Joaquim del Polago, Cindad de Cadiz and Meteor.

Died at the Age of 117.

Scranton, June 30.—Patrick Haggins, said to be the old st man in Pennsylvania, died here Tuesday night aged 117 years.

His age is authenticated by records and certificates, which show that he was born in county Londonderry, Ireland, November 1, 1781. Mr. Haggins's father died at the age of 111 years and his mother at 107.

Senate Honors Hobson and Crew.

Washington, June 30.—The Senate has adopted the resolution extending the thanks of Congress to Naval Constructor Hobson, but with an amendment including the names of his crew.

Yale College Commencement.

New Haven, Conn., June 30.—The 198th annual commencement of Yale University was held yesterday and a class of more than 700 graduated. The procession formed at 10 o'clock within the academic quadrangle and moved from the college yard across the city green and back to the chapel.

Water Supply Cut Off.

Siboney, Province of Santiago de Cuba, June 28, via Kingston, Jamaica, June 30.—It is reported here on apparently good authority that the water supply of Santiago de Cuba has been cut off. If this proves true the city is at our mercy.

For Agricultural Colleges.

Washington, June 30.—Secretary Bliss has approved a recommendation of the Commissioner of Education that each state and territory be given $24,000 for the support of agricultural and mechanical colleges during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1899.

PREPARING TO LEAVE

REGIMENTS ORDERED OUT

Orders Issued to the Entire First Army Corps to Be Ready to Leave—The Work of Arming and Equipping Will Take Several Days A List of the Regiments Ordered Out The Government is Taking Good Care of Her Soldiers.

Chickamauga, Military Park, June 30.—The order issued Tuesday conveying the information that the entire First Army Corps would be sent to Cuba has doubled the activity here at Camp Thomas. The work of completely equipping and arming the twenty-seven regiments is an immense task for the short time in which it must be accomplished, but it is already in progress and the officials say it will be finished much sooner than is generally believed possible. Everybody in the 27 regiments, from colonels to privates, is bustling and considerably rivalry to be the first to get in shape is seen. It is expected that all under orders will be moving inside of two weeks.

Following are the regiments mentioned in General Brooks's order: 156th Indiana, 168th Pennsylvania, 160th Indiana, Second Wisconsin, Third Illinois, Fifth Illinois, Fourth Pennsylvania, First Kentucky, Third Kentucky, Fourth Ohio, Third Wisconsin, 31st Michigan, First Georgia, Sixth Ohio, First West Virginia, Second Ohio, First Pennsylvania, Ninth Pennsylvania, Second Wisconsin, First Vermont, Twelfth New York, 21st Kansas, Eighth Massachusetts, First South Carolina, Twelfth Minnesota, Fifth Pennsylvania, Fourteenth Minnesota.

The Western and Atlantic and Southern railroad officials have received no orders from the war department to supply cars for the moving of troops from Chickamauga Park to Tampa or some other Southern seaport. The only thing of this sort is a notice from the war department to the local Western and Atlantic officials stating that troops doubtless would be moved South very soon, and suggesting that they make preparations to furnish a large number of cars when the proper time arrived.

An order appointing a court martial board for the First division, Third Corps, has been issued from General Grant's headquarters. Following are the members of the board: Major Alfred O. Kennett, First Missouri; Captain William G. Noble, Fourteenth New York; Captain R. H. Harding, First New York; Captain A. T. Johnson, First Vermont; Captain W. H. Purple, Third Tennessee; First Lieutenant W. S. Robinson, First Missouri; First Lieutenant George W. Clevetand, First Vermont; First Lieutenant Charles Williams, First Vermont; Lieutenant Leroy Brown, Third Tennessee.

Brigadier General Howard Carroll and Major Moore, representing the governor of New York, are in the New York camps inspecting the rations. They talk with the commissary officers and privates, and the result of their investigation so far is that they are thoroughly convinced that the government is taking good care of its soldiers.

Colonel Wilder of the 14th New York has received permission for his regiment to engage in target practice.

Brig. General Waites, formerly of Texas, has assumed command of the Second brigade of the Third division, First Army Corps, relieving Col. Pew, commander of the Ninth Massachu- General Waites. This regiment was transferred to the Second division so that it might be among the regiments to move under the orders received by the First division and First and Second brigades of the First Corps. The entire corps now goes and the regiment setts. Col. Pew returned to the Eighth, can resume its old place.

According to orders received yesterday, the Twelfth New York is restor- [illegible]

The Y. M. C. A. has now twenty tents and more than fifty men at work in Camp Thomas. The average daily attendance at each tent is over 1,000. During the past week over 1,000 men have professed religion in the evangelistic meetings held by the Rev. Mr. Torrey and other delegates.

The government paymasters will in all probability begin their work on Friday. All the pay rolls are now being put in shape. The twenty-seven regiments ordered away will probably be paid before their departure.

LEIUT. BERNADOU ADVANCED

Given Ten Numbers for Conspicuous Gallantry.

Washington, June 30.—The president yesterday sent these nominations to the Senate: William Mahone, collector of customs, Petersburg, Va.

Lieutenant John Bernadou advanced ten numbers for eminent and conspicuous conduct in the battle at Cardenas, May 11, 1898.

BANKER OR BROKER?

Exact Definition of Terms Means a Big Difference in Taxes.

New York, June 30.—There is great perplexity in Wall street regarding the special tax which will have to be paid by persons calling themselves bankers and brokers. The new war revenue law requires bankers to pay an annual tax of $50 on a capital of $25,000 and under, and a tax of $2 additional for each additional $1,000 in excess of $25,000. Brokers, on the contrary, have to pay only a flat tax of $50 per annum.

The members of the exchanges are all inquiring whether they will have to be taxed as bankers or brokers, or both. The law, however, is very clear. Any person paying a tax as a banker does not have to pay a tax as a broker.

COMPLICATIONS AT MANILA.

The Administration Fears Nothing at the Hands of Germany.

In administration circles no alarm is occasioned by the fresh instalment of news which has come by way of London concerning prospective German interference at Manila. The rule appears to be that when American war news is scarce and startling diplomatic moves fall short, the possibilities of the Philippines complication are rehashed with such new coloring added as the current situation may suggest.

Yesterday's budget contained the story that Aguinaldo, the Philippines insurgent chief, is seeking new alliances, and that he is proposing to set up shop for himself independent of any American protection. But in the view of the war department there is nothing new in the Manila situation upon which the fresh lot of German disturbances can be based.

A complete understanding was reached a week or ten days ago between Secretary of State Day and the German minister. Under the terms of that understanding the German admiral at Manila is to be allowed the right to take such measures as he may deem best to protect the German interests at Manila. But under no circumstances are the Germans to be allowed to remain in Manila or upon any part of the Philippine islands except temporarily. The German minister on behalf of his government, repudiated the idea that the emperor contemplated permanent occupancy of any portion of the islands, or any interference with the plans of the United States. This is the view which is taken by the state department.

Shafter to Have 40,000 Men.

Washington, June 30.—A sudden determination by the administration to increase General Shafter's army to 40,000 men has produced the greatest activity in the war department. Messages are going out in all directions to hurry the preparations for the dispatch of reinforcements. The entire Second division of the Fourth Army Corps, under General Snyder, has been ordered to Santiago. It is believed here that the troops have left Tampa and are now on their way to the scene of Shafter's operations. The division is composed of three brigades, with six batteries of artillery, three light and heavy and includes about 9,000 troops.

Orders have been sent to forward General Garretson's brigade, also, and it is probable, if transportation can be secured, it may get under way to-day. This would make 13,000 reinforcements hurrying to Shafter and bring his entire army up to 33,000 men.

If General Snyder's division is on the water it will reach Santiago on Sunday. The fleet of transports carrying the soldiers will be escorted from Key West by a strong force of warships. The First brigade is commanded by Colonel I. Derussey; the Second by General L. H. Carpenter; the Eighth by General R. H. Hall. General Randolph commands the artillery.

The Grand Duchesse and another ship now at Newport News, may be used to carry General Garretson's brigade. The troops will not wait for the Harvard and Yale to return from Santiago.

General Brooke has been ordered to have 15,000 men ready to move to Tampa from Chickamauga at any moment.

Demand Great, Supply Meagre.

New York, June 30.—Men with huge rolls of greenbacks thronged the corridors of the second floor of the American Tract Society building yesterday and formed a line that wriggled in and out of rooms and down the stairs till it almost reached into Nassau street.

The men with the rolls were trying their utmost to get rid of the money and couldn't do it. They represented banks, telegraph companies, drug firms and the largest wholesale houses down town, and they were besieging the offices of the collector of the second internal revenue district for war tax stamps.

But the war tax stamps are tardy. They have not come from Washington and Charles H. Treat, the collector, is obliged to withstand a storm of inquiries propounded by scores of men who invade his office all day long.

Death in the Gold Fields.

Warren, Ohio, June 30.—A letter received here from John Muldoon, a citizen of Johnsonville, this county, who is now in the Alaskan gold fields, says that of the 101 men who left Seattle with him in March, only four survived. Two were drowned and the others perished from cold and hunger.

Fall River Mills To Shut Down.

Fall River, Mass., June 30.—Fourth of July week will witness an independent shut down movement on the part of many cotton manufacturers in this city, the extent of which has not yet been definitely determined, but which will last through the week beginning with the holiday.

Ice for Soldiers.

Jersey City, June 30.—Mrs. Howard Slater of the Heights has started a movement among Jersey City society women looking to the purchase of a huge ice making machine for the New Jersey soldiers at the front.

Troops Embarking at Tampa.

Washington, June 30.—General Miles yesterday received a dispatch from Tampa stating that two divisions of the Fourth Army Corps are embarking for Santiago and will probably sail this evening.

For a Hawaiian Harbor.

Washington, June 30.—The Senate has adopted an amendment to the deficiency appropriation bill, appropriating $145,000 for the purchase of land in Pearl harbor, Hawaiian Islands, and the dredging of a channel.

Lorillard Berzak Wins.

London, June 30.—At the second day's racing of the Newmarket first July meeting the Lorillard-Beresford stables four year old colt Berzak won a plate of 150 sovereigns.

Georgia Democratic Convention.

Atlanta, Ga., June 30.—The state Democratic convention met here Tuesday and put in nomination the ticket chosen at the state primaries June 6, headed by Allen D. Candler for governor.

FOR THE VACATION SEASON.

Subscribers leaving the city for the summer season can have The Daily Press sent to their new address by notifying the buisness office. The address will be changed as often as desired. "Home news" will prove most interesting while you are away.

The Central Not Blameable.

According to the Plainfield Press a freight wreck, which occurred a few days ago on the Central Railroad near that place, was due to the fact that the engineer was asleep at his post, and it is further said that he had been working steadily for thirty-eight hours without sleep. If this latter statement be true in fact it convicts the officials of the Central Railroad Company, not only of inhumanity to their employes, but of disregard of the lives of the company's passengers. If there is any man whose position demands an alert mind, a quick vision, a cool, unruffled apprehension and a general wide-awakeness, it is a locomotive engineer. Upon his vigilance and presence of mind depend the safety of many lives. No doubt the engineer in question knew that he was unfit for work, but he was probably compelled to obey orders. The engineer was the only person injured, so that he has paid the penalty for his lapse in duty. The loss sustained by the railroad company will probably be enough to have paid the wages of another engineer for five years.—Newark News.

It is but justice to the Central Railroad of New Jersey to correct The News in the statement that it was an engineer employed by them who succumbed to the lack of sleep made by overwork and caused the accident. The Daily Press explicitly stated that it was an engineer on a Baltimore and Ohio locomotive who caused the collision. Though the accident occurred on the Central's road they were in no way responsible for it. The train that was run into was a P. & R.

What The News says of a company that will work their men to the point where physical endurance fails, thus involving frightful possibilities of life and limb, is not one bit too harsh criticism. But the censure does not apply to the Central. There is no road in the country which is conducted with more care and thought for the safety of their patrons, as depending upon the ability of the employes to do their work faithfully, than the Central.

Rules of the Road.

Since the wheel has become so frequent in the city streets, it has necessitated many changes and additions in the principles that are commonly known as the "rules of the road." While a horse and carriage have no difficulty in stopping and standing still in the roadway, it is only an expert wheelman who can perform a similar act on a wheel. It would prevent many accidents and do away with an unlimited amount of profanity if drivers would only glance behind them before stopping suddenly or turning out. In crowded thoroughfares it often happens that wheelmen are compelled to ride closely behind vehicles, and a sudden halt or turn may cause a collision or an unpleasant scare for the rider. There are many Plainfield drivers who seem to have no idea that the wheelman has any rights on the road whatever. Sometime an outraged cyclist may forcibly impress the fact on their minds.

A Mindful Congressman.

Congressional Representative Loudenslager is sending out a circular letter to all the postmasters in his district, suggesting that they have on hand such stamps as may be required in the carrying out of the revenue law recently passed by Congress. They are requested to ascertain what kind the people need and to apply to Collector Moffett at Camden for a supply. He incloses a copy of the revenue law in each of these letters.

THE VESUVIUS AT SANTIAGO.

The first trial at Santiago showed that the Vesuvius is all that has been claimed for her. Her guns are 13 inch calibre and throw 100 pounds of gun cotton a distance of two and one-half miles. With a charge of 500 pounds of gun cotton the guns have an effective range of one mile.

Recent Railway Statistics.

No measure more surely compasses a nation as a civilized and civilizing factor than its railway development. By this standard as by nearly every other the United States leads the world, even relatively to population, for it is not merely the railroad, but the use of the railroad, which determines the question. In this country not only is the railway mileage vastly the greatest, but the per capita travel far in the van. Aside from the fact that this is a country of cheap rates and vast distances and that businesses closely interlinked are wide apart geographically, the very energy and volatility of Americans impel to a constant use of the steam car.

The railroad system of the United States includes more than 180,000 miles, exceeding the mileage of all Europe and South America combined, being five times that of Germany, five times that of Great Britain, four times that of France, six times that of Austria-Hungary and 12 times that of Russia. Of the continental nations, Spain is of course the most insignificant in its railroad system, and Belgium is the greatest in proportion to area. Australia has 14,000 miles of railroad and Africa 9,500. Within the next five years it is nearly certain, however, that British enterprise will complete a road from Cape Town to Cairo, which will then be the longest road in the world, not excepting the great Transsiberian line now bieng pushed with such energy by the great northern Colossus.

The contrast between the national characteristics of Japan and China is eloquently shown in their railroads. The former country, with about 150,000 square miles of territory and a population of 42,000,000, has a railroad mileage of 2,237, while the Middle Kingdom, with 400,000,000 people and 1,300,000 square miles, has only 124 miles of railroad built, though upward of 1,000 miles is in progress of construction. The ratio of annual travel to the mile of track in Japan is a little more than 30,000, while that in the United States is a little less than 40,000. With this country in the lead, Japan is only second in the world to Great Britain. What a startling comment on the energy and enterprise of a people who only began to build iron highways little more than a quarter of a century since!

To Prevent Vandalism.

The busy and aggressive American has been for the most part too active in the affairs of the present to cultivate the spirit of historic reverence. He is apt to underrate the value of the past. It is easy to understand why this should be a dominant feeling in the newer states of the far west, whose past is not linked to stirring historic events. But it is different in the older commonwealths from the Atlantic to the Mississippi valley. Colonial romance, Revolutionary episodes, the French-English struggle and the agony of the civil war have strewn most of these states with memories and sites of imperishable interest in our development as a people. Relics of these great episodes are fast disappearing. A turning point in public feeling was created by the establishment of national parks on the great battlegrounds of the civil war. There seems to be a recrudescence of the reverent spirit nowadays. Its latest exhibition is the Society For the Preservation of Scenic and Historic Places and Objects, organized by a number of prominent New Yorkers. It will begin its work by the acquisition and protection of Stony Point, the scene of Mad Anthony Wayne's exploit.

It is to be hoped that similar societies will be formed in at least a score of states, where there would be ample field for their work. A nation does not lose one whit of its energy and mastery over the present by conning the lessons of the past. By this it more surely rises to the conception of our wonderful organic growth.

The "nobility" business requires capital even more than running a corner grocery. Another eminent British peer, the Marquis of Huntley, whose ancestors were among the "biggest toads in the puddle" in Scottish history, has just gone into bankruptcy, with assets of £700 against £190,000 liabilities. It is a pity that he is an elderly benedict, or he might gild his title with ambitious American dollars in the shape of a pretty heiress, merchandise of which there is a large export supply in this country.

The Philippine friars threaten the home government that they will leave the islands unless they are more efficiently protected from the natives. If the current accounts of the lives of the clerical Filipinos are one quarter true, it would be "leaving the country for the country's good." But is there not a begging of the question in the demand? It is not a problem of willingness, but of ability to protect the anxious shavelings.

A French writer, speaking of the Dreyfus scandal, which stinks in the nostrils of civilization, sighs, "There are things so shameful that no government can long tolerate them with impunity." He is wrong. France has long tolerated a thing far more shameful, a barbarous system of criminal procedure which considers any prisoner as guilty until he can prove his innocence, a genuine successor of the Spanish inquisition.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The various luxuries which the powers that be at Washington have selected to levy a tax on to raise revenue with which to carry on war with Spain are varied and extensive. The new taxes go into effect tomorrow, and will continue as long as the Government is under extraordinary expense. One item which, though small in separate instances, will aggregate to a large sum, is a tax of one cent on each berth sold in a sleeping car. This tax will fall directly on the sleeping car companies, as they will not raise their rates to patrons to meet the extra expense.

* * * * *

Saturday's terrific wind storm destroyed a tree standing in the yard of William Flanders, at Scotch Plains, that was filled with historic interest. She sprig from which the tree developed was broken off a magnificent willow tree that overhung the grave of Napoleon at St. Helena Island. It was brought to this country by a Frenchman, finally being planted at Scotch Plains. The ground in which it was set was damp and fertile and the Willow sprig thrived remarkably well. As the years went by it eventually became a big tree, affording delightfully cool shade in the summer and protecting the Flanders home from the piercing cold winds in the winter. The heavy wind the other day, however, was too much for the tree to stand and it succumbed to one particularly heavy blast and toppled over. Mr. Flanders has cut off numerous branches and is presenting them to his many friends to be planted by them.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to the Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 30.—This afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock the Junior Epworth League members are holding a lawn social in commemoration of the closing of their meetings for the season. Their guests are the members of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church. All kinds of games are being played and refreshments will be served.

The many friends of W. J. Winges assembled at his home yesterday afternoon and enjoyed with him a "roast pig party" in honor of the celebration of the anniversary of his birthday. The celebrant, always a delightful host, proved yesterday that he is still equal to the occasion for he gave his friends a royal good time. When the guests departed they left their best wishes with Mr. Winges for many happy returns of the day.

Yesterday afternoon Theodore Day, Jr., of Front street, celebrated the seventh anniversary of his birthday, and in honor of the event he entertained a number of his boy and girl friends. The afternoon was passed in playing games and having a general good time, after which refreshments were served in abundance. The young celebrant received a number of very useful and handsome presents from his friends.

The funeral services of the late James Bowyer were held from the house last evening at 7 o'clock. Rev. A. I. Martine officiated. There was a large attendance of relatives and fellow townsmen. The interment took place today at Camden, and Rev. Mr. Martine accompanied the funeral party to that place.

Rev. E. S. Jamison led the prayer meeting at the M. E. church last evening and his subject was "Spots on the Moon." There was a large attendance and the service was of interest.

Next Sunday afternoon Rev. Mr. Woodruff, of the M. E. church, Scotch Plains, will address the Sunday-school scholars of the M. E. church, this place, on missions.

Mr. and Mrs. James Manning, of Trenton, have returned home after a pleasant visit with Mr and Mrs. John Bunyon, of Washington avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Randolph, of Washington avenue, will leave for Quakertown Saturday, where they will remain for several days.

Mrs. Samuel Strickland and son Samuel, Jr., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Day, of Front street.

Miss Virgie Tunison, of Washington avenue, will spend the Fourth of July at her home, Glen Gardner.

Mrs. A. N. Randolph and Mrs. Joseph Apgar were in Plainfield yesterday calling on friends.

Mrs. George Trimmer left yesterday for Point Pleasant, where she will spend the summer.

Mrs. Harry Swackhamer, of Church street, is entertaining relatives from out of town.

Miss Lizzie Hunt will spend the Fourth of July in Brooklyn with friends

Mrs. W. J. Hamilton, Jr., of Westfield, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Bodine.

Lewis Churchill has been visiting friends in New York for a short time.

W. J Hamilton, Jr., is in Washington for a short time on business.

Frank Bowyer was called to Camden yesterday on matters of business.

Frank Stites has returned from a visit with relatives at Metuchen.

Miss Maag, of Plainfield, has been visiting friends in the borough.

Louis Thomas has returned from a visit with New York friends.

Mr. Clark, of Plainfield, was in town on business yesterday.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

New Market, June 30.—The article appearing in the Plainfield News last evening crying an epidemic of diphtheria in this place has aroused the indignation of the best people in town who claim that there is no reason for it. The members of the Jr. O. U. A. M. feel that the publication of such article is inclined to injure the success of the festivities on the Fourth of July, as people will not want to come near the place. The fact is that there are four cases of diphtheria in town and not one of them is really considered to be of a serious nature. To be sure there has been a death, but such is likely to happen anywhere. The physicians in charge do not have any alarming fears that the disease will spread as stated in the News.

During the five years that Rev. Frank Fletcher has been pastor of the Baptist church he has officiated at sixty-five funerals, and during his entire pastorate he has buried 1 200 persons. During the same time he has married 420 couples.

The funeral of the late Miss Jennie Armstrong was held this afternoon from the home of Mrs. Stein. Rev Frank Fletcher officiated. Interment was in Samptown cemetery.

Rev. Y. P. Shapaz, of Persia, will speak at the First Baptist church next Sunday morning on the subject of "Persia, Its Life, Manners and Customs."

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 30—Mayor Kyte, of Fanwood, backed up by the Borough Council, is determined to stop bicycle riding on the sidewalks in the borough The roadbed is now in good condition, and the Mayor has gone to the personal expense of posting notices throughout the borough warning bicycle riders not to use the sidewalks for riding, as all violators will be prosecuted if caught in the act.

All ladies interested in the Public Library are invited to attend a meeting called for tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the library rooms.

Miss Lulu Robison, who has been teaching at Ridgefield Park, is spending her vacation with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Braker sailed yesterday morning from Boston for Europe on the Cunard Line.

Fanwood Council, No. 744, R. A., held an important meeting Tuesday evening.

Frank Allen, who has been quite ill at his home, is once more able to be around.

Goodwill Lodge, No. 101, K. of P., meet in their rooms this evening.

Miss Millie Gaskill, of New Market, is visiting Miss Emma Clark.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Westfield, June 30—The arrangements are about completed for the old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration. The general committee, of which Charles Denman is chairman, have worked hard to make the day's observance a success, and, as there is no other celebration along the Central Railroad, Westfield will no doubt have a large crowd of visitors that day, the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. The programme for the day, as now mapped out, will be as near possible as follows: At sunrise, ringing of bells and firing of cannon under the direction of C. P. Wilcox There will be one salute for each State in the Union and one for those to come—Cuba, Hawaii and the Phillippines At 8 o'clock, the foot, potato, sack and tub races and pie eating contest will take place on Broad street under the direction of Isaac Seeley and J. R. Paterson. The grand bicycle parade, under the marshalship of Dr. F. A. Kinch, local consul of the L. A. W., will start at the corner of Elm and Broad street. The color-bearer will be Lloyd Thompson, and R. I. Townley, George B. Dickerson, A. H. Clark and C. H. Denman will be Dr. Kinch's aides. Following the bicycle division will come "Ye Ancient and Horrible Coaching Party." Prizes will be given for the most horrible-looking rig in the parade. At 10:30 o'clock, the Westfield Club team will cross bats with the strong team from the Volunteer A. C., of New York, and a good game may be expected. At 2 o'clock, the members of Central Council, Jr. O U. A. M., have their turn and they will unfurl a handsome new American flag on their pole at the corner of Broad and Prospect streets. At 2:30 o'clock, the bicycle races will take place under the direction of A. H. Barnett, of the Frank L. C. Martin Cycle Company. The races will consist of a two mile handicap, one mile handicap, one mile open, a scratch race for boys and a slow race for fat men. The entries close this evening. Several Plainfield riders are entered in the mile open. At 3:30 o'clock, the ball game between the Cranford A. C. and the Westfield team will be played. At 7:30 o'clock there will be a grand band concert on the ball grounds, and at dark will be seen the finest pyrotechnic display along the line of the Central Railroad. Cain's Military Band, of Brooklyn, will be present all day to furnish the music.

The Westfield baseball team will go to Springfield Saturday to play the ball team from that place. The stage will leave the clubhouse at 2:30 sharp.

William G. Delamater has purchased from Theodore D. Bushnell the lot at the corner of Kimball avenue and Elm street.

O. N. Swift has sold the handsome brick residence at the corner of Kimball avenue and Elm street to Mrs. Jeanette L. Rice.

A. J. Jimerson has the contract for the mason work on the new house to be erected on Dudley avenue by George B. Webb.

The Fourth of July celebration committee met last evening and completed arrangements for the day's celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Jimerson, and the Misses Jimerson, of First street spent Sunday with relatives at Scotch Plains.

Herbert Pearsall leaves Friday for Lake Hopatcong where he will spend the summer at the Itharel House.

Mr. and Mr. Joseph L. Baker, of New York, were in town Tuesday.

Miss May Leonard, of Hackettstown, is visiting friends in town.

LINCOLN.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Lincoln, June 30.—W. R. Hollingshead, president of the Steel Tool Works Company, has been absent the past few days buying machinery which warrants an increase in the force employed in the near future.

The picnic announced to take place July 4th under the auspices of the Lincoln Social Club, has been postponed until August.

The local nine will play a game of ball with the New Market team July 4th on the home grounds. Game called at 9:30 a. m.

C. W. Reese and wife, of Brooklyn, have been spending a few days with Thomas Wrench and family, on Mountain avenue.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

THE POSTAL SERVICE.

Facts About This Branch of Government Business Not Generally Known.

Editor E. A. Hemstead, of the Meadville, Pa., Journal, who is also postmaster, recently delivered a lecture upon the Postal Service before the students of one of the business colleges of his city.

Mr. Hempstead said that the deficit of the post office department last year was eleven million dollars. If, however, the other departments of the Goverment paid the ordinary rates of postage on what is now carried for them free, there would be no deficit, but a surplus. But ten States showed a surplus last year. They were the New England States, except Maine, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Illinois. New York leads wth a surplus of $4,000,000; Massachusetts is next with 1,400,000; Pennsylvania and Illinois each $800,000. Each of the other 35 States shows a deficit, Ohio, President Mc-Kinley's State, leading with over $3,000,000; Nebraska, Mr. Bryant's State, coming next with$1,400,000—a mere, but amusing coincidence.

The beginning of the modern postoffice is not very far back. Benjamin Franklin was the first postmaster general of the colonies. He had been postmaster general of the colonies before the Declaration of Independence, and postmaster of Philadelphia. His connection with the postoffice and postoffice department of the country began in 1737, and continued until 1777, covering 40 years. It is interesting to note, in connection with Franklin, that when he was postmaster at Philadelphia he was also publisher of the principal newspaper. It is interesting to note, also, that his compensation as postmaster general before the Revolution was rather indefinite. It depended upon the profits of the office. If there were no profits he got no pay. It was not until the end of four years that the office began to be self-supporting. He was exceedingly enterprising and spent a great deal of money besides the receipts from the office. While he was postmaster in Philadelphia, and also publisher of a newspaper, he had the power to send his own newspapers through the mails and exclude all other newspapers, but he was wise enough not to exercise his privilege. He granted the privileges of the mail to all newspaper publishers.

France, which claims to have "taught all nations to live," was really the first country to take up the postal work, as we know it. There was a well defined postoffice department in France as early as 1465, in the reign of Louis XI., and about 1627 they had a registered letter system and a system of transfering money somewhat like what we have to-day in our postal money order system. When we stop to think that we did not establish the system until 1864, we must certainly credit France with the great enterprise in this direction.

The postoffice in all countries except this, from the begnning, has been a royal prerogative. It has been a system which the rulers have first taken into their own hands for their own profit, and if they did not want to conduct it themselves, it was farmed out. Postmasterships were sold to the highest bidder, and postmasterships and other offices were even made hereditary. In this country alone the postoffice has always been conducted for the benefit of the people and for their convenience, and not for profit.

The first money order in this country was issued in 1864. The expres companies have tried to compete with the postoffice, in a way, in the money order business, but not with much success.

There are about eight billion letters handled by the postoffice departments of the world in a year. The United States monopolizes four billion, or one half the letters of the world, although it has but one-twentieth the population of the world. This shows the standing of our country in intelligence as nothing else can.

The right of withdrawal of letters after they had been deposited in the postoffice was referred to. In this country it is the property of the sender until delivered, and may be withdrawn even at a distant point by telegraph, upon application to the postmaster at the office of mailing, and deposit of sufficent money to pay the expenses.

The postoffice does a great deal for its patrons that they know very little about. It forwards letters from office to office indefinitely, until delivered. It employs experts to decipher badly addressed letters; to supply deficiencies in addresses; to search directories, and in many ways to do for careless people and ignorant people what they will not or can not do for themselves. By aid of a street directory of all the cities, with which all the larger offices are supplied, it delivers thousands of letters every month on which the sender has put only a name and street and number, omitting the city. It sends to the dead letter office, and there opens millions of letters annually which cannot be delivered, ascertains the name and address of the writer of each and returns the letter to him, if possible. All this is done for the original 2 cents postage, without any extra charge whatever. It hunts down those who are using the mails to defraud the people, returns mail to the senders, and refuses to pay money orders to such concerns or deliver registered letters to them—saving the people large sums of money annually. This the express companies do not do. The contrast is vastly in favor of the Government in this respect. These are only a few of the many things the Government does for the people through the postoffice, for the small sum of 2 cents, which may safely be reduced to 1 cent as soon as Congress stops the leak caused by the abuse of the second-class (newspaper) rate privilege.

PANTOMINE DRILL.

A Company Instructed With Chalk Pictures of Guns.

One of the first artillery companies organized in the west at the beginning of the civil war was formed at St. Joseph, Mo. It was known as long as any of the organization were left as Coon Thornton's artillery. Thornton was a lumber merchant in the town. He was a Yankee. Prior to the war he was disregarded socially. The community was suspicious of an eastern man, especially one from New England. But when he espoused the cause of the south he became a favorite. When he organized a company to fight the Union he was a hero.

There was not a cannon in the town where the company was organized. It was considered advisable to drill before going to the front. The only public hall in the town was used for that purpose. A local artist who had seen pictures of cannon chalked out the outline of one on the floor of the hall. A man who had been in the Mexican war and had a book on tactics was drillmaster. The evolutions necessary to familiarize the company with a cannon were made about the chalk outlines. In other words, the drill was a pantomime. But the men were as earnest in the motions as if they had had a great gun.

From some unknown source there came a cargo of Roman swords. They were exact copies of those worn by Caesar's legions. Where they had been stored and for how long no one knew, unless it was the donor, and he kept his personality in the background. But when Coon Thornton's artillery went into camp with the state guard it went armed with Roman swords and no cannon. The company never had a cannon until it went int its first fight. It was attached to the regiment of a Missouri colonel, who ordered Thornton to drop a few shells into a thicket, where a federal squad was seen to go. Thornton said he would do it if he had the gun. There was a brass field piece in a wagon in the commissary department, and it was brought out. It was swabbed, rammed and fired in accordance with the chalk drill, and did effective work. Coon Thornton's artillery made an effective record during the war. The Roman swords were never brought into requisition, however, except when raids were made on hen roosts or on a fugitive porker.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

"HUTCHY" IN THE BULL RING.

Apropos of Second Lieut. J. H. Scott, the Philadelphia boy who is the executive officer of the Hudson, who pulled the Winslow out of a hole when disabled at the bombardment at Cardenas, a story of his love of education is given by a classmate while the pair were on the United States boat Chase as cadets on their practice cruise. The vessel was at Lisbon, Portugal. The starboard watch of cadets were ashore on leave. Some, with "Hutchy," as Scott was familiarly called, went to see a bull fight at a suburb of Lisbon called Cintra. In the royal box that afternoon in August, of 1888, sat the present ruler of Portugal, then a debonair and democratic youth. Suddenly a cadet's cap was seen to fly through the air and drop in the center of the arena. The owner, none other than "Hutchy," jumped into the ring, grabbed a spear from a dazed matador, and, after giving his trousers a sailor-like hitch, the hero of Cardenas proceeded to assail a lively runt of a bull. The multitude that crowded the tiers recognized the uniform and yelled, men, women and children: "Bravo, Americano, bravo," "Viva le Americano." Suddenly the bull fell. However, with spear in one hand and his cap in the other, looking very much scared, "Hutchy" was conducted by some attendants to the royal box, and received much to his surprise, not only congratulations, but Prince Carlos removing a signet ring from his finger presented it to Scott. The affair was the talk of Lisbon for several days, and as a result of the celebration that followed, for the ring had to be wetted, "Hutchy" and his chums were kept on board the Chase for a month or more.—Philadelphia Times.

No English Picture of the Queen.

There is a curious story of a public personage in England who wanted to purchase a portrait of the Queen to present to an institution, and particularly desired a genuinely British work of art. In vain he hunted through print shops and picture dealers; everything shown to him was either made in Germany or, at any rate, the product of some other country than England. At last, in Pall Mall, he inquired piteously, "Can I really get no portrait of the English Sovereign that has not the brand of either Germany or France upon it?" The dealer shook his head; the best he could offer was the work of a German artist, engraved by French hands in Paris on German paper, with a frame of American molding and Belgian glazing.

A Phenomenon.

"It's remarkable," said Senator Sorghum, "how different people are affected by the same thing."

"Have you been reading medicine?"

"No. I was thinking of my speech. It kept me awake four nights, and put everybody who heard it to sleep."—Washington Star.

Mrs. Mulligan—"An' what did his 'onner say to you this morning?"

Mrs. Mulcahy—"Can't you and your husband live together without fighting?"

Mrs. Mulligan—An' w'at did yer say?"

Mrs. Mulcahy—"No. yer 'anner, not happily."

Berlin. Im Monat Mai fanden in Berlin 54,257 Fremde Unterkunft; davon entfielen auf Gasthöfe 41,787, auf Hotel garnies und Chambres garnies 3102 und auf sonstige Anstalten zur Beherbergung von Fremden 9368. —Wegen Unterschlagungen in der Höhe von circa 2000 Mark ist der bei einer hiesigen Gasglühlichtgesellschaft angestellte Buchhalter Sch. verhaftet worden. Derselbe hatte den größten Theil des Geldes auf Brillantringe ausgegeben, mit denen seine zehn Finger geschmückt waren. Die Ringe sind natürlich mit Beschlag belegt worden, und da einzelne derselben einen recht erheblichen Werth repräsentiren, so dürfte die Gesellschaft einen verhältnißmäßig geringfügigen Schaden erleiden.—Wie bekannt wird, sollen drei neue Armeekorps gebildet werden, nämlich außer einem preußischen noch ein zweites sächsisches Armeekorps mit dem Kommando in Leipzig und ein drittes bayerisches mit dem Kommando in Nürnberg.

Guben. Das hiesige Schwurgericht verurtheilte den Dienstknecht Dammasch aus Ziltendorf, der im Februar auf der Eisenbahnlinie Berlin-Breslau vor Ankunft eines Zuges zwei unweit des Bahndammes lagernde neue Eisenbahnschwellen auf das Geleise gelegt hatte, zu einjährigem Zuchthaus. Der Lokomotivführer hatte das Hinderniß rechtzeitig bemerkt, er bremste, und der langsamer fahrende Zug schob die Schwellen bei Seite.

Köpenick. Hier beging ein jugendliches Liebespaar Selbstmord. Nachdem Beide, der 19jährige Fabrikarbeiter Otto Lefevre und die 17jährige Arbeiterin Minna Schlobach, ihren Eltern Abschiedsbriefe geschrieben und sie wegen der That um Verzeihung gebeten, stürzten sie sich aus einem Miethskahn in die Dahme. Die Leichen wurden Tags darauf durch Fischer an's Land geschafft. Die jungen Liebesleute, die einen Beweggrund zur That nicht angegeben, hatten sich mit ihren Taschentüchern zusammengebunden.

Judge For Yourself,

Which Is Better, Try an Experiment or Profit By a Plainfield Citizen's Experience

Something new is an experiment.
Must be proven to be as represented.
Be successful at home or you doubt it.
The statement of a manufacturer is not convincing of merit.
But the endorsement of friends is.
Now, supposing you had a bad back.
A lame, weak or aching one,
Would you experiment on it?
You will read of many so-called cures,
But they come from far away places.
It's different when the endorsement comes from home.
Easy to prove that it is so.

Read this case:

Mr. P. J. Kreitling, Proprietor of Barber Shop and Cigar Store, living at No. 253 W. Front street, says: "I had all kinds of pains in my back and loins for the last 5 or 6 years. Standing all day long at a barber chair aggravated the difficulty very much. If I stooped and remained in that position a short time it was very hard to straighten up again and if I attempted to lift anything heavy twinges caught me in the back. I used different kinds of plasters but they did not relieve me. After reading several statements in my paper about Doan's Kidney Pills curing people similarly afflicted, I made up my mind to try a box and procured them and after a short time was entirely relieved. Doan's Kidney Pills not only cured the pain but they strengthened my back. My wife was troubled in a similar way and was also cured by Doan's Kidney Pills. We both consider them a good medicine and will gladly recommend them to anyone suffering from symptoms of disordered kidneys."

COLLEGE FOR WOMEN

NEW CATHOLIC INSTITUTION TO BE BUILT IN WASHINGTON.

The Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur, Belgium, Have Been Placed In Charge. Countess of Flanders the Patroness—The Establishment of Trinity College.

Ground will soon be broken for Trinity college, the first Catholic institution for the higher education of women to be erected on this continent. It is to be built in Washington, on a beautiful site at the entrance of the Catholic university grounds, and will be under the direction of that institution. The sisters of Notre Dame de Namur, Belgium, who have long desired to open in America a college similar to those that they conduct in England, Scotland and Belgium, will be placed in charge of the work. The ceremonies will be of the most imposing nature, attended by all the wealth of ritual which the Catholic church can display. Socially the occasion will also be one long to be remembered, as the patroness of the college and the one who will break the ground—though a proxy—for the new foundation is a royal personage, Marie Louise, the countess of Flanders and wife of the heir apparent of the Belgian throne, Philippe Eugene, prince of Belgium and count of Flanders.

It was expected that Prince Albert, the only son of the Countess of Flanders, would assist at the function, but although the prince is still traveling in the United States royal etiquette forbids his appearance at an American ceremony during the present Spanish troubles. Neither will his mother be present in person, the Countess Lichtervelde, the wife of the minister from Belgium, being delegated as her proxy. Many distinguished people will be in attendance at the ceremony, including the apostolic delegate, Mgr. Martinelli, many of the archbishops and bishops of the American and Canadian hierarchies, the professors of the Catholic and Georgetown universities and hundreds of persons notable in political and literary life. After the ceremony the Countess Lichtervelde, in the name of her royal mistress, will entertain the prelates and the more distinguished guests present at an elaborate luncheon.

The history of the movement which has culminated in the establishment of Trinity college is interesting. Ever since the papal university of America was founded applications from women students who held college degrees and wished to go still higher have poured in without ceasing, but were constantly refused solely because of their sex. The young women were much aggrieved at this, particularly when it became known that, contrary to the inflexible rules of all schools south of Mason and Dixon's line, the Catholic university intended to admit negroes. At the inauguration of the philosophy department the chancellor, Cardinal Gibbons, announced this policy by saying that intellect had no color, and that black, white, red and yellow men would be welcome had they the brains to follow the courses. One progressive young woman wrote to the cardinal and asked if intellect had a sex, but the Baltimore prelate refused to see the matter in this light, and women were debarred.

Finally it became recognized that something must be done, and that speedily, as statistics showed a large proportion of Catholic women studying in Protestant colleges and not infrequently affiliating with the faith of their teachers. This was a matter of moment from a Catholic standpoint, and Cardinal Gibbons and Mgr. Conaty, the rector, began a quiet canvass among the religious teaching orders to find a means to admit women without actually breaking all precedents of Catholic education. At last the direct permission of the pope was obtained through Mgr. Martinelli and Archbishop Keane, former rector of the Catholic university, now located in Rome, and the sisters of Notre Dame de Namur were informed that the time was ripe for their long cherished project. Land was at once secured, and a group of collegiate edifices will soon be erected. The first is to be modeled after the famous English convent, Birkdale, and will be called Trinity hall. This will be used for all scholastic purposes for the present, until halls of science, philosophy, a conservatory of music and a school of fine arts are added.

The faculty will be selected from the most learned members of the order to be obtained in Europe and in the United States. Several professors from the Catholic university will conduct special courses. The college will be conducted on the lines of Vassar, Wellesley or Bryn Mawr and will bestow the usual degrees. It is hoped that in the near future its most promising students will be permitted to stand for the doctor's degree at the Catholic university.

A board of regents, composed of well known women, has offered its services to the venerable founder of Trinity, Mother Julia, the American provincial of the Notre Dame order. The president of this association is Miss Olive Risley Seward of New York, the adopted daughter and for many years the secretary of Willam H. Seward, the famous secretary of state under President Lincoln.

The other officers are Miss Marie Patterson of St. Louis, vice president; Miss Sara Carr Upton of Maine, recording secretary; Mrs. Maurice Francis Egan, wife of the eminent Catholic author, corresponding secretary; Sister Mary Euphrasia, superior of the local house of the Sisters of Notre Dame, treasurer. In addition to this there is an auxiliary board, composed of the women of the diplomatic corps. The Countess of Flanders is represented in this capacity also by the Countess Lichtervelde. Many of the Catholic women of the corps are active members and are aiding Mother Julia both morally and materially in her difficult task.—New York Tribune.

TRAPPISTS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Rev. James O'Haire Tells of Their Work Among the Kaffirs.

On last Easter Sunday I celebrated mass in the little chapel of a newly founded mission in a place called Vmzinto, where there is a convent of French nuns, an Irish priest (secular) and a German catechist for the Kaffirs. The congregation, though small, represented France, Germany, India, England, Ireland and Kaffirland. It is in its infancy, but promises to be a source of blessing. The district is a sugar plantation and is inhabited chiefly by Indians and by people from Mauritius.

On Low Sunday I said mass here in this magnificent Trappist monastery, which is devoted solely to the evangelization of the Kaffirs. There are here in this the center of the Trappists' work 7 priests, 130 choir and lay brothers and 74 Sisters of the Precious Blood. In the boarding schools there are 260 Kaffir children, a large Kaffir congregation. These children are not only educated in the schools, but all are taught to work. There is no useful trade for boys or girls that is not taught by the brothers and nuns, who themselves work side by side with the objects of their solicitude so as to show the nobility of labor. The Trappist propaganda in South Africa is vast and is still spreading. They have 22 missions all for Kaffirs, managed and directed by 38 priests, 250 choir and lay brothers and 275 nuns. They have 40 schools, in which there are 1,400 boarders. They have over 100,000 acres of land. Since their advent to South Africa they have baptized within 20 years 8,230 Kaffirs, and they have at this moment 1,500 under preparation for baptism. On this very day 37 Kaffirs made their first communion in this basilican church. I was present, and I declare that in all my life I never saw anywhere so well disciplined and so fervent a body of first communicants.—Rev. James O'Haire in London Catholic Times and Opinion.

LEO XIII AND THE WORKERS.

His Holiness Is Anxious to Extend the Welfare of the Toilers.

One of the best known and most energetic workers for the social improvement of the people is M. Decurtins, a Swiss councilor of state. He has for many years aimed at the diffusion of a democratic spirit and the organization of the toilers. One of the most notable letters on the social problem published by the late Cardinal Manning was addressed to M. Decurtins. As the years go by the councilor's zeal has not grown slack. Last August, largely through his efforts, an international workingmen's congress was held at Zurich, and under his presidency an international committee was appointed for the purpose of carrying out the doctrines of the encyclical rerum novarum. This scheme of international action has been brought under the notice of Leo XIII by M. Decurtins, and his holiness has blessed it and given his heartiest encouragement to the social activity of the Swiss national councilor. His holiness is anxious to help forward every movement which tends to the welfare of the workers.—London Catholic Times and Opinion.

SENIOR CATHOLIC CHAPLAIN.

Father Vattman Will Take Charge of All Catholic Chaplains In the Army.

Father Edward J. Vattman, for several years post chaplain at Fort Sheridan, left recently for Tampa, Fla. At the request of General Miles he will take charge of all the Catholic chaplains in the army. There are three Catholic chaplains in the regular army and about 15 in the volunteer army.

It is proposed to allow a number of unattached priests to accompany the army into Cuba on account of the influence they will all have with the Spaniards and Cubans after the places have been captured by the American troops. While Father Vattman is a strict religionist he is liberal and has built up a large circle of friends since he has been at Fort Sheridan. The position falls to him by right of seniority, as he has been in the army longer than any other chaplain.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Relics of the Cross.

The original cross of Christ, according to the estimate of careful investigators, contained about 6⅝ feet of timber, or 11,448 cubic inches. The greater relics of the true cross are exceedingly few in number. A grand total for all known existing and lost relics would be only 661 cubic inches. More than 10,787 cubic inches of the original cross, therefore, remain to be accounted for.—Ave Maria.

To the Wood Robin.

The wooing air is jubilant with song
And blossoms swell
As leaps thy liquid melody along
The dusky dell,
Where silence, late supreme, foregoes her wonted spell.

Ah, whence in sylvan solitude remote
Hast learned the lore
That breeds delight in every echoing note
The woodland o'er
As when through slanting sun descends the quickening shower?

Thy hermitage is peopled with the dreams
That gladden sleep.
Here fancy dallies with delicious themes
Mid shadows deep
Till eyes unused to tears with wild emotions weep.

We rise, alas, to find our visions fled!
But thine remain.
Night weaves of golden harmonies the thread
And fills thy brain
With joys that overflow in love's awakening strain.

Yet thou, from mortal influence apart,
Seek'st naught of praise.
The empty plaudits of the emptier hearts
Taint not thy lays.
Thy Maker's smile alone thy tuneful bosom sways.

Teach me, thou warbling eremite, to sing thy rhapsody,
Not borne on vain ambition's vaunting wing,
But led of thee,
To rise from earthly dreams to hymn eternity.
—Rev. Father John B Tabel in Baltimore American.

MIRRORS FOR SEARCHLIGHTS.

Important for the Detection of the Elusive Torpedo Boat,

The strength of the Spanish army in torpedo boats makes it necessary that all United States vessels and forts shall be provided with searchlights, and it is found that it is no easy matter to purchase a sufficient number of searchlights in an emergency. A large number of the finest searchlight mirrors have been bought, but an adequate supply of them cannot be had. Having mirrors the electric companies could turn out the lights in a brief time.

The mirror is an essential part of the light, and its manufacture is a delicate operation which needs care and time to finish it successfully. It is not an ordinary reuector, which may be cast and molded, but has to be ground accurately and highly polished. It is really a concave lens, backed by silver and hardened vulcanite. Machines for grinding the reflectors have been made which facilitate the work, but it requires about a week to make a satisfactory mirror.

The glass is purchased, molded into shape, and the machines are put to work on this and the surfaces are ground to the requisite curve. After grinding and polishing the mirror is tested, and when it is satisfactory the silver back is put on by electrolysis and this back is covered by an opaque substance, generally vulcanite.—Chicago Times-Herald.

DOG RIDES A BICYCLE.

Master and Mistress Always Take Him With Them on a Spin.

It is not uncommon to see silken-haired poodle dogs carried around the streets by richly attired women or to see them enjoying the luxury of a cushioned seat in a handsome victoria. It isn't every day, however, that one sees a big, ugly-faced bulldog enjoying a bicycle ride down the boulevard. There is a bulldog in Chicago, though, whose master and mistress have so high a regard for his comfort and pleasure as to carry him along whenever they go wheeling. To do so they have to resort to a somewhat extraordinary contrivance. They fasten their bicycles together with that double-cross iron brace devised to enable timid old folks to ride abreast without fear of tipping over, and where the braces cross between the wheels they lace a cushioned box big enough to hold his dogness. As the two pedal along the street the dog rides between them, complacent and self-satisfied and with a fierce, get-out-of-the-way expression for anybody who happens to bar their progress.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Army Corps of Skaters.

The Norwegian corps of skaters, a force peculiar to the army of that country, is a body of soldiers armed with rifles, who can be maneuvered upon ice or over the snow fields of the mountains with a rapidity equal to that of the best trained cavalry. The skates used are admirably adapted for traveling over rough and broken ice or frozen snow, being ten inches long. In ascending steep slopes the men take a zigzag course, tacking up the mountain side as a sheep does against a head wind. As an instance of the speed at which they can go, it is mentioned that a messenger despatched from Roerass at 3 o'clock in the morning arrived at Drontheim at 9:30 in consequently accomplished 123 miles in quate supply of them cannot be had, eighteen and one-half hours.—Boston Traveler.

Preachers Unlucky.

Preachers are supposed to bring bad luck to a ship. The late Dr. Deems of the Church of the Strangers told this story of an ocean voyage: "There were several priests on board, and every moment it was believed that the ship would go down in a terrific storm that arose. The priests in a body called on the captain and informed him of the panic among the cabin passengers. The captain replied: 'Go forward to the forecastle and see if the crew are swearing.' The brethren were shocked as they peeped into the sailors' quarters by round after round of the most fearful oaths, and when this was reported to the captain he said: 'Go back to the cabin and have nothing to fear, there is absolutely no danger to the ship. When the crew get to praying I will let you know.'"—New York Press.

A Delightful Surprise.

"Are you fond of autographs, Mrs. Mushroom?" asked the aesthetic young lady of the practical visitor.

"No, I don't think much of them; but my son, who's away at college, has a big collection of the handwritin' of great celebrights. I reckon I'll surprise him some when he gets back this summer."

"In what way?"

"Well, ye see, some of them celebrights writ such poor writin' that I had all the names copied off in a neat hand in a big book. You have no idea how much better they look. That other stuff that nobody couldn't make out, I just burned up."

Jersey Jealousy.

"It's too bad," said the man with heavy boots and chin whiskers. "There's a big ship called the 'Indiana,' and one called the 'Massachusetts,' and so on. But where's the 'New Jersey?'"

"Never mind," replied his companion. "We ain't slighted. I understand there's a hull bunch o' boats known as 'the Mosquito Fleet.'"—Chicago Post.

Their Address.

Minister—Well, brother Jackson, I trust that you and your wife have settled all your differences and are living in harmony at present.

Brother Jackson—No, sah. We is livin' now in Chelsea.—Somerville Journal.

ORCHID CRAZE IN JAPAN.

A Syndicate Offers 5,000 Yen for a Single Leaf, but Meets With Refusal.

The latest craze that has made its appearance in Japan is the orchid craze, and if reports are true the tulip craze in Holland of several centuries ago may well look to its laurels. According to the Tokoyo Asahi (Morning Day), a new variety of small orchid, jointly owned by the well known gardener of Shitaya, Maru Shin, and by two others, is at present enjoying the highest reputation. It is called "Amakusa," for every rare variety has its own special name. Its leaves measure only four inches in length and 1 1-2 inches in width, this variety being the only one now found in Japan. The leaves, only eleven in number, are whitish, with yellow hued stripes very widely marked, and the whole appearance exceedingly graceful. The fame of the "Amakusa" has sent all the circles of orchid hunters into a flutter. Numerous applications have been received by the triple owners asking them to part with even one leaf, for orchids, as is well known, can be propagated by root separation. But all these applications have been courteously declined.

The other day, says the Asahi, a delegate representing ten villagers of Chita-gori, Owari, came up to Tokoyo. They were all men stricken with the orchid mania, and hearing of this rare variety each of them subscribed 5,000 yen (a yen is fifty cents in United States currency) and one of them, the head man of the village, arrived on the important mission of purchasing a leaf. While the negotiations were in progress the Kyoto Horticultural Company dispatched its president also on the same errand. The owners of the precious orchid conferred with each other, but decided not to accede to the offers made them, for they have in mind a similar case of another rare variety which several years ago brought the fabulous price of 10,000 yen per leaf.

So both delegates were obliged to return home crestfallen, and the Asahi adds: "Even supposing that the owners might be persuaded to part with their orchid at 5,000 yen a leaf, that would bring them a sum of 50,000 yen, while if the price were to rise to 10,000 yen each, that amount would be doubled."—New York Sun.

DRUNKENNESS AMONG ANIMALS.

Monkeys Captured by Intoxicating Them With Beer.

Most of the higher animals—as monkeys, elephants, bears, horses and dogs—have a natural fondness for fermented liquors, and suffer from the abuse of these liquors as men do. From the book of Maccabees it is evident that war elephants were maddened of old with new wine, as they have been and are with arrack down to the present time. Managers of menageries and employes at the various zoological gardens know that the elephants under their care are prepared to go on a wild drunk whenever opportuuity offers. Whiskey is officially given them when they are ill or low—the quantity varying from five to ten gallons, according to the requirements of the case. This is put into their drinking water. Bears and monkeys drink beer like German students, and love whiskey equally well. In Africa the natives make use of this evil trait to capture their poor relations. The monkeys there are extremely fond of a beer brewed by the natives. So the latter place quantities of the liquor within easy reach of the monkeys and wait until their victims are thoroughly befuddled. In this state they are unable to recognize the difference between negro and ape. When a negro takes the hand of one of them to lead him off, a second monkey takes the hand of the first, a third that of the second and so on. A single negro may sometimes be seen carrying off a string of staggering monkeys. Fresh doses of the beer in decreasing quantities are administered to the captives, so that they may only gradually awaken to the sad results of their spree.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Wallace Saved the Day.

The fate of the battle hung in the balance. The commanders of the invading corps looked anxious. The obstinate Spaniards refused to be dislodged.

At that moment Gen. Lew Wallace spurred to the front and saluted.

"Has the time come, general," he hoarsely shouted, "for the dernier resort?"

The commander hesitated. Then he shuddered, and nodded assent, and turned away.

Ten minutes later the Wallace Annihilators, 400 strong, swept on the field.

The Spanish gunners looked in amazement on this intrepid band. So might the Russian gunners at Balaclava have looked at the Light Brigade.

"Attention," roared the valiant Wallace. "One—two—three—all together!"

And then as one man those 400 elocutionists began to briskly recite the "Chariot Race" from "Ben-Hur."

The Spaniards never stopped running until they reached the extreme end of the island, and then most of them plunged in and struck out lustily for Porto Rico.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Hadn't Voice Enough.

"Hawley," said Tomson to his most intimate friend, "I'll make a compact with you. You tell me my faults and I'll tell you yours."

"My dear fellow," Hawley replied, "I can't. My voice always gives out after I've been talking six hours."—Harper's Bazar.

The Dreadnaught Athletic Club will send its baseball nine to meet the Crescents Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Crescent Oval.

The Crescents will play two games July 4th. In the morning they will meet the Brooklyn A. A., and in the afternoon the New Brunswick boys.

The Clinton Avenue Club and the Y. M. C. A. team will meet Saturday afternoon on the Clinton avenue grounds. The Y. M. C. A. boys are steadily improving in form and hope to carry victory away from their opponents in the West End.

Manager Mumford has promised three good games for Saturday and Monday and on the result of these games will depend the continuation of baseball in Plainfield this season. Manager Mumford has made a hard fight and has put as strong a team on the diamond as Plainfield ever saw, not excepting the old Crescents. Manager Mumford promised to give the people of Plainfield good baseball and he has kept his word. He asked that in return Plainfield give him good support but they have not done it. He has been losing steadily and the end must come, and soon, too, unless there is a change. The next three games will decide the fate of the Crescents for the season. If decent support is given, then the Crescents will continue. It really seems too bad that good baseball should go begging in a city where there are so many baseball cranks as in Plainfield.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Fred Ross, of Park place, is riding a new Cleveland wheel.

Alfred Trenchard, of Rand's stationery store, has purchased a new wheel.

The Frank L. C. Martin Company have laid in a stock of fireworks for the Fourth.

The Linwood Wheelmen, of New York, will have a run to Mt. Bethel the Fourth.

Mrs. E. E. Marshall and Mrs. Hiram Woodruff, of Fairview avenue, have purchased wheels and have learned to ride.

William H. Rogers, the North avenue wheelman, has received a shipment of Spalding wheels which will be sole for less money than the regular grade because they are twenty-inch frames.

Tonight it is the turn of the Y. M. C. A., of this city, to entertain the visiting wheelmen. The members are requested to meet in the rooms at 9 o'clock, and to help the visitors enjoy themselves. A programme will be rendered and refreshments served.

GOLF.

Rote Went Away Sorrowful.

Peter Roke, the unfortunate hobo, who claims to have been robbed Tuesday night on a coal train, as told in yesterday's Press, gave such a poor description of his assailants that Central Railroad Officer Dougherty was unable to get any trace of them, and Roke, who has been locked up for safe-keeping, was allowed to go.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

MY NEIGHBOR AS MYSELF.

This Rule Most Generously Observed by a Pennsylvania Man.

Addressing his congregation at one time, Henry Ward Beecher told of a man who had always been lucky, and who bought a farm in Pennsylvania on which he discovered very large oil deposits. Another man, who had worked very hard all his life to save five or six thousand dollars, thought he would buy the adjoining farm and make his fortune in oil also. He purchased it and began to bore, but seemed to strike articles innumerable until his money was all exhausted. Saturday night was coming and his men were clamoring for money, but he had none to give them. They had struck solid rock in their borings, and there was no possibility of the poor man getting capital enough to proceed until he should strike oil. So in this unfortunate extremity he went to his lucky neighbor and told him his pitiable condition; begging him to buy the farm.

"It is all I have," said he, "and it has taken me a lifetime to get the few thousand dollars which I have spent and lost on this farm."

The neighbor protested that he did not want the land; that he had all he needed; but the poor man pressed so hard that he finally succeeded in getting a check for six thousand dollars for his place.

This was Saturday. The unfortunate man was able to pay his workmen, and was happy to be out of the disastrous venture. But the purchaser of the farm requested the men to keep right on boring in the rock, and said he would pay them. Hardly four days had passed before they struck oil in abundance; and, when the former owner of the farm heard of this, it seemed as though he couldn't get to the purchaser of the farm quickly enough, to see if he could buy it again.

"But I told you I did not want it," said the buyer. "You urged me to take it, telling a pitiful story of losing your hard-earned capital. I took it under protest."

But the man pleaded and expostulated, and the buyer finally sold the farm back again for just what he had given.

"Now," said Mr. Beecher, "all in this congregation who would have done the same thing, rise."

Not a person stood.—Success.

MOTOR IN A SCARF PIN.

It Is the Smallest Electrical Machine h the World.

The smallest electric motor in the world has been built by D. Goodin of McKinney, Texas, whose business as a watchmaker has trained him to handle delicate machinery with the exquisite care required in making a motor that moves with all the regularity of a big machine, and yet is so small that its owner wears it as a scarfpin.

The motor is so small that it does not cover a silver dime, and it weighs only 9-100 of an ounce. The armature is about the size of a small slate pencil. The front of the motor is of gold, highly polished, and the commutor segments are also of the same metal so that viewed from a little distance the scarfpin has the appearance of a very valuable and rather curiously designed pin. It is only when standing near to Goodin when he is wearing the scarfpin that its nature can be discovered.

The first thing to attract attention is the buzzing of the machine, which, by means of a current obtained from a small chloride of silver battery carried in the vest pocket, is kept in operation at a high rate of speed, and with a noise like a small nest of hornets.

The field magnets of the little motor are made of two thicknesses of No. 22 sheet iron scraped down and polished. These are held together with gold screws and wound with No. 20 silk-covered wire. The armature is of the four-pole type and is wound with No. 36 wire.

The little brushes are of marvelous thinness, having been constructed of copper, hammered down with much patience and care. There is a small gold switch on a black rubber base, made with a pin, to be worn on the lapel of the vest.—New York Herald.

Natural Gas at Waldron.

Natural gas has been discovered in England. The discovery was made at Waldron, in Sussex County, and like the first in America was accidental. Charles Dawson, the geologist, was boring for water. When the lower strata had been bored to a depth of 377 feet work was stopped, a strong smell of gas having been noticed. A light was applied to the top of the long tube of the bore, and a flame immediately sprang up to the height of fifteen or sixteen feet. It burned with great fury until it was put out by means of damp cloths being thrown over the top of the tube. An iron cap has been fitted to the top of the tube, with a vent allowing an escape of gas to take place continuously. This cap and vent have now been fixed for fifteen months, and the gas can be lit at any time, and shows no signs of diminution. There appears at present to be an ample supply for the lighting of a town, if the necessary plant were erected, and the supply, as far as can be judged, seems to be pretty constant.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Uncle Abner's Grief.

"Ah, there Uncle Abner. You're on deck again, are you?"

"Deed I is, sah."

ABYSSINIAN CURRENCY.

Salt Bars the Medium of Trade with the People.

For small change they use the amole, or bar of salt. This is a block of hard crystallized salt, about ten inches long and 2 1-4 inches in breadth and thickness, slightly tapered toward the end; five go to the dollar at the capital, but its value varies according to the distance it has to be brought from Lake Arral, a salt lake near the entrance to the Red Sea. People are very particular about this, too; if it does not ring like metal when flicked with the finger nail, or if it is cracked or chipped, they won't take it. It is a token of affection, also, when friends meet, to give each other a lick of their respective amoles, and in this way the material value of the bar is also decreased.

For still smaller change cartridges are used, of which three go to the salt. It does not matter what sort they are, whether "scatter-gun" or rifle cartridges, nor, in the latter case, does it matter whether they are Berdan, Gras, Remington, or any other ammunition. Some sharpers use their cartridges in the ordinary way, and then put in some dust and a dummy bullet to make up the difference, or else they take out the powder and put the bullet in again, so that possibly in the next action the unhappy soldier will find that he has nothing but miss-fires in his belt; but this is such a common fraud that no one takes notice of it, and a bad cartridge seems to serve as readily as a good one.—E. Gleichen, in "With the Mission to Menelek."

On the Education of Lions.

When lions were still numerous and easily observed in Southern Africa they were sometimes seen instructing on another in voluntary gymnastics and practicing their leaps, making a bush play the part of the absent game. Moffat tells the story of a lion which had missed a zebra by miscalculating the distance, repeating the jump several times for his own instruction; two of his comrades coming upon him while he was engaged in the exercise, he led them around the rock to show them how matters stood, and then, returning to the starting point, completed the lesson by making a final leap. The animals kept roaring during the whole of the curious scene, "talking together," as the native who watched them said. By the aid of individual training of this kind industrious animals become apter as they grow older; old birds, for instance, constructing more artistic nests than young ones, and little mammals like mice becoming more adroit with age. Yet, however ancient in the life of the species these acquisitions may be, they have not the solidity of primordial instincts, and are lost rapidly if not used.—Appleton's Monthly.

A Rare Exception.

Senator Vest has a favorite story which he has told on the occasion of many a political speech, but, so far as known, never on the floor of the United States Senate.

"A temperance lecturer was struggling against odds in Kentucky," says the Senator. "He was talking to a not very large audience that had been drawn to the hall by curiosity. 'The effect of alcohol is to shorten life,' said the lecturer.

"An old man at the rear of the hall rose at that juncture and said, 'You're a liar.'

"'Why?' inquired the advocate of Adam's ale.

"Because, sir, I've been drinking for seventy-five years, and I'm 90 and am likely to live to be 100. I am strong enough to lick you if you'll step outside.'

"'Oh, no doubt, sir. You're an exception, sir. If you keep on drinking'—the lecturer paused.

"'What?' asked the impatient old toper.

"'If you keep on drinking you'll have to be shot on judgment day.'"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Fred Douglass' Compliment to Lincoln.

Fred Douglass told the writer when he came to speak with all his experience he never could entirely rid himself of stage fright. "During the first fifteen minutes when I front an audience," he said, "my knees will knock together." But when he got fairly going this not uncommon nervousness, which all speakers have sometimes felt, would pass away. He put his points well in any argument, and his eloquence was of a high order. His tribute, in one sentence, to Abraham Lincoln, is an unsurpassed compliment. "Mr. Lincoln," he said, "is the only white man into whose presence I was ever ushered who did not make me feel that I was a negro."—Harper's Magazine.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT.

St. Joseph's Church Women Hold Their Strawberry Festival.

The women of St. Joseph's church held their annual strawberry festival last evering in Saengerbund Hall. The affair was very successful. It will be continued this evening. All of the women of the church assisted in making the affair an enjoyable one and the attendance was large. Ice cream, cake, candy and fruit were on sale, and nearly everything was disposed of during the evening. There was also dancing to help pass the time away, and Eugene O'Reilly furnished the music.

The programme for the evening consisted of two amusing farces given by the young women and men of the church. The characters were all very well taken and produced much laughter. Miss Quinn played the violin and Mrs. O'Reilly presided at the piano. The popular vocal selection, "The Volunteers," was rendered by a chorus of little fellows from the church and they made the hit of the evening. Another chorus of young men sang "The Battleship Maine," with equally as good effect. This evening the two farces will be repeated and there will be other attractions.

BROOK CARSON WON.

Central Railroad Must Pay Price of a New Boiler for Injuring an Old One.

A railroad company is a hard article to beat, but the New Jersey Central Railroad has finally been beaten to a standstill in the Brook Carson case. Mr. Carson bought a second-hand boiler in Jersey City last summar at auction for $5. When it arrived in Plainfield, it was found to be broken. He accordingly consulted his lawyer, Counsellor W. S. Angleman, and brought suit against the company for damages. Justice Moffet gave judgment for Mr. Carson, and the company appealed.

Mr. Angleman secured a dismissal of the appeal, and the company promptly made application for a reinstatement of the case, which was granted upon payment of costs. The case was finally tried yesterday at Elizabeth before Judge Vail of the Common Pleas Court. Mr. Carson was again successful, and the court rendered judgment against the railroad company for $140, which is the price of a new boiler. John L. Conover and Pierre Garvin conducted the case for the company, and Counsellor Angleman represent Mr. Carson.

Veterans to Listen to a Sermon.

Next Sunday evening the members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will attend divine service at Grace M. E. church and listen to a patriotic sermon by the pastor, Rev. G. W. Gardner.

To Put Up Keyless Box

It is probable that the new keyless fire-alarm box will be put up this afternoon. The box is a duplicate 12, and will be put up on West Front street near White's dry goods store. This box rings by turning the handle to the right until the whistle blows, and is put up at the request of the merchants. A heavy fine is the penalty for sending in a false alarm.

Revival Meetings.

S. B. Horton and C. D. Zirkle, ministers of the Gospel, will conduct a series of revival services and illustrated Gospel sermons in a large tent erected on the vacant lot corner of Somerset street and Linden avenue. The first service will be held next Sunday evening. Everybody is invited.

On Time!

"I don't approve of the time payment system of buying a Piano. When I can afford one I shall buy it", said a lady who merely wanted to look at Pianos lately.

"If everyone felt as you do," said we, "how many homes in Jersey would have Pianos? Probably not one-tenth of the present number. We know one or two parties who felt that way ten years ago, and do so yet—but they haven't got Pianos; we know thousands who felt the other way, and have had their Pianos—their own—for years back."

This lady bought a Piano from us on a first payment of Ten Dollars. You can do so, too.
